The film is later checked by a radiologist—a doctor who reads X-ray films. He looks at the lungs, the spine and ribs, the heart and the wind pipe—or the pictures of these parts of the chest. If the doctor sees anything abnormal in any part of the chest, he makes a note of it and the person is called back for another X-ray picture.

The doctor's findings are confidential and are reported only to the personal physician of the individual to be re-rayed.

The importance of a chest X-ray is that it not only searches out tuberculosis in the lungs, but it shows evidence of tumor, heart abnormalties and bone deformaties.

And, of course, if a person has a healthy chest, the X-ray will show that, too.

OMVI Counts Expensive For Three In Court

Three men pleaded guilty to a county attorney's information charging the Operation of a Motor Vehicle while in an intoxicated condition, in the Hancock County District Court the past week. All men were fined by district Judge T. A. Beardmore of Charles City.

Harold Marcellus Peterson of Forest City was fined $300 and costs and his appeal bond was fixed at $500. He was apprehended by Highway patrolmen on Highway No. 69 near Forest City on February 15.

Carl Frederick Beyer of Osage and fined $500 and costs and his appeal bond set at $500. He was arrested on highway No. 69 near Goodell on March 22. It was Beyer's second offense on a similiar charge.

Leon O'Rouke was fined $300 and costs. He was apprehended by Highway patrolmen near the Butz Service Station on highway No. 18, December 13, 1952. The latter case had been scheduled for trial by jury but was dismissed when defendant pleaded guilty. The petit jury was then dismissed for the term.

Ike: Dairying One of Great Resources

CHICAGO — "The dairy industry is one of the nation's greatest resources," President Eisenhower declared in a recent letter citing official recognition of June Dairy Month.

Referring to dairying, the President wrote: "Its very nature directly relates the welfare of the industry with the welfare of the whole people.

"Despite large stocks of dairy products accumulated by the government," the President said, "the dairy industry faces the serious problem of a declining per capita consumption of its products. There is manifest need to find larger markets. This is the central issue your industry faces."

U. S. Senators originally were elected by the state legislators.

County Conference Board Met at Courthouse, Mon.

The Hancock County Conference board met at the courthouse in Garner on Monday afternoon pursuant to the call of County Auditor Maynard Schone as directed by the Hancock County board of supervisors. The Conference Board of Education and the board of supervisors, organized by electing Clinton D. Daniels, chairman, and Mrs. Jake Koolbeck, Secretary.

The board proceeded to study the budget of the county assessor for the year 1954 and appointed Frank Reisetter of Kanawha, as a member of the county board of review to succeed, H. D. Schroeder of Kanawha, who resigned. Reisetter will fill the vacancy and his term will be for three years from January 1, 1954.

The board also appointed Charles Schissel of Garner to succeed himself as county assessor. Gus Pappas, was appointed as assistant. All appointments were for a regular term beginning on January 1st, 1954.

Fly Control Not Easy But Possible

They're Not As Eosily Killed With Chemicals

It's a harder job now than it was a few years ago for feed and food storekeepers to hold up their end in fly control in towns and cities.

Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College extension entomologist, says the build-up of resistance or tolerance to insecticides has dulled the magic in chemical control of houseflies. And that means fly control this year will take more thought and effort, he says.

Program for Stores

Places where food and feed are stored or handled are attractive to flies. Where thorough sanitation isn't part of the business of operating the store, serious fly problems occur. Gunderson suggests this sanitation program for stores that handle feed or food:

Keep the back of the store as neat as the front.

Store garbage and refuse in covered metal containers on racks above the ground and remove the garbage daily.

In spite of build-up of resistance or tolerance, Gunderson says, chemicals still play an important part in fly control. In the first place, he point out, only the housefly has developed resistance or tolerance and some other types of flies can be killed with chemicals.

Use Right Insecticides

So Gunderson recommends this insecticide program to be coupled with sanitation to keep fly pests under control:

Use DDT or methoxychlor as a residual spray in the cooler summer and fall months of June, September and October. But during hotter July and August, use lindane as the residual spray. Temperature is an important factor in effectivness of these chemicals.

Operate lindane vaporizers inside the store and look for and remove materials inside the store which are attractive as breeding places for flies.

Use an aerosol bomb containing pyrethrins several times a day to knock down and kill flies that continue to enter the building.

Boys who are in service are: Leon Griffen, Knoxville, Iowa; Harry Abele, Ogden, Utah; and Harlan Carolus is in Germany.

A. H. Kemker, manager of General Electric's farm industry division has estimated that by 1970 the farmer will be the top user of electricity in America. Farmers will use 70-billion KWH in farm production compared to 14-billion KWH used on the farm now. The steel industry now uses 30-billion.

EXTRA-SPECIAL DINNER ROLLS

Piping hot home-made rolls and plenty of butter, a dish of your own strawberry preserves—is there anything better?

These days it's really no trick at all to have this good yeast bread, even if you've never tried your hand at "raised rolls".

Here's an old-time recipe with a new twist—new inasmuch as it uses nonfat dry milk solids or "dry milk" as most of us call it. It makes a delicious loaf of bread as well as rolls of your own designing. We've made half of the dough into Parker House Rolls, the other into a golden brown butter-crusted loaf.

BUTTERCRUST DOUGH

1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups lukewarm water
2 tablespoons melted butter
3 cups flour
½ cup nonfat dry milk solids
3 cups flour (for dough)

Add yeast and sugar to lukewarm water. Let stand 5 minutes. Add butter, sugar and salt to water. Sift 3 cups flour and nonfat dry milk solids. Add to first mixture and beat well.

Using from the extra 3 cups flour add enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on board dredged with part of remaining flour. Knead until smooth and elastic, turning dough from bottom up in toward center, and adding additional flour gradually but before dough becomes too sticky to handle. Continue the kneading until dough is light and elastic, with a surface satiny and full of blisters, and which springs back when pressed with fingers.

Place dough in buttered bowl; turn over immediately so that buttered side is on top. Cover with clean cloth and let rise in a warm place (about 85°) until doubled in bulk. Punch down and let rise a second time.

Cut dough into halves, round into balls, cover and let stand 10 minutes. Shape into loaves and place in buttered bread pans. Brush tops with melted butter, cover with a cloth and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 400°, for about 40 minutes. Makes 2 one-pound loaves.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS: If desired, one loaf of bread may be made and the remaining dough made into rolls as follows: Roll dough ¼ inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Brush with melted butter. Make crease across each, using handle of a table knife. Fold so top half slightly overlaps. Press edges together at crease. Place on buttered cookie sheet or in buttered shallow pan, fairly close together. Brush with melted butter. Allow to rise until double in bulk. Bake at 425° (a hot oven) for about 12 minutes. Brush with butter and serve piping hot.

Milk Builds Health; Holds Down Food Costs

WASHINGTON — America would be an even stronger nation in terms of economic and human health if Americans consumed more milk than they do now, according to the findings of food scientists and economists.

Great Britain — a nation which only in recent years has seriously concentrated on a program of making more milk available to more people — learned that it reduced its mortality rate to the lowest recorded point (during wartime!) as a result of a major increase in milk consumption. Britain's Ministry of Food reported that its food program, carried on during the closing years of World war II and centered largely around milk, made a significant contribution to the record low mortality experienced in that period.

Here in America, where the civilian consumption of fresh milk is increasing gradually each year, we are learning the lesson of milk's nutritional and economic importance at a somewhat faster clip. Since the 1935-39 period, per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream has increased from an average of 340 pounds to 400 pounds in 1952 — a 17.6% increase.

We are learning, too, the economic lessons of increased milk consumption under the pressures of inflation. The battle with higher prices has taught the American housewife that she can "live cheaper and be healthier" by shopping for one of the biggest food bargains in the American food basket.

That unique bargain — in terms of lower price as well as of higher food value — is fresh milk. For, through six years of experience with advancing food prices, the American housewife has learned that the price index for fresh whole milk still lags behind the price index for all foods, including such important food items as meat, poultry and fish. The Cost-of-Living Index at the close of 1952 showed that dairy product prices stood at 218, about 6 percent lower than the index for all foods, which stood at 232.

So — even in a time of stress at home and of tribulation abroad, we can improve individual and the common health and add to our economic well-being in one area of daily living. By wider consumption of the vital food materials found in milk, we can do much to conserve our greatest natural resource, which is our people.

Requirements for a Dependency Classication

This is the tenth in a series of short articles designed to better acquaint the registrant and the general public with the operation of Selective Service.

A child or children in the home is the most common reason for classification of registrants in Class III-A. Such child may be a legitimate or illegitimate child, an adopted child, stepchild or foster child. One thing is necessary—the father must live with his wife and child in their home in a bona fide family relationship. This is sufficient to establish a presumption of dependency.

Even the father of an unborn child is entitled to consideration for III-A classification if, prior to the mailing of an order to report for induction, the registrant files with his Local Board a physician's statement that (1) a child is expected, (2) the probable date of birth and (3) the evidence upon which the positive diagnosis is based.

In addition to dependency Classification based upon a child or children living in the registrant's home, a registrant may establish claim to a III-A classification if his induction would result in extreme hardship and privation to wife, divorced wife, child (who is not living with him in his home), parent, grandparent, brother, or sister who is dependent upon him for support. Also, any person who is under 18 years of age, or a person of any age who is handicapped, whose support the registrant has assumed in good faith, may be the basis for a III-A classification.

To be considered as a dependent of a registrant, however, and thus establish a claim for a III-A classification, the dependent must be a citizen of the United States or must live in the United States or one of her possessions.

In considering dependency claims, money which will be paid by the United States to proven dependents of persons serving in the Armed Forces must be taken into consideration by the Local Board. This amount varies, depending upon the pay grade of the serviceman and the number of dependents. For pay grades E-I through E-3 the amount is $91.30 for one dependent, $117.10 for two dependents, $136.90 for over two dependents with $40.00 being deducted from the enlisted man's pay.

Cut Chick Costs With Good Housing

Don't make the mistake of saving money by crowding your chicks in the brooder house, extension director Paul Henderson advises Hancock County poultry producers.

Housing cost has been considered high by many poultry producers, Henderson says, because the housing expense is usually paid out in a lump sum. But the 1952 records of the Iowa Demonstration Flocks show housing costs averaged only a nickel per chick The top cost in the Demonstration Flocks was 14 cents a chick and the bottom cost was 1 cent a chick.

Enough housing spaces saves lives of chicks Henderson says. He adds that W. H. Whitfield, extension poultryman at Iowa State College, reports that those owners who crowded their chicks saved a penny per chick, or housing costs of $2.50 per brood. But they doubled their mortality rate, and on 60-cent chicks this cost amounted to $15.

Whitfield points out that original cost has become more important in recent years. The average original cost of chicks raised in the Demonstration Flocks last year was 45 cents a chick, nearly three times what it was 7 years ago, so crowding is even less profitable than it used to be.

IT SEEMS TO ME . . . that the boys that got lost out West should have been taken across somebody's speckled apron for leaving the rest of the gang.

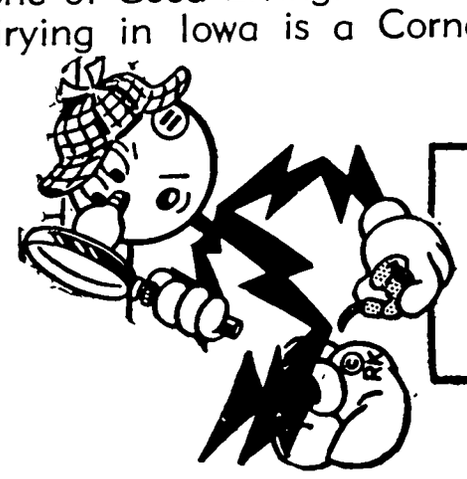
Cornerstone Of Good Living . . . and Good Agriculture

Beside providing us with a source of health-giving food, the Dairy industry is one of the largest contributors to the economic prosperity of the state. The gross value of all Iowa Dairy Products—dairy animals sold for meat, pure bred cattle and milk cows sold for breeding purposes—exceeds $350,000,000 annually. Of this amount, $135,780,000 came from Butter, alone—so naturally, Iowa Butter is a Cornerstone of Good Living.

Dairying in Iowa is a Cornerstone of Good Agriculture, too. Modern dairy farmers recognize the importance of land-use conservation—to preserve and protect our soil heritage. Through dairying, animal by-products from the soil are returned to the soil, increasing the fertility of our land.

We are vitally interested in Iowa's future farm production, and dairying. We are living in a farming community and we welcome the opportunity to support YOUR June Dairy Month Program.



IOWA ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER Company

Dairy Foods Are Nutritional and Also Economical

BERKELEY — A recent report from the University of California again points up the fact that dairy foods are an economical source of nutrients.

A seven-day survey among approximately one-thousand Oakland and Los Angeles families shows that from 18 to 20 percent of each family's food dollar is spent for milk and other dairy foods. (These foods make up approximately 30 percent of each family's total food consumption.)

Here's what 18 to 20 percent of the family's food dollar, used for dairy foods, provided to the diet of families surveyed: 23 to 26 percent of total calories; 40 to 45 percent of total proteins; 75 to 84 percent of total calcium; 59 to 76 percent of total riboflavin; 35 to 39 percent of total Vitamin A; 18 to 19 percent of total thiamin; 5 to 6 percent of total iron and niacin.

Prof. Jessie V. Coles of the University of California's home economics staff commented, "These data seem to indicate that dairy foods are a relatively inexpensive source of some very important nutrients . . . this is contrary to the belief of many families that dairy products are too expensive to include in the family diet."

The survey also shows that 75 percent of the fluid milk purchased is used as a beverage. Adult persons 21 years and over drink about one-third as much milk as persons under 21 years; largest quantities of milk are consumed by boys 13 to 20 years of age; women and girls drink only about two-thirds as much as men and boys in the same age groups. One-third of the persons 21 years and over do not drink milk; there are more women than men who do not drink milk.

It is generally recognized by doctors, dieticians, and home economists that the average adult persons in the U.S. does not drink an adequate amount of milk. Minimum requirements for good health call for a quart of milk a day for growing children and a pint a day for adults.

Doctors report milk and other dairy foods are particularly important to persons on weight reduction diets, as the nutritional value of these foods is so very high in proportion to total calories provided.

It has recently been shown that adults should continue good milk drinking habits throughout all of their lifetime to assure good health, greater vitality and stronger bones during the later years of life.

Station Gets Spruced Up

The past week, Don Schaefer has been seeing to it that his station is going to look clean and neat for some time to come. He has painted the outside, re-done the office walls and ceiling, and rearranged things in the office. The outside looks nice, but the greatest improvement is in the office, where rearranging has made more room and given a much neater appearance.

Bob Andreae has done a good share of the painting at the station, and between he and Don, they really have the place spruced up.

Water Safety Week Will Include July Fourth

The week of June 29 has been designated as Water Safety Week, it was announced today by the State Conservation Commission and the Iowa Safety Council

During the week which includes the Fourth of July weekend the cooperating agencies will distribute posters, swimming safety and boating safety literature, and carry on water safety demonstrations.

In 1952 the entire month of July was designated as water safety month, and is is believed that the month-long campaign helped reduce water deaths. Drownings in Iowa last year totaled seventy-three, well below the national average. However, these seventy-three deaths were needless tragedies, and it is hoped that this year's intensive water safety program will sharply reduce Iowa's annual toll of drownings.

4 School Boards Dismiss Meservey District Petition

The school boards of Cerro Gordo, Franklin, Hancock and Wright Counties Monday dismissed a petition calling for the enlargement of the Meservey Consoldated School District.

Meeting at Mason City, the boards turned down the bid which would have formed a larger district out of portions of the four counties. The petition was submitted last month the day before the old reorganization law was replaced by new legislation.

The school boards, acting as a single board, had one of two choices to make—okay the petition and determine boundaries, or to dismiss the petition.

Hazel V. Chappell, Cerro Gordo County Superintendent of schools, said hearings on objections to the plan had been held in each of the counties involved. Mrs. Chappell added that she over-ruled many of the objections lodged by Cerro Gordo landowners, while upholding several others.

The new organization law differs from the old in that elections now will be conducted on the basis of individual school districts—not on the basis of a majority vote of all landowners in the area to be reorganized. The Meservey plan, however, was submitted while the old rule was in effect.

Had this plan gone through, it would have cut into territory now serviced by the Klemme school.

Writes Two Checks On Klemme Store

Police today (Wednesday) were seeking Thomas H. Richmond, 25, Mason City vacuum cleaner salesman, wanted on charges of false making and uttering of bad checks totaling $1600.

The checks were dated June 20 and Richmond is reported to have received either cash or merchandise from business places at Mason City. Two of these checks, amounting to nearly $600, were writen on The Wellemeyer Store, Inc. Luckily, alert personnel at the First National Bank in Klemme, found discrepancies in the way in which the checks were made out, and did not honor them. However, whoever cashed them for Richmond is rather badly "stuck".

Police were told Richmond rented a 1953, four-door Chevrolet from a rental agency Saturday. The car has a blue body, with cream top and carried license plates 17-15028.

He told friends at Mason City he was going to a sales meeting in Des Moines and planned to return Sunday.

Richmond is scheduled to be married next Saturday to a girl employed in a hospital at Mason City.

The girl and her mother said Wednesday 200 invitations to the wedding have been mailed.

Attended National Convention In Wisconsin

Miss Novella Bredbenner returned Friday, from the National Kappa Phi Convention at Green Lake, Wisconsin. The lovely lake and woods provided a perfect spot for the convention's theme "This Is My Father's World". About two hundred Methodist college girls and their leaders spent the week formulating plans for the next two years, presenting programs and listening to addresses by outstanding church leaders.

As National Alumnae Secretary, one of Miss Bredbenner's projects this past year was the establishing of a Development Fund for Kappa Phi. In order to secure funds for this, the plan of "Buy the Sky for Kappa Phi" was launched. At the convention, Miss Bredbenner presented a replica of Kappa Phi's sky, showing the number of constellations, planets, stars, meteors etc. that have been sold thus far. Miss Bredbenner was re-elected as National Alumnae Secretary for the next two years.

After the convention, Miss Bredbenner accompanied some friends from Ohio and Connecticut on a tour of the Wisconsin Dells and the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Jean Mannes Bride Of Herbert Pearson In Thompson Wedding

Jean Mannes, daughter of Mrs. Anna Mannes of Thompson, became the bride of Herbert Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pearson of Klemme in a candle light ceremony at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Thompson, at 7:30 P. M., Sunday June 14.

The Rev. A. M. Mannes of Sioux Falls, South Dakota uncle of the bride performed the double ring ceremony.

Ferns, baskets and bouquets of peonies formed the setting for the exchange of vows. Nuptial music was played by Gracka Gerardi of Klemme. Mrs. Marvin Lemke of Klemme sang, "I Love You Truly", "Because", and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ernest Mannes of Lake Mills, wore a white ballerina gown of lace and satin. She wore a fingertip veil with a bonnet. Her bouquet of yellow roses was centered with a white orchid. She carried a white handkerchief and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Raymond Barz to Be Ordained Here Sunday

Due to the fact that Rev. Jaberg is away because of the death of his father, there will be no morning worship service or Sunday School at the Reformed Church on Sunday, June 28.

However, at eight o'clock in the evening there will be special services at which Raymond Barz will be ordained. Rev. Walter Odenback of Tripp, South Dakota, will preach the sermon. Rev. Reuben Grosshuesch of Melbourne will represent Iowa synod as ordaining pastor and Rev. Carl Mohr of Garner, will officiate.

The members of the church and the entire community are most cordially invited to attend this special service. A reception and fellowship hour will follow the service.

Letter From First Lady Adds to 91st Birthday Celebration

Mrs. Lydia Hartzell, of Cedar Falls, mother of Mrs. Helen Stille, was recently ninety-one years old. In honor of the occasion, all of her children and their families gathered to help her celebrate. In addition, a nice letter from Mrs. Eisenhower, added to the spirit of the birthday observance.

The letter is as follows:

The White House
Washington
June 8, 1953

Dear Mrs. Hartzell,

I have just learned that June thirteenth marks your ninety-first birthday. It is a pleasure to send you a note of greetings on this memorable occasion, for I want to express for you every good wish for a wonderful day.

I am happy to know your family has gathered together in honor of the occasion. Having loved ones near is the nicest part of anniversaries I am sure.

My best wishes to you for your continued peace and happiness.

Dads of Future May Be Back Seat Drivers

Steering clear of the much-debated question as to whether today's women are better drivers than men, the American Automobile Association predicts that if the present high school driver training trend continues, there's no question but that eventually women will be superior behind the wheel.

A survey just completed by the AAA's Traffic Engineering and Safety Department shows that three out of five students enrolled in driver education courses are girls, E. R. "Johnny" Lange, Motor Club of Iowa, Safety Director said. The survey covered 1,900 schools and 67,326 students.

The prediction that women will eventually be better drivers than men if the present boy and girl ratio of driver trainees continues is based, Lange said, on the fact that graduates of high school driver training courses have only half as many, or less, accidents than do drivers of the same age bracket who've not taken the courses.

The survey also shows, Lange continued, that boys generally start driving earlier than girls, for one out of five boys enrolled in driver training classes already have a license to drive, while only one out of twenty girls are so qualified.

The AAA and its affiliated clubs, of which the Motor Club of Iowa is one, pioneered since the early 1930's is promoting nationwide high school driver education, Lange said. It recommends standards, prepares text materials, assists in preparing and training instructors, outlines methods, and cooperates in making dual-control practice driving cars available to the schools.

The object is to teach young drivers sound driving habits, driving skills, information about the car, the driver and traffic regulations, and good driver attitudes toward acceptance of social responsibilities.

Today, about one-fourth of the nation's high schools, or about 6,500, offer complete courses, and about 3,000 more give classroom instruction only. At the close of the 1952 school year, some 1,250,000 high school youths had had supervised training of this kind.

Wreckreation Begins In Iowa's Parks

Although it's early in the season, several of our state parks have already been visited by vandals. Lodge windows have been broken, natural stone cliffs have been painted, and trees have been defaced. Picnic tables also take much punishment, not so much from carving, but from being tossed off convenient cliffs into lakes and rivers.

In some of our parks garbage cans and new steel fireplaces have been stolen, the latter being torn out of their concrete foundations by heavy levers.

The park conservation officer can control much of this, but the final responsibility for the prevention of such damage is in the hands of the public. The officer cannot be everywhere at once, and many of our parks are quite large. For this reason, picnickers and park visitors are urged to report cases of vandalism to the park conservation officer immediately.

Such destruction of public property in state parks is punishable by fines not to exceed one hundred dollars, or jail sentences of not more than ninety days.

County Drivers Show Decrease In Accidents

Iowa drivers have improved their accident record 10 per cent and saved themselves at least $515,000 in damages during the first three months of this year compared to average figures for the first three months in each of the past three years, the Iowa Saftey Council reported Thursday.

J. D. Armstrong of Ames, Council chairman, said 22,863 drivers had accidents during the first quarter of 1953 compared to an average of 25,439 for the same period in the last three years.

"If the trend continues," said Armstrong, "drivers will save at least $2,061,000 this year. More proof that safety doesn't cost—it pays."

Drivers from 80 of the 99 counties this year have accident records as good or better than the three year average.

Hancock county is on the improved list. The Council report shows that an average of 99 Hancock county drivers had accidents during the first three months of the past three years compared to 68 during the first quarter of this year.

Records are based on number of drivers from each county involved in an accident anywhere in Iowa, the Council said.

State Fair to Have Championship Rodeo

Des Moines, Ia.:

A national championship rodeo, with over $8,000 in cash prizes was announced here today for the 1953 Iowa State Fair, Aug. 29-Sept.7.

The rodeo will be a highlight of the fair on three nights and two days, Secretary L. B. Cunningham said. The night sessions will be held Sept. 4, 5 and 6, with day competition on Sept. 5 and 7.

Cunningham said the prize money will be split evenly between contestants in the bronc riding, bareback riding, calf roping, bulldogging and bull riding events.

The rodeo, one of the largest to be staged in the midwest this year, will be directed again by Leo Cremer. Cremer said today that more than 150 of the leading cowboys and cowgirls in the nation are expected to file entries before the Sept. 3 deadline. More than 200 head of wild stock will be brought to the fairgrounds to test the skill and courage of competitors.

In addition to the competitive events, Cremer said special exhibitions of trick roping and riding will be featured.

KLEMME COOPERATIVE GRAIN COMPANY

Marvin G. Lemke, Mgr. Klemme, Iowa

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Heavy recepits of all kinds of cattle and hot drying winds in the Southwest continued to highlight the cattle market last week,, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports.

The lower grades, choice and prime heifers weighing over 950 pounds, and choice prime steers over 1300 pounds are bearing the brunt of the price pressue on slaughter stock. Meanwhile, the feeder cattle are weakening in the face of the weaker fat-cattle market accompanied by dry pastures in the Southwest. Prices the second week in June broke $2 to $5 on the Denver terminal.

This year's feeder cattle break is starting about the same time as last year, Kutish points out. Prices then, you will remember, slumped $7 at Kansas City between June 1 and the first of July. Then the market remained relatively steady during July and and August.

Beginning early in September, Kansas City feeder cattle prices began to drop again under pressure of range marketings and the weak market for lower-grade slaughter cattle. By the end of December, feeder cattle prices were $6 below the early September figure. Total drop for the June to December period amounted to 33 percent of the June 1 sale price.

Much the same forces are at work this year, according to Kutish: Dry weather in parts of the West and a weaker feeder demand due to the uncertain fat cattle market. Wichita, Kansas, reports that a considerable portion of the Southwest has been too dry for planting grain sorghums and that forage prospects there are fading.

Returning to the fat cattle market, Kutish does not expect the usual summer and fall seasonal price rise for upper grades of slaugther cattle. The reason: Too many cattle are coming to market to permit it.

This outlook points to the continued desirability of culling cows and off-quality cattle now-rather than waiting until fall when the big rush is on Kutish concludes.

Farmers Have Job In Grain Sanitation Program

An aggressive campaign is under way by the federal Food and Drug Administration to keep contaminated grain out of human food processing channels.

And Paul Henderson Hancock County Extension Director, thinks farmers in this county have a dual stake in the campaign. In the first place, he says, local elevators must bear the brunt of loss from contaminated grain seizure and it's likely they will have to buy grain more carefully to protect ther own operations. And in the second place, farmers share in the responsibility of furnishing consumers wth a high quality food product.

Henderson reports that the FDA has been given authority to seize and condemn contaminated grain anywhere in food processing channels. If this grain can't be cleaned of contamination, it may be marked with a distinguishing dye and cannot then be used for human food. Or the shipper must bear expense of an inspector who stays with the grain until it is processed as feed. Presence of any rodent droppings, urine or hari, live or dead insects or any gross contamination in a shipment of grain is grounds for seizure.

Local elevators will be placing increased emphasis on protecting quality in their facilities. The FDA has authority to inspect elevators and can seize grain shipped from an elevator where contamination could have taken place, Henderson reports.

This program will, in turn, shift responsibility for protection of grain in farm storage to the farmer, although none of the campaign is directed toward the farm. It's logical, he believes, that elevators may refuse to buy dirty or contaminated grain except at a discount. The possible loss of investment and cost of legal proceeding connected with grain seizure will probably cause elevator to raise quality standards on grain they buy.

The farmer's best work in protecting grain quality will be done before the grain goes into the bin, Henderson says. And that work includes two sizable jobs—a campaign to kill rodents and rodent-proof bins and cribs and thorough clean-up of bins.

Iowa State College extension entomologists recommend a three-way approach to controlling rodent damage, he reports. First clean up trash piles and other harbors. Launch a rodent-killing program, using Warfarin bait. Then use effective measures to keep rodents out of grain bins and cribs.

Inside the bin, they say, clean up all old trash and small amounts of grain. Brush down walls and ceilings, being particular to clean dirt—and insects out of wall, floor and ceiling cracks. Follow clean-up with DDT or methoxychlor spray over the interior of the bin. These measures will effectively control insects that work in stored grain.

The FDA program now is in effect only on wheat, but is expected to start soon on corn.

But, whether or not the FDA program is likely to affect you, controlling rodents and stored grain insects by clean-up and protective measures is good farming, Henrerson says. A lot of time and money is risked when you plant, manage and harvest a crop. Protecting the grain in storage means protection for the grain which gives your return for the investment in the crop. And livestock prefer and do better on clean grain.

PONIES

Among the casualities in north in north Iowa's floods recently were 15 head of little Shetland ponies, owned by E. H. Spiecker and John Kennedy, of Remsen. A few of the ponies escaped alive when the waters swept them from their pasture, among them a little blind mare.

Industry Moves to Iowa Forms; Materials Closer

The interdependency of farm and factory with the Hawkeye farmer coming out with a slight edge over industry was seen in the recent announcement by The Quaker Oats company of Chicago.

The giant of the cereals announced it was moving its country elevator division to Fort Dodge. The division includes 64 grain elevators, 46 of them in Iowa and the rest in South Dakota, Illinois, Missouri Kansas and Mississippi.

The new Fort Dodge headquarters for the elevator division will staff about 20 administrative assistants and accountants.

In this move of industry to the source of its raw materials, C. S. Gordon, Chicago executive vice president of Quaker Oats, told the Iowa developement commission the "shift will put management of our country elevator division in closer touch with the farmers with whom they do business.

Gordon pointed out that "farmer's and The Quaker Oats Company have a mutual interest.

"We're the farmer's customer for almost all of our raw materials, and in turn, he buys the cereals and feeds which we manufacture."

The Quaker elevator division buys millions of dollars worth of grain each year.

[illegible] The bride's mother wore a [illegible] dress with light accessories and a white and pink rose corsage.

The groom's mother wore a navy and white dress with a red rose corsage.

Miss Karen Smith of Iowa Falls, sister-in-law of the bride, and cousin of the groom, was soloist accompanied by Miss Sally Lawson of Klemme. She sang the traditional wedding song, which was taken by Mrs. J. P. Anderson of Klemme.

The waitresses were Gloria Burns and Mrs. Richard Tillman of Rowan.

After a honeymoon through the western states they will be at home in Los Angeles.

The bride is a graduate of the Klemme High School and attended Hamilton School of Commerce for a year. She has been helping in the Ahrenkiel Store for the past year and a half.

The groom is a graduate of the Woodrow Wilson High School of Los Angeles, California. He is employed by the Atlas Luggage Company of Los Angeles.

Local Party Does Well On Fishing Trip to North

By Don Tiemann

Friday night about eight o'clock Don Bacon, Charles Barton and I left for Lake Mills on our way to Decorah for a fishing trip. We stayed at Ole Peterson's that night.

Saturday morning at four o'clock we went over to George Anderson's and picked him up. About five o'clock that night we drove into Bridge Camp 2 Sunnyhaven Resort after having had which later we set we unpacked our fishing equipment and put the motor on the boat. Ole, Charles and I went out that night for an hour and came back in early with a real nice mess of bass. After we came up to the cabin Don and George had started supper.

The next morning we were up at five o'clock after we were done with breakfast we changed our lures. We had fairly good fishing that day by catching muskies, northerns.

The next day we hired a guide for four of our nineteen miles which we caught our limit of walleyes. It was about the guide made dinner of a large trout of one of the islands.

In the afternoon we fished for northerns and caught twenty-one besides what we threw back.

The next morning we broke camp and left for Red Lake, Minnesota. We got there about two o'clock in the afternoon and found a cabin. We went out at first but the rest of the afternoon but we couldn't eater anything of any size. The next morning we took off for Big Winnie a lake about twenty miles from Deer River. Being the waves were some where between six and eight feet high we went out in a saucer at first. From there in five-thirty we caught forty-one fish. The following day we didn't eater very many.

The next morning we packed our fish in a box and took off for Lake Mills. We arrived there about three-thirty in the afternoon and we stopped for a coke. We left Ole and George off at Ole's farm and arrived home about five. We unpacked our equipment and took our fish to the locker.

We had very good fishing and a good trip. All the big ones got away.

Conservation Officials Study Deer Seasons

Commissioner Floyd Pearson, Director Bruce Stiles, and Chief of Division of Fish and Game Ray Beckman, all of the State Conservation Commission, have recently returned from Ohio and Indiana where they studied legislative provisions for deer hunting.

Since many deer problems of those agricultural states are similar to those in Iowa, it was believed that their methods of taking deer would be valuable in setting a prospective Iowa deer season.

The Iowa legislature removed deer from the list of protected game species this year and granted the Conservation Commission authority to open a deer season at their discretion, as yet there has been no action on opening the season this fall.

Corn Borer Control

Nobody seems to be very much interested in what the corn borer is going to do this year and neither are we. However, if conditions continue to develop the way they have started, there will be a lot of people interested . to late. We have one sprayer left and that will very likely be all for this season.

Report Shows Iowa "Land of Plenty" —Especially Meat

According to U. S. department of agriculture figures, Iowa's total meat animal production in 1952 was 14,725,000 head.

The Iowa devedlopement commission said this total amount represents one first-place and two third-place ratings in the nation's agricultural industry.

Iowa again was the nation's top pork producer with 12,057,000 head. This represents about 18 percent of the nation's total hog production.

The Hawkeye state captured a third place in number of cattle slaughtered with 1,376,000 head. California and Illinois placed first and second.

The other third place went to Iowa for number of sheep slaughtered. Iowa followed California and New York with 1,292,000 head of sheep.

Here's How to Go About it—

Sewing Lessons for Your Daughter

Mother-daughter sewing sessions can be companionable and wonderfully productive. If you start your daughter out with something simple, like an apron, and put the emphasis on the finished produot instead of a perfect seam, chances are she'll enjoy her sewing and be eager to learn more.

Most little girls are eager to learn how to sew, especially if their mother makes part of the family's wardrobe and openly enjoys her hours at the sewing machine.

How you go about teaching your daughter to sew will make a big difference in whether or not she sticks with it and eventually becomes an accomplished seamstress.

First Undertaking

Start her with a very simple little garment, something she's sure to enjoy wearing suggests Iowa State College extension clothing specialist, Lucille Rea. It might be an apron made from a fabric she helps pick out. Since most 9-, 10-, and 11-year-olds can learn to use a sewing machine much more quickly than needle she could hem up the top and bottom of the apron by machine and then run a cord through the top hem for the apron ties.

A recent University of Connecticut study of the coordination and sewing ability in 9- to 13-year-olds has turned up some helpful facts. A 9-year-old can't sit still for very long and has a short attention span. That's why it's important to start her with something she can finish up in a few short sewing sessions. At 10 or 11, most girls still enjoy active games more than sit-still work, although increased coordination of mind, hand and eye help give their sewing ability a boost.

Second Garment

Her second garment should have some of the same problems as the first, plus enough new ones to keep her interest, says Miss Rea. This could be an apron or skirt that's gathered or pleated onto a band. Since girls this age have changeable waistlines, an elastic through the top hem of the skirt might be a good idea and save her making a placket or putting on a band.

A skirt with a pocket, band and placket might come next. Then she will probably be ready to learn to use a simple printed pattern.

Help her choose the right type of pattern so she'll get a good fit. A "girls" pattern is for an immature figure. The "Teen-age" pattern is for the figure just starting to mature, "Junior" is for a little more developed figure, and "Misses" sizes are for a mature young figure. And check her measurements on the pattern envelope as well.

Along about now you might do well to check up on your own sewing. If you haven't paid much attention to new sewing techniques, you'll discover that textiles and clothing specialists have worked out many simplified sewing methods that save time and help insure professional looking results without painstaking basting and fitting.

Easier Ways to Sew

If you're not familiar with the unit method of sewing, staystitching, dressmaker's carbon, tracing wheel, pin basting, you'll enjoy learning about them through sewing manuals, friends or your county extension home economist.

Teach your daughter to sew in easy stages, give her lots of encouragement and praise and don't expect perfection in her work at first. When she reaches 13 or 14, she'll start to be critical herself and work on developing more skill.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

The duel must have gone on for nearly 75 miles along one of the state's busiest highways. It was a running fight between Les and all the other drivers approached him that night.

Les liked to do his traveling after sundown. He liked to drive fast and importantly, so he had a tendency to be a high beam driver. "I get past them so fast," he once boasted to a passenger, "that my bright lights don't hurt them any."

The big duel started just after dark when Les headed out of the town where he had slept that afternoon. He was driving with his brights on when the lights of the first car he approached started to blink at him.

When Les didn't move to dim, the high beams of the other car stabbed back in retaliation. The other driver was even "impertinent" enough to blow his horn at Les and Les thought he heard the drift of a shouted word as the two cars passed.

The challenge made Les so mad that he didn't dim his lights in the next 70 miles. Every car he met first blinked for dims then shot back with high lights.

Les considered himself a real veteran of night driving and felt he had the advantage in every exchange. He simply did not know that each time he forced another driver to bright he was paying for the exchange with seven seconds of blindness. At 60 miles an hour, he was was traveling 630 feet—a city block—during those seven blind seconds.

He didn't know it, but a fellow like Les wouldn't have believed it, anyway. He would-not have believed he could drive off the curve the way he did, blinded for seven short seconds.

Storage Facilities For '53 Corn Crop Doubtful

The shortage of corn storage space, particularly in Iowa, was called to the attention of Hancock county farm owners and operators this week by the Hancounty PMA committee.

They called attention to the fact that nearly 170 million bushels of Iowa's bumper corn crop of 1952 has been placed under price support through loans and purchase agreements, that another 110 million bushels of still older corn are stored in CCC bin sites scattered over the state, and that there are prospects of another big crop this year.

"With those figures in mind, you don't need paper and pencil to prove that we face a serious corn storage problem." they declared.

At a six-state conference in Des Moines last week, they said, it was agreed that everything possible should be done to get producers to re-seal farm-stored grain as one means of relieving the situation. As an inducement to re-seal, the government has agreed to make storage payments of 13 cents a bushel for sealed corn kept on the farms for the full year of the loan extension, or until July 31, 1954.

The re-seal drive automatically calls upon producers to check their individual on-farm storage needs in preparation for handling the coming crop. Producers in need of greater storage space in their farms wil be encouraged to construct or buy cribs and bins in accordance with their financial ability and the apparent requirements for their individual farming operations.

The four-percent storage facilities loans now being made by the Commodity Credit Corporation and the 13-cent-per-bushel storage payment offered as a resealing inducement should certainly go a long way in increasing construction or purchase of needed farm cribs and bins, they said.

Expensive Sleeping

It really costs money to sleep in comfort in Alaska. Carl Ahlstrom, formerly of Goodell and Garner, now lives in Moose Pass, Alaska. He wanted a new inner spring mattress, so he priced several in that territory. The price was so high that he wrote to the Wellemeyer Store to see what could be done. Result of the letter was that last week the store shipped a mattress.

Express charges from here were more than the cost of the mattress here, but the two added together were still less than the cost of the mattress if purchased in Moose Pass.

If you drop your soiled clothes down the clothes chute so that they come to rest on the cement floor of he basement, you take chance with a hard-to-remove gray stain from the cement.

TRACK ACTION—Speeding stock cars of the type which will compete in the national championship 125-mile late model stock car race at Iowa State Fair Grounds, Des Moines, Sunday afternoon, June 28, are caught by the camera. Close to 30 of the nation's leading drivers are expected to attempt to qualify for the race. Twenty fastest qualifiers will start.

Supply Cause of Meat Price Shifts

It's That Rather Than Change in Demand

The hog price rise and the cattle price drop of this year are mainly the result of changes in supply, according to Francis A. Kutish, extension economist at Iowa State College.

The high beef cattle prices of the last few years were probably more the result of short beef slaughter than of high consumer demand, Kutish says. Farm economists had pointed out that prices would fall as beef slaughter climbed, but they did not expect the change to be so sudden, Kutish says. The boost in slaughter far exceeded anyone's expectations—April cattle kill was 40 percent less.

Prices Fell in Waves

The beef price drop came in three waves. Breeding and feeding cattle fell $3 to $6 per hundred pounds by July, 1952. Slaughter steers and heifers of the middle grades skidded during the fall. It was not until about Jan. 1 of this year that top grades of fed steers and heifers fell. Prices now for every grade are 30 to 40 percent under those of last year.

During the same time, the hog supply dwindled, Kutish points out. Farmers are now sending 15 to 20 percent fewer hogs to market than a year ago. The big hog price recovery started last December when the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported farmers had raised 9 percent fewer fall pigs and were planning a 13 percent cut in 1953 spring litters.

Record Summer Farrowings

Packers began storing pork products beyond needs for supplying regular customers. And the farmers changed their minds about spring farrowing, holding back more gilts. This cut further into the number of hogs currently going to market, but it means farrowings in June, July and August will be at an all-time high. Hog marketings next winter will be at least 10 to 15 percent above those of the past winter—and maybe even more.

Council For Retarded Children Meet in Garner

Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties will meet at the Garner High School, Garner, Iowa, at 8 p. m., June 29th. Reports of the first state convention of the Iowa Association for Retarded Children which is to be held at the Roosevelt Hotel, Cedar Rapids, Iowa will be given.

Mrs. Victor E. Bunge of Garner will preside at the state meeting Saturday. Mr. R. T. Lindh, Minneapolis, Minnesota, a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association for Retarded Children and the founding president of the Minnesota Association will be the featured speaker.

High School Student Rates Deferment

This is the eleventh in a series of short articles designed to better acquaint the registrant and the general public with the operation of Selective Service.

Congress has by law provided for the deferment of any registrant who is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of any instruction at a high school or similar institution of learning provided:

1- He has not graduated from high school;

2- He has not reached his 20th birthday;

3- He is carrying satisfactorily his full-time course of instruction.

Such a high school student is classified in Class I-S(H).

A high school student loses his right to a I-S(H) classification as soon as he is (1) graduated from high school or (2) reaches 20 years of age or (3) fails in his school work.

A I-S(H) classification is given for a specific period and the date of termination is shown in the official Selective Service records

In order for a high school student to qualify for a I-S(H) classification it is not necessary for him to be ordered for Armed Forces physical examination and then ordered for induction (Such procedure is necessary in the case of college students who are classified in Class I-S(C).

High school registrants should make certain that their Selective Service file (called the Cover Sheet) contains all the information necessary to show a student's status.

All male high school students should remember that they are required to register upon reaching 18 years of age. A failure to do so is a serious violation of the law. While registration is required at 18, a registrant is not liable for military training until he reaches the age of 18 years 6 months.

The younger age groups are not being called for induction at this time even though registrants may be classified physically examined as soon as practicable following registration.

Hancock County Cattlemen to Get New Feed Facts July 15

Hancock County farmers will hear reports on the cattle situation for both feeder and slaughter beef and will see results of feeding a new pelleted alfalfa meal supplement when they attend the annual Cattle Feeders' "Hey Day" at Iowa State College Wednesday, July 15, according to Extension Director Paul Henderson of Hancock.

Those who wish to share transportation to the even with other Hancock County people may leave word at the extension director's off at Garner, Henderson says.

A special program for the women is being planned, Extension Director Henderson says so wives may attend this event with their husbands. After the morning program of special women's interest under direction of the Home Ecomonics Division, the women will be invited to join with the men at the college gymnasium to hear the talks on the present cattle situation.

The feeder's program will begin at 9:45 a. m. at the cattle barns on Beech Avenue in Ames. The cattlemen will see eleven lots of eight steers each which will have been finished to choice grade.

The cattle will include one group bought in Montana last January at $21 a hundred pounds and fed on silage. Different lots of this group received Purdue supplement A, the Iowa No. 1 supplement used in last year's Cattle Feeder's Day tests and the new Iowa No. 3 and Iowa 3-A supplements. Iowa supplement 3 is a short pellet, relatively high in alfalfa meal and including urea, molasses, minerals and vitmin A. Supplement 3-A has soybean meal added.

Another group of cattle to be shown at the Hey Day came from Nebraska and were bought at $26.50 a hundredweight in October at Sioux City. They started on cornstalk silage, then were changed to corncobs, both supplemented by the same protein supplements as those used for the corn-silage cattle. Rates of gain, costs and selling values of the various lots of cattle in the two groups will be reported for each feeding program.

J. C. Peterson of the Peterson Cattle Company of Spencer will speak at the afternoon program on the beef cattle situation from the standpoint of feeder cattle.

STRANDED

At Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. John Norman drove to a restaurant near the city to "dine out". By the time they had finished their dessert the sudden rise of flood waters there left them stranded.

MEET AGAIN

Mrs. David Duffield of Lineville recently visited with a brother she had not seen in 51 years. He's now a resident of California, and Mrs. Duffield located him on a recent trip there.

TRAIN RIDE

For the fifteenth time, the Illinois Central Employees were hosts to the children of orphans' homes at Dyersville, for an annual train ride from Dyersville to Manchester.

CARP

At Dunlap, Elmer Terrell caught a 30-pound carp in the sand pit there. A new record for the Dunlap pit.

TWO HOURS

Following the death of Jerry Spieker, near Ackley, friends gathered at the Spieker home to help with the farming. One hundred acres of corn was cultivated in two hours.

Will Distribute Scotchlite Tape In County

Be on the lookout for a strip of eye-catching red tape across the rear bumpers of automobiles this summer. It may well have been placed there by an industrious rural youth or Jaycee member as part of the state-wide safety project.

Scotchlite tape is now being distributed by hundreds of members all over the state. Safety specialists praise the program as youth, so often criticized as reckless, actually are doing something about safety.

The RYP safety program is in cooperation with the state Junior Chamber of Commerce which is working the program in cities and towns where its organization exists and which is supplying the tape for RYP clubs.

The tape program performs a real community service as it provides opportunity for safety education, is good public relations and the safety features of the tape should help reduce the number of highway accidents.

The tape can be seen 75 per cent quicker than the average tail light in the headlights of an approaching car at night. It picks up light quicker, farther away, and from a much greater angle. Still, its principal advantage lies in helping the oncoming driver discern the actual position of the car when the tape is placed in a single straight line across the full width of the rear bumper. The same is true of silver tape across the front bumper.

This Scotchlite tape is on sale in Hancock County by Jaycee members in Garner and Britt and by the Rural Young People's organization in the rural areas and other towns in the county.

The Lion-sponsored Kid's Fish Day held at the Riverside School pond last Wednesday afternoon was a success in every sense of the word. The picture above shows a good share of the ninety-six kids who turned out to catch over 300 fish in two hours. The kids were fishing in a freshly stocked pond and the fish really bit. Conservation officials who were on hand tagged this fish day as one of the most successful they had ever seen. Excitement ran pretty high, as the kids were fishing for prizes and Oh's and Ah's could be heard as some lucky angler pulled out a bullhead that looked larger than the average run. Free ice cream and pop were distributed to contestants by members of the Klemme Lions Club, and they wish to thank everyone who bought Fish Day pins and helped them make this event possible.

All the kids agreed that it was a fine day and a lot of fun. The prizes they received were all practical and useful items for the fisherman, and they had the enjoyment of good fishing. We would like to see this event become an annual happening.

Vicky Bridges is the happy girl pictured above. She won a prize for the most fish for girls 6 to 9. Other prize winners, not pictured, are as follows:

For the most fish in their age group, Dorance Hoeft, boys 6 to 9; Elaine Jurgemeyer, girls 10 to 12; Jerry Stokesbary, boys 10 to 12; Marvalyn Carolus, girls 13 to 15; Robert Ausborn, boys 13 to 15.

Claudia Neuberger had the largest fish for a girl.

Lad-Dad Week End Attended by Local Cubs and Fathers

Eight Cub Scouts and their dads from Klemme attended the Lad-Dad Week End held at Camp Roosevelt at Clear Lake, June 27th and 28th.

We checked in at camp at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. We made up our beds and then went swimming. When we had enough of that we went back up to our tents to practice the stunts we had ot put on in the evening. At 4:30 we set up our stands on the midway. Each town was asked to furnish one or two games. We had a dart game and a ball toss.

At 6:15 we had a supper of baked ham and everything that goes with it. Two lads and their dads from Klemme had to help with each meal. At 8:30 all of us went up to the camp fire where we gave our stunts. At 9:30 the lads turned in for the night and the dads went up to the mess hall for coffee and cake.

We got up at six o'clock Sunday morning and went up to breakfast at 7:30. We had fruit juice, cereal, and rolls. At 8:30 we went to outdoor church services. Rev. Brown, assistant pastor at Free Methodist Church at Mason City gave the sermon.

At 10 o'clock we took a speed boat ride. When we returned we all went for a swim again. After swimming we dressed and went up for a dinner of chicken and noodles. After dinner we broke camp and left for home. All of us had a good time and are looking forward to going again next year.

Those who went were: Collyn and "Sport" Bridges, James and Ed Christians, Gary and Harold Kothenbeutal, Jimmy and Mitchell Bock, Earl and Walter Lemke, Billy and Lawrence Greiman, Jimmy and John Clements, Jerry Stokesbary and Kermit Koerner.

The number of water systems on Iowa farms took a big jump between 1940 and 1950—but still only half the farms in the state have water systems.

Graduates

Pvt. Virgil Pringnitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pringnitz of Kanawha, graduated today from the Ordnance Specialist Course at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, as a track vehicle repairman.

This course, which lasts 12 weeks, is designed to teach the young soldiers basic fundamentals of motor mechanics, specializing in the repair of track vehicles such as tanks and amphibious vehicles and the repairing and replacing of major assemblies.

Following graduation, students who successfully complete this course are assigned to units throughout the world where they will put to practical use the training they have been given.

Water Can Be Fun But Don't Be Careless

Throughout these hot summer months many people are going to seek their recreation near some body of water, hoping that they will be cooler.

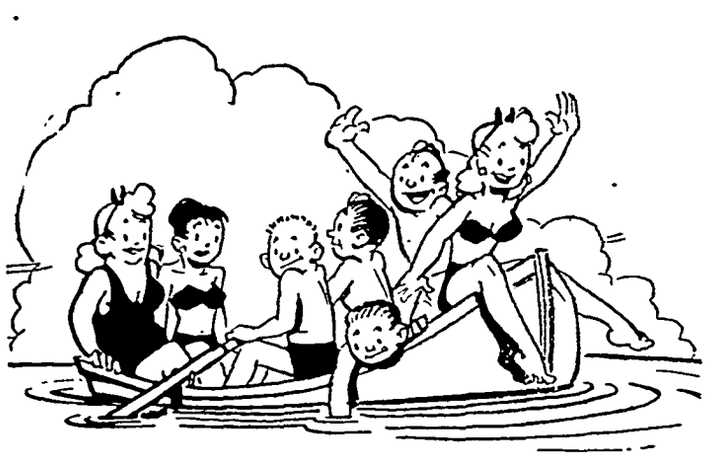
This is fine, and we know that there is much enjoyment to be found on our lakes and streams. There is fishing and boating and most cooling of all, swimming. We enjoy each of these sports as much as the next fellow, and we hope that while we indulge in them, we never lose our respect for the water.

There have been rules and regulations made as to how one should conduct himself when boating or swimming, but rules and regulations are easily forgotten or disregarded. However, the application of a little common sense should normally keep you out of trouble when you are enjoying yourself around one of our lakes or streams.

Common sense tells you that you should always swim in supervised areas, then if anything should happen to you there is someone competent on hand to help you out. Never swim in places like the above pictured gravel pit southwest of Klemme. Pits are full of holes and cold spots, and common sense tells you that even an experienced swimmer can get in trouble in a place like this. There are many gravel pits in this section of the country, and nearly everyone of them has a sad story to tell.

If you are going to wade or swim in the river, always move up stream, then if you step into a hole the current will be in your favor to help you get out. That's common sense. If you were wading down stream and stepped in a hole, the current would push you right on into the deeper water. Best of all, don't swim in the river.

If you are going to swim in a lake and are not sure of the depth, wade out until you reach your depth. Then, if you are going to swim, swim back toward shore. That way you will not be in the position of being out of breath and tired and in water too deep for you to stand and rest.



If you are going to fish or just ride around in a boat, don't overload. No one ever got hurt by having a passenger or two less than the boat's capacity will stand, but when you start going over the safe capacity load, then you are asking for trouble.

Don't stand in the boat nor do any undue amount of shifting around. If by chance you should be in a boat and it overturns, stay with it. Even a capsized boat will keep you afloat until help comes.

We don't think that anyone should be afraid of water, but we do think that everyone should respect its power and what it could do, given a chance. If you use your head, around water, you can have a lot of fun.

Drive Carefully . . . See Monday

Monday will be a beautiful day for many people, but there will be some who will never see it . . . and some who will see it from a hospital bed. We say this because this coming week end is the Fourth of July holiday, and the Fourth is nearly always bad for traffic accidents.

There are several reasons why it is bad, but one of the most important we believe, and we've been guilty of it ourselves, is hurry. There are more cars than usual on the highway, and a lot of people are trying to crowd as many hours in as possible, either at some resort or visiting relatives. Consequently, they drive too fast. To make matters worse, some of these speeders, spend most of their time driving in city traffic and when they get out on the highway and try driving at high rates of speed, their reflexes just aren't tuned right. They are used to judging slower moving traffic.

Among the other factors that enter into the extremely heavy accident rate is the amount of travel on our old post World War II highways. Last Monday was a normal day on Highway 69 west of Klemme, and how many cars do you think went by the intersection out there? A young man employed by the Highway Commission, counted every vehicle that went by from eight o'clock in the morning until four o'clock in the afternoon, and there were 1,248 northbound and 1,190. southbound; not to mention 411 that made their way in and out of Klemme.

That's a lot of traffic, but imagine what it will be like on the Fourth. If you get out on the highway, we suggest that you keep your eyes peeled. You have to drive five cars at once. The one in front of you, the one behind you, the one coming onto the highway from either side, and the one in which you are behind the wheel.

A salesman told us one day that he had adopted the practice of driving like everyone else on the highway was crazy. He said it was surprising how often the assumption was correct.

Don't be a Fourth of July traffic statistic. Drive carefully. Watch yourself and the other fellow . . . and live to see Monday.

30 YEARS AGO—

The paving is opened at Clear Lake now and will be appreciated by those who drive there as the detour was always in bad shape. The paving is also completed at Wesley and all the paving will soon be opened. There is only a short detour there now.

There was quite a severe storm in this vicinity Saturday night at about nine o'clock. A heavy rain fell accompanied by a strong wind storm. It hailed a little but did not do much damage. The wind flattened many corn fields but it is again standing good. North and east of Garner it hailed hard, and also over toward Hutchins.

Art Schoenwetter is driving a new Durant Sedan. Some class to Art now.

A. G. Koerner is building a new barn, garage and tool house of hollow brick, to replace the building which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago.

Many from Klemme and vicinity went to West Lake last Thursday to atend the County Legion picnic. The Klemme and Kanawha bands furnished the music. The Britt and Garner bands were supposed to have been there also but were very conspicuous by their absence.

20 YEARS AGO—

Saturday night there were five cars of hogs shipped out of the Klemme yards. Considering the time of year and the hot weather this was a good shipment. C. A. Larsen shipped three cars and Joe E. Johnson two car loads.

Milo Patet and Franklin Kluckhohn were home Sunday visiting relatives. The boys are getting along fine in the beet field they are taking care of and are busy blocking the field.

Mrs. R. W. Elder accompanied Mrs. Edwin Bock and daughter of Garner, who drove to Kellerton, Iowa, Thursday to visit her parents. Mrs. Elder visited with Clarence and wife at Osceola. They expect to return to Klemme and Garner on Tuesday.

Tueday some of our Klemme young ladies decided that it would be very nice to spend a few days at Koerner's cottage at Clear Lake. Those who went were: Valeria and Nova Koerner, Novella Bredbenner, Virginia Irving and Gladys Bridges. They expect to come home Friday.

10 YEARS AGO—

Mrs. J. C. Thomas and Miss Irene Harms went to Alden last Tuesday for a visit with relatives. Miss Harms stayed for a couple of weeks visit with her grandfather, while Mrs. Thomas returned home Wednesday.

The Klemme Legion Auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening, July 6th with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schulz and Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lewis in charge of refreshments. The meeting will be held at the Community Hall.

First Lt. Fred Beier who is stationed at Norfolk, Virginia, left Sunday evening after a fifteen day leave which he spent visiting the Elmer Beier and Wilbur Haefner homes in Liberty township. He also visited with relatives at Beltrami and Minneapolis, Minnesota, before coming here.

Coach Family on Safety Precautions—

Your Power Lawnmower

Here's one more Iowa family with a new power lawnmower. It will be a wonderful work- and time-saver, but is can be a hazard if run carelessly or improperly. Small children, like the fellow pictured, shouldn't be allowed to run it. Even his older brothers will need supervision until they're 14 or 15, accustomed to its operation and with a healthy respect for its whirling rotary blade.

Lucky is the family with a power lawnmower to help with the endless job of keeping the yard trim and attractive. This popular time and labor-saver is cropping more and more Iowa lawns on farms and in town as the summer wears on. But, like the tractor and other power equipment, it needs to be used with care and is no plaything for youngsters.

ROTARY BLADE

If yours is the gasoline- or the electric-powered model with the rotary blade that whips around horizontally, you will need to be especially careful. Most of these do have a guard that comes down below the blade in front, says Iowa State College safety specialist Norval Wardle. Some people take this guard off because they claim the mower does a smoother clipping job without it, but this is a dangerous practice for both youngsters and grown-ups.

GOOD PRECAUTIONS

Make sure everyone who runs the lawnmower has had a thorough coaching and a briefing from the instruction booklet that comes with the machine.

Never leave it running when you are not there, even for a minute. Small children in the neighborhood could get into serious trouble mighty quick.

Wear sturdy shoes—no bare feet or skimpy sandals allowed.

If your power lawnmower is electric, have your outdoor socket checked to be sure it's completely weatherproof.

Don't let youngsters under 10 or 11 run it. Small children are very observant and could learn how to start the mower just from watching some one else. So when you put it away, it's a wise precaution to put the starting rope out of reach or otherwise fix the machine so a child couldn't start it up.

Supervise youngsters that are old enough to run the lawnmower. Start them out on open, level stretches of lawn and tackle the more difficult areas yourself. Most 14 and 15-year-olds are responsible enough to handle the mower if they get good instruction. They'll recognize the dangers of that rotary blade. When they're first learning how to run it, start the motor for them or be on hand to make sure they don't have it in gear.

Keep the cutting blade sharp, If it's dull or not set properly, it will resist and catch and clog easily.

If anything goes wrong or something clogs the blade, turn the motor off before trying to fix it.

SAFETY FUEL CAN

Keep fuel in a red gasoline can. You can buy one at most hardware stores, It won't leak or explode, explains Wardle. If gasoline fumes do catch on fire, the flame won't travel back into the can.

Always refuel your power mower outdoors where there's plenty of moving air to diffuse the fumes.

And do remember—these safety rules aren't just for children. It's as easy for an adult to get hurt if he's careless.

LeMars residents learned following the recent flood there that it costs about $200, on an average, to have a "drowned" car restored to working condition. Washing the mud out took about five hours per car.

the Highway Story

HOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

"I personally assume that every driver is trying to kill me."

That is one highway patrolman's answer to the question: How are you going to protect yourself in Fourth of July traffic? The patrolman went on to explain that his answer came out of a philosophy of "defensive driving."

"I watch the cars ahead of me, the cars behind me and the cars coming in on the right and left. I think about the cars I can't see just over the hill or around the next curve." he said.

"I always assume there's a car coming over every hill, that a train is coming at every crossing, that the car coming onto the highway just ahead won't stop for the stop sign, that the car I'm following will make a sudden left turn at the next intersection".

The patrolman said he felt the most common mistake drivers would make during Fourth of July weekend would be too much speed. "That's the basic mistake and when a driver adds a little carelessness or inattention to it, he wakes up to find someone like me holding up his head in a ditch."

The patrolman passed on what he feels is an important safety habit he has developed in his own driving. "It sounds likes a small thing," he said, "but I keep both hands on the wheel all the time.

"That gives you greater control of your car, and it also gives you a sense of really doing something important. When you use both hands to drive, you just naturally feel that what you are doing deserves all your attention.'

Traffic this Fourth of July weekend may be the heaviest in the history of the state. Perhaps, like the patrolman, we'd better assume when we drive, that every other driver is trying to kill us.

New Accident Form to Be More Convenient

A new traffic accident form soon will be available in highway patrol offices, sheriffs offices and police departments and must be used on July 4th and thereafter by all drivers involved in accidents totaling $50 or more damage.

Milo Chalfant, director of the state safety department's safety responsibility division, said the new report is more convenient and will give drivers more protection from the possibility of delay or error in processing.

The new accident report provides a section for the driver to give information concerning his liability insurance coverage, if any.

If the driver lists insurance in force at the time of the accident, the department will accept that information as proof that requirements of the safety responsibility law have been met.

The insurance information will then be sent on to the driver's company which must inform the department within 15 days if the coverage listed is incorrect.

Under the old procedure, the driver is dependent upon his company sending a separate notification of coverage to the department.

The notice from the insurance company then must be matched with the correct accident report from among hundreds received daily "The new system will save the state the expense of this this matching process," Chalfant said.

He pointed out that drivers no longer will be in danger of license suspension because of the failure of the department to receive notification of coverage promptly.

County Assessor and Cook Appraise Schools

The Hancock County Assessor and representatives from the various consolidated and independent school districts in Hancock county are presently making an appraisal of all school buildings in Hancock county in districts accepting tuiton students. The law requires that the County assessor a member appointed by the County Board of Education and a member appointed by each local school board serve as a board of appraisers to place value on the various properties. The valuation will be used in setting up a depreciation schedule to determine depreciation which may be charged by a district to be added to the cost of operation of the school which may be reflected in the tuition rate V. A. Cook, a member of the county board of education has been named by the County board to serve on this board.

State Fair to Feature Huge Science Exhibit

A huge exhibit of the "wonders" of modern science will be brought to the Iowa State Fair here August 29 - September 7 as a new exposition feature, Secretary L. B. Cunningham announced today.

Cunningham said arrangements have been completed to bring to the fair the famous "House of Magic", assembled by scientists of General Electric, which includes demonstrations of rocket and jet power, stroboscopic light, the production of electricity from the sun, and scores of other "believe it or not" features.

Iowa science fans will have a chance to see an amazing mechanical hand used to handle radioactive material in atomic research, a plastic foam that grows to a two-foot column from a few ounces of chemicals in two seconds, and the optical illusion of a man shaking hands with his own shadow.

"The show consists of scientific demonstrations which have been stripped of their mystery to give the layman a simple explanation of the scientific principles shown," Cunningham said. "This program is educational as well as entertaining. Admission will be free to all fair goers.

Iowa Among Top For Auto Drivers

According to a U. S. department of commerce survey recently released, Iowa ranks ninth in the nation for licensed automobile operators.

Iowa has 1.31 persons licensed per registered motor vehicle. Total number drivers in Iowa according to the department's 1951 survey is 1,421,409. Registered motor vehicles, private and commerial, total 1,087,879.

BURNED

Ronald Carmichael of Dunlap suffered bad burns recently when some gasoline spilled on a hot tractor as he was filling the tank. As he jumped back, flaming gasoline was spilled inside the bib of his overalls.

Greetings were received from Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Hueneman, Fall River, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Edd Zimmerman, Beaver Dam, Wisconsin; and Elsie Robert, Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

Five members are serving in the armed forces. They are:

William Millard, in Germany; Robert Blumer, in Germany; Gordon Suckow, Alemeda, Calif.; Duane Bredlow, Oceanside, California; and Calvin Bredlow, in Korea.

The next reunion will be held the last Sunday in June, 1954, at the State Park at Clear Lake. The Reimer families will have charge of arrangements.

Those present at this year's reunion were as follows:

Mrs. Mary Nuehring and Arno, Mrs. Sam Hammon, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Blakewell, Marcella, Milo, Mary and Marlin of Clear Lake, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bredlow, Lorain and Sheryl, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bredlow, Diane, Alan and Audre of Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bredlow and Denis Leroy, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bredlow, Janie and Gerry Eugene, Mrs. Hazel Bredlow and Glenda, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Borchers, Mrs. Rosa Kropp, Orville and Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kropp, Janet, Jerry and Rex, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hartzell and Ricky Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gast, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gast, Roger and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zwald, Winola and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gibbs, Ronna and Lora, Mr. and Mrs. William Reimer, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Blumer, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reimer, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bredow, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bredlow and Celia, Edna and Lester Bredlow of Swaledale, Clarence Bredlow, Nola, Delmar, Letha, Myra and Velma of Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Suckow and Joyce of Independence, Iowa, and visitors were Rev. and Mrs. E. Morris Egeland, and Robert Johnson of Rockwell.

Mrs. Mary Nuehring is the only surviving child of the late Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bredlow.

The offices in the Hancock County courthouse will be closed all day Saturday in the annual observance of Independence Day, according to a report from the office of Auditor Maynard Schoneman.

Petition Filed

A group of taxpayers in the watershed of Hancock County drainage district No. 71 filed a petition with the board of supervisors on Monday, requesting the board to restrain owners of real estate outside of boundaries of the established district, from draining their lands into the tile lines and ditches of the district. The petition was signed by Edd Schoenwetter, et al.

The spread between the price of current receipt and graded eggs has been small this spring. That's because production is down, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Obituary of Father of Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

The Rev. Mr. Elmer Charles Jaberg, who death is mourned by his loved one, relatives, congregation and friends was born on November 8, 1893, the son of Mr. Samuel Jaberg and his wife Caroline nee Bloemker.

He was received into the Christian Church through infant baptism at Salem Reformed Church at Magley, Indiana and as a youth of fifteen years he affiliated with the church through the rite of Christian confirmation.

At eighteen years he entered the Academy at Mission House in Plymouth, Wisconsin to begin his preparation for the Christian Ministry. He fulfilled the academic requirements of the Mission House College and Seminary and on June 12, 1921 was ordained into the Christian Ministry.

On November 30, 1921 he married Miss Hilda Stuckman at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Rev. and Mrs. Jaberg served churches as follows: Trinity Church at Indianapolis, Indiana; Saron Church in Linton, Indiana; Ebenezer Church in Sheboygan, Wisconsin; and Zion Church in Talmage, Nebraska. During his ministry, Rev. Mr. Jaberg served his church and community in several capacities. For four years he served as President of the North Wisconsin Synod; he was a member of the Library Board and the Board of Public Education in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. He served his Alma Mater by being a member of the Board of Trustees of Mission House College and Seminary, for a number of years. At the time of his death, he was a member of the committee of National Missions of the Nebraska Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. He attained the age of 59 years, 7 months and 10 days.

Surviving are Mrs. Jaberg; sons, Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg, Klemme, Iowa; Eugene C. Jaberg, Sheboygan, Wisconsin; daughter, Ruth Jaberg, Talmage, Nebraska; also surviving are a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Vernon Jaberg and grandchildren, Mary Lyn and Mark Edward.

Services were held in Talmage, Nebraska on Monday, June 22 at 10:00 A. M. and in Sheboygan, Wisconsin on Wednesday, June 24, at 2:00 P. M. Interment was made at Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, near the Mission House, Plymouth, Wisconsin.

A heart attack was the cause of Rev. Jaberg's death. His son, Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg of Klemme and his family attended the services - both in Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle met at the home of Mrs. George Schoenwetter with Mrs. Otto Pringnitz as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Otto Lemke had charge of devotions.

A playlet, "United Nations" was presented by Mrs. Ralph Elder, Mrs. Otto Lemke, Mrs. Lee Ridder, and Vivian Mace.

Election of officers was held and the following were elected for the coming year:

Mrs. Henry Busse, chairman, and Mrs. Harry Draves, secretary and treasurer.

Fifteen members and two visitors were present.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

To Hold Field Day

The North Iowa Agricultural Experimental Association and the Clarion-Webster Soil Association will hold their field day meeting at the North Iowa Agricultural farm at Kanawha on Wednesday, July 8th, 1953.

There will be a business meeting at 9:30 in the morning and then there will be speeches on pertinent topics by several Iowa State College men. After lunch at noon the rest of the day will be spent in looking over the various experimental plots.

Renovate Strawberries Every Two Years

Best time to renovate the strawberry patch is immediately after the harvest says A. E. Cott, Iowa State College extension horticulturist, and the work will pay off in the next crop.

If your strawberry patch turned out its second crop this year, and if you put out a new planting this spring—Cott recommends tearing out the old patch completely. You get the best results over the years, he says, by keeping a patch in production only 2 years and starting a new patch every other year.

Renovating is a ruthless job, Cott says. Go through with a cultivator to tear out some plants or hoe to thin the stands. Fertilize the ground with a complete fertilizer—such as 10-20-10, 12-12-12, 8-8-8 is similar analysis—at a rate of 2 pounds per 100 feet of row—then re-set and replace with younger plants. Cott says you can tell the younger plants by their single crowns and one rosette of leaves. He recommends keeping only the best of those plants and resetting them 8 to 10 inches apart in the row. As for the old plants and others not reset, Cott advises cutting them off below the ground. Otherwise they will re-establish themselves.

If you prefer a solid patch to a row patch, Cott suggests opening it up with paths 2 feet wide between solid plantings 2 feet feet wide. In resetting this type of patch, allow 8 to 10 inches of space between plants, staggering them in the 2-feet width.

Where the gardener plans to use Crag Herbicide No. 1 as part of the weed control program, Cott says to apply it after cultivating, fertilizing and re-setting. The herbicide is available as a wettable powder and is mixed with water and sprayed on.

This herbicide, Cott emphasizes, is not a contact weed killer. It will not kill established weeds. It kills only germinating seeds. Thus it will be effective in controlling weeds only if the patch is free of weeds at the time of application. And then, he adds, it won't control perennial weeds or grasses which grow from the same roots year after year.

The next step Cott advises is mulching. A mulch between the rows does a good job of controlling weeds, conserves moisture through the summer and discourages runners establishing there. The material you use to mulch is important in figuring depth of materal. Spread sawdust 2 to 3 inches deep, crushed corncobs, 3 to 4 inches deep and loose material like straw, 6 to 7 inches deep.

If you mulch plants in the row, apply a thinner layer to allow runners to root through the mulch, to establish themselves. Cott prefers sawdust or crushed corncobs for the in-the-row mulch.

Iowa's Worst July 4th Traffic Coming

The worst Fourth of July week end in the traffic history of the state is in the imediate background of the approaching holiday, the state safety department warned drivers Thursday.

Pearl W. McMurry, state safety commissioner, said the seven killed and 215 injured in 457 traffic accidents during the Fourth of July weekend last year was the state's worst July Fourth record.

"That tragic toll occurred during one of our safest years. It should serve as a warning to all our drivers that this holiday weekend can be as bad or worse, depending upon what each motorist determines to do about it," McMurray said.

Based on the current accident and injury rate which is lower than last year's, the department however, made a tentative prediction of five traffic deaths this weekend.

Highway Patrol Chief David Herrick advised drivers to:

1. Have their cars checked for mechanical safety and start trips early enough to allow plenty of travel time without undue speed.

2. Drive with patience and never faster than the movement of traffic or road conditions will safely allow.

3. Obey all traffic laws and regulations and practice courtesy at all times.

4. Drive no faster than 55 miles per hour at night, and never drive after drinking.

SLAVES

A community-wide slave auction raised $802.62 at New Sharon recently. The proceeds will be used for the Rose Festival there in July.

Proper management will eliminate the danger of prussic acid poisoning to livestock, says Ralph Krenzin, Iowa State College extension agronomist.

Knee High by Fourth? Could Be!

Monday, we drove out to see if we could get a couple of pictures that would show better than words can tell, how crops are coming.

This picture taken just west of town, shows Carold Larson and his neighbor, Dean Rasmus, in Larson's corn field. If this corn is to be knee high by the Fourth, it is going to have to shrink considerably, for it is getting well on toward waist high now.

Corn looks exceptionally well all over this section of the country. We don't recall ever having seen the crop so clean and so far along at this time of the year. We have been fortunate so far in that none of the many storms have hit just right to do serious damage to the crops in the nearby territory . . . and we hope that none do. Given enough moisture and continued warm weather, this year's corn crop should be a bumper one.

Soy beans are looking good and are growing nicely, and there are some good looking fields of oats. The general run of oats fields, though, are spotty and uneven, and it looks as though the crop might not be too heavy. Those fields that do look good, we find have had generous applications of commercial fertilizer.

The past couple of weeks have seen a lot of the first cutting hay put in. Some of it has gone into silos in the form of grass silage, but most of it has gone in as dry hay. The farmers who put this first cutting in as silage have the edge on the ones who put it up as cured hay. They don't have to worry about rain spoiling the crop for them.

This picture was taken Monday afternoon on the Emil Lau farm south of Klemme and shows Emil on the tractor and Glenn Wille on the flat rack, loading bales. Things didn't go too well with this hay, although it was in pretty fair shape considering the fact that it had been cut for over a week and had been rained on twice.

Most of the first cutting hay had a fine growth this spring, and judging from what we have seen while driving around the country, we would say that a lot of feed has been put in.

All in all, the crop picture around Klemme looks mighty promising. We hope that nothing happens to spoil the picture.

Women Return From Summer Conference

Mrs. Aaron Stromer, Hancock County Farm Bureau Women's Chairman and voting delegate, along with Mrs. John Eenhuis, Township Chairman; Rachel Peterson, Assistant Home Economist, have returned home from the annual Farm Bureau Women's Summer Conference held in Des Moines.

The conference was in session from Sunday until Tuesday, June 28 to 30. It got under way with its annual vesper service Sunday evening with Co. Allen E. Towne, district sales manager for United Airlines, as guest speaker.

Reports on the reading, health, music, international relations, and school programs were given by the district members of the state women's committee. Goals for this program and policies for the Farm Bureau Women's program were discussed and formulated.

Special guest speakers that were interesting to the group were Lady Coomaraswamy of Celon, India; Mervauw Bakker of the Netherlands, vice president of the Associated Country Women of the World, and Mrs. Marie Daugherty, director of Women's activities for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Antibiotics may be used in the near future to control bacterial diseases of plants, says USDA research men.

Lau Family Reunion Held At Northfield, Minnesota

The sixteenth annual Lau reunion was held Sunday, June 28, 1953, at Northfield, Minnesota, with 72 relatives present. A picnic dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour and the afternoon was spent in visiting and renewing acquaintances.

The statistical report for the Lau family this past year shows that there were four marriages, thirteen new babies, and ten boys serving in the Army or Navy. During the afternoon, greeting cards for those in the Armed Services and for relatives who are ill, were signed by all the folks at the reunion.

Those who attended the reunion from Klemme were: Mrs. Lillie Koerner, Kermit Koerner, Dolores Ridder, George and Leona Lau, Mrs. Nellie Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt, Luther Schmidt and Roger.

Others from Iowa attending the reunion were Mrs. William F. Lau of Garner, and Mr. and Mrs. William Schubert of Mason City. Those from Minnesota were: Mrs. Martin Lau, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Milford Canedy and family of Northfield, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Swendenbarg and family of Minneapolis, Mrs. Amanda Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Terry and family, and Mrs. Marianna Fry and daughter, all of Red Wing, Hugh Lau of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lau and family of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lau and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lau and family, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lau and family, and Woodrow Lau and son, all of Farmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lau and family of Tracy.

Mrs. Nellie Arnold, Mrs. Lillie Koerner, and Mrs. Albert Schmidt are the only Lau relatives who have attended each of the sixteen reunions held thus far. The 1954 Lau reunion will be held June 27 at a place to be chosen by the Lau relatives from eastern Iowa.

The same officers will serve again next year: August Lau, chairman, Ben Greiman, assistant chairman, and Martha Bredbenner, secretary and treasurer.

Statutory Deferment for Certain College Students

(This is the twelfth in a series of short articles designed to better acquaint the registrant and the general public with the operation of Selective Service.)

Registrants who are attending college may be considered for student classification in Class I-D (if in the ROTC program) or in Class I-S(C) (statutory deferment) or in Class II-S (based upon scholastic standards and within the discretion of the Local Board). This article will deal only with the statutory deferment in Class I-S(C).

The Universal Military Training and Service Act provides that if a registrant is ordered to report for induction while pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college or university he shall, upon the facts being presented to the Local Board, be deferred until the end of his academic year or until he ceases satisfactorily to pursue his course of instruction.

It is important that the registrant realize hat it is his responsibility to request this deferment in writing to his local board. His request must be accompanied by a certificate from his educational institution containing the following information: (a) name of the registrant; (b) name of the institution; (c) statement that the institution is a college, university, or similar institution of learning; (d) statement that the registrant is pursuing a full-time course of instruction in a satisfactory manner; and (e) date of termination of registrant's current academic year.

The registrant is entitled to one I-S(C) classification as a matter of legal right. To qualify for this classification he need not necessarily be in the upper scholastic brackets of his class but he must carry his college work satisfactorily. A student may qualify for a I-S(C) classification even though he had previously been classified in I-S(H) as a high school student or had been given an educational deferment in Class II-S. A registrant is not, however, entitled to a I-S(C) classification if prior to June 19, 1951, he had his induction as a student postponed or was deferred as a student prior to such date.

The language of the law provides for a legal deferment where the registrant "is ordered to report for induction". Several preliminary steps are prerequisites to an order to report for induction, such as: classification in Class I-A; order for physical examination and a finding of acceptability for military service; finally the order for induction. College students should realize that these steps are necessary by law to a reclassification in Class I-S(C) and that following the steps does not necessarily mean that the student is being prepared for immediate induction into the Armed Forces.

After the student has had his one I-S(C) classification, with a definite termination date, it is within the discretion of the Local Board whether a further deferment in Class II-S shall be given.

Two essentials for an effective waterway are: (1) a dense sod that will slow the rate of water runoff; (2) a waterway broad enough to spread the water out, reducing its speed and cutting action.

A single rat may eat or spoil as much as 150 pounds of feed in a year, Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College, estimates.

Thomas Jefferson Helps Iowa Farmers

Edna, the missus, is quite an admirer of Thomas Jefferson. And, last night at supper, she came up with another interesting fact about that great, early American.

"He did a lot for our pioneer agriculture, industry, and democracy," Edna said. "But I'll bet most folks don't know that he was one of the founders of America's brewing industry, too.

"Yes . . . Jefferson brought experts over here from Bohemia to teach America the art of brewing . . . and advocated beer as the beverage of moderation.

Again, in this, Jefferson made a great contribution to our nation. He helped found an industry that has given jobs to millions of Americans, contributed billions to our tax revenues . . . and furnished a vast market for much of the grain we produce right here in Iowa.

I guess you just can't beat the far sightedness and sound thinking of those founders of our country.

Ivan Blumer Writes On Holland Trip

Ivan Blumer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blumer, is in the army in Germany. He recently had a furlough and spent it in Holland, visiting with the family of a pen pal of his sister, Mary Ann (Mrs Luverne Schmidt).

Following is a letter which Ivan wrote home describing his Holland trip:

After getting the approval of my section sergeant, my two section officers, my first sergeant my company commander and a final blessing from the battalion commander through the adjutant's signature on my orders, I left for Holland. It was the night of May 6, 1953 at 11:18 P. M., 42 minutes before my leave started that I boarded a train at the local bahnhof on the first leg of my night journey to Amsterdam, Holland. First stop, was Mannheim, Germany, situated on the Rhine river directly to the east of Kaiserslautern. After a midnight wait there of some one and one half hours, I boarded the International Express which was to take me the rest of my journey. Then the war-made famous names started coming up as we sped through the sleepy German night: Bonn, Koln, Dusseldorf and so on all along the mighty Rhine on its way to the North Sea. The border crossing was made about eight o'clock in the morning at Emmrich. Soldiers experience little difficulty with the customs officials, civilians a bit more. A look at your leave orders and identification card seems to be all it takes. Then come the Dutch towns of Arnhem, well remembered by our soldiers, Utrecht and finally the island main central station of Amsterdam. A very nice trip of some eleven hours. Travel here is quite cheap, the round trip costing around ten or eleven dollars.

Lucky me, a pen pal of Mary Ann's was there to greet me. Then another ten minute train ride to their home in Koogaan de Zaan and I was set for ten days of wonderful hospitality with a typical (I guess you would say) Dutch family. Mother and father Kaayk and their two daughters Hanny, twenty-one and a working girl, and Martini, fourteen and in the second year in high school. All but Mrs. Kaayk could speak English so we got along quite well. Mr. P. Kaayk worked in an exporting firm, Polack & Schwartz, dealing in essence and oils. He had some twenty-seven years longevity with them. Hanny worked as a secretary with a company that dealt in the export of coco. She has the task of writing letters in four languages, English, German, French and Dutch.

From the Kaayk home I made many excursions. One of the first being to Amsterdam for a look at the town of canals and then a ride on them in one of the many glass enclosed canal boats. Many bridges could be seen of course along with old warehouses of both the East and West India Companies, many huge churches, and all the other things in an old town. We also made a swing through the harbor where the large boats from all over the world were loading their cargo for the trip down the Noordsea Canal which cuts across Holland's northern Provence, through the North Sea and on to ports of all nations.

The second "tour" was made to Broek in Waterland where we saw a typical Dutch farm home where the famous Edam cheese (mmm-good!) was made. Then on through Monnickendam to Volendam on the shore of Ijsselmeer (Zuider Zee). This is a typical Dutch fishing village, the people living in one room houses. In this room they live, eat and sleep. The bed is shelves in the wall, baby on top, next father and mother and under them the larger children. Should the family be large some of the children sleep upstairs in an unheated loft. Then on to the island of Marken by boat where the people still wear the colorful Dutch costume which you all remember seeing in your geography books, wooden shoes and all. In fact, wooden shoes are common all over Holland even in this modern day and age. We went back to Amsterdam through the locks that keep the town from being flooded.

The next tour was to Haarlem and "Flora of 1953", the big flower exposition. So many, many pretty flowers, tulips heading the hit parade. Several acres had been planted to flowers in a very pretty setting of a brook, its bridges, rising hills covered with trees, model houses and a large exposition hall full of growing and cutflowers. Even a model flower sale was run to show the tourist "how it is done". This of course was the highlight of my trip.

One very interesting day was spent on an automobile tour around the northern Provence of this vacation land. A brother of Mr. Kaayk's is a saleman of hardwood so we went along with him on his rounds. Of course

Proposed Budget for 1954 Shows Increase

Road Maintenance to Get Big Share of $88,300 Increase

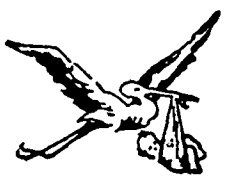
Hancock County supervisors have filed a tentative budget for 1954 and will hold a hearing on the proposed budget at the courthouse on Monday, July 20 at 10 o'clock A. M.

The 1954 budget as proposed calls for funds to be raised by a tax levy in the sum of $460,300 or an increase over the 1953 budget of $88,300. The increase is the result of drastic increases in the Road maintenance fund and poor fund, the addition of a Fair ground fund and an increase in the T. B. Eradication and Bang's disease fund.

The Road Maintenance fund will require $228,000 next year according to the proposed budget as compared with $171,000 last year, an increase of $57,000, the Poor fund will be increased $15,000 to a total of $50,000 as compared with $35,000 last year. The fairground fund is a new levy not carried in previous years and counts for $9,300 of the increase and the State of Iowa requests the board to levy $5,000 in Bovine Tuberculosis fund and $2,000 in the Bang's Eradication fund which were not levied last year.

The general fund, court expense, state institution, county school, soldier's relief and other road funds will remain the same as last year as will the County assessor's budget on which a hearing will be held at the same time as on the county budget. Proposed expenditures in the general administrative funds mentioned in the last paragraph will remain the same in 1954 as they were in 1953.

Stork Club



Mr. and Mrs. Elridge Alden are the parents of a boy born on July 3rd at Park Hospital in Mason City. He weighed eight pounds, fourteen and a half ounces and he has been named Rex Edward. His grandmother, Mrs. Chris Thomsen of Waterloo is staying with his brother and two sisters.

Mr. and Mr. Robert Juhl are the parents of a baby girl born at one minute after midnight on July 6th at Mercy Hospital in Mason City. The little lady has been named Laura Jean and weighed seven pounds and nine ounces. She has one brother, John. Mr. Juhl taught in the Klemme School for the past several years, but next year will teach in Hanlontown.

Ball Game Sunday; Team to Join League

The local softball team will tangle with the Stilson nine on the Klemme diamond, Sunday evening at eight-thirty o'clock.

Turnouts for ball games have been disappointing so far this year, but the team is going to enter a league, and they hope that will create more interest in their games.

Joint Meeting of Stars And Rainbow Girls

On Wednesday evening, June 23 the Stars and Rainbow Girls held a joint meeting.

The evening was opened with accordion selections by Ernest Gerardi. The Rainbow Girls then took over the rest of the program. After they took their places in the hall, Mrs Blank of of Garner, surprised them all by tying a corsage of garden flowers on each girl's wrist. The girls then put on a lovely initation, in spite the hot weather.

Everyone was treated to lunch served by the Stars. They passed around a punch bowl which looked as if it had been lowered into a huge bouquet of flowers. Floating in the punch were big red strawberries. There were many little colorful cakes on the table. The evening was enjoyed by all present.

Hit By Branch Gets Fractured Skull

Harley Nuehring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nuehring, was the victim of a serious accident Monday. His father was cleaning up branches and trees that were felled by Sunday's storm, and Harley was watching him. One branch was blown down but still attached the main trunk. Earl hooked onto it with the tractor, to pull it the rest of the way down. He thought that Harley was standing in a safe place, but the branch twisted as it pulled loose, swung around and hit him in the back of the head. He received a fractured skull and was taken to the Belmond Hospital where he was under treatment and observation for 24 hours. He is back home now, and getting along fine.

Supervisors Grant Permits And Approve Reports

Hancock County supervisors recently granted cigarette permits to the Hunsley Service Station at Britt; the Fox Service Station at Forest City and Don's D-X at Klemme.

The board also approved the quarterly reports of Edith Sonquist, county recorder; Doris Young, county clerk and Maynard Schoneman, county auditor.

The recorder's report listed fees totaling $1213.75; the auditor's report listed fees totaling $468.25 and the Clerk's report listed fees totaling $8916.83 of which sum $1900 was fines paid during the quarter.

Brear Named Trustee Of County Hospital

N. E. Brear, Garner businessman, was appointed as a member of the board of trustees of the Hancock County Memorial hospital by the Hancock county supervisors at a meeting of the board held at the courthouse Monday.

Brear succeeds Charles F. Merten of Garner, who resigned recently.

The board also named the First State Bank of Britt as depository for funds of the Hancock County Memorial Hospital in sums not to exceed $25,000.

To Be Inducted

The following registrants of Hancock County will be delivered for induction into the armed forces on July 14, 1953:

Gerrit DeWaard, Kanawha; Bobbie Kramer, Clear Lake; Donald Blumer, Garner; Lee Swanson, Forest City.

Considerable Damage; High Wind Hit Klemme

Buildings Damaged and Limbs Down; No Hail

People in this vicinity were holding their breaths Sunday afternoon as they watched a partilarly nasty looking cloud come up from the northwest. It had all the appearances of a good hail storm in the making, but it failed to materialize along those lines . . . thank goodness: It did hail in other parts of the state, causing damage to crops in the neighborhood of $2 million but we were fortunate.

Even though there was no hail damage in this section, still the wind caused considerable damage to buildings, trees and crops. Most of the corn will straighten up again, but some was broken off, and is lost. It is doubtful whether or not oats will straighten up but since they were not completely flattened, it is hoped that they suffered but little damage.

Many small buildings in this vicinity were damaged or destroyed, and wires were torn down and broken in every direction.

South and west of Klemme seemed to be the hardest hit, but there was plenty of wind anywhere around here to satisfy most anyone.

We were like a lot of other people. We got caught on the road and had to wait it out. We didn't know whether our jalopy was going to stay upright or not, but it did.

About as hard a windstorm as we have ever seen and as far as we can tell the only good that came aut of it was the rain that accompanied it.

This is the way the machine shed on the Elmer Beier farm west of Klemme looked after the big wind. Some machinery was slightly damaged as well as a 1938 Ford which was in the shed. Neighbors were on hand bright and early Monday morning to help in cleaning up. We got there in time to have unearned coffee with those who were working.

Sunday's big wind didn't confine it's activities to doing damage in the country. This big limb blew off a tree at the Dwight Hummel home, narrowly missing the house. Another large limb completely blocked the street that runs along the east side of the Hummel property.

ISC Gives Tips on Care Of Rayon Clothing

New wrinkle-resistant and controlled shrinkage finishes for rayons make them easier to care for than ever before, says Iowa State College clothing specialists. Well-constructed, firmly woven rayons tagged "washable" can usualy be tossed in your washer without qualms. Sheer, dainty washable rayons should be washed by hand in warm water and mild soap flakes. White rayons stay white with reasonable care and won't need bleaching or bluing.

Vat-dying insures complete color fastness in rayon fashions. So if the garment is labeled "machine washable", colors will be bright and pretty as new, washing after washing. Use your regular soap or detergent and the same water temperature you generally prefer for similar garments in other fabrics, specialists advise.

To dry summer rayons, hang dresses or blouses on a rust-proof hanger to drip dry to avoid excess wrinkling. In other words, don't squeeze water out of them or wring them—hang them up dripping wet to dry.

REVOLVING SPOOL PINS

When you buy, check to see if trim is washable, for a single button or belt that bleeds could ruin an otherwise washable garment.

Choose your rayons with an eye to easy care as well as comfort, the specialists suggest. Simple dressmaker or shirtwaist styles are the easiest to wash, as well as the coolest to wear. Separates not only stretch your summer wardrobe, but are less bulky to launder. Straight or slightly flared skirts, simple sleeveless blouses and dresses without intricate detailing will often need just a touch-up pressing when they're drip dried.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

If corn Belt farmers follow out their June 1 intentions, they'll raise as many summer and fall pigs as a year ago, according to the USDA Pig Survey. But farmers outside the Corn Belt are planning sharp cuts. The resuts Prospects for a fall pig crop down 5 percent from a year ago.

If farmers actually go through with these plans, we can look for hog prices as high next winter as this year—even allowing for some drop in business, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist believes. Hog raising should be a profitable venture for Hancock County farmers during the coming year.

The June USDA pig survey also revealed that the sharpest cut in 1953 spring farrowings came in the later-farrowed pigs—in April and May. But farrowings were down every month.

Again, it is significant that that farmers in the main hog-raising states—Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Missouri—cut back spring farrowings only slightly. But big cuts were made in the areas outside the main Corn Belt, Kutish reports.

Kentucky farmers cut back a fourth; Mississippi, over a third, and Oklahoma nearly a half, for example. Dry weather last year shrank the feed supply in the South. So farmers there reduced their spring farrowings sharply.

It was the reduction in these and similar areas outside the regular Corn Belt that resulted in the 10 percent drop in the total United States 1953 spring pig crop, Kutish stresses.

Many of these farmers in the marginal hog-raising areas are not as good hogmen as the hog raisers in the main hog-growing states. It takes them longer to get hogs to market. This also should help reduce the marketings in the later fall months.

Put it all together, and Kutish concludes that it adds up to a better December hog market in prospect for this year than a year ago.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Council took up and considered the matter of the proposed resolution of necessity of constructing storm sewers in the Town of Klemme, Iowa. Councilmen Buseman introduced and read the following resolution, it was seconded by Councilman Arnold. After due consideration thereof by the Council, the Mayor put the question upon the motion and the roll being called the following named Councilmen voted:

Ayes: Arnold, Barz, Buseman, Schaefer and Schulz

Nayes: None

Whereupon the Mayor declared said motion duly carried and said resolution adopted as follows:

RESOLUTION

Whereas, the Town Council of the Town of Klemme, Iowa, proposed a resolution, and action thereon with regard to the advisability and necessity to construct certain storm sewers in the Town of Klemme, along parts of streets and from and to points in said Town of Klemme, Iowa, as more particularly described in the proposed resolution of necessity provisionally adopted and proposed subject to further consideration on August 11, 1952; and

Whereas, after notice and hearing thereon a great majority of the affected property owners in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, filed objections to said resolution of necessity; and

Whereas, ample time has been given to all of said objectors to reconsider their action in filing objections and to withdraw their objections, should they have deemed fit to do so; and

Whereas, it appears that no objections have been withdrawn and the record shows that the greater majority of the affected property owners do not desire that such storm sewers be constructed.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the proposed resolution of necessity for storm sewers in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, provisionally adopted by this Council on August 11, 1952, should be and the same is hereby abandoned, and said proposed resolution of necessity provisionally adopted is hereby withdrawn.

2ND ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa
June 22, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clinton D. Daniels, Clarence Bird and S. A. Barber present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the following applications, bonds and permits are hereby approved: Cigarette permits to Logan Food Market, Hayfield; J. T. Formanek Store, Hayfield; Kadera Lunch Room, Hayfield; Frank Liska Service, Duncan and R. W. Rasmuson Service, Garner; Class "C" Beer permit to Bleich General Store, Miller, Iowa.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 131.

This being the 22nd day of June, 1953, a date heretofore set for an adjournment hearing on the proposed construction of D. D. No. 159, petitioned for by Florence Eenhuis, et al, the hour for said hearing having arrived and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. The Engineer's amended report, the damage commissioner's report, and objection to acreage by Adrian DeWaard were read by the County Auditor. After discussion of amounts awarded by the damage commission, the representatives of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway company requested their amount of objections be reduced from $5000.00 to $2355.00. Objectors and proponents were given an opportunity to discuss the necessity and feasibility of the construction of the districts and objectors thereto. After thorough discussion of claims for damages as awarded by the damage commission and numerous questions as to method of construction of the district, said hearing is hereby continued and adjourned to July 13, 1953 at 1:30 p.m. at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, to enable the Engineer, Ralph H. Wallace, to make further amendments and clarifications to his original report.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clinton D. Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clinton D. Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to June 29, 1953 at 9 o'clock a.m.

PMA Elections to Be Held This Month

The annual PMA township elections will be held in July and those named to the county and community committees will begin serving their one-year terms on August 3, it has been announced by the Hancock county PMA committee. Similar elec- will be held in every county of the state at the same time.

All voting in the townships will be done by mail this year, the same as in the past two years. However, every possible effort will be made to at least double the number of land owners and operators who mark secret ballots which will be sent them by the county PMA office.

Ballots for the annual township elections of the Production and Marketing Administration will be mailed to farm owners next Tuesday, July 14, it has been reported by the Hancock county PMA committee.

Names printed on the ballots for each township are those selected by nominating committees but voters may write in the names of others for whom they may wish to vote.

The period from July 16 to July 24 has been fixed as the time for casting ballots in each township for election of three community committeemen, two alternate committeemen, and a delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention to be held in Garner on Saturday, August 1. A county committee consisting of a chairman, vise-chairman, regular member and two alternates will be named at the county convention.

Any farm owner, operator or tenant is eligible to vote in the PMA elections if now participating in any of the PMA programs or if qualified to participate in the price support programs. Anyone who believes he is eligible to vote and fails to receive a ballot in the mail should notify the county PMA office at once.

Besides a ballot, each voter will receive an envelope to use in returning his ballot by mail. However, the ballot may be returned personally to the PMA office. Election procedure has been so devised that the individual voter's selections are secret.

Until last year, the county and township committees were named in Iowa in December but the 1952 elections were held in midsummer due to changes in procedure which greatly advanced dated of rush periods in PMA activities. The County Committee said it was especially important that the precedent be followed this year because it will permit the newly elected men to take office at the very start of the tremendous task of handling delivery or resealing of the near-record amount of 1952 corn placed under price support.

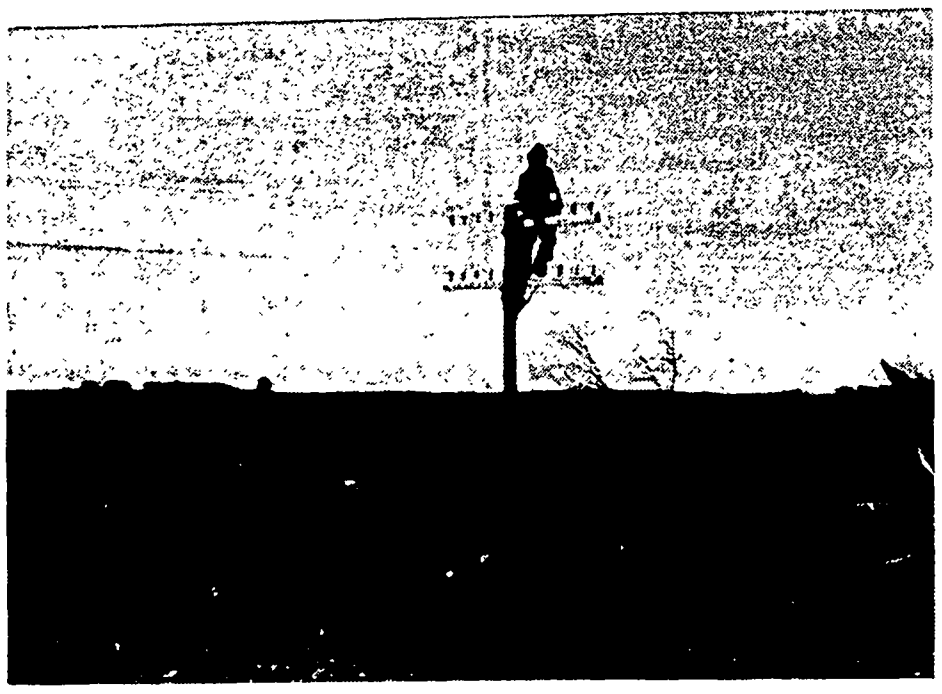
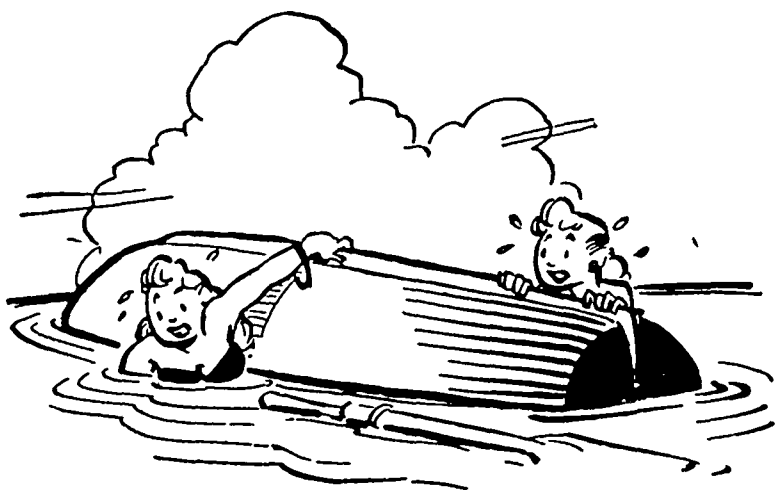
At the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kaduce, just south of Klemme, the garage was blown down, and other small buildings were damaged, as well as many limbs being down. In the above picture, Terry Kaduce holds onto his dog, "Chippy", and looks at his swing which was badly bent when part of the garage fell on it.



Both the Central Iowa Telephone Company and the REA had lots of wire repairing to see to Monday after the big wind. Gilbert Jones, manager of the local exchange of the telephone company, spent most of Monday as he is shown above; perched on a pole, repairing broken and down wires.

This tree torn out by the roots at the Elmer Beier farm, gives a fair idea of how hard the wind blew. Elmer said he had been meaning to take the tree down, but not in quite the way in which the storm handled the job.



IF IN TROUBLE STAY WITH THE BOAT!

Even if your boat capsizes or fills with water, don't leave it. It's still your only link to land and safety.

An overturned boat will float and support many persons clinging to its sides. If it is a small boat, grasp the wrists of your companion across the bottom of the boat, letting him do the same when your hands tire. You may also cling to the sides of the boat, these two methods will support as many persons as there is room for around the capsized boat.

If the boat has filled with water, remain seated in it; a wooden boat, canoe, or metal boat with air chambers will not sink.

Stay with the boat until help comes. Do not try to swim to shore; it's farther than it looks. Remember that boats almost never sink . . . swimmers often do. ? ? ?

County to Hold Letting

Hancock County supervisors will hold a public letting on the letting on the purchase of 100 tons of oil treated stoker coal for the Hancock County home. The letting will be held at the courthouse at 1:30 P. M. on Monday, July 20. A part of the contract is to be delivered immediately and the rest in the late fall. The coal is to be delivered on track at Duncan.

Farmers to Be Questioned As to Disposition of Grain

Hancock county farmers having 1952 corn under government price support protection will receive an inquiry regarding disposition of their grain, it was reported this week by A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the county PMA committee.

Those having loans on corn stored on their farms or in elevators will be requested to advise the county office within 10 days as to their choice of the three options offered by Commodity Credit Corporation: (1) Reseal the corn by extending the note for one more year or until July 31, 1954, (2) deliver the grain to the government in settlement of the loan, or (3) redeem the grain by paying off the note.

Holders of purchase agreements should notify their county PMA office as to whether they plan to deliver grain to the government at the price support rate. After July 31 holders of purchase agreements may convert them into loans running for one year from that date. Purchase agreements are originally made by producers who do not desire or need loans but who wish to qualify for price support protection by paying an advance fee of one-half cent per bushel for the amount covered.

There are 1380 loans and 368 purchase agreements covering a total of 2,692,894 bushels of 1952 corn in Hancock County. In the state as a whole there are approximately 120,000 loans and purchase agreements on nearly 170 million bushels.

Newspapers, radio stations, farm journals, farm organizations and public leaders have joined PMA in urging heavy resealing of 1952 price supported corn because of the serious shortage of government and commercial storage space. To encourage resealing, the government has agreed to pay a storage fee of 13 cents a bushel to producers who extend their loans for another year and keep the grain under seal on the farms or wherever presently stored.

As part of the resealing campaign, the government is also urging farm owners and operators to construct or purchase needed additional cribs and bins, pointing out that many have lagged behind in this kind of farm improvements.

State Fair to Hold Talent Competition

A statewide $1,000 radio talent hunt to uncover Iowa's top amateur entertainment star of 1953 will be a new feature of the Iowa State Fair this year, officials announced today.

L. B. Cunningham, fair secretary, said the talent hunt will be conducted jointly by the State Fair Board and Iowa Broadcasters Asociation. Radio stations throughout the state will conduct local contests to pick the state fair finalists.

The talent competition at the fair will be held opening day, August 29,, in connection with annual Press and Radio Day, Cunningham said. Preliminary judging of contest winners will be held on the plaza of the fairgrounds, with the finalists appearing before the grandstand audience at the evening musical revue, for selection of the champion.

Talented Iowans more than 12 years old who do not make their living in the entertainment business are eligible to compete in the contest, officials said.

First prize in the contest will be $500. Officials of the Fair Board and the Association said winners who wished to use the prize money for auditions in New York would have the full backing of both organizations in arranging coast-to-coast radio and television auditions for Iowa's amateur talent champion.

● HOLLAND LETTER

many short, non-business runs were made in order that I might see more. First stop was at Hoorn, an old and famous Dutch port which no longer of much importance in that respect, however. We saw an old gate tower built back in 1528, I believe it was, and also other old famous buildings. Holland is well planned and very pretty though it has had many difficulties, largest being the flooding of it by the Germans back during the war. It has made great strides since then, and is now a well producing area. At Denoever we took the highway on the dike about one-third of the way across it's length. This dike is the one separating North Sea and the Ijsselmeer. It seems they no longer consider the Zuider Zee a sea, it is now a big lake. The dike is very large of course, and on its west end is the only fort that didn't surrender its men to the Germans during the war. From the dike we went to Den Helder on the northern tip of the mainland. It is a Dutch naval base and it was here that the Germans built a large wall along the sea and many other fortifications fearing our attack might start here. On down the west coast, then behind the dunes, huge piles of sand thrown up by who knows what some many long years ago. At one of our stops we walked over the dunes down to the water's edge. It was told to us by the people there that as much as 30 meters of the dunes were washed away during the February storms that flooded so much of Southern Holland. Back then for some of the famous Dutch cooking. On another trip to the west coast the next day we visited Ijmuiden, the harbor at the west end of the Noordsea canal. Here the Germans had some of their submarine pens we heard of during the war. What remains now is mostly a pile of rubble although an idea can still be gathered as to the sturdiness of these "pens". Another feature of this day's trip was to have coffee high atop a tower overlooking the North Sea. Some 200 feet tall they said it was. The western coast of Holland is very much used during the summer as a resort spot, very good there for swimming.

I guess that takes care of most of the scenery. What remains is only a brief word about the fine Dutch hospitality. Very friendly people. The food is very good, not as expensive as in the United States. Of course the wages aren't as good there either, about one-half ours as best I could determine. The people are making a good recovery and should be able to manage without the direct aid of the United States. They have many stories about the occupation, people being killed, the lack of wood of fuel and the lack of food. of course. However, where I visited the occupation was not too bad.

Today, Holland is a land of bicycles and now it is getting many American automobiles. It looked much like home in that respect.

Financing is one of the major factors in owning a farm in these times.

Rights of Registrant Granted Under UMT Act

This is the fourteenth and FINAL article in a series designed to better acquaint the registrant and the general public with the operation of Selective Service

The ordinary registrant is surprised to learn that he has so many rights guaranteed to him under the provisions of the Universal Military Taining and Service Act and the related law and regulations.

Here is a list of some of the more common rights secured to the registrant:

1. The right to examine his Selective Service file (Cover Sheet) and to have put into that file any and all information which may affect his classification status.

2. The right of personal appearance before the Local Board in order to explain matters relative to his classification. It should be noted that the regulations provide that in event the registrant desires this personal appearance he must make written request to his local board within 10 days after it has mailed him a Notice of Classification. This right expires at the end of this 10 day period.

3. The right to appeal to the Appeal Board from the classification of the Local Board. This right to appeal from the classification of the Local Board must be exercised within 10 days after the Local Board has mailed the registrant a Notice of Classification. This right expires at the end of the 10 day period. The procedure for taking an appeal was explained in an earlier article. The registrant may also appeal to the President from the classification of the Appeal Board if he was classified in Class I-A, I-A-O, or I-O and there was a dissenting vote by the Appeal Board. An appeal to the President must be exercised within 10 days after the mailing by the Local Board of the Notice of Classification notifying the registrant of the dissenting vote of the Appeal Board.

4. The right to have the confidential nature of his Selective Service file respected.

5. The right to at least 21 days notice between the time of mailing the Notice of Acceptability and the date of induction.

6 .The right to exemption from induction if he is a sole surviving son.

7. The right to know the classification that are given to friends and neighbors by consulting the lists of classification posted in the Local Board office.

8. The right to continue high school until graduation if under 20 years of age and the right to complete his academic year in college if ordered for induction.

9. The right to file application for volutary induction subject to classification by the Local Board in a class which makes one available for service.

10. The right to be given full and adequate military training for a period of at least 4 months before being ordered outside the United States, its territories and possessions.

11. The right to the protection of the provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailor's Civil Relief Act, as amended, and related legislation.

12. The right to reinstatement in his old job upon his separation from the service.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Every courteous act of driving for which you were responsible in 1952 added up to a gleaming plaque in the hands of Governor William Beardsley this week in Des Moines.

The plaque, presented by Ned Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, is the first award for traffic safety in the Midwest in 1952. More than that, it is the evidence that Iowa drivers saved at least 78 lives in this state last year by reducing the traffic fatality rate an unprecedented 13 per cent.

As Governor Beardsley received the award, he commented that h was accepting it in the name of "every Iowa citizen who has sincerely tried to improve our traffic safety record."

All this may sound just a trifle beyond the mark to the man who, in the enormity of present-day traffic, may feel that his individual acts of courtesy and safety mean little in the total outcome.

But that is the very heart of the problem. Just as it is the individual making a mistake who causes the accident, so is it the individual driving correctly who avoids the accident.

Unfortunately, the man who avoids the accident is often unknown and usually unpublicized simply because his name does not appear on the hospital list or police record.

But he is the man who won the award presented this week. He is the man who helped save 78 lives. He is the very man who might be reading this column not believing his contributions was that important. It was. Congratulations!

Hancock County Well Represented at State Girls 4-H Convention

Hancock County was well represented at State Convention. The delegates were: Sharon Sarber, JoAnn Burgess, Mary Gerdes, Margaret Kelch, Darlene Sillman Eleanor Kluver, Doreen Lackore,, Yvonne Olson, Dorothy Faust, Marian Nedved, Patty Legge, Marlene Brown, Jane Tegtmeyer, Faye Janssen, Eunice and Rachel Hueneman. Others attending were: two leaders: Mrs. Elenor Nelson and Mrs. Howard Kester, the home economist trainee, Rachel Peterson: and the home economist, Elsie Mae Van Wert.

You can be proud of the girls from Hancock County. Everyone of them had a special job to do. This is far more than many other counties can account for. Sharon Sarber, JoAnn Burgess, Margaret Kelch. Jane Tegtmeyer. Faye Janssen, Marian Nedved, Darlene Sillman, and Elenor Kluver were in the square dance, "Red River Valley": Evelyn Formanek was the caller. These girls were in part of the pageant, "The House We Build", and Rachel Hueneman was one of the two narrators. This pageant was of historical sequence. It told the story of growing America and it also left us with the idea that America was far from being finished. In other words, there was more being built on our house all of the time.

Eunice Hueneman led a discussion group; Patty Legge and Mary Gerdes and Mrs. Howard Kester took a tour of the new 4-H Camp ground; Marlene R. Brown was an usher at the H. F. session; Dorothy Faust and Yvonne Olson sang in the state chorus; and Doreen Lackore played a piano solo over television.

Our speakers were: Mrs. Etelka S. Lynn and Dr. Harry Estill Moore. Mrs. Lynn is a home counselor who works with young people and adults in the field of family relations under the Home and Life Education program of the Austin, Texas Public Schools. Mr. Moore is associate professor of sociology theory and has written many articles for scientific journals. The two worked together in presenting their material. The topics they expanded on were personality, problems, jobs of living and happiness.

After we heard these talks we divided into groups and discussed the same topics. In these discussion groups each girl had a chance to contribute and share her feelings with others.

Max Exner and Robert McCowen, music specialists from Iowa State Colege, led us in singing. We sang 4-H songs of 1953 and they also led us in songs for 1954. This was enjoyed by all.

Besides attending the mass sesions, the Hancock County girls attended the divisional meeting on Home Furnishings. At these meetings we heard talks on "Pictures", and "Design". Also, we had the privilege of hearing Louise Dukes, an Iowa Farm Youth Exchangee in the Netherlands.

The Sioux County girls initiated Miss Florence Fallgatter as an Honorary Member. She is on the Home Economics staff at Iowa State College.

The highlights of our convention were the electing, and installing of the new state officers.

From our district, Sara Oswald of Cerro Gordo County was elected secretary and treasurer.

The 4-H girls of Iowa chose very capable girls to lead our 4-H organization in 1953-54, so they will be looking forward to to a "big" next year.

Henderson Explains Four Types of Farm Leases

Hancock County landlords and tenants may find this is the time to make some changes in their farm leases to fit new developments or changing conditions according to Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Four different types of farm leases are used widely in Iowa. Fifty-four percent of the leases are of the crop-share type and 23 percent are livestock-share. Seventeen percent of Iowa farms are rented for cash and 6 percent under labor-share arrangements. I. W. Arthur, extension farm management specialist at Iowa State Colege, says the four different types of lease fit the needs of different kinds of tenants and landlords about this way:

(1) Straight-cash: Landowner wants his farm investment to yield a definite turn, like a bond or mortgage. He may have fixed obligations to pay, may live at a distance and be unfamiliar with farm operations. The tenant who wants this kind of lease has plenty of operating capital and credit, is an efficient farmer and depends on his superior ability to make profits in good and bad times. Or flexible cash—The landlord wants to assume the risk and share the gains of changes in the general level of farm prices and, also to share part of the risk and share the gains of changes in the general level of farm prices and also to share part of the risk of major crop failures. He probably lives at a distance but has other income, so he can afford to take the extra risk. The tenant wants to "play safe". He is willing to pay high rent in good times if he can pay low rent in bad times. He believes he is efficient enough to make a profit on his own management decisions, but may not have enough capital to take big risks.

(2) Crop share-cash: This landlord has a farm well fitted to grain production, wants to share some risks and responsibilities of crop management but not to risk sharing livestock ownership. The tenant on this lease wants to avoid crop-yield risks as much as possible. He owns his own livestock and equipment but may not have enough reserve cash for taking all risks.

(3) Livestock share: This landowner wants to direct the production program. He is probably a long-time successful livestock man living near by. The tenant wants to be a livestock farmer but does not yet feel experienced enough or does not have enough capital to take all the risks. He may be a young man who has operated smaller farms.

(4) Labor-share: Young men wanting to get started may not have capital or family help to start as a stock-share, cash-share or cash renter. If they can locate older farmers wishing to retire from active farming but wanting to retain their livestock and machinery it's possible to work out a labor-share arrangement beneficial to both parties.

And regardless of the type of lease you have, Arthur says, there may be changes needed because of the new, increase use of fertilizer, the boom in chemical weed killers, use of conservation practices, more expensive farm machinery and greater use of new crops. Perhaps your lease needs special provisions to make a fair distribution of costs and returns from these factors.

If you want counsel on local leasing practices or if you want copies of sample leases you might use, you may get them from Extension Director Henderson at his office. Or you may write directly to Iowa State College for advice.

Canning and Freezing Tips—

Make Your Work Easier

Try out some of these work-saving tips when you can or freeze green beans from your garden. Sitting down to work at a lap board or table with tools and equipment within easy reach will start you off right.

With green beans coming on in full force and tomatoes and sweet corn just around the corner, your garden is bound to keep you stepping from now until the end of another hot Iowa summer. And the more you can do to simplify the canning and freezing procedure, the more free time (and energy to enjoy it) you can snatch from each day.

One of the best ways to conserve your energy is to sit down to work whenever you can, says Iowa State College extension specialists. You'll find a lap board like the one pictured very handy. Team it with a comfortable chair that gives your back good support. A table the correct height for sit-down work will do just as well as a lap board, of course. If you have a chair with free-wheeling casters, so much the better, for you can wheel back and forth from one food preservation job to another.

If you're short on counter space, a work table on wheels can be quite an asset.

KEEP EQUIPMENT HANDY

Sitting down to work won't be hard to maneuver if you arrange all your canning and freezing equipment and tools so that they're stored within easy reach of wherever you'll be using them. Working out a convenient storage plan will save you an amazing amount of getting up and down, unnecessary walking, stretching, bending carrying and stooping.

Be sure you have these on hand: plenty of thick pot holders so that you can use a fresh one whenever one becomes wet, sharp knives, tongs, a long-handled spoon a scoop and funnel for filling jars, a scalding basket, and all the other canning and freezing equipment that's essential for making your work safe and efficient.

FREEZING GREEN BEANS

Here are the quick and easy steps in freezing green beans. First of all, pick mature, tender beans, says Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist. The seeds within the pods should still be soft and undeveloped for the best taste. Discard any imperfect or moldy pods. Wash in cold water, rinse and drain. Snip ends and cut into desired lengths with sharp knife, cutting a whole handful at a time.

Scald small amounts of beans at a time so as not to cool down the boiling water any more than necessary. If water stops boiling, bring it back to a boil as quickly as possible. Allow from 3 to 4 minutes scalding time. Cool in cold running water for about the same amount of time.

Pack beans into freezer container. You can pack them dry or cover them with a 1½ percent brine made by dissolving 1 tablespoon of a pickling or dairy salt per quart of cold water.

CANNING DIRECTIONS

Use your pressure canner to process your canned beans, allowing 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts at 10 pounds pressure.

Recent research by U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists has turned up a new recommendation for finer texture and flavor in canned green beans. Omit the 5-minute precooking and pack the beans raw instead, says the nutritionists. Cover with boiling water and process.

PMA Chairman Tells of Storage Shortage

Government to Help In Getting Storage

Solution of the serious grain storage problem in Iowa, depends to a great extent on the willingness of producers to reseal 1952 corn now stored on the farms under price support loans and purchase agreements, according to information received by A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the Hancock County PMA Committee.

In requesting farmers to take advantage of the 13-cent-per-bushel storage payment for resealing, the state PMA office has reported that if at least 42 million bushels of the 1952 crop under farm storage loans are resealed the remainder of the 170 million bushels under price support protection can probably be handled in government bins and commercial elevators and warehouses. This view was expressed by the state PMA committee after it was announced in Washington that some additional facilities will be constructed in Iowa by the government as a result of information obtained by top officials at a six-state conference in Des Moines, recently.

With another bumper crop in prospect for 1953, resealing will call for considerable construction or purchase of additional storage facilities actually needed on many farms to keep pace with present operations and the steadily increasing rate of production, Chairman Rasmussen declared.

"It is commonly known that many farms are in need of more crib and bin space to carry on normal operation," he asserted, "and the resealing arrangement on 1952 corn offers a means of getting it now. Approved cribs and bins can be built or bought at from 25 to 50 cents a bushel so it can be readily seen that the resealing storage fee offered on 1952 corn would certainly go a long way toward paying for a needed farm improvement.

"Under such circumstances, the storage fee and the increased return obtained through being able to take advantage of price supports would pay off the cost of a needed crib in two or three years and it would still be available for future use.

Chairman Rasmussen also called attention to the fact that government farm storage facility loans are available to assist in financing needed cribs and bins. These loans can be repaid in four annual installments at four per cent interest.

Nutritionists Warn Against Oven Canning

Your pressure canner is your only safe ally when you can vegetables. Oven canning is dangerous in more ways than one, according to Iowa State College extension nutritionists, and here is why.

Even though the temperature of your oven goes up to 250 degrees or much higher, the food in the jars will stay at about the boiling point—212 degrees F. For vegetables, that's not hot enough to make the bacteria harmless, and your food is apt to spoil.

Another danger signal is the fact that when jars seal during processing, steam builds up inside the jars and may cause them to explode. The oven door might fly off, your kitchen could be wrecked and you could be seriously hurt. It's happened before, so for safety's sake don't try oven canning, even if you've done it without mishap in the past.

Alumni Banquet Draws 160

"Red Buntenbach to Head Organization For Next Banquet

The annual banquet of the Klemme High School Alumni Association was held Friday evening at the school house and attracted a crowd of 160.

First order of business for the evening was to dispose of a wonderful roast beef dinner prepared by the Music Mothers. After the meal, an election of officers was held, and E. D. "Red" Buntenbach of Garner was named to head the organization for the next year. Verner Priebe was elected vice president and Mrs. Clifford Montgomery will be secretary-treasurer.

A highly entertaining program was presented after the election of officers. Allen Barz, with the aid of a ukelele, did a homely philosopher and song routine.

He was joined later in the evening by Harley and Edward Barz, and this trio presented a couple of real hep tunes. Roy Arnold conducted an initiation ceremony for those members of the class of '53 who were present. Members of the Alumni were picked to form a panel and a take-off on the TV show, "What's My Line?" was presented. Closing number on the program, saw Harold Kothenbeutal dressed as a red-headed, beautiful young thing. Milvern Barz was the ardent swain of this beautiful young thing. The act brought down the house, and was a well-chosen closing number.

People were in attendance at this banquet from as far away as New York State, and all expressed the opinion that it was the best and most entertaining banquet that the association has held to-date.

No Injuries As Cars Collide North of Town

Saturday morning about 8:45, cars driven by Julius Priebe of Klemme, and Paul Bringle of Randall were involved in a minor accident at the Joe Schuldt corner, a mile north of Klemme on Highway 69.

Mr. Priebe was driving north on the highway and as he attempted to make a left turn off the highway, his car was struck on the left front fender by the Bringle car as Bringle was attempting to pass.

Neither car sustained much damage and no one received any injuries, but the Bringle car was ditched. Bringle said that he was traveling at about 65 miles per hour when the accident happened.

Circle To Meet

Naomi Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Jennings Anderson on Thursday, July 23rd. Mrs. Emma Patet will be co-hostess and Mrs. John Chambers will have the lesson.

Birthday Will Meet

The South Liberty Birthday Club will meet Tuesday evening, July 21st at 8. p. m. at the home of Evelyn Abele. This meeting is a week earlier than originally planned.

The demonstration teams will give their demonstrations and there will be the study of one foreign country.

Ruth Gast and Mildred Zwald are in charge of the refreshments.

Local Men Save Youth From Bull

Helmer Nielsen, 17, son of the Rev. and Mrs. B. E. Nielson of Swaledale was taken to Mercy Hospital at Mason City, Sunday evening for treatment of injuries suffered when he was attacked by a Holstein bull on the Irvin Underberg farm near Swaledale.

The youth was doing the evening chores on the farm when he was attacked by the animal and badly mauled. He suffered no broken bones but was being kept under observation at the hospital for possible internal injuries.

Had it not been for three local men, chances are that the young man might have been mauled to death by the enraged critter. Rudy Endorf, Fred Aegerter and Elmer Langlitz were driving along the road near Swaledale when Rudy noticed the bull acting up in the pasture. Then he saw the youth wave his arms from his position on the ground. He immediately stopped the car and the three men distracted the bull long enough for young Nielson to get through the fence.

Peace Church Will Celebrate 75 Anniversary

The Peace Reformed Church of Garner, Iowa, the Rev. Chester Ploeger, pastor, will celebrate its 75th anniversary on Sunday, July 9, 1953. The Service Schedule is as follows: Sunday School at 9:30 a. m., Morning Service at 10:30 a. m., and the Afternoon Service at 2:30 p. m:

The Rev. R. D. Stuebbe of Bakersfield, California, former minister of the church, will be guest speaker for the day. The Rev. C. A. Schmid of Berne, Indiana, also a former minister, is unable to attend as had been planned. Rev. Stuebbe and Rev. Schmid are the only ministers of the church still living.

The ladies of the church will serve the noon meal. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Local Softballers Win Over Stilson Nine

In a game played Sunday night on the local diamond, the Klemme softball team won out over a game Stilson nine by a score of 14 to 12. The two teams were even on hits with eleven each. Errors were plentiful, with both sides committing eight. The locals managed to bunch enough hits and errors together to come out on top with their two-point victory margin.

Next Tuesday, July 21st, there will be a game on the local diamond which will see the Klemme team tangle with the Roots team of Latimer. Then on Friday, the 24th, Joice will be here for a game.

Contracts To Be Let July 28 for Twin Lake Slough

The Iowa Conservation Commission has announced a letting at its office at Des Moines July 28 at 2 p m. for the construction of earth dikes, concrete stoplog central structure and incidentals at the East Twin Lake slough development west of Goodell in Hancock County.

The earthwork involves 3,634 cubic yards of stripping, earth embankment involving 22,089 cubic yards of borrow excavation, structures involving 187 cubic yards of Class 23 excavation structures and 77 cubic yards of excavation culverts.

County's Worst Crash Takes 6 Lives Sunday

Last week end was a bad one for the state of Iowa. Fifteen people lost their lives on the highway, and six of them were killed four miles north of Klemme on the hill by the Ben V. Greiman farm. Two cars collided at the crest of the hill and all of the occupants were killed except one. He was apparently thrown clear of the wreckage in a manner that saved his life, but he is in Mercy Hospital at Mason City and his condition is described as "fair".

Dead are Mrs. Ward Gillam and her two daughters, Diane, 11, and Linda, 9, of Altoona, Iowa; and Jack B. Burns, 35, Walter Hodge, 48, and Arthur Wagner, 73, all of Des Moines. The injured man who is in the hospital was also from Des Moines and was riding in the car in which the three other Des Moines men were killed.

These men had been to Minnesota on a fishing trip and were returning home. Mrs. Gillam and her daughters were on their way to Clear Lake where Mr. Gillam had rented a cottage so that the family could spend their vacation on the Lake.

No one seems to know just what caused the accident, but Sheriff L. M. Brouwer said that there must have been a terifically high rate of speed for the two cars to be as badly damaged as they were.

The three pictures on this page show the two cars after they had been towed into Garner and were setting on the lot of the Garner Motor Sales Company.

Top picture shows the inside of the front compartment of the Pontiac which Mrs. Gillam was driving. The way the steering column and the steering wheel are bent is evidence as to what happened to her.

The second picture is also the Gillam car. It can be readily seen that it hit head-on, and hard. We would judge that the front wheels were pushed backwards a good three feet.

Bottom picture shows the Oldsmobile in which the Des Moines men were riding at the time of the accident. That is the worst torn up car we have ever seen, and it is hard to understand how anyone who was riding in the machine could have come out alive. It couldn't even be towed from the scene of the accident. It had to be loaded on the flat truck shown in the picture and hauled away.

One is inclined to take a rather impersonal outlook on such happenings as this unless personally involved. We know we did until we were on the scene taking pictures and saw cut out paper dolls strewn about the ditch. That seemed to make it a more human and personal thing.

Stork Club

Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Helps have a new addition to their family. A girl, who has been named Ronda Kay, was born to them at the Belmond Hospital on Wednesday, July 8th. She weighed just over seven pounds, and is the second child for Mr. and Mrs. Helps.

No Church Services

Our Church Service and Sunday School have been dismissed to permit our congregation to attend the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary Services at Peace Reformed Church.

Board of Education Makes Appointments

Acts of the 55th A. H. F. 23, provides that the Hancock County Board of Education shall appoint two delegates and two alternates to attend a convention to elect one member to the State Board of Education from the Sixth Congressional District. The delegates and/or alternates appointed will meet the third Monday in August at a place determined by the Secretary of State.

The expenses and mileage will be paid by the County Board of Education for those attending.

The Hancock County Board of Education made the following appointments:

Mrs. J. J. Koolbeck, Garner; Mr. W. L. Baggs, Garner, alternate.

Mr. H. R. Brooks, Britt, Mr. Forrest Bennett, Corwith, alternate.

Cub Scouts Hold Picnic

The Cub Scout Pack meeting for the month of June and July was held the evening of July 7th on the Reformed Church lawn. The group gathered at 7:00 for a weiner roast and picnic supper. After supper while the mothers cleared the tables, the dads and Cub Scouts played volley ball and other out door games. A camp fire was built and the meeting was held around the fire. Group singing opened the program. Reports on the Dad-Lad week-end at Camp Roosevelt were given by the Cub Scouts and the dads who were present. Several of the boys told stories. The new membership cards were presented to the boys. The meeting closed with the Cub Scouts giving the Cub Scout Promise and Motto.

There were 45 present at the meeting. There will be no Pack meeting held for the month of August.

Sunday's grim accident on the highway north of Klemme, points up the fact that the only way to drive with any degree of safety is to drive at a reasonable speed and keep your eyes open. Even then, you can become involved in an accident due to the carelessness of some other less alert driver.

We wonder at the morbid curiosity of a large portion of the public. Sunday a man fell out of his boat at Clear Lake, and drowned in nine feet of water. We had been playing golf, and on our return home we passed the spot where they were dragging the lake for the body. There were cars lined up for blocks in either direction, people standing on the docks, and lining the shore. We can't imagine what satisfaction they could have in seeing the lifeless body of a man pulled from the lake.

We read in the paper that our governor is upset about the tragic week end on our highways. If we remember correctly, during his campaign, he talked considerably about the wonderful highway improvement that he was going to initiate in the state. We think the time has come. Eighteen foot slabs of concrete weren't meant for the amount of traffic that our highways carry today. We'll admit that a lot of accidents aren't directy caused by narrow highways, but to err is human. We are in favor of wider roads and less chance for serious error.

We would hate to be the fellow who is taking the place of the deposed chief of the secret police in Russia. For all he knows he may be the next victim.

Remember all the griping that was done last winter when the city officials decided to thin out the trees in our park. We think the park looks a hundred per cent better now, and where before, the grass was dying out, a nice green carpet is now appearing.

30 YEARS AGO—

Work on the new school house is progressing rapidly. Plasterers are now at work there; as well as a gang of plumbers.

Franklin Kluckhohn had a birthday last week, Wednesday, and in addition to that he also had a party. Games were played and refreshments served. All the kids say it was a fine party.

The Klemme Legion is planning on putting on a three day carnival the 13th, 14th and 15th of August. It will be a big event and should draw a big crowd. There will be all kinds of amusements, merry-go-rounds, midways, ballgames, etc.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church held a picnic supper last Thursday evening to which they invited the families of the members. They went in cars to Avery Bridge and had their picnic supper. Ten gallons of ice cream kept them cool. All who attended say they had a fine time.

20 YEARS AGO—

The boys and girls 4-H livestock club met at the Benjamin Mullin home Friday evening. They were favored by several selections on the accordion by Armour Mullin, besides other readings and talks. Virgil Cook is leader of this club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Helps, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dutheridge, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beek, Herman Beek, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Helps, Miss Cora Van Osten and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Marshall spent Fourth of July evening at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shoafstall drove to Holland, Iowa, Sunday to bring home their daughter, Maxine, who has been visiting there for the past week.

Barbara, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Happy" Johnson who was burned badly last week when her dress accidently caught afire, is greatly improved this week.

10 YEARS AGO—

Lt. Glenn R. Bowles, former Klemme high school atheletic director was promoted to the rank of Captian on June 21st.

Boy Scouts of Troop 56, Klemme, enjoyed a supervised swim at Clear Lake, Monday evening under the direction of Scoutmaster H. D. Ramsay. The Scouts made the trip in Lloyd Lau's truck. Edward Grosshuesch and Dean Jacobs both passed their fifty yard swimming test. Others are working to learn to swim.

A number of ladies worked at the Methodist Church last week and painted the kitchen and the League Room. The ladies did a neat job and the room looks good.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Buntenbach and son Junior, returned Sunday afternoon from Clear Lake, where they had been vacationing since July Fourth. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Verele Keraus and son of Garner, also stayed at the cottage with them for the week.

MONKEY

John Summers, who cares for the bears and monkeys in the big cage along the highway in Aububon was severely bitten recently by "Tarzan", one of his monkey proteges. He had gone into the cage to recover a pair of spectacles that Tarzan had filched from a lady spectator.

WAGON

Jack Ratcliff paid Iowa a visit recently. He is out to "see America first" in a wagon drawn by burros. In 13 years, he has been in all 48 states, plus Mexico and Canada, and has traveled about 45,000 miles.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Timothy seed production should be a profitable venture for Iowa farmers this year, according to Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Iowa, Missouri, and Ohio are the main timothy seed-producing states, he points out. Missouri is certain to have a small timothy seed output this year. Dry weather and demand for hay will hold down output in that state. Iowa may be down from last year's relatively good crop. But Ohio, which had a poor crop last year, has good prospects for timothy seed this year.

On the whole, this year's timothy seed crop is not likely to be large enough to be a burden on the market, Kutish believes. Meanwhile, the carryover from last year's crop probably is

HARSON

small. For the 1952 timothy seed crop was the nation's smallest in 4 years. In addition, the carry-over of old timothy seed a year ago was down. Total supply for 1954 will be no larger than last year, and possibly smaller, he concludes.

Demand for grass seed next spring may be up if we have corn and wheat allotments. For farmers will be seeding down more ground in that case.

Kutish predicts that timothy seed next year will be at least as high as the prices prevailing this year—and could be higher.

CATTLE PICTURE

Cattle slaughter has been up sharply this year—much more than expected. Kutish points out that 30 percent more pounds were killed under federal inspection this May than a year ago. It has pushed beef consumption per person to or near record proportions.

It is becoming apparent that we are reaching the peak in cattle slaughter for the current cycle sooner than expected. Without a doubt, says Kutish, beef slaughter will remain very large for several years, but it may show little or no further increase above 1953.

HINGED PRESSER FOOT

If this proves true, then the 18 months from June, 1952, to December of 1953 will turn out to be the period of sharp price decline caused by rising supplies during the current cycle. Cattle price changes the next few years then will depend upon shifts in demand. And this in turn depends upon what happens to business.

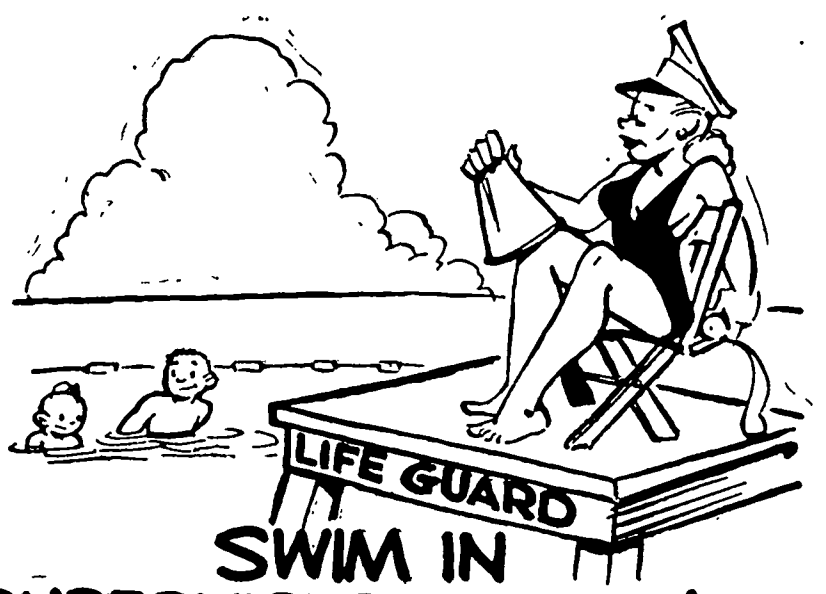
MANGLED

Elmer Dodson of near Lineville lost a thumb recently, when he caught his hand in a new hay baler. Several of his fingers were mangled in the accident.

LOG HOUSE

To make room for a new farm dwelling, Elias and Henry Myran of near Decorah moved an 80-year old log house from the site where it had stood since 1873.

WATER SAFETY



SWIM IN SUPERVISED AREAS!

There were seventy-three drownings in Iowa last year, many of which were non-swimmers or novices entering unsupervised rivers, lakes and ponds.

Even a champion can suffer swimming cramps, and can be in serious trouble without the help of a lifeguard. A novice in the same situation doesn't have a chance.

Wading alone in astrange stream or pond can also be dangerous, for such waters may drop off sharply into deep holes. Avoid diving into strange waters that may contain rocks, logs, and debris.

If you are ever unlucky enough to have cramps or become exhausted while swimming, you'll want help. Swim only in waters where there is such help, under supervision of trained, competent lifeguards.

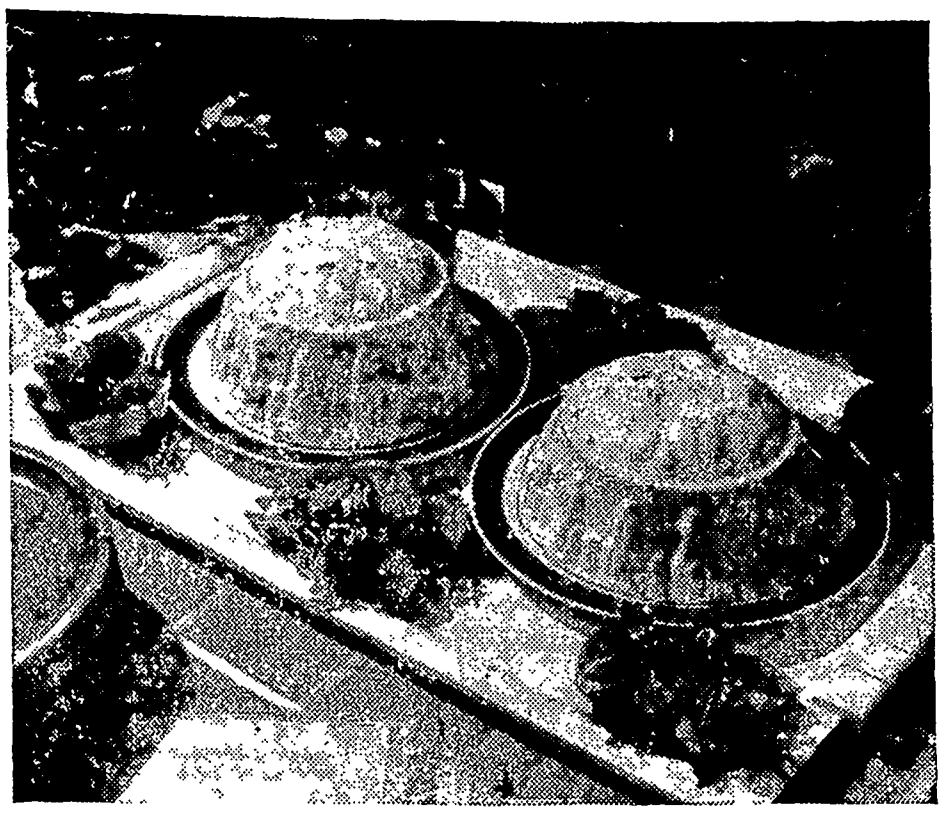
Take the Easy Way—

Hot Weather Hospitality



A buffet supper that includes foods you can fix ahead of time with a minimum of fuss is an ideal way to entertain. On a very hot evening, guests might adjourn to the yard after filling their plates from a buffet table set up on a screened-in porch, or in living or dining room.

Most folks appreciate informality, on a hot day especially, so why not let simplicity rule the roost in your summer entertaining? This leading qeustion comes from Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist. She follows it up with tips on outdoor meals, buffets and evening refreshments for any homemaker she can talk into taking the easy way of making guests comfortable and paring down hostess duties to a delightful minimum.

SWEET CORN PARTY

Along about the time sweet corn matures in your garden, you might throw an outdoor corn roast for a handful or more of your friends. Let freshly picked and boiled sweet corn, with plenty of butter and salt, be the colorful main attraction. Supply lots of giant-size paper napkins. Serve a chef's salad with a variety of cold meats, hard boiled eggs and strips or chunks of cheese in generous amounts. And don't forget to have pitchers full of ice-cold coffee, tea or fruit drink on hand.

You could boil the corn indoors or out. This is the kind of party that could easily be moved to kitchen, porch or dining room if it rains.

BACKYARD PICNIC

Or you might have the simplest of backyard picnics, using your regular dishes and picnic equipment. Serve the food in individual baskets. Clean-up will be easy—just whisk out the napkins from the bottom of the baskets, pile up the baskets, gather up the kitchen ware, put away the food.

Here are some ideas for picnic foods, and you'll have plenty of other ideas just as good yourself: fried chicken, meat or fish loaf, or hamburgers and weiners. With price of beef down, a steak fry is another good suggestion. A relish tray of raw cauliflower, carrot stick, green onions, olives, crisp fresh turnip slices, radishes and cucumber sticks is sure to please. Your other vegetable could be sweet corn or sliced tomatoes. Have potato chips or sticks for nibbling.

Dessert might be ice cream and cookies, an ice-cream parfait pie made the night before, or fruit.

BUFFET

A buffet supper is popular with most people. You can usually fix most of the foods a day ahead—chicken pie, chicken a la king, spaghetti, spanish rice, beans or molded salad loaf. If you have a freezer, so much the better—you can do your planning and meal preparation weeks ahead if need be.

Here are other buffet dishes that will make a hit: oven- or pan-fried chicken, cold meat, and cheese plate, frozen fruit salad, baked beans, nut bread, chiffon or ice cream parfait pie, fruit shortcake, lots of iced tea, coffee or fruit drink. Do choose foods that hold up well, won't run into each other on the plate and make self-service easy.

"COME FOR THE EVENING"

But you don't even have to treat your friends to a whole meal. If you're in the middle of a busy food preservation season, why not just ask some of your favorite people over after dinner for an informal conversation, TV or bridge session? Then along about 9 p. m. serve some simple refreshments—fruit drink and cookies, watermelon, an ice cream parfait pie. There are many, many ways to spell hospitality.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

Frank devoted two full days of his vacation to simply getting ready for the trip. He had the car in a garage all Saturday morning with a mechanic he trusted going over it for mechanical safety and getting it ready for what would be two weeks of heavy driving.

Sometime Sunday afternoon Frank thought of one thing left undone. They might need a first aid kit. He went to a drug store, stocked up on first aid supplies, and put them in an old fishing tackle box when he returned home. He packed the car that night, and put the metal box with the first aid items on the back ledge where it could be reached in a hurry.

Three days away from home on an unfamiliar eastern highway and with too many consecutive hours of driving behind him, Frank dozed just long enough to miss seeing that the car ahead was slowing down for a stop.

He woke just in time to slam on his brakes with full power and bring the car to a head-standing stop. The two older children sleeping in back rolled off the seat but were not hurt.

LEVER FOR FORWARD AND BACKWARD SEWING
HARSON

Frank's wife saw what was coming and braced herself hard against the seat. She was holding her head and neck rigid when the heavy metal first aid kit hit her.

It came off the back ledge at something like 65 miles an hour, the speed of the car before the sudden stop. She spent the rest of the vacation in the nearest hospital with a fractured vertebra.

Finest Dairy Cattle At Iowa Exposition

E. S. Estel, secretary-manager of Iowa's National Dairy Cattle congress, said the nation's finest breed will again be entered in the Waterloo exposition beginning October 3 through October 10.

For the past four consecutive years every state in the nation has been represented at the Waterloo contest.

Estel said purebred dairy cattle breeders throughout the state are now in the process of selecting, grooming and readying their animals for district competition.

District winners in each state compete at their state dairy shows. Winners are then entered in the Iowa event to compete for the nation's top honors.

REUNION

At Eldora, the high school class of 1909 held a class reunion recently; the first one in 44 years.

In 1942 there was one forest fire in national forests for every 3,000 visitors. In 1952 the Forest Service reported only one fire started for each 5,000 visitors.

It's important to water young trees and shrubs in hot weather—but don't keep water standing around them all the time. They will drown. This warning comes from Margherita Tarr, Iowa State College extension landscape architect. She advises watering the trees deeply once a week.

Jolly Worker Met

The Jolly Workers Club met at the home of Lois Schlichting for their July meeting.

Each member gave an important date in history for roll call.

Our president, Wemkie Cavitt had charge of the meeting.

We voted to send Lyle Waddingham a gift as he has been in the hospital, and to send cards to Dick Gilpin.

Plans were made for the club picnic on Sunday noon July 19th. Each family is to bring their own table service, sandwiches, drinks and two covered dishes. The picnic is to be held at McIntosh Woods near Ventura.

Georgiana Bruhl showed the ladies how to make flowers out of nylon hose that were bleached and dyed. Pansies and roses were made and were very pretty. Maude Bachman had some contests which they all enjoyed.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and Ruth Trampel as co-hostess.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Lillie Pearson with Nellie Ausborn as co-hostess.

May Break Even On New Storage With 2,000 Bushels

The break-even point for an average Hancock County farmer who builds a new wooden crib to reseal his corn under present cost and price conditions is somewhere above 2000 bushels of corn.

County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says an Iowa State College study of representative costs of building and maintaining grain storage on farms in Iowa, including all fixed and variable costs except spoilage risk, shows you can expect storage in a 1000-bushel crib to cost 18 cents a bushel. The government will pay the farmer who reseals his 1952 corn 13 cents a bushel storage fee delivery next year.

If the 1,000-bushel crib is only three-fourths full you can expect it to cost about 22½ cents a bushel and if it is only half full the charge is about 32½ cents a bushel to store corn for a year.

For a 2,000-bushel crib full of corn the cost would be about 13½ cents a bushel. It goes up to 17 cents a bushel when the crib is three-fourths full and 24½ cents a bushel when the crib is half full.

Extension director Henderson says that a report from Richard Phillips, extension, grain marketing specialist at Iowa State College, indicates that the farmer who can fill a new 5,000-bushel crib with corn will find storage costs amount to about 10 cents a bushel. This leaves him a margin of about 3 cents a bushel a gain from the government's payment of 13 cents a bushel for storage of resealed grain.

Phillips points out, Henderson says, that there will be wide variations from these figures. You have to figure out the problem individually for your farm.

The cost Phillips cites represent those that could be expected in new construction for any purpose using the representative types of structure for which the figures are given. They are offered particularly with reference to whether it will be economical for you to build corn corn storage for other purposes than resealing—such as getting enough storage to handle one year's normal production—you will naturally consider the cost in relation to returns other than those of resealing, Extension Director Henderson points out.

You will cut the cost if you can use your own labor to build the storage space without taking your time from other more profitable work. And if you can build a crib from old lumber you have on the place your costs will be less. If you have a building that can be converted easily to grain storage you may find it profitable to make the conversion.

Here are the costs Phillips says you need to figure in deciding in whether it will pay you to reseal corn:

Fixed costs (these are considered only if you build or convert new storage space), depreciation on the crib (this is about 3 percent a year on a wooden crib), insurance, taxes on the new building and interest on the cost of the crib (figure what the money would bring if you put it into some other investment.)

Variable costs: Repairs on the crib, fumigation costs (resealed corn is likely to require fumigation to maintain quality), rat control, insurance against fire and other losses on the stored corn, and supervisory cost. The supervisory cost may seem so small that you won't need to figure it. Its importance will depend on how busy you are with other productive work. While you keep the corn stored you will have to inspect it occasionally, and if there are signs of heating or damage you will have to be be ready to act promptly. Don't forget, Extension Director Henderson warns, if you reseal corn on your farm you are responsible for shrinkage and deterioration during the reseal period.

LUNCH

The James Thompson family of Waverly had an unexpected guest at a picnic supper on the Shell Rock river near Finchford recently. As the family gathered to watch Mr. Thompson land a fish, a small deer ate the sandwiches and potato salad.

VIPER

J. S. Schaffer killed a spreading viper near Osceola last week, a rare snake in that vicinity. The viper hisses, and spreads its hood like a cobra, but is actually harmless.

Auxilary Hears About Girls State

At the regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary on Tuesday, July 7, Lois Christians gave a very interesting report of her activities at Girls State to the local unit who had sponsored her trip.

Mrs. Earl Schaefer, Forest City, also was present to explain the plan of the new Girls Scout Area Council. The Auxiliary is the sponsor of the Klemme Girl Scouts. At a recent executive board meeting, the following troop committee for the Girl Scouts was elected: Mrs. J. A. Chambers, Mrs. Herman Back, Mrs. Benn Coobs, Mrs. Robert Hartzell, and Mrs. Marvin Lemke.

Lena Lewis reported that shoes valued at $10.16 had been purchased for our assigned child.

The library has received $15 from Mrs. C. A. Larsen for the purchase of children's books. The Auxiliary is indeed grateful to Mrs. Larsen for her interest in the library.

A thank-you note for the $2 sent to Edward Smith, who made the poppies sent to Klemme this year, was read.

Cora Schaefer was elected delegate to the State Convention to be held in Cedar Rapids, July 29-31 and Louise Etchen, as alternate delegate.

To complete the full program for the evening, the new officers of the year were installed. The retiring president, Flora Back, presented to the new president, Cora Schaefer, the gavel with which she closed the meeting.

The hostess, Irene Barz, served homebaked cookies and coffee.

Knocking out weeds is likely to increase the carrying capacity of your pastures.

Acids Help Prevent Ropy Bread

Along with heat of summer comes reports from Iowa homemakers of "rope" in their homebaked yeast breads and quick breads.

Ropy bread, explain Iowa State College extension nutritionists, is caused by a tiny organism in flour that thrives in hot weather. This organism starts working in the center of the loaf, spoils its taste and texture. The rope might be a yellow, sticky mold all through the inside of the loaf that clings to the knife when you cut it. It may make the bread sticky soggy, and crumbly. Sometimes the inside of the loaf develops a gray or bluish gray color.

If you've had this kind of difficulty, you can prevent its happening again by adding vinegar, lactic acid or the whey from sour milk to your bread dough. This will keep the organism from growing. Be careful not to add so much that it will affect the flavor of the bread.

It may be that the flour in your canister was infected with this trouble-making organism when you bought it. Or perchance another batch of flour infected the canister and has been causing the organism to develop in following batches. In any case, it would be a good idea. to clean, and disinfect the canister.

HANDY MAN

Calling him a "handy man who made good," Fortune magazine devoted space recently to Gerald Pasker, of Monticello. Now 33, Mr. Pasker founded a farm equipment company at Monticello, with a sales of over $1 million last year.

Southwest Cattlemen Looking for Homes for Breeding Stock

Many Southwestern ranchmen are looking for a fall and winter homes for their breeding and stock cattle herds, reports county extension director, Paul Henderson.

The drouth in many sections of west Texas, New Mexico and parts of Oklahoma, west Kansas and southeast Colorado is as bad as in the mid-thirties, according to information given Rex Beresford at a cattle and feed conference of extension men at Kansas City, July 3.

Many of the bigger operators have succeeded in moving at least part of their breeding herds and young replacement stock to Northern pastures. But the smaller herd owners are finding this difficult to do.

Extension services in the drouth states are listing ranchers' names, location and information on kinds and numbers of the cattle they want to keep but must move to feed or sell for whatever they will bring. Many of these herds are well-bred cattle of high quality. But the water situation and the cost of shipping in feed to carry their cattle make holding them imposible in many cases.

HARSON

Various arrangements have been worked out between some ranchmen and Corn Belt farmers with feed available for handling such cattle. Some are on a monthly charge basis, some on herd shares and in the case of young cattle, some are on a grain-share or cost-per-pound-of-gain.

Any Hancock County farmer with surplus pasture and prospective winter feed who is interested in taking on some of these cattle should contact county extension director Paul Henderson. He should furnish information as to feed and pasture available, how many and what kind of cattle he would be prepared to handle and the financial arrangements he would be prepared to make.

This information will be relayed to the cattle owners through the state extension services. Interested ranchmen then can make direct contact with the Iowa farmer who wants cattle and the two can work out a mutually satisfactory deal.

Such an arrangement might be of advantage to farmers with pasture and roughage who are short of capital or do not want to assume the risks involved in buying cattle outright.

When Herman Frick, of Long Island, New York. visited his old home in Graettinger recently, it was his first visit there in the past 58 years. He left in 1895.

Iowa Town and Big Industry in 'Thank You' Celebration

A unique community celebration in the Hawkeye state this summer will be held at Belmond when "big industry" tips its hat to an Iowa small town.

The event will be the town's "Appreciation Days" from July 20 to July 25.

The celebration will include baseball games, parades, band concerts, and fireworks.

Belmond Chamber of Commerce officials said the event started out to honor the huge General Mills soybean plant organization. However, General Mills officials said they were taking part in the celebration to express their satisfaction in the decision to locate its plant there.

As well as General Mills officials from Minneapolis on hand for the festivities, the firm plans open house at the Belmond plant on July 24 and world premier of four new appliances developed by the firm's mechanical division.

In announcing plans for the event, Belmond community leaders expressed their gratitude for General Mills locating there. Townspeople point to the soybean plant as a "great force in community betterment and progress."

On the other hand, General Mills cited the town's cooperation and enthusiasm when they moved there in 1944.

J. R. Gallagher, editor of the Belmond Independent, said that when GM arrived merchants, farmers and many others "pitched in when labor was unobtainable and helped GM get up its immense grain bins which involved more than two weeks of continuous concrete pouring."

He added that Belmond is "always ready to aid the mill anytime and in any way."

General Mills employes have been active in Belmond enterprises ever since the plant was set up. Two of the several projects which they have helped complete were a new hospital and a new school building.

The Belmond soybean plant payrolls "grease the local wheels of commerce" with over a half million dollars annually. Also GM spends nearly $15 million in Iowa every year for soybeans.

Committeemen Being Selected for PMA

Farmers of Hancock county are now in the process of selecting community or township committeemen of the Production and Marketing Administration, it has been announced by the Hancock County PMA Committee.

Ballots in the annual PMA elections were mailed Tuesday, July 14, to all eligible voters. Each voter also received an envelope to be used in returning his ballot by mail. If it is returned by mail, the envelope must be postmarked not later than July 24. However, voters may deliver their ballots in person to the county PMA office but must do so by July 24. The actual counting will take place Monday, July 27.

The County Committee appealed to every farm owner, operator and tenant to vote without fail. They declared that the first responsibility in farm program administration rests with the farmers themselves in electing the most capable and best qualified committeemen to administer the PMA price support and conservation programs and other activities of the agency.

"We feel it is the duty of every farmer to cast his ballot and urge his nieghbors to do so," they declared. "Needless to say we want you to mark your ballot and mail it back to us right now because you may neglect to do it if you put it off."

To be elected in each township are three PMA township committeemen, two alternate committeemen, one delegate to the county PMA convention and a alternate delegate. The county covention will be held at Garner on August 1 to name the county PMA committeemen. The county and township committeemen will be named for one-year terms starting August 3.

Confusion Results from Recent Government Announcenen On Bins

The recent announcement that the government would erect a number of new storage bins in Iowa has led to the false belief by some farmers that there will be sufficient binsite space for all 1952 corn under price support loans and purchase agrreements, it was reported by A. E. Rassmussen, Chairman of the Hancock county PMA committee.

Even with the new bins, the government will lack space for handling at least 42 million bushels of Iowa corn under price support and as a result a statewide drive is being conducted to get that much resealed on the farms for another year, according to Chairman Rasmussen.

The resealing goal for Hancock county, he said, is 900,000 bushels and that figure can be reached if producers will cooperate in supporting their own price support program to the full extent of their ability to do so. In connection, the PMA chairman pointed out that the Department of Agriculture has purchased as many bins as it believes it can get constructed at this time. As an extra inducement to get producers to reseal and thereby assume part of the responsibility of housing the bumper crop of 1952, the government is offering a payment of 13 cents a bushel to borrowers who agree to store their grain another 12 months.

Notices have been mailed to all borrowers and holders of purchase agreements in Hancock county asking them to report on what they desire to do with their corn. To assist the PMA committee in making its work plans, it is hoped the notices will be returned to the county office at once.

Coon Shoot

Joe Roul, who raises nice frying chickens on his farm southwest of Klemme, has been missing chickens. He thought maybe they were just roosting out in the grove instead of coming into the chickenhouse at night, but different.

His wife and son went out to the chicken house after dark and the other evening he found out discovered coons at work among the chickens. The coons went up a nearby tree, and Joe was summoned from the house. He brought his shotgun and when he was through shooting he had seven dead coons—a mother and her six young. The young were half grown.

After this episode, Joe says they got the chickens where they could count them, and they find they are about 200 short. Those coons must have been eating good.

Home From Korea

1st Lt. Clarence Larsen, Jr., who has been in Korea serving with the field artillery for the past year, returned to the States last Friday. He landed in Seattle, Washington, and the next morning caught a plane to Omaha where he was met by his parents. He has to return soon to Camp Carson, Colorado where he will be separated from the service.

"Pete" saw considerable action and says that it is mighty good to be home. Like every soldier who gets home okay, he says the experience was worth a lot.

Softballers Win Two; Deckers Here Sunday

The Klemme softball team has been doing alright for itself the past week. They have played two games and won them both.

Last Friday night they played Thornton and won by a score of 4 to 2. Tuesday night they played a Latimer team and won by a score of 8 to 6.

Sunday night will see some fast action on the local diamond when the Decker Bros. nine from Mason City tangles with the locals.

8:30 is game time. If you are interested in ball games, be on hand and see some good action.

At Montezuma, Frele Keating has completed 50 years as printer-pressman.

The past week has seen a lot of oat crop put in the bin. Farmers have been busy with their combines, and although there are some fields yet to be threshed, many are done.

We went out Monday noon to get a picture of someone at work combining. First place we stopped was at the Fred Pringnitz farm, 2½ miles west and a half mile south of Klemme. Fred was just getting nicely started, and was having a little trouble getting all the oats out of the straw. Seems it was pretty tough. Everyone was confronted with the same problem that day and some gave up. Fred said he thought that the field he was working on would go close to forty bushels to the acre, but he said his other field got hit by the hard freeze last spring and wouldn't be nearly as good.

The oat crop is yielding below normal this year. Some fields are doing fairly well and we have heard of yields as high as 50 bushels. On the other hand, there have been some down around 15 Average seems to be somewhere between 25 and 35 bushels.

Quality of most of the crop seems to be good. The Klemme Cooperative Grain Company has several samples on display in their office and test weights seem to be averaging somewhere in the neighborhood of 35 pounds to the bushel. There have been better years for quality, but no one will complain on 35 pounds . . . especially this year.

Report Shows Need for Road Improvement

Bridge Lumber Nets $396

The old bridge lumber sold at the Britt shed on Saturday netted the county $396 according to County Auditor Maynard Schoneman who clerked the sale. Ben Reemtsma, Garner auctioneer cried the sale. The lumber was the salvage from two old wooden bridges recently replaced by new structures.

Ice Cream Social

The Music Mothers will hold their annual ice cream social on main street in Klemme on Saturday night, July 25th. Home made ice cream, cake, pie, and coffee will be served, and according to Mayor Cook, the main block of main street will be roped off for the evening.

To Be Married

DORIS JEANNE GRUIS

The engagement and approaching marriage of Doris Jeanne Gruis to Don E. Doggett has been annouced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gruis. Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Doggett of Clarion. The wedding will occur September 5th in the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme.

Peace Reformed Church Observes 75th Anniversary

Rev. Stuebbe, Former Pastor, Is Guest Speaker At Services

On Sunday, July 19, The Peace Reformed Church of Garner, Iowa celebrated its 75th anniversary with appropiate services.

The Rev. R. D. Stuebbe of Bakerfield, California, former minister of the church, was the guest speaker for the day. Rev. Stuebbe spoke to the Sunday School and also during both the morning and afternoon services. Rev. Carl Mohr, Rev. Henry Huenemann, and Rev. Dallas Gibson, all of Garner, also took part in the services. The choir sang during both services, and solos were rendered by Mr. Vincent Woiwood and Miss Abigail Huenemann.

The ladies of the church served the noon meal to approximately 350 people, and also served lunch in the evening to ministers and distant visitors.

The following letters of congratulations were read: Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, Garner; Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, Klemme; St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Champaign, Illinois, of which The Rev. Orville H. Schroer is pastor. Rev. Schroer is a son of Peace congregation. A letter of congratulations was also sent by the Michael Harthan family of Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Harthan, the former Peggy Nelson, was a member of the confirmation class of 1930 of Peace Church.

Floral tributes were sent by the following: Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, Klemme; Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smith, Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohn, Garner; Garner Chamber of Commerce; Urich Implement, Garner; Bethke and Goodrich, Garner; and Blank's Drug Store; Garner.

A gift of money was sent the church by Mrs. Verna Thompson of Albuquerque, New Mexico. Mrs. Thompson is the daughter of Mrs. Fern Katter.

An informal gathering was held in the evening to give the people an opportunity to visit Rev. Stuebbe and family. Cake, ice cream and coffee were served by the ladies.

The Peace Congregation wishes to thank all who helped make this celebration a day that will be remembered by all.

A deal was completed this week whereby John Chambers of Klemme purchased the William Beal farm south of Corwith through the agency of A. M. Peterson of Titonka.

Klemme Boy Scouts Get Awards at Camp

Five Klemme Boy Scouts received archery awards during their stay at Camp Roosevelt at Clear Lake. They are Galen Bridges, Craig Larsen, Gary Kothenbeutal, Charles Bacon, and Bobbie Thiemann.

The Klemme Scouts also received an award for the best-kept campsite and tied for the award in Scoutcraft.

William "Smokey" Jones is scoutmaster.

High Speed Also Has Part In Fatalities On Highway 69

Hancock County Coroner Kenneth F. Boughton has filed his report in the recent automobile collision just south of Garner on highway 69 which snuffed out the lives of six people. The report states that Walter C. Hodge, Robert Jack Burns, and Arthur C. Wagner, all of Des Moines and Mrs. Kathryn Gillam and Diane C. Gillam of Attoona, died in a head-on collision by the Hodge car driven by Robert Dorris of Des Moines and a car driven by Mrs. Kathryn Gillam of Altoona. Linda Rae Gillam suffered fatal injuries in the same accident and died a few hours later in the Mercy Hospital at Mason City. The report states further that the cause of the accident is undetermined and that it is possible that a wet pavement and a pavement shoulder of an inclining degree, could have thrown the approaching cars toward the center of the road.

Coroner Boughton states further "In further reference to not only this accident on highway No. 69, the coroner finds that including the above named people killed that there have been an additional six lives lost on this highway from Garner to Goodell, within the past few years, namely: Herman Ax, Loretta Frohling, Marjorie Nelson, Sanford Overlie, David Goodnature and Howard Boller, making a total of twelve deaths. In every instance the Coroner has found that excessive speed has been involved in the deaths, in which one car or another might have had a part. The Coroner further finds that this road has an inclined curbing at the edge of the highway which no doubt has much to do with causing an automobile to get out of control after hitting the pavement edge."

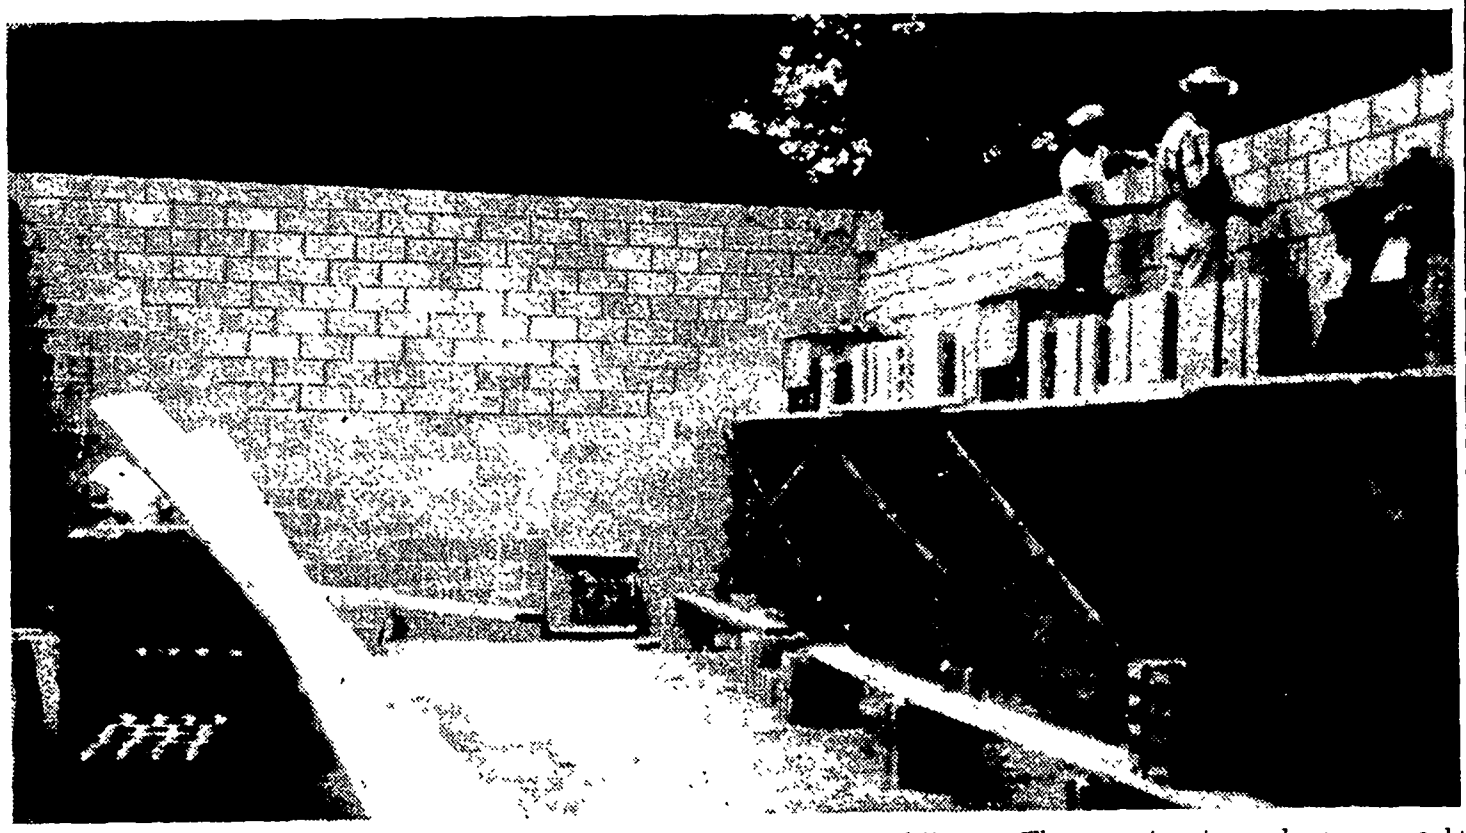
Completes Training

PFC. WILLIAM D. ROTHS

Marine Pfc. Willam D. Roths, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roths, Klemme, Iowa, recently completed four weeks of individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, California, following completion of basic training at the marine recruit depot there.

Pfc. Roths, who enlisted in the marines for three years, is awaiting further transfer in accordance with directives to be issued by the commandant of the marine corps.

School Building Addition to Bus Barn



Beck & Fisher, conractors of Clear Lake, are at present busy building an addition to the school's bus barn. The addition is of cement block and will be 24 feet wide and 40 feet long. The old building was 26 by 60 and was not large enough to accommodate all the buses. With the new addition, the building will house six buses, if need be. This year it will house the five buses the school now has plus the driver training car.

Two new 10 by 10 overhead doors will be hung at the street end of the structure to insure easy access for the buses.

The contractors began work last week and plan to complete the project by the first of August.

The new addition will be an improvement that will help to prolong the life of the school's vehicles, cutting down on expenses and making things easier for the drivers.

We would hate to have to earn our living by trying to farm in Northern Minnesota. In company with Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel, we took the latter part of last week for a fishing trip to that section of the country. We enjoyed the fishing, although we didn't catch too many, and we enjoyed the scenery. As nearly as we could tell, though, if farming were to be the means of a livelihood there would be some pretty "slim" dinner tables set.

There is much talk and argument about what we need to do to cut down the number of fatal highway accidents in Iowa. We know that all our roads can't be made four-lane affairs, but if the heavier traveled ones could be, we believe that fatalities would be fewer. Then if the ones that remained two-lane were widened to about 24 feet, we think there would be a further reduction.

One thing we hope our road planners will stay away from; that's three-lane highways. In our opinion they are more dangerous than what we have at present. Everyone who is in a hurry seems to assume that the third lane was put there especially for him. Can get pretty complicated.

We think that laws that are constantly broken by a good percentage of the public, either should be enforced or legislated out. If they are not, they merely breed contempt for the law in general.

Every time we get near to a truce in Korea something happens to "snafu" the works. Either the reds won't go along or else our so-called allies get all excited about some technicality. We are getting about fed up. We don't like the idea of a stalemate war. It is foreign to the American way of doing things. So is having someone whom we are trying to help tell us where to get off. We are to the point where if something doesn't happen soon, we think we should either go all out and win this thing, or else get out and leave them to their own devices. It's costing American lives every day as it is, and that we don't like either. If we have to lose men, we say let's lose them getting something done. If not, let's bring them all home.

We owe an apology to both Herman Baack and Herman Back. Last week when Herman Baack was taken to the hospital at Mason City, we left out an "a" in his name. Consequently, there was considerable confusion. Herman Back, who was not sick at all, had numerous telephone calls to answer. Then he had to explain what had happened. We are sorry for this and sorry that Herman Baack had to be hospitalized. However, we are glad to report that after undergoing surgery on Monday, the Mr. Baack who was sick, is coming along fine.

It has been said that an expert is an ordinary man away from home.

Golden ankle powder is the latest Parsian fad for women. Wearing the thinnest of stockings the ladies sprinkle this "gold dust" on the outside. When the light shines the ankles look as if they were encased in gold.

Threshing season is now in full swing in this community and a half-dozen or more rigs began work Monday. The grain is good and dry and threshing goes along fast this year.

This locality is experiencing a lot of hot, dry weather. Sunday was perhaps the hottest day of the year. The thermometer registered at 98 degrees at two o'clock, official weather reports say. A hot wind was also blowing which made it worse. A good heavy rain would do a lot of good as pastures are very dry. The corn is not hurt yet, but needs rain very soon.

Clarence Neuberger, farmer residing just south of Klemme, probably set the record in north Iowa this year for an early oats harvest. On July 12th he combined his field of oats. On that date very few fields had even been cut with a binder. He stated the oats was of good quality and uniform and tested 36 pounds per bushel.

If there are any medals to be passed out for early gardening this year, Dr. D. P. Anderson should be handed one for having the first sweet corn in the community. Dr Anderson and family have enjoyed sweet corn from their garden since as far back as last week Tuesday. C. G. Waterman is a close second as he had sweet corn from his garden Saturday.

Liberty Busy Bees

The front yard of Darlene Hrubes' was where the Liberty Busy Bees 4-H Club held their July meeting. Roll call was answered by "Why I Like 4-H". Bills were allowed for the 4-H reunion. Plans were discussed for Achievement Day. Our afternoon program consisted of a talk on "New Ideas for Window Treatment," by Barbara Hughes. "How to Make a Dresser Scarf with Mitered Corner" was a demonstration given by Miriam Stromen. Eunice Hueneman showed the "Steps in Framing a Picture." Talks on "Safety Pointers to Remember in your own Home" and Difference between a Boy's and a Girl's Room were given by Darlene Hrubes and Gail Knutson, respectively. Illustrated talks were given by Susan Hakerkamp on "How to Hang a Picture" and "What is a good Light and Where Should Lamps be Placed" by Gail Knutson.

The local Achievement Day will be August 5 at Miriam Stromers.

Good Guess

The State Highway Commission, making advance arrangements for the statewide interview survey is is conducting this summer, consulted its traffic records to estimate how many cars might pass through each check point. A close guess was necessary, in order to assign enough interviewers to each post to handle rush traffic without wasting manpower.

At a point west of Davenport on highway 6, traffic engineers estimated 5658 vehicles would pass, during a four-day check.

During the actual check, 5686 vehicles—28 more than estimated, passed through the interview station.

The interview survey continues into September. Motorists and truckers are asked where they are coming from, where they are headed, and what routes they are using, in Iowa. Data will help determine the feasibility of a toll road in Iowa, among other things.

WATER SAFETY

DON'T STAND UP!

Standing in a boat is an invitation to tragedy. Not only does a standing person risk his life, but also threatens to swamp the boat and its other passengers.

Hundreds of water deaths are caused each year by persons standing to cast bait, pull in an anchor, or change seats in a boat.

When pulling in the anchor, kneel in the bow of the boat; do not stand. When casting bait remain seated; the overhead cast is the safest and most efficient, anyway. If you decide to change seats in a boat, pull in to shore. There is no safe way to change seats in a boat in deep water.

So far this summer there have been two drownings in Iowa resulting from standing and moving about in boats. Whether or not there are more depends on you.

Keep Small Children Safe and Happy—

A Place To Play on the Farm

Youngsters can get into mischief and trouble mighty fast on a farm—especially the town child who comes visiting. He's eager to explore this new playground and hasn't had the same kind of safety training as his farm cousin on how to act around farm equipment and animals. This adventuresome 4-year-old scrambles up an elevator.

Your farmyard and farm buildings are no safe place for children to play—especially youngsters old enough to go looking for adventure but too young to recognize danger or understand your "be careful" or "don't touch" warning.

At least that's how farm safety specialists like Norval Wardle of Iowa State College feel about it. They know the record and they tell us that both fatal and nonfatal accidents to children take a much bigger toll than need be each year.

Fenced-in Yard

A small boy or girl under 5 or 6 needs a fenced-in yard with what can be the simplest of play equipment to keep his safe and happy in his outdoor play. Smooth planks and boxes, swing and sand box, shallow water tub or rubber pool, an empty barrel to roll or crawl through, a blanket tent, shovel, see-saw—these are the kinds of things he'll have fun with and keep learning from as he tries out new skills.

Of course, he'll want to explore the farmyard and buildings too. And there's no reason why he shouldn't get well acquainted with this part of his environment. So go along with him on these safaris and teach him a little more each trip about what the machines, equipment and animals are for and what's the right way to act around them. Then as he gets older he'll acquire a safety sense that will stay with him the rest of his life.

Farmyard Play

Actually, you may think that small son or daughter is safe circling and criss-crossing the farmyard on his tricycle. His dad and big brother know he's there and will watch out for him, you say to yourself.

This is how so many of those tragic accidents happen, according to Wardle. It's just about impossible to see a child directly in front of you from the driver's seat of tractor, truck or car. And you can't get a clear view of what's directly behind a truck or car when you're backing it. Children move so fast, you may think they're way on the other side of the yard when they've actually come in dangerously close to farm machinery or vehicles.

Town Visitors

You can gradually teach your own younster safety as he grows up, but you may need to start that close supervision all over again when his cousin or pal from town comes visiting. For here's a youngster eager to explore the farm but without the careful coaching your own child has received. He may get into trouble himself and dare or lead your own small fry into dangerous play.

If your child is old enough to take some responsiblity, he may be able to help a great deal in keeping his visitor out of trouble and telling how and why to keep clear of farm animals and machinery.

This week has been designated Farm Safety Week clear across the nation. And safety specialists are pooling and emphasizing their year-round efforts to bring you, the farm family, the information and inspiration that can make your living and that of your children safer.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

It's about time for another report on minor adventures of the highway patrol.

One young patrolman pulled off the highway to the frantic waves of a farmer who had come running down a lane at desperate speed. A baby was about to be born. A woman had to be rushed to the hospital.

The patrolman began clearing his back seat, but that wasn't the point. There were two small children who would have to be left in the farm house and no baby sitter.

While the farmer and his wife roared off toward the hospital, the patrolman settled down in the house to take care of the children until neighbors could arrive.

Evening church services had just let out when a father and mother counting noses in the family car, found one child missing. The boy could not be found. The highway patrol was called.

Who in the congregation drives a car like your own, the patrolmen asked the worried parents The minister had one just like it. So, the patrol took off in hot pursuit of the minister who was by now driving to another town, unaware a child was lost.

The patrol overtook the minister and cheerfully asked the amazed man if he were trying to "kidnap a boy". The minister was too surprised to answer until a patrolman flashed a light into the back seat to reveal blissfully sleeping younster.

The boy had wondered out of the church half asleep, climbed into the wrong car and dozed off. "Apparently carried away by my sermon", mused the minister.

Outline Minimum Needs for Cribs

Strong, Not Too Wide, Ventilated, Ratproof

To make room for additional corn storage on the farm, many Iowa farmers will build new storage space this year.

Regardless of the design or consruction material used in a corncrib, according to Iowa State College agricultural engineers, if it is to pay for itself in the long run it should meet the following minimum requirements:

It must have the strength to hold corn. It must provide for either natural or forced ventilation through all the stored corn. It should protect corn against weather, rodents and thieves and maintain grain quality for a 2- or 3-year period. And it should provide access for inspection

Good Foundation

A good foundation, the engineers say, should have a bottom area equal to at least 1 square foot for each 40 bushels of stored ear corn.The building frame should be rigidly attached to the foundation to prevent spreading of the base or possible wind damage.

Since fairly well dried corn may take water from the air in certain seasons—with resulting expansion—it is important to build extra strength into cribs that are to store the same corn for more than one year.

To protect against wind damage when the crib is empty, use a series of X-braces fairly closely spaced or solid partitions at intervals of about 16 feet. If there is a chance you may ever want to use artificial ventilation in the crib, use heavy sidewall framing and partitions instead of X-bracing.

Width for Your Area

If you are depending on natural ventilation, crib width is critical. In six counties in extreme Iowa, cribs should be no wider than 6 feet. In the rest of northeast Iowa limit the width to not more than 7 feet. Eight feet is satisfactory in the rest of the state. At least 8 or 10 percent of the wall area should be openings. Cribs using natural ventilation should not be sheltered by other buildings, trees or high embankments.

If you are going to use forced ventlation, design to have air pass through all corn and through a uniform depth or thickness. In this kind of design X-braces are not desirable because air escapes throngh gaps in the corn below the braces when the corn shrinks in drying. If air is to be forced from one side of the crib to the other, the end walls must be tightly sided to prevent escape or air through corners of the crib.

Since there is increasing emphasis on clean grain, ratproof new cribs with hardware cloth and sheet metal.

Poultry feed costs have held steady while egg prices during the spring months have been at record high levels. This should mean that the 1953 gross income for poultrymen will exceed that of 1951, which was good, USDA economists say.

PMA Ballots Must Be Returned By July 24th

A strong appeal for every farmer to participate in the annual township elections of the Production and Marketing Administration was made this week by A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the Hancock county PMA committee.

He pointed out that farmers have only until Friday of this week (July 24) to mark and return the ballots which were sent to them by mail several days ago. To be counted, the ballots must be in the county PMA office by closing time Friday afternoon or be postmarked by midnight of Friday. The counting will take place next Monday (July 27) and the results will be announced as soon as the tabulations are completed.

"Success of our PMA programs depends on the selection of capable qualified men to administer them," Chairman Rasmussen declared, "and it is up to the farmers themselves to select the proper men in our annual township elections. If you haven't marked your ballot, you owe it to yourself and your neighbors and community to do so now. A record vote will be cast if everyone does his part.

To be elected in each township are three PMA township committeemen, two alternate committeemen, one delegate to the county PMA convention and an alternate delegate. The county convention wil be held at Garner on August 1 to name the county PMA committeemen. The county and township committeemen will be named for one-year terms August 3.

Ell Tip Toppers

The Ell Tip Toppers held their regular meeting at Roxanne Back's on July 16, 1953. It was called to order by the president, Doreen Lackore, and roll call was answered by 14 members.

Plans for local camp at Clear Lake were made and discussed. Plans for our local Achievement Show were made and discussed. Our committee are as follows:

Advertising, Emily Goll, Jane Renner, Gracka Gerardi, and Joyce Thiemann; Program - LaVohn Josten, Doreen Lackore, and Carol Humphrey; Dishwashing - Elaine Jurgemeyer, Luaine Weiland, Jane Renner and Joyce Thiemann; Cleanup - Betty Clayton, Lois Weiland, Barbara Clayton, Roxanne Back and Maurine Johnson; Kitchen Helpers - Eva Thiemann, Emily Goll, Doreen Lackore ad Carol Humphrey; Candy Sellers - Gracka Gerardi, Myrna Barz, Ginger Kudje and Rosalie Rosendahl.

Our program for the afternoon consisted of a talk "Citizenship" by Betty Clayton; a report on Convention by Doreen Lackore; a demonstration "Flower Arrangements" by Myrna Barz and Emily Goll and a demonstration on "Scratches and Dents" by Roxanne Back and Elaine Jurgemeyer.

Iowa Beef Producers Field Day to be July 31

Friday, July 31, has been set for the Iowa Beef producers Association Field day and annual meeting at Hawkeye Downs, Cedar Rapids, it was announced ton, Iowa, president of the association.

The Iowa Beef Producers Association represents the beef cattle industry of Iowa, including both commercial cattle producers and feeders, and purebred breeders.

Holbert stated that the program will deal with problems currently confronting the cattle industry, including the outlook for cattle and beef, the situation in the West, the consumer market for beef and government policies affecting the beef business. A representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture from Washington, D. C., will be on hand to discuss the government program, according to Holbert.

Working with Iowa Beef Producers Asociation in sponsoring the Field Day will be the Cedar Rapids Shamber of Commerce, the All Iowa Fair and Wilson & Co.

College To Suspend Nitrogen Soil Test

The soil tests for nitrogen which have been made on all soil samples by the Iowa State College Soil Testing Laboratory since May 1 will be suspended on September 1, reports Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

But, he says, there is still time for Hancock County farmers who want the nitrogen test to get samples sent in time to have their reports before ordering fertliziers in time to beat the September 1 halt on testing for nitrogen.

The reason for the suspension of this test—and it is a suspenion, not the end of this service—is that the fall rush of samples is too great for the laboratory to handle if technicians take the needed time to make the nitrogen test. Henderson says the laboratory receives half of all samples to be tested for the year during September, October and November. And to keep their service as rapid as possible they will eliminate the nitrogen test until the rush season is past.

This soil test for nitrogen, Henderon points out, was the first of its kind offered to farmers in any part o the country. And farmers who take advantage of the time remaining to get this test will have recommendations for soil treatments—based on soil test—for nitrogen as well as for lime, phosphate and potash.

County Judges Picked

Many thanks go to farmers and members who participated in the judging workouts.

The farmers and 4-H members who loaned the 4-H boys their livestock are as follows: E. A. Christensen, Ronald Brozik, Addis Greiman, Wayne Greiman, Curtiss Greiman, Alfred Jurgemeyer, Forrest Eckels, Everett Sheets, Harum Kurtzleben, Don Faust, Floyd Friedow, John Eekhoff and George Guenther.

Eight boys were picked for the final judging team last year will be given a chance to defend their positions. The four boys were Byron Greimann, Ell; Merle Oxley, Magor; Darrell Goll, Ell and Dennis Hayes, Madison.

The other four boys to try out for the judging team are Lyle Goll, Ell; Jim Hayes, Madison; Paul Smith and Gerald Gabel, Amsterdam.

Dennis Hayes had the high score for the four workouts with 2285 out of 2600. Lyle Goll was second with 2095 out of 2500, Gerald Gabel was third with 2010 out of 2400 and Paul Smith with 1955 out of 2400.

Esther Circle Met

Esther Circle met in the Methodist Church parlors Tuesday evening with Mrs. Francis Johnson and Mrs. T. G. Ahrenkiel as hostesses.

Mrs. Asa Arnold presented an interesting lesson, including a playlet with several members taking part and a vocal solo by Mrs. Marvin Lemke.

Twenty members were present for the business meeting and social hour which followed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Supervisors Transfer Funds; Award Contract

Hancock County Supervisors Monday ordered a transfer of $10,000 from the County Emergency to the County poor fund and $50,000 from the Road Construction Road Maintenance fund. Both transfers must be approved by the State Comptroller before they become effective. Excessive demands on both the County Poor and County Road Maintenance funds were advanced as the reason for ordering the transfer.

The board also approved the official bond of William Henschen drainage engineer on Hancock County Drainage district No. 38 and awarded a contract to the Woodford Wheeler Lumber Company of Garner to furnish 100 tons of oil treated stoker coal for the Hancock County home. The Woodford Wheeler's bid of $10 a ton was low at a letting held Monday afternoon.

G.S.C.S. Picnic

On Sunday evening, July 12th, thirty G. S. C. S. girls and friends had a hamburger fry at the state park at Clear Lake. They were rained out several times, but finally between showers, they got the picnic over with. Afterwards, they spent an enjoyable evening at Bayside.

Rev. Egeland Will Attend Institute At Lake Forest, Illinois

Rev. E. Morris Egeland will leave on Monday for Lake Forest, Illinois to attend the World Missions Institute to be held on the campus of Lake Forest College from Monday to Friday of next week. The institute, an interdenomination meeting, is sponsored by the Midwest Committee of World Missions and several departments of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America.

Appearing as leaders on the program will be a number of out-standing missionary personalities including Dr. F. Olin Stockwell, Methodist Missionary in China, recently released and repatriated after a fourteen month imprisonment by Chinese Communists. Attending the meeting will be representatives of the major protestant denominations. Mr. Egeland will attend as Missionary Secretary of the Algona District of the Methodist Church.

High Yielding Legumes Most Profitable

Whether you grow a legume crop to supply forage for livestock, or only as a soil builder, or both, the best crop you grow will give the best returns.

That was one of the important points on crop rotations emphasized by W. D. Shrader at the summer field day on the Iowa State College Agronomy Farm, according to the report of Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

Shrader has been working on the long-time records from rotation experiments which have been under way on hte Agronomy Farm since 1915, Henderson says. He discussed some of the findings of that study with visitors at the field day.

A high-yielding legume crop, Shrader said, supports a big corn crop the next year. On plots where the legume yield averaged 2 tons per acre, the next corn crop averaged 65 bushels of corn. But where the legume yield averaged 3 tons per acre, the following corn yield went to 80 bushels on the average—an increase of 15 bushels following the better yield.

On the basis of those figures, Henderson points out, the good legume pays twice— more hay or pasture and corn.

These rotation studies have been under way for 38 years, Henderson says, and they are grown on Clarion, Webster and Nicollet soils, similar to those found in a large area in north central Iowa.

Use of manure in the crop rotation has been under study for a long time at the Agronomy Farm at Ames. Rates of 8 tons, 12 tons, and 20 tons of manure per 4-year rotation of corn-corn-oats-meadow have beeen applied and the results measured, Henderson explains.

At the field day, Shrader told the visitors that 8 tons of manure made just as much corn the first year after meadow as did the heavier rates. But in the second-year-corn, the amount of manure applied the previous year showed up. Second-year corn-that is corn 2 years away from both the manure application and the meadow—averaged 12 bushels less than first-year corn at the 8 ton rate, but only 5 bushels less at the 20 ton manure rate.

Another fact that's important for he farmer who uses legumes frequently and regularly in his rotation is that the legume crop builds the nitrogen supply and helps improve the working conditions of the soil, but it uses up lots of phosphate and potassium. In fact, Schrader said, we are getting the biggest responses on these plots to the phosphate and potash applications, rather than nitrogen application. Heavy yields of legumes, he added, uses up much more potassuim and phosphate than do big corn yields.

6TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa
July 13, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clinton D. Daniels present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second Wm Henschen, Garner, is hereby appointed Engineer to make an investigation into the necessity and feasibility of the repair of D. D. No 69 through section 14, Britt Township petitioned for by Richard Schubert which petition was filed July 7, 1952. Said Engineer to report to this Board at his earliest convenience.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 49-1-125, Main and Supervisor Daniels D. D. No. 122.

On motion and second the bond of Doris Young, Trustee, is hereby approved.

On motion and second the Hancock County Farm Bureau application for additional appropriation of $2,000.00 under Sec. 176.8 Code of Iowa, 1950, is hereby approved.

On motion and second notice of non-residence is hereby ordered served on Arthur and Grace Perin of Magor Township and on George and Mable Vance of Avery Township.

This being the 13th day of July, 1953, a date heretofore fixed for an adjourned hearing on the proposed construction of D. D. No. 159, petitioned for by Florence Eenhuis, et al, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the report and amended reports of the Engineer recommending such establishment being on file and the Board being fully advised, said adjourned hearing was held as scheduled.

The amended report of the Engineer was read by the County Auditor. All objectors and proponents were given an opportunity to discuss the necessity and feasibility of the establishment of said proposed construction of D. D. No. 159 and objections thereto, as recommended in the reports of the Engineer, Ralph H. Wallace. All objections, oral and written were considered by the Board and the damage commission's report was thoroughly discussed. On motion by Supervisor Bird and second by Supervisor Barber the damage commission's report on said proposed D. D No. 159 is hereby approved, as submitted and effective June 2, 1953 no further claims for damages will be allowed in accordance with sec. 455.20 Code of Iowa 1950 and laws amendatory thereto. After such consideration of objections and claims of damages, it was deemed conducive to public health, welfare, convenience and utility and the benefits to be derived will be greater than the costs thereof and that said construction of D. D. No. 159 be established as petitioned.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 159, petitioned for by Florence Eenhuis, et al, which district is to be constructed through lands listed in the Engineer's reports, be and the same is hereby established.

On motion by Supervisor Barber and second by Supervisor Bird that the proposed construction of D. D. No. 159 be established in accordance with the recommendation of the Engineer's report and amended reports and plans on file and with the damage commission's report, all in accordance with Sec 455.28 and 455.33, Code of Iowa 1950 and laws amendatory thereto, and the hour of 1:30 P. M. on the 6th day of August, 1953 at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, is hereby fixed as a time and place for the letting of the construction thereof

The County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of such letting to be published in the Kanawha Reporter, a newspaper of general circulation, published at Kanawha, Iowa, which notice shall request bids on labor and material for the construction of said drainage improvement, the time of commencement and completion, the approximate amount and kind of work to be done, that the Board reserves the right to waive technicalities and to reject any or all bids, all in accordance with Chapter 455 Code of Iowa 1950.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clinton D. Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption, and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clinton D. Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to July 20, 1953 at 9 o'clock A. M.

Iowa History Course Starts at Mason City

The community college of Drake university will offer a three-week course in Mason City starting July 27.

"Iowa History" will be taught by Dr. William D. Houlette assistant professor of history at Drake.

The class wil meet daily Monday through Friday, to August 14. Hours will be arranged at an organizational meeting July 27 at 9 a m. in the high school. A minimum enrollment of 20 is required.

The second to be offered by Drake in Mason City this summer, the history course will carry three semester hours of credit.

Avery Sunbeams Meet

The meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of Donna Barkema, on Friday, July 3rd. Thirteen members answered roll call by bringing a picture of a room she would like to own.

Since we are studying Home Furnishings this year, our club has planned to take a tour in Mason City at the Town and Country Furniture Store.

A talk was given by Candace Carlson on selecting cushion tops. Another talk, "How to Clean and Store Brushes," was given by Joann Helps.

Darlene Ostendorf gave a demonstration on "Making and Treating Cleaning Mitts." Afterward, each girl made one and took it home.

July 28th was set as the day for our local achievment show.

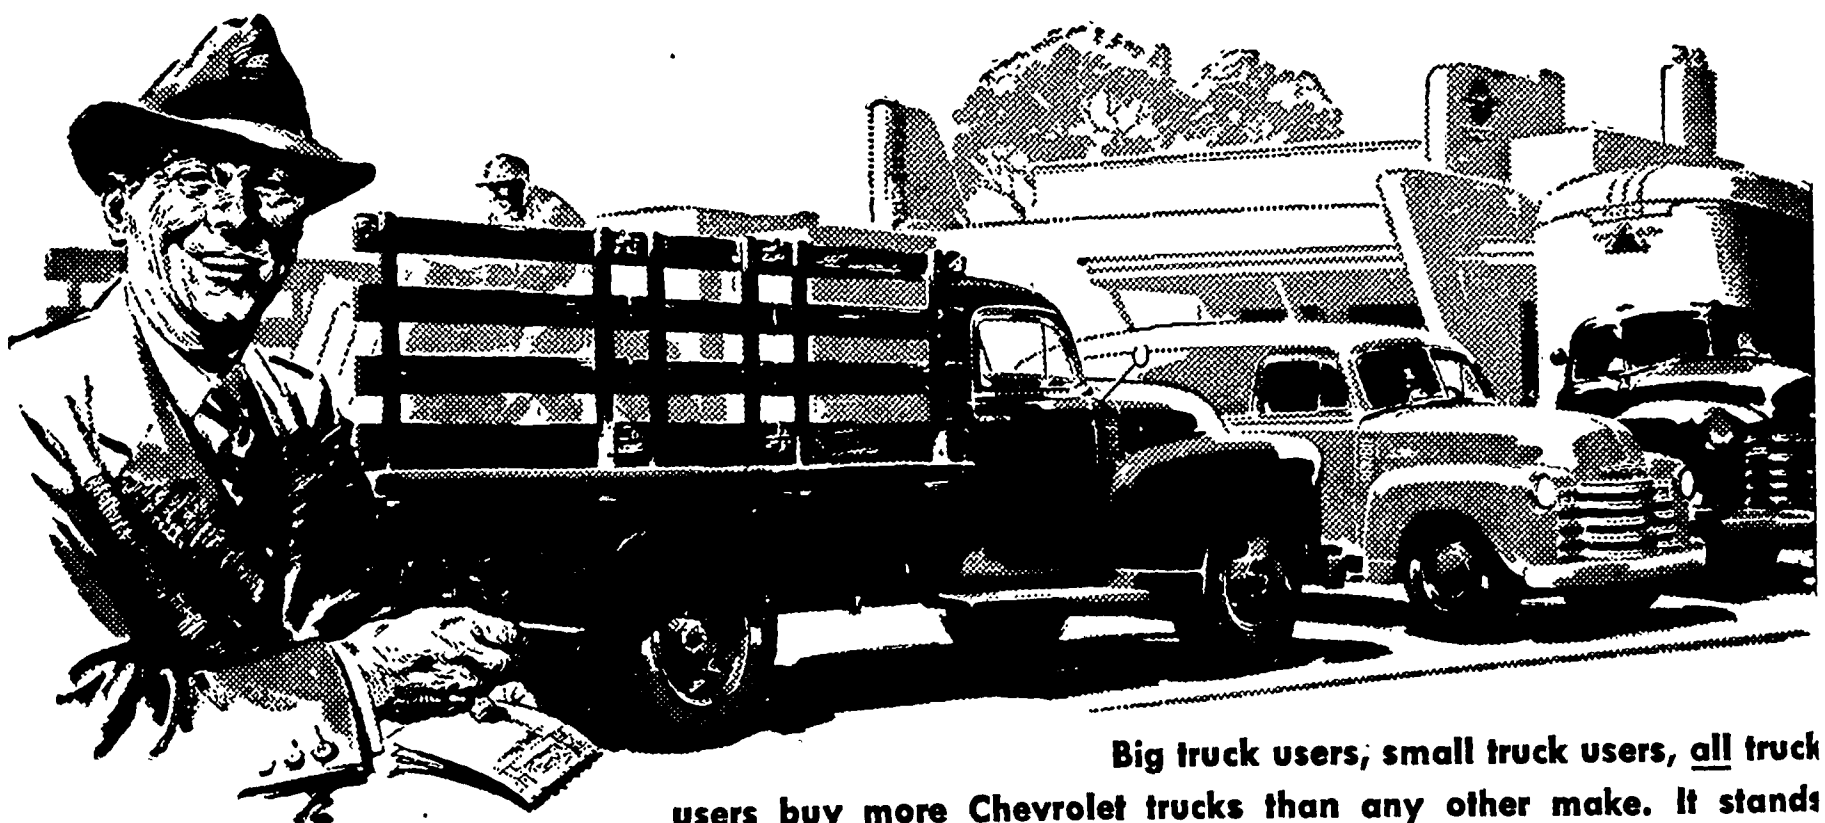
It stands to reason...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!



Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. They're the top selling trucks in America today . . . for the twelfth straight production year.

This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all! Come in and talk it over with us.

Mrs. John Etchen and Mrs. Betty Radics and son, Mark, were Saturday evening visitors at the Oscar Swanson home.

Mrs. Myrtle Jacobs and Lois Ann were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Wistey in Clear Lake.

Mrs. Dora Lawhorn and daughter and Miss Mary Swanson spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swanson.

Mrs. Esther Barz and Edward and Mrs. Naska Bock drove to Vernon Center, Minnesota, Sunday, for a visit at the Ernest Palmby home.

Dick Dulmes and Roger Terhufen spent the week end at the Will Mutch home in Grundy Center. From what we can gather, the boys spent most of their time in the swimming pool.

Sunday visitors at the T. G. Ahrenkiel home were Mrs. Ahrenkiel's mother, Mrs. Elmer Boeke, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hugh Clark and daughter. The ladies are from Conrad.

Mrs. Sophia Van Huesen of Garner and Mrs. Naska Bock drove to Mason City, Friday afternoon for a visit with Mrs. Hattie Lutz, who was celebrating her 95th birthday. Mrs. Lutz is an aunt of Mrs. Bock's, and Mrs. Van Huesen's mother.

Mrs. Mildred Day spent Friday visiting with Mrs. Mary Jane Jorgenson and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson, Jr. and children at Garner. Mrs. Jorgenson, Jr. and her children will be returning to their home at Amherst, Texas in the near future.

Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel and Ye Ed spent the latter part of last week on a fishing trip to Northern, Minnesota. We got a few fish, but we believe if we had worked Clear Lake as hard as we worked the lake up there, we would probably have gotten just as many.

Duane Polsdofer drove to Osceola, Iowa, Friday evening and visited at the Art Hanson home and with Elda Polsdofer, who is employed as telephone operator in Osceola. He also went to Corydon and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bud Polsdofer. He returned home Tuesday evening.

Lemke Family Holds Reunion At Clear Lake

The Lemke reunion was held Sunday, July 26th at McIntosh Woods State Park at Clear Lake with 60 relatives and friends in attendance.

After a bounteous picnic dinner, the afternoon was spent in visiting, playing horse shoe, swimming, and various other games.

The oldest member of the family present was Mrs. Will Beier of Goodell, and the youngest was Rev. William Lemke's son from York, Nebraska.

A short business meeting was held and officers for the coming year are Mrs. Clarence Lemke of Klemme, president; Mrs. Dick Clark of Garner, vice president; and Mrs. Leonard Swanson of Klemme, secretary-treasurer.

The reunion next year will be held on the fourth Sunday in July at the shelter house in the State Park at Clear Lake.

Those present this year were: Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lemke and family and Kay Steward of Des Moines, Jimmy Kennedy of Rock Island, Nebraska, Rev. and Mrs. William Lemke and family of York, Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. James Lilly of Cedar Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Monnie Mitchell of Mason City, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Volkman of Nora Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Clark of Clear Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Beier of Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Lemke, Miss Helen Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Laurice Lemke and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Lemke, Mrs. Minnie Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lemke and family and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohn and family of Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lemke and Pamela, Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swanson and Janice, Miss Cozette Lau, Miss Elaine Neuberger, and Miss Daisy Schaefer of Klemme.

Re-decorates Station

Bert Lieuwen, proprietor of Bert's Standard Service, has given his station a face lifting. All the outside trim has been given a fresh coat of white paint and the inside of the station has been brightened up with light blue walls and dark trim.

Besides the painting, Mr. Lieuwen has rearranged some of the shelving, and built some new shelves. The station is very attractive now, and everything is displayed in a neat and orderly manner.

There is nothing like a coat of paint to brighten up a building . . . inside or out.

Weiland Resigns As Co-Op. Tank Wagon Man; Back Hired

Everett Weiland, who for a number of years has driven one of the tank wagons out of Klemme for the Hancock County Cooperative Oil Association, has resigned his position effective on August 1st.

Hired by the board of directors to take his place, is Graydon Back. Mr. Back has purchased Mr. Weiland's truck and beginning August 1st, will be on the job. He is well qualified for the position, as he has driven a tank wagon for for H. E. Barz for the past six and a half years.

Mr. Back has been riding around the route with Mr. Weiland this week in order to familiarize himself with the customers and the record routine. Mr. Weiland has no definite plans for the future, but will probably take it easy for a while.

Entertains at Governor's Banquet at Clear Lake

Last Saturday and Sunday were Governor's Days at Clear Lake, and activities honoring the Governor were many and varied.

Saturday evening there was a banquet in his honor at the All-Vets Social Center. Furnishing the music during the banquet was Ernest Gerardi, local accordion virtuoso. Mr. Gerardi is called on quite often to entertain at banquets and meetings in this section of the country, and those who have heard him know that his accordion music is a real treat.

Camera men from WOI-TV were on hand at the Governor's Days celebration and filmed the various events. Present plans call for these films to be aired on August the 6th, so if you want to see what went on we would suggest you watch the TV program guide in the Sunday Register for further details. It's quite possible that you'll see Mr. Gerardi in your screen.

The Garner chapter of the American Red Cross recently received a check in the sum of $1250.00 as a reimbursement for funds advanced in emergency cases as a result of the losses suffered in the May 10th tornado which swept through the east edge of Hancock county. Total funds advanced by the Garner chapter totaled $1604.62 according to Anna B. Williams, Secretary, and the local chapter will accept the sum of $354.62 as its contribution for emergency relief.

Central Iowa Telephone Co. Asks Franchise

Rain and Wind

This vicinity was visited by a welcome rain Tuesday evening. Oats harvest is nearly completed so the rain caused little if any trouble there. What damage it might have done to the oats should be made up on the good that was done for the corn.

The nearly two inches of rain that fell was accompanied by a short-lived high wind. A few tree branches were down and some of the corn was bent over, but the over-all benefits more than made up for any damage.

Conservation Commission Tells How to Secure Deer License

Klemme sportsmen are no doubt aware of the fact that the Iowa Conservaion has decided to declare an open season on deer this year. This will be the first time in 75 years that hunters will be able to legally kill deer in Iowa, and the five-day season will run from December 10 through December 14. Shooting hours will be from 9:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. and legal weapons will be bows and arrows and shotguns using rifled slugs.

Licenses will be issued only to Iowa residents, and farmers and their families or tenants living on the farm are not required to have a license for hunting deer on their own land.

Hunters who will need a license must submit an application to the Commission or their local conservation officer. The application must be accompanied by a check or money order for $15, and must be in not later than November 15. If total applications exceed 20,000, a lottery will be held to decide who will be the lucky ones to be granted licenses.

Injured In Korea

We are in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Harold Shoop of Irving, Texas, in which she states that her son, Marvin "Gene" Stevens was wounded in action in Korea on July 20th. She says that she is sure Gene would appreciate mail at this time, and for any that would care to write to him she includes the following address:

PFC. Marvin E. Stevens,
USMC 1191770
Marine Director Section,
Navy 850, c/c FPO

English Teacher Resigns; Forrest Hiller Hired To Fill Vacancy

Franklin Cappon, Jr., who has taught English in the Klemme High School for the past three years has resigned his position and has accepted a job as manager of a printing plant in Plainsfield, New Jersey. Besides teaching English, Mr. Cappon was coach of the boys athletic teams, and dramatic coach. Due to an attack of polio, he resigned his position last spring but planned to stay on as English teacher and dramatics coach.

According to an announcement by Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel, Forrest R. Hiller of Jewell, has been hired to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Cappon.

FORREST R. HILLER

Mr. Hiller is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers College, and taught the past year in Manistee, Michigan. He will teach English, have charge of the school annual, and the school paper, and will be dramatic coach.

Ex-Marshal Writes

We recently received a letter from H. J. Smid, who lives in San Francisco, California. He stated that they certainly appreciated getting The Times and reading all the home town news. He said he would like to have Mayor Cook out there and take him for a ride over some of the city's extremely steep hills.

Hank said his mother-in-law from Clear Lake had been visiting them recently, and says that anybody from out this way will be welcome visitors if they stop at his place. He also said to tell all the old gang, hello, and expressed the wish that everybody here might be well and happy.

Voters Will Decide Question At Polls On August 27th

As of this week, the Central Iowa Telephone Company is causing publication of legal notices, pertaining to a franchise agreement with the Town of Klemme, to appear in The Times.

A special election will be held on August 27th to give voters a chance to decide whether or not they want the company to have the assurance of good will that a franchise implies.

Company representatives met with the Town Council on the 21st day of July and the first and second readings of the proposed ordinance covering the franchise were read. The ordinance was then tabled for a week and read again at a meeting with the council on Tuesday evening. The council then adopted the ordinance.

In this ordinance, the company asks the right to use the streets and alleys of Klemme for the purpose of constructing and maintaining equipment necessary to give adequate telephone service, both local and long distance, for a period of twenty-five years. The franchise that they ask is not an exclusive one and would allow the voters of Klemme to grant a similar franchise to any other telephone company.

We learned in a conversation with Gilbert Jones, local manager, that during the past five years, the company has spent over $48,000 for bettering the system and the service of the Klemme exchange. $20,640 of this amount went for the improvement of the cable system in town, and $28,000 went for metalizing and regrouping rural lines.

Mr. Jones also informed us that improvements in the system cost money and they have to be financed by the sale of bonds. In order to interest investors in these bonds, the company has to be able to show that they have a future in the community where the money is spent. Hence the request for the franchise.

According to state law, 25 years is the maximum period for which a franchise can be granted, and that is the length of time for which most towns grant them. Mr. Jones further stated that under a franchise agreement the people of Klemme would be assured of the best service that the company would be able to give, and would benefit from a constantly improving telephone system.

All of the expenses of the forthcoming franchise election, as required by law, will be assumed by the company.

The Ruth Circle met at the home of Miss Leona Lau, Thursday, July 23rd, with 14 members present. Nova Stokesbary was co-hostess, and the lesson was given by Mrs. Leonard Swanson.

Comptroller Approves Fund Transfer

The recent transfer of funds in the sum of $50,000 from the Road Construction to Road Maintenance fund and $10,000 from the Emergency fund to the County Poor fund ordered by the board of supervisors has been approved by the State Comptroller and transfers have been ordered by Auditor Maynard Schoneman.

Ice Cream Social Is Recreation Highlight

Music Mothers Sell Out As Large Crowd Enjoys Summer Event

The ice cream social, planned and put on by the Klemme Music Mothers Saturday night, was probably the recreation highlight of the summer season for people in the Klemme community.

The central block of main street, through the courtesy of Mayor Cook and the Town Council, was roped off for the occasion to make for plenty of room for everyone to mill around and visit with friends and neighbors, and to give the Music Mothers ample space to set up plenty of tables where customers could sit down and relax while partaking of ice cream and their favorite cake or pie.

Adding to the evening's enjoyment, was accordionist Ernest Gerardi. Ernie came home from Clear Lake, where he had played for the governor's banquet at Clear Lake, and played for another two hours on the street here. He played the sort of music that makes for easy listening and relaxation. When some folks began to dance on the street, he began to mix up his tunes, to make for better dancing. His musical contribution was appreciated by everyone.

The Klemme band had worked up a fine program for the evening, too, and director Whitford and his band members did a fine job in their usual Saturday night stint.

Miss JoAnn Bacon sang a solo, accompanied by the band, that was well presented and well received.

All-in-all, it was a very enjoyable evening for everyone. The kids had a fine time playing in the roped off area, the dancers enjoyed themselves, the older folks enjoyed visiting and watching the younger ones, and those who partook of the refreshments on sale by the Music Mothers, found them delicious as is evidenced by the fact that they sold out of everything except a few drops of coffee.

In line with our present thinking along the lines of improving our highways to preserve lives, comes a booklet from the Portland Cement Association. The booklet, although obviously designed to promote the sale of cement for concrete roads, shows some beautiful pictures of some of our country's wonderful turnpikes and expressways.

No doubt this same booklet will find its way into the hands of some of our legislators and highway department officials. If so, we hope that they will take note of the fact that the highways pictured therein are about as nearly accident proof as highways can be made, and do something about getting us some of the same calibre.

It's getting so that you hate to venture out on the highway. The ones we have were just never meant for the amount of traffic that they are called upon to handle. Wider roads and better engineering will help, and the use of a little common sense by everyone who gets behind the wheel of a car will help.

We hope that the present survey the highway department is conducting will bring about some drastic changes in our road program.

It's a far cry from the old steam rig that used to go around the country doing the threshing, to the modern day combine. In those days, threshing was a job that might require a month to six weeks of a farmers time. Now, with favorable weather, he gets his harvesting done in a week at the outside.

Anyone who has worked in a threshing run will tell you that they miss the horse play and the big meals that used to go with getting the oats in the bin, but we haven't heard any of them say that they would like to go back to that way of getting things done.

We see that Governor Beardsley may be considering seeking renomination to the governorship of our state. He must have forgotten that "Ike" is not going to be on the ticket this time, and there won't be any coat tails to ride in on.

A business forms company from Minneapolis sent out a post card mailing recently which we thought carried quite a thought-provoking message. We quote as follows:

"I am a Rush Job. I belong to no one age, for men have always hurried.
I pervade all human endeavor.
Men believe me necessary, but falsely.
I rush today because I was not planned yesterday.
I demand excessive energy and concentration.
I override obstacles, though at great expense.
I illustrate the old saying "Haste makes waste".
....
My path is strewn with the veils of overtime, fatigue, mistakes and disappointments.
Accuracy and quality give way to speed.
Ruthlessly I rush on.
The goal must be reached.
I am a Rush Job."

According to rulings set down by a judge in southeast Iowa this week, we have not been at war. He stated that in order for there to be a war, congress has first to declare it as such . . . and this has never been done.

We guess perhaps he and congress were both right. For all the excitement there has been since the signing of the truce, one would never know that anything had happened.

The boys that were on the battle lines knew it happened, though, and don't think that they aren't glad. Any reprieve from combat is a Godsend to the soldier. Like us, they don't know whether or not the truce will bring about lasting peace, but we'll bet that any respite from constant fear is more than welcome to them.

Those folks at home who have men who have been in the fighting over there are glad to see this truce, too. They know that while the truce is on, their loved one is safe.

We can think of a lot of reasons why this truce is a good thing, and we know that every one else can, too.

Now that the UN and the communists have finally gotten together on something, we hope that they can set down at a conference table and thresh out some of the differences still between them and get this whole mess straightened out. If they don't, then we are still going to have a war on our hands . . . whether or not congress declares it as such.

Bouquets this week go to the following:

The Klemme Music Mothers for Saturday night's well- planed ice cream social.

To Mr. Whitford and the Klemme School band for their fine program.

To Mayor Cook and the Town Council for allowing the street to be blocked off.

To Ernest Gerardi for the fine accordion music he furnished for the occasion.

We have taken a sampling of opinion up and down the street while gathering ads and news for this issue, and we find that a large percentage of the people like very much the idea of the blocked off street on Saturday night.

First comment of nearly everyone talked to was that it gave the kids a good place to run and play without danger from cars.

Another comment that several people voiced was that it gave the older folks a chance to get out of their cars and visit. There are times when it's mighty warm and uncomfortable to sit in a car all evening, but a few benches here and there, make a good place to sit and talk and take advantage of the cool evening air.

We don't know how the city fathers feel about such an arrangement, but it is something to think about.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

All morning Wayne itched to get his hands on the wheel. He watched Jim, who was driving, for signs of fatigue and hinted, "Be glad to spell you Jim anytime you get tired."

The two of them were driving west in Jim's car, an automobile with more horsepower than Wayne had ever had under his hands.

"You just don't get tired driving this car," Jim said.

But late in the afternoon, the lowering sun became hard to drive against. Jim gave it up when they stopped for gas and Wayne slid under the wheel.

It was there, all right, more power than his foot had ever stepped on. With the slightest urging the car lifted easily into a kind of speed that was new to him.

It was a dominating kind of power, an authority of speed that seemed to operate in a level above ordinary considerations deserving privilege.

"I'll never be able to drive my old clunker after this," Wayne said. "This car will do anything."

That must have been in his mind when he drew up behind a comparitively slow moving car on a hill. He must have felt the automobile in his hands could pass in a flicker.

He tried it and, a few seconds later, was turning desperately for the left ditch, trying to avoid the oncoming car. Unfamiliar with a car he over-estimated, Wayne lived to wonder if the three who died had passed quickly and without much pain.

Suggest Cribs of Poles, Snow-Fence

Easy to Build; Cost 30-35 Cents, Bushel

Yop can put up a temporary for 30 to 35 cents per bushel of storage space, according to C. H. Van Vlack, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College.

This crib will last you several years. Some have been in use in Iowa since 1948. And when you are finished with it, the material can be salvaged for other building purposes. Another important factor is that it doesn't require skilled labor to build it.

Make the shell for this crib with 16-foot creosoted poles set in the ground 5 feet apart, crosstied at the top with twisted No. 9 wire; with 2 by 6 girts; 2 by 4 rafters; spaced or solid roof heathing and roofing material The floor can be loose boards laid in stringers made of single-course concrete blocks laid dry, end to end, over a leveled earth or gravel fill. Low X-braces and ties are eliminated from this plan so the crib will be suitable in case it is used for artificial drying.

Provide for Shelling

Line the shell with snow fence. drop in emptying doors made of 1 by 4's for shelling out, put hatches in the roof for filling, and you have a corncrib.

You can get the plan sheet for this crib from the Agricutural Engineering Extension Service at Iowa State College, Ames, or through your county extension director. Ask for Midwest Plan No. 73271.

With 16-foot poles and actual inside crib width of 8 feet, you can count on 32 bushels of storage capacity for each running foot of length.

Watch Widths

The crib width is important. Experience has shown that the maximum width of the crib that will store ear corn safely varies with different parts of the state. This has led to the following maximum width recommendations:

Northeast Iowa (Howard, Winneshiek, Clayton and Allamakee counties, 6-foot maximum.

North and East (North and east of a diagonal line from Osceola County to Clinton County), 7-foot maximum.

Southwest (Harrison, Shelby, Cass, Adams, Taylor and other counties south and west), 9-foot

Rest of state, 8-foot maximum.

Price Should Be About Normal—$2.25 to $2.50

There is no hurry about buying seed oats this year, and the prices should be normal—about $2.25 to$2.50 a bushel.

This is the word from Joe L. Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Crop Improvement ,Association at Ames Robinson says there will be adequate supplies of most recommended varieties of seed oats.

Lots of Mo. O-205

Robinson received special inquiries by farmers about Missouri O-205 and he made a survey of growers of certified Missouri O-205 seed. This shows there are 400,000 bushels of this seed available in Iowa, 800,000 bushels in Illinois and 100,000 bushels in Missouri. Drouth cut the yield in Missouri. This survey includes only certified seed. There are other sources of Missouri O-205 seed but this additional seed is not certified.

Robinson points out that while Missouri O-205 showed up well this year because of it resistance to race 7 stem rust, the 1953 situation is unusual. The loses from stem rust have not been so severe in Iowa since 1926. Nemaha and Cherokee also, planted early, yielded well.

Have List of Growers

Robinson says Missouri O-205 is specially recommended for southern Iowa. It is somewhat resistant to septoria and also crown rust. It has a thin stem. Robinson has distributed lists of growers of certified Missouri O-205 seed to Iowa county extension directors for use of farmers in their counties. You may also get the list by writing to Joe L. Robinson, secretary, Iowa Crop Improvement Association Iowa State College, Ames.

Farms Scored for Achievement Awards

A part of the order of business of the July meeting of Hancock County Soil Conservation District Commissioners was scoring of farms entered in the Iowa Soil Conservation Achievement Awards Program. Each farm entered was visited by District Commissioners Ben Riemer and S. A. Barber and Vernon Moss, SCS Farm Planner, prior to the District Commissioners meeting. A score card furnished by sponsrs of the Awards program was filled out on each farm to evaluate work being carried out.

Entries were Walter Holck, Magor township, and Frank Kelly, Orthel township in Division I for owenr operated farms. In Division II for tenant-operated farms enteries were Chas. Grau farm in Garfield township, operated by Verne Grau; Art Upmeyer farm in Liberty township, operated by Curtis and Gordon Upmeyer; W. A. Stalzer farm in Boone township, operated by C. A. Stalzer; and Henry Redenius farm in Orthel township, operated by Clarence Penning. High scores were Walter Holck in Division I, andVerne Grau in Division II. These two farms will represent Hancodk District in the Regional judging for a sweepstakes award of a $500 savings bond.

Sponsors of the awards program are: Des Moines Register & Tribune, Iowa Farm and Home Register, Iowa Association of Soil Conservation District Commissioners, State Soil Conservation Committee, Soil Conservation Service, Iowa State College Extension Service, Iowa Chapter of Soil Conservation Society of America, and State Department of Agriculture.

CRASH

A train-car crash at Denison last week claimed the life of Simon McGinn, 64. He apparently did not see the train, and turned in front of it.

Local Young Lady At Conservation Camp

The first session of the Iowa Teacher's Conservation Camp is now in session at Springbrook Park near Guthrie Center, Iowa. Teachers from all over Iowa are attending this session and earning college credits in the conservation field. Courses are being conducted in the conservation of many natural resources including wild life, soil, water, and other related subjects. This camp is directed by Iowa State Teachers college and is assisted by the State Conservation Commission, The State Department of Public Instruction, Iowa Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, State Soil Conservation Committee, Iowa Natural Resources Council, and others. Two more sessions will be held during the summer months and teachers throughout Iowa are urged to attend. Many soil conservation districts throughout the state have paid the tuition for local teachers attending the conservation camp. This camp provides excellent means for teachers to become better acquainted with many of our natural resources.

Miss Novella Bredbenner of Klemme is one of the many teachers present at this session.

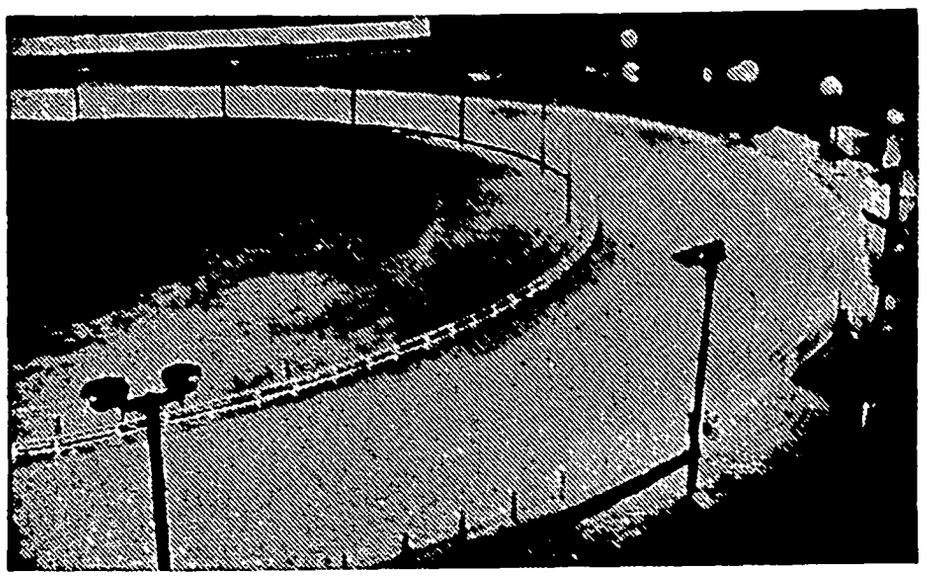
Night Races to be State Fair Highlight



DES MOINES—For the first time in history the championship auto races at the Iowa State Fair here, Aug. 29 to Sept. 7, will feature one night of action under the lights. The state fairgrounds half-mile dirt track is shown here fully illuminated following a substantial expenditure for modern flood lighting. Daytime big car races will headline the fair on the afternoons of Aug. 30 and Sept. 4. The first night races in state fair history will be Labor Day evening, Sept. 7.

Avery Sunbeams Make Mason City Tour

The Avery Sunbeams went to Mason City on Thursday, July 16. They toured the Town and Country furniture store and was given some very worthwhile information on construction and materials that are used in the different products.

. A picnic was held in McIntosh Woods at noon. The group spent some time shopping in Mason City and also spoke over the radio on The Man on the Street program. After dinner the girls then went to each girls home and inspected their bedrooms. Mrs. Ostendorf, Eunice Helps, and Mrs. Shelton took the girls.

Ordained Minister, Raymond Barz, Newly Installed At Peterson

On the evening of June 28th, the Evangelical and Reformed Church was the scene of the ordination of Raymond Barz into the Christian ministry. In the absence of Rev. Jaberg, who was in Sheboygan, Wisconsin due to the death of his father, Rev. Carl Mohr, of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church in Garner, acted as host pastor and had charge of the liturgical part of the service. Rev. Reuben Grosshuesch, of Melbourne, Iowa representing the Iowa Synod, officiated in the rite of ordination. A former Mission House Seminary classmate of Raymond's, the Rev. Walter Odenbach of Tripp, South Dakota, gave the evening address. At the close of the service, Albert Priebe, chairman of the consistory, and representing Immanuel congregation presented Raymond with a private communion set, in appreciation of his work in the local church as Sunday School teacher, consistory member and choir director.

Following the service a social hour was spent in the church parlor, with the wives of the consistory members in charge.

Present at this service and at the social hour, besides members of the local congregation, were several from the local Methodist Churches, some from the Elltown and Garner Evengelical and Reformed Churches and a delegation from St. John's Church near Peterson, Iowa, where Rev. and Mrs. Barz and sons are now located.

Installation Service

From Peterson, Iowa, we have received word that Rev. Raymod Barz was officially installed as pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church on July 19 during the morning worship service. The Rev. Paul Dietrich, a retired pastor, now living at Calumet, Iowa, who had served this congregation during their recent vacancy, had charge of the morning service, and served as the official representative of the Nebraska Synod of which this congregation is a member.

A special offering was received at this service which was sent to Mission House Seminary at Plymouth, Wisconson. This was given in gratitude for sending one of the Seminary graduates to locate in this field.

W.S.C.S. To Meet

W.S.C.S. of the Klemme Methodist Church will meet in the church basement on August 6th. There will be a pot luck lunch and all members are asked to bring something to contribute to the lunch.

At Decorah, a 12-year old boy and 13-year old girl are in charge of a 4-acre garden project. James Martinek and Arlaine Roney have done all the work, and the crop is impressive.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the town of Klemme, Iowa, on the 27th day of August, 1953, for the purpose of submitting to the legal and qualified electors of said town, to be voted upon by them, the question of whether the following public measure shall be adopted:

Shall the following non-exclusive franchise ordinance No. 43 passed by the town Council of Klemme, Iowa, on the 28th day of July, 1953, be adopted?

ORDINANCE NO. 43

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING UNTO CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY, AN IOWA CORPORATION, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE AND RIGHT FOR A PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO ERECT, CONSTRUCT, RECONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, IN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND TO ENTER UPON AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, HIGHWAYS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC PLACES OF SAID TOWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, CONSTRUCTING, RECONSTRUCTING, MAINTAINING AND OPERATING THEREON, THEREIN, THEREUNDER AND THEREOVER SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, CONSISTING OF POLES, POSTS, WIRES, CABLES, CONDUITS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT, APPARATUS AND CONSTRUCTION NECESSARY OR INCIDENT TO SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, AND THEIR USE AND TO FURNISH GENERAL TELEPHONE SERVICE, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, TO SAID TOWN AND THE INHABITANTS THEREOF AND OTHERS WITHIN AND WITHOUT SAID TOWN FOR ALL PURPOSES AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE GRANT AND THE PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1. The Town of Klemme, Iowa, hereby grants unto Central Iowa Telephone Company, an Iowa corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinfter called the Grantee, a non-exclusive franchise and right, for a period of twenty-five years from and after the date this ordinance becomes effective, to erect, construct, reconstruct, maintain, operate and use within the corporate limits of said town of Klemme, Iowa, as the same now are or may hereafter be located, a telephone system, or systems, both local and long distance, together with the franchise and right to enter upon and to use and occupy the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and public places of said town as the same now are or may hereafter be located or extended, for the purpose of installing, constructing, reconstruoting, maintaining and operating thereon, therein, thereunder and thereaover said telephone system, or systems, consisting of poles, posts, wires, cable, conduits and other equipment, aparatus and construction necessary or incident to said telephone system, or systems, and their use, and together with the franchise and right to furnish general telephone service, both local and long distance, to said town and to the inhabitants thereof and others within and without the corporate limits of said town for any and all purposes and under such restrictions and regulations as are hereinafter contained, and such other reasonable regulations as may hereafter be provided by ordinance.

Section 2. All poles, posts, wires, cables, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction connected with said telephone system, or systems, shall be located, erected, adjusted and maintained (subject to all ordinances, rules and regulations of said town) so as not to endanger persons or property or unreasonably interfere with any improvement the town may deem proper to make, or to unnecessarily hinder or obstruct the free use of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges or private or public property.

Sestion 3. Whenever the Grantee, in erecting, constructing, or maintaining said telephone system, or systems, shall take up or disturb any pavement or sidewalk or make any excavation in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, or public grounds of said town, such excavations shall be at once refilled and the pavement, sidewalk or other improvement, replaced to the satisfaction of the town officials.

Section 4. Whenever it shall be necessary for any person or persons to move along or across any of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town any vehicle or structure of such height or size as to interfere with any poles or wires erected hereunder, the said Grantee upon receiving twenty-four (24) hours notice served in writing upon its agent or manager at Klemme, Iowa, and upon receiving payment of the actual cost of so doing, shall temporarily remove its poles and wires from such places as must necessarily be crossed by such vehicle or structure; provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to apply to circus or other parades upon the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town.

Section 5. Any person who shall cut, injure or destroy any of the poles, wires, fixtures, conduits, cables or other property of the Grantee lawfully erected, maintained or being within the corporate limits of said town, or who shall post bills or signs upon any of the poles or other property, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $100.00, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days.

Section 6. The Grantee shall agree to allow said town to attach at any time to any of said poles of the Grantee, the town fire alarm and/or police wires, including necessary apparatus incident thereto, provided such attachments shall be made under the direction and supervision of the Grantee and made and maintained so as not to interfere with the Grantee's use of said poles.

Section 7. All the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to the successors or assigns of the Grantee, with the same force and effect as they do to the Grantee itself.

Section 8. The Grantee shall hold the town harmless from any and all causes of action, litigation or damages which may arise through, or by reason of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of said telephone system, or systems, and other construction hereby authorized.

Section 9. The Grantee shall within sixty days after the publication of this Ordinance signify in writing an acceptance of the grant herein, including the conditions and restrictions herein expressed, and this Ordinance, and the franchise granted herein, shall not be operative or binding unless such acceptance is filed with the town Clerk. The Grantee shall pay the costs incurred in holding the election to submit this ordinance to the legal electors for their approval, as provided by law.

Section 10. All Ordinances, or parts of Ordinanees, insofar as they are in direct conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 11. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect, subject to its approval by a majority of the legal electors of the town of Klemme, Iowa, voting thereon, as provided by law, and subject to its acceptance by the Grantee, as provided in Section 9 above, upon its publication, as provided by law.

Many farm leases need changes to bring them up to date with new farming practices.

Crown rust and stem rust have taken heavy tolls on Iowa oat yields, reports Arden Sherf, Iowa State College extension plant pathologist. This may be the worst year on record for crown rust damage.

Removing buckthorn shrubs will help reduce crown rust infections in oats.

The sooner you sell a hen after she quits laying, the better quality will be her meat and the more she is likely to weigh, says L. Z. Eggleton, extension poultry marketing specialist at Iowa State College.

Here Are Some Unusual Recipes for-

Salads From Your Garden

Salads from your garden are a fresh, cool, delicious and healthful addition to any summer meal. Make them special treats with unusual combinations and top-notch salad dressings.

Let your garden vegetables give you a real boost all summer long in your meal making Properly prepared, vegetables can work nutritional wonders for the family. Iowa State College Extension Nutritionist Leslie Smith tells us fruits and vegetables rate high in food value, especially when served raw in salads, and can have real influence on whether we feel below par or ready to lick our weight in wildcats.

The folks at your house don't much care for salads? Then try this tempting array of unusual salads recommended by Mrs. Smith as the kind that can give a youngster or adult a brand new outlook. Many Iowa homemakers have sampled these salads at extension meetings and agree that there's something really special about every one.

Vegetable Layer Salad

Rub wooden salad bowl with garlic. Put in a layer each of shreded lettuce, thinly sliced onion shredded carrots, some chopped celery and a layer of cooked chilled peas in that order. Dot with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing and sprinkle 1 teaspoon of sugar over dressing and layers. Make as many layers as necessary for the amount of salad needed. Do not toss. Let salad stand a short time before serving. Then sprinkle crisp bacon bits over the top and serve.

Tossed Salad

Quarter 1 clove garlic and let stand in ¼ cup salad oil for several hours, and toast 2 cups fine bread cubes in 300 degree F. oven before assembling other ingredients.

Tear 2 large heads lettuce into bite-size pieces in salad bowl. Sprinkle ¼ cup each of grated parmesan cheese and crumbled blue cheese over greens. Pour mixture of ½ cup salad oil, 1 tablespoon meat sauce ¾ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper over green and toss salad until every leaf is coated. Break 1 raw egg into salad, pour garlic oil over bread cubes and add to salad. Toss to mix bread cubes into salad and serve.

Fruit Slaw

Toss 4 cups chopped green or Chinese cabbage with ½ cup chopped dates, 1 cup drained, chilled canned pineapple chunks (or 1 cup orange sections) and ½ cup coarsely chopped celery. Mix together ¼ cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons syrup drained from pineapple (or orange juice), 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon sugar. Add to cabbage, toss and serve. This makes 4 servings.

Vegetable Slaw

Add ¼ cup chopped parsley and 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped onion for each cup finely shredded cabbage. Add 1 tablespoon salad oil, 1½ teaspoon vinegar, 1½ tablespoons sugar. Toss lightly.

Cheese-Vegetable Mold (Fruit, Too!)

Pour 3½ cups hot water over 2 packages lime-flavored gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill, stirring occasionally, until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Add 1 cup shredded cabbage, ½ cup diced celery and 1 cup coarsely grated process sharp cheese. Pour into a 1¼ quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with crisp lettuce and 6 canned (or cored fresh) pear halves or 6 canned or fresh apricot halves. Serve with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. This makes six servings.

County Extension Director

Hancock County homemakers can expect early peaches to be a little cheaper than a year ago. But the Colorados, which normally come around Labor Day, are likely to cost a little more. drawn by Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, after studying the crop report. Total United States peach crop for 1953 is forecast at 2 per cent over last year's harvest. The Southern crop, which moves early, is up 13 percent from last year.

California has a good peach crop this year, also. Its Clingstone crop is 14 percent over the harvested acreage last year. But Colorado expects only about half the crop it had last year, Kutish reports.

Meanwhile, the nation's pear crop is a little less than last year, but 2 percent over average. However, the Pacific coast Bartlett pear crop—the pears most used for home canning—is down 7 percent from 1952.

Turning to apricots, California and Washington both have better crops than a year ago, but still below average. But the Utah apricot crop is a bust—only about a fifth of last year's harvest. The net result: A total 1953 apricot crop about 17 percent over that of last year.

The Northwest blue prune crop is also better than last year, Kutish points out. Washington and Oregon have more favorable prune prospects than last year, but Idaho's prospects are below the crop produced last year.

Commercial Apples

Signs point to an 11 percent better commercial apple crop than the short pick of 1952. But this still would be 6 percent below average prospects. But in the central states, the indicated production is slightly above average, according to Kutish.

Iowa's commercial orchardists have better prospects than a year ago, and well above average.

CORRECTION: Last week's column mentioned that carryover of old corn this fall will total 70 to 300 thousand bushels. This, of course, should have been 700 to 800 million bushels.

Tells How to Remove Fresh Mildew Stains

Mildew stains are easy to remove if you discover them before the mold has a chance to rot the fabric according to U. S. Department of Agriculture clothing specialists.

Remove fresh mildew stains on washable fabrics by washing them at once with soap or detergent and water, rinse well and dry them in the sun. If any of the stain remains, moisten the area with lemon juice and salt, spread the fabric in the sun to bleach. After treatment, rinse thoroughly and dry. Use this method with care on colored fabric. Try it out first on a seam or hem where it won't show if the color fades.

Another safe bleach for washable fabric is sodium perborate. You can buy it at the drug store or in commercial bleaches at most grocery stores. Sponge the mildew spot with a solution of 1 tablespoon of sodium perborate to a pint of lukewarm water, or sprinkle the powder directly on the stain which has first been dampened with hot water. Let it stand a minute or two and then rinse well. For colored garments, test bleach first on a sample of the cloth or seam to be sure color will not change.

In muggy weather, mildew is apt to attack cellulose products such as cotton and linen and protein substances like silk, leather ad wool.

Speed On Country Roads Causing Traffic Fatalities

Driving in the Iowa countryside this year is proving nearly three times more dangerous than city driving, State Safety Director Frank B. Ulish said Thursday.

He reported that 142 of Iowa's 191 fatal traffic accidents during the first six months of this year occurred in rural areas.

The comparative quiet and space of the country apparently beckon the unwary driver on to speed. That magnifies road and traffic hazards into death-dealing proportions, "Ulish said.

He advised drivers to "control that urge for speed when a long, straight stretch of highway opens up with all its apparent promise of safety. It just is not there."

He warned farmers to recognize that they live in the state's most dangerous traffic areas and to take "double precautions" especially at all intersecting highways and blind intersections.

"State law requires that all drivers come to a full stop before entering a public road or highway from a farm lane," he said. "The law applies whether or not a stop sign is posted at the intersection".

Ulish said the first fatal accident partially blamed on tall corn obscuring vision at a rural intersection already has been reported. "From now until harvest is completed, drivers must take every precaution at blind intersections," he warned.

The warning on rural traffic dangers came as part of Farm Safety Week now being observed throughout the state.

Cleaning up the farm yard is essential to rat control. Clean-up includes removing weeds, old piles, junk, old lumber and other hiding places for rats.

7TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa
July 20, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with S. A. Barber, Clinton D. Daniels and Clarence Bird present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the bond of Wm. Henschen, Construction Engineer on D.D. No 38, is hereby approved.

Supervisor Daniels is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 28, Main.

On motion and second notice of non-residence is hereby ordered served on Mrs. Mary Markey, Britt Township and on Floyd Veldhouse of Ell Township.

This being the 20th day of July, 1953, a date heretofore set for a letting for two carloads (100 tons) of oil treated stoker coal for use at the Hancock County Home to be delivered on track at Duncan, Iowa, the hour for said letting, having arrived the proofs of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised, said letting held as scheduled. The Chairman of the Board proceeded to open all bids on file, and after duly considering all bids on file, the bid of Woodford-Wheeler Lumber Co. of Garner, Iowa was found to be the lowest and best bid therefore.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors that the bid of Woodford-Wheeler Lumber Co. of Garner, Iowa, be and the same is hereby accepted as the lowest and best bid on file for the delivery of 100 tons of oil treated stoker coal F. O. B. track at Duncan, Iowa, for use at the Hancock County Home and they are hereby awarded a contract to deliver said coal, one carload immediately and second carload to be delivered during January 1954. All other bids are hereby rejected.

This being the 20th day of July, 1953, a date heretofore fixed as a date for hearing on the budget estimate of the Hancock County Assessor's Office filed with this Board, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the proofs of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. There was present a quorum as required by law. Thereafter and on said day the estimate was taken up and considered and taxpayers heard for and against said estimate as follows:

Taxpayers present who objected to the budget were:

Wilbur Carr
John Carothers

their objections being on the total budget, in general, being too high.

Thereafter the Board took up the estimate for final consideration and after being fully advised, the Board determined that said estimate be adopted and approved as submitted.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Barber, whereupon the Chairman, Clinton D. Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clinton D. Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

The County Auditor was thereupon directed to properly certify the budget as adopted and file with the records of his office as required by law

BE IT REMEMBERED that on this, the 20th day of July, 1953, the county supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, met in session for the purpose of a hearing upon the budget estimate as filed with this board. There was present a quorum as required by law. Thereupon the board investigated and found that the notice of the time and place of hearing had, according to law and as directed by the board, been published on the 8th day of July, 1953 in The Garner Leader and Signal; The Klemme Times; The Kanawha Reporter, and The Britt News-Tribune, official newspapers, published in said county, and that the affidavits of publication thereof was on file with the county auditor. Thereafter and on said day the estimate was taken up and considered and taxpayers heard for and against said estimate as follows:

All taxpayers desiring to be heard were heard.

There were no objections.

Brother of Klemme Man Dies In California

(From Portola, Calif. Reporter)

Charles William Johnson, known to two generations of Portolans as "Highball", long one of this area's most colorful individuals, died quietly at his home Monday evening after an extensive illness.

Private funeral services were held at 2:00 P. M., July 2nd from the Stookey Funeral Home under the auspices of the Christian Sciences Church.

Mr. Johnson came to Portola in February, 1914, and in April of that year, his family moved here.

He was an engineer on the Western Pacific and immediately commenced acquiring real estate in Portola, becoming the city's largest property owner. It was as an engineer that he acquired he nickname "Highball". When he got the highball he opened up the throttle. For years he held the record for speed between Oroville and Portola.

He started work on the Western Pacific in 1909, shortly after the line was completed and retired in 1938. However, when the manpower developed during World War II, he again went to work during 1941 and 1942.

--Mr. Johnson has railroaded since he was 12 years old, throughout the east and the south.

During his years in Portola he has helped many families establish their homes here, providing quarters and often, food.

He was 76 years old, a native of Grundy County, Illinois, and a veteran of the Spanish American War.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Johnson is survived by eight children, Henry, of Reno, Mrs. Ruth Wise, James W., Mrs. Viola Esterby, Mrs. Rebekah Kovich, Rue, Bob and Jane, all living in Portola, and fifteen grand children and eight great grand children.

Two brothers, J. W. of Klemme, Iowa, and Orlando of Mansfield, Ohio, also survive.

The simple, private services, it was announced are in accordance with the wishes expressed by Mrs. Johnson. Interment was in the Odd Fellows Cemetery.

Harvey Guenther, 27 year old Sumner farmer, is recovering from injuries received in a fall. In a tumble from a hay rack, he received a broken neck.

Ell 4-H Clubs To Hold Local Achievement Show

The Ell Tip Toppers and the Ell Midgets 4-H Clubs will hold their local achievement show August 4 in the basement of the Klemme grade school building.

The Ell Tipper's home furnishing projetcs wil be exhibited for judging.

Homemade candy, cake, and ice cream will be sold. Everyone is invited. These delicious refreshments made by the boys and girls are too good to miss.

To Build Bridges

Hancock County Engineer C. F. Merten Monday filed a report recommending the construction of three wooden bridges between section 4-9, 8-9, and 8-17, all in Amsterdam township. The engineer estimated the cost of the three bridges to be approximately $10,191.00 and recommended a public letting on the construction. His report was approved by the board of supervisors who have fixed August 17, at 1:30 P. M. as a time for letting. The letting will be at the courthouse in Garner.

Marriage Licenses

Hancock County Clerk Doris Young issued marriage license the past week to George Lyle Kesler, 28, Lake Mills, and Joanne Joyce Lechelt, 21, Britt.

Justice Reports OK'd

Hancock County supervisors Monday approved the quarterly reports of W. F. Pavey, Ell township Justice of the Peace and R. J. Fritsch, Concord township justice of the peace. Pavey's report listed fines totaling $20 for the quarter and Fritsch's report listed fines levied in the sum of $1864.13 of which a total of $1259.13 was paid. Justice Fritsch listed fees totaling $255.62. Most of the fines listed on both reports were for traffic violations.

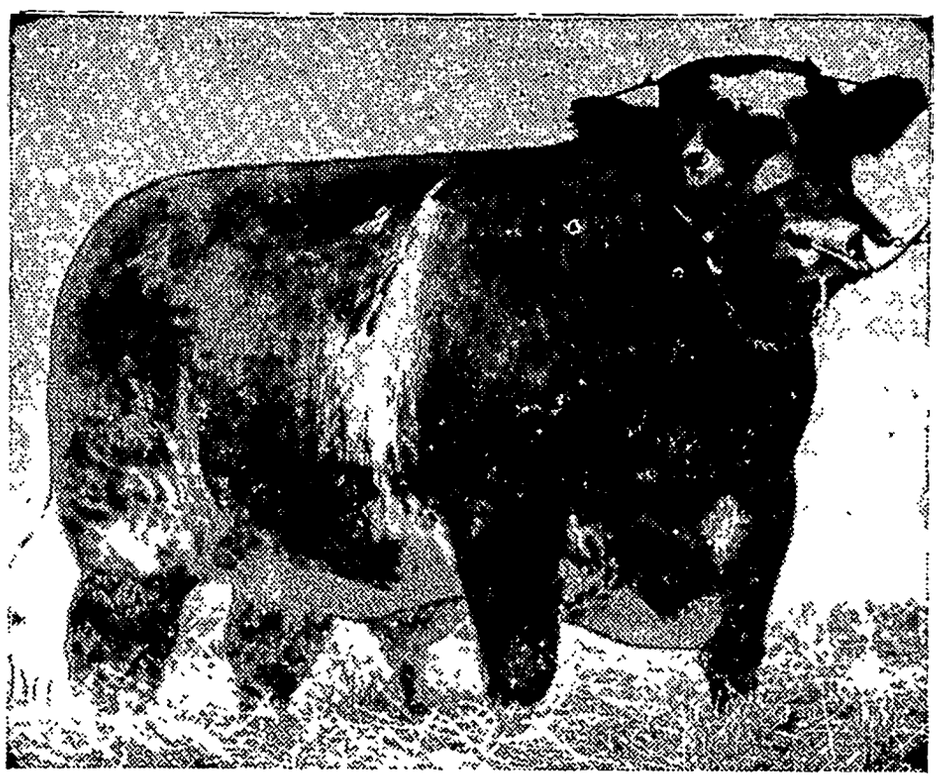
Naomi Circle Met

The Naomi Circle met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jennings Anderson, with Mrs. Emma Patet as co-hostess. Mrs. John Chambers gave a very interesting lesson. There were fifteen members and one guest present. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Patet.

Farm-to-market Balance

Hancock County's balance in the Farm-to-market road fund for the quarter ending June 30, 1953, was $13,935.59, according to a report received Monday by County Auditor Maynard Schoneman from the State Highway commission.

Huge Livestock Show at State Fair



DES MOINES—Some of the nation's finest livestock, like this grand champion bull shown above, have been entered in the big national livestock show of the Iowa State Fair, Aug. 29-Sept. 7. Shorthorn bull, C. B. Gold Max 7th, owned by Clausen Brothers of Spencer, Iowa. Fair officials said this week that nearly 8,000 head of livestock are expected to compete for more than $100,000 in cash premiums at the State Fair stock show.

Military Displays Will Show Modern Weapons At Iowa State Fair

A display of our nation's armed might, ranging from small arms to airplanes to underwater jeeps, will be featured at the Iowa State Fair, August 29 to September 7, officials said today.

A huge Armed Forces Show, sponsored jointly by the Iowa State Fair Board, the National Guard and the Air National Guard, will set up on the fairgrounds to show the public the newest developments in warfare.

Included in the displays will be weapons like those which have been battle-tested in Korea, officials said.

Tanks, rockets, small arms and other offensive weapons will be featured in the show. A special exhibit will show the new "snorkel jeep" operating under water.

The Air Force display will include the latest types of weapons and demonstrations of the operation of such aerial weapons as jet fighters and helicopters.

Iowa National Guardsmen will be on duty throughout the 10 days of the fair to describe the functions of the various types of equipment on display at the Armed Forces shows, officials said.

Mary Circle Met

Mary Circle met at the home of Mary Swanson Thursday afternoon with Mrs. A. J. Kudje as co-hostess.

Mrs. Wilbur Haefner presented the lesson, Twelve members were present. Following the business meeting, refreshments, including home-made ice cream were served.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, AUGUST 5, 1953 | VOLUME 58 NUMBER 35

Toll Road Study By Highway Commission

State Highway Commission engineers wil test-drive 8,000 miles of Iowa primary roads this summer and fall, as part of a special toll road study.

Two test trips will be made over each section of heavily traveled east-west highway in the state. On one trip, the driver will hurry as fast as the road permits; on another, he will 'float" with the traffic to obtain an average driving time for that section.

In "floating" with the exisiting traffic, the test driver lets other motorists set pace. For instance, he does not pass a vehicle until another car or truck overtakes him.

On the test trips, detailed records will be made of the number and type of vehicles met and passed, and those which overtake the test car,, as well as the driving time for each section.

Records from the test drives will help to pin-point congested or troublesome areas, and will show what kind of competition a toll road would have from free highways.

Test-drive data will supplement findings of a statewide interview survey being conducted this summer by the commission, to determine the needs of drivers who use Iowa highways.

Minor Accident

Hancock County Deputy Sheriff R. E. Nesbit was called out to investigate a collision on the intersection of highways No. 69 and 18 Sunday evening at 7:30 in which a car driven by Mrs. Edward Oldaker of Eagle Grove collided with one driven by Mary Ann Pannhoff of Klemme. Damage was estimated at $150 but all occupants escaped without injury.

County PMA Election Results Announced

Softball Team Will Play In Tournament At Thornton, Sunday

The Klemme softball team has entered a tournament to be held at Thornton Sunday. We have not been able to find who the locals wil play in the first round, nor at what time, but we do know that there are eight teams in the tournament. Six of the eight teams are members of the league that the Klemme team is in this summer while the other two are teams of about the same calibre

Following is a schedule of Klemme's league games for the rest of the season:

Friday, Aug. 7, Alexander, there.
Tuesday, Aug. 11, Thornton, here.
Tuesday, Aug. 18, Meservey, there.
Tuesday, Aug. 25, Roots-Latimer, there.
Tuesday, Sept. 1, Swaledale, here.
Tuesday, Sept. 8, Alexander, here.
Tuesday, Sept. 15, Thornton, there.

In addition to these league games, there will be other games scheduled throughout the remainder of the season. Local fans can get a lot of enjoyment, by being on hand for these games.

To Hold Annual Meeting

The annual member meeting of the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company wil be held at the grade school basement at 8 o'clock, Friday evening, August 14th After the business meeting, lunch will be served.

Manager Marvin G. Lemke would like a good turn-out for this meeting.

Rasmussen Again to Head County PMA

A. E. Rasmussen of Garner was re-elected chairman of the Hancock county Production and Marketing Administration committee at the annual convention of township PMA delegates held Saturday at Garner.

Chas. A. Hoeft of Garner was Leo Paulson of Crystal Lake was named third member of the county committee. Jake Van Dusseldorp of Britt and D. Earl Keat of Forest City were elected as alternate members of the committee.

Their terms of office are for one year, starting Monday, August 3.

All of the committeemen are experienced farmers who are familiar with PMA programs, which deal principally with conservation work, crop production problems and price support operations. Committees of the 39 Iowa counties which have federal crop insurance are also concerned with the activities of that program.

As soon as practicable, the office manager plan of conducting day-to-day operations of county PMA offices will be inaugurated, it has been announced by the state office. Under this plan, the principal official duties of county committeemen will consist of policy-making and decision-making functions, with responsibility of policy execution and general office operations being placed in an office manager appointed by the county committee

This arrangement will permit the county committees to remain in control of PMA activities through their decisions as to policy on the county level but they will be relieved of the present necessity of office work. However, committeemen will be eligible for PMA field employment of an important nature and they may also apply for the position of office manager.

Returns From Conference

Rev. E. Morris Egeland returned last Friday night from a five day World Missions Conference held on the Campus of Lake Forest, Illinois The Conference sponsored by the major Protestant denominations had an enrollment of 212 of which 76 were Methodists. Mr. Egeland was elected chairman of the Methodist group and will be its representative on the committee that will set up next years Institute. He will also represent the group at the annual meeting of the annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Missions to be held at Buck Falls, Pennsylvania next January.

Governor's Days Activities to Be Aired on TV Thursday

During the recent Governor's Days at Clear Lake, photographers from WOI TV at Ames were on hand to make a record of the highlights of the annual "blow out" honoring the governor.

Among the things caught by the TV camera, were Ernest Gerardi, local accordionist, as he played for the Governor's banquet at the All-Vets Social Center.

This special program depicting the activities at the Governor's Days wil be aired over WOI TV Thursday evening, August 6, at 8:30 o'clock.

Grandmothers Club Holds Picnic Sunday

Mason City Club Guests of Local Club At Unusual Event

The Grandmothers Club entertained their husbands and the members of the Mason City Grandmothers Club and their husbands at a picnic at the Methodist Church basement Sunday. The event was to have taken place in the park, but rain drove them indoors.

There were about fifty persons in attendance and after a bounteous cafeteria style dinner, pictures of the group were taken by C. C. Kilgore and Roy Schaefer.

While the dining room was being arranged for the program, the guests were entertained with organ selections by Mrs. Ernest Gerardi.

The group, led by Rev. E. Morris Egeland, sang "What A Friend We Have In Jesus." Mrs. Albert Etchen led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, and then the group sang the National Anthem. Rev. Egeland gave a welcoming talk, and then a sextet of Klemme Grandmothers presented three selections, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", "Day is Dying in the West", and "Look for the Silver Lining". Natalie Thompson, granddaughter of Mrs. Edna Thada, president of the Klemme club, took the solo part on the last number. The sextet was composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Albert Etchen, Mrs. Edna Thada, Mrs. Lydia Ax, Mrs. C. C. Kilgore, Mrs. Carl Wille, and Mrs. George Schoenwetter. Mrs. Ernest Gerardi accompanied the ladies on the organ.

Mrs. Hattler of the Mason City club gave an address, and the Beier triplets, accompanied by their sister Shirley, sang. The Beier triplets are the grandchildren of Mrs. Lizzie Bridges.

Rev. Jaberg gave a short talk to end the program, and then the ladies joined in singing "God Be With You".

After the program, John Chambers entertained the group by showing colored slides of Hawaii and Arizona. Then the ladies played games and enjoyed a lunch.

It was a memorable occasion for the assembed Grandmothers.

Though long a controversial figure in national politics, Senator Taft played an important role in shaping the destiny of our country. He will be missed. During his long political career, it was his way to take a firm stand on any issue. In so doing, he brought forth loud comment both for and against his stand. He was a leader, and no man can be a leader and have everyone agree with him. The country needs such men. Firm in their convictions and not afraid to stand up for them.

First thing we know the kids will be flocking back to school. Where did the summer go? It seems just a short time ago that all was excitement and hurry to get arrangements made for that final flurry of activity that goes with the ending of a school year.

We are not overly familiar with the workings of a public utility franchise, but is seems to us that a company that will spend $48,000 for improvements in a community of this size during the last five years of their franchise wouldn't balk at further expenditures with a new franchise as insurance.

It's not often that we get a chance to "blow our horn", but this week we are in receipt of a letter from Rev Earl Josten of Ankeny that does a good job for us Normally, we hear about the mistakes we make and the parts of the paper that people don't like, so a letter like this one makes us feel pretty good.

August 1, 1953

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES
Dear Mr Kilgore:

I simply must take time to congratulate you on the excellent job you are doing on The Klemme Times. I have just finished scanning it after our return from a few days down at Bull Shoals, Arkansas. I want to commend you especially for your fine story on the band mothers' social and the editorial columns, altho the entire paper is outstanding for good copy and fine format.

Reading the editorial on the "new way" of harvesting made me realize again how farming has changed since the days I used to go threshing. But my bundle-hauling and straw-stacking days were valuable to me, for it was then that I really learned to work. I also want to thank the farmers who put up with my services in those days, for they contributed much to the development of my character. Sitting down under a cow and occasionally getting the swipe of a tail in the corner of my eye—all after a hard day's work in the fields—did things for me. I learned to "take it" in a way which would not have been possible had I not worked for farmers during my summer vacations while in high school and the first part of college.

Next week I plan to be in Klemme on Wednesday, visiting with my father and renewing acquaintances. Thank you for your kindnesses to "Dad". He enjoys seeing that I get The Times.

We are beginning our second year at First Methodist Church, Ankeny. We have just over 600 members and a great opportunity. We are in the financial stage of the campaign for an educational unit, which will provide Sunday School rooms, a Fellowship room, modern kitchen and other facilities. We have just completed observance of the Golden Anniversary of the present church.

We shall be happy to have our Klemme friends stop in when coming to Des Moines. We are only four blocks west of Highway 69, at Second and Walnut Streets. The parsonage is just south of the church. In addition to Earl and Faye Josten, Bobby, now a Register carrier salesman (11) and Ann, age five in October, will be here to welcome you.

We are about to begin the second week of our summer vacation. Many of our members are at Lake Washburn, Minnesota, where they have cottages. But we have had a very busy summer anyway.

Yours most cordially,
EARL

Editor's Note: Klemme relatives and friends will remember that Earl completed high school in 1922 and graduated from Mormngside College, Sioux City in 1926. He spent seventeen years as a high school principal and music director, teaching at Estherville and West Des Moines. He then entered the ministry and for the past ten years has served churches in and around Des Moines.

Taken from Our Files

10 YEARS AGO—

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thiemann have purchased the Henry Josten property east of the Frank Kluckhohn home which is now occupied by the Reuben Lemke family. Mr. and Mrs. Thiemann will retire from farm life and move to town.

The gang at the Northern Lumber Company had their annual chicken dinner at the yard last week Tuesday evening. When the boys at the Northern have chicken, we mean lots of chicken.

Bad News! There will be no more canning sugar allowed in this county as we have already allowed the maximum of 15 pounds, and with the 10 pounds in each book (numbers 15 and 16 stamps) they have the 25 pound, states the board. There is nothing allowed for threshers.

Bobby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Arnold, had his tonsils removed at a Mason City hospital, Tuesday morning.

20 YEARS AGO—

Sumner Trumbell, carrier on Klemme route one, and Harold Shoafstall, postmaster's assistant, went to Eagle Lake, Friday evening to attend a picinc and meeting of the rural carriers of Hancock County.

Mr. Dulmes, Plymouth, Wisconsin, and son, Dr. Dulmes, of Grundy Center, Iowa, visited at the Rev. Grossheusch home and called on Dr. Zinn, Monday afternoon and evening. They were on their way to Grundy Center from Plymouth. Dr. Dulmes has a brother who is a professor at the Mission House College.

Friday evening the Royal Neighbor ladies of Klemme gave a farewell party in honor of Mrs. Paul Stille, who is moving to Lousiana. The ladies met at the Wiles and West Cafe and left from there in cars for the Stille home in Liberty Township.

The Clarion Rifle Club, with seven men shooting, defeated the Klemme Rifle Club at the Klemme range, Sunday morning. Klemme shooters were handicapped by the fact that they were using open sights while the Clarion men had telescope sights.

30 YEARS AGO—

Druggist E. S. D. Kahrs and wife of Klemme, and Druggist Adams and wife of Belmond, were entertained by Druggist Wm. Lamar and wife at their home in Goodell, Sunday. Kahrs said it was a regular convention of druggists.

Mrs. Gibbs, our new postmistress, took charge of her new duties, Monday.

At the sale of western horses at the stock yards, Saturday, all were disposed of. They brought from $25 to $67.50.

Harvey Hubbard, "Spec" Houghton, Louise Mason, and Edith Halfpop, autoed to Cedar Falls, Sunday, to visit Margaret Kearney, who is attending school there.

The business places of Klemme will be closed Friday from 3:00 to 4:00 P. M. during the funeral service of President Harding.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the town of Klemme, Iowa, on the 27th day of August, 1953, for the purpose of submitting to the legal and qualified electors of said town, to be voted upon by them, the question of whether the following public measure shall be adopted:

Shall the following non-exclusive franchise ordinance No. 43 passed by the town Council of Klemme, Iowa, on the 28th day of July, 1953, be adopted?

ORDINANCE NO. 43

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING UNTO CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY, AN IOWA CORPORATION, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE AND RIGHT FOR A PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO ERECT, CONSTRUCT, RECONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, IN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND TO ENTER UPON AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, HIGHWAYS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC PLACES OF SAID TOWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, CONSTRUCTING, RECONSTRUCTING, MAINTAINING AND OPERATING THEREON, THEREIN, THEREUNDER AND THEREOVER SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, CONSISTING OF POLES, POSTS, WIRES, CABLES, CONDUITS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT, APPARATUS AND CONSTRUCTION NECESSARY OR INCIDENT TO SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, AND THEIR USE AND TO FURNISH GENERAL TELEPHONE SERVICE, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, TO SAID TOWN AND THE INHABITANTS THEREOF AND OTHERS WITHIN AND WITHOUT SAID TOWN FOR ALL PURPOSES AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE GRANT AND THE PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1 The Town of Klemme, Iowa, hereby grants unto Central Iowa Telephone Company, an Iowa corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinfter called the Grantee, a non-exclusive franchise and right, for a period of twenty-five years from and after the date this ordinance becomes effective, to erect, construct, reconstruct, maintain, operate and use within the corporate limits of said town of Klemme, Iowa, as the same now are or may hereafter be located, a telephone system, or systems, both local and long distance, together with the franchise and right to enter upon and to use and occupy the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and public places of said town as the same now are or may hereafter be located or extended, for the purpose of installing, constructing, reconstructing, maintaining and operating thereon, therein, thereunder and thereaover said telephone system, or systems, consisting of poles, posts, wires, cable, conduits and other equipment, aparatus and construction necessary or incident to said telephone system, or systems, and their use, and together with the franchise and right to furnish general telephone service, both local and long distance, to said town and to the inhabitants thereof and others within and without the corporate limits of said town for any and all purposes and under such restrictions and regulations as are hereinafter contained, and such other reasonable regulations as may hereafter be provided by ordinance.

Section 2. All poles, posts, wires, cables, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction connected with said telephone system, or systems, shall be located, erected, adjusted and maintained (subject to all ordinances, rules and regulations of said town) so as not to endanger persons or property or unreasonably interfere with any improvement the town may deem proper to make, or to unnecessarily hinder or obstruct the free use of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges, or private or public property.

Sestion 3. Whenever the Grantee, in erecting, constructing, or maintaining said telephone system, or systems, shall take up or disturb any pavement or sidewalk or make any excavation in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, or public grounds of said town, such excavations shall be at once refilled and the pavement, sidewalk or other improvement, replaced to the satisfaction of the town officials.

Section 4 Whenever it shall be necessary for any person or persons to move along or across any of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town any vehicle or structure of such height or size as to interfere with any poles or wires erected hereunder, the said Grantee upon receiving twenty-four (24) hours notice served in writing upon its agent or manager at Klemme, Iowa, and upon receiving payment of the actual cost of so doing, shall temporarily remove its poles and wires from such places as must necessarily be crossed by such vehicle or structure; provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to apply to circus or other parades upon the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town.

Section 5 Any person who shall cut, injure or destroy any of the poles, wires, fixtures, conduits, cables or other property of the Grantee lawfully erected, maintained or being within the corporate limits of said town, or who shall post bills or signs upon any of the poles or other property, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $100.00, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days.

Section 6 The Grantee shall agree to allow said town to attach at any time to any of said poles of the Grantee, the town fire alarm and/or police wires, including necessary apparatus incident thereto, provided such attachments shall be made under the direction and supervision of the Grantee and made and maintained so as not to interfere with the Grantee's use of said poles.

Section 7 All the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to the successors or assigns of the Grantee, with the same force and effect as they do to the Grantee itself

Section 8 The Grantee shall hold the town harmless from any and all causes of action, litigation or damages which may arise through or by reason of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of said telephone system, or systems, and other construction hereby authorized.

Section 9. The Grantee shall within sixty days after the publication of this Ordinance signify in writing an acceptance of the grant herein, including the conditions and restrictions herein expressed, and this Ordinance, and the franchise granted herein, shall not be operative or binding unless such acceptance is filed with the town Clerk. The Grantee shall pay the costs incurred in holding the election to submit this ordinance to the legal electors for their approval, as provided by law.

Section 10. All Ordinances, or parts of Ordinances, insofar as they are in direct conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 11 This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect, subject to its approval by a majority of the legal electors of the town of Klemme, Iowa, voting thereon, as provided by law, and subject to its acceptance by the Grantee, as provided in Section 9 above, upon its publication, as provided by law.

Control Flies, Beetles With Lindane, Clean-up

You can paint 1 percent lindane in oil solution on your window and door screens and clean and spray the garbage can to help keep flies and four-spotted fungus beetles out of your house. But unless you also give attention to what's drawing the flies and beetles in the first place, they'll just keep on coming.

Chicken runs, rabbit hutches, your garden and fruit trees may be the main attraction for these pests, says Iowa State College Extension Entomologist Harold Gunderson. So clean out animal shelters and spray then with lindane, and keep. vegetables and fruits from lying around to spoil on the ground.

Lindane is our most effective hotweather fly killer, says Gunderson, and is highly recommended for this time of year

Molasses Good in Low Quality Cattle Feeds

Molasses added to your cattle-feed supplement in a low-quality roughage program may provide valuable ingredients in addition to sugar or energy. It increases gains and lowers the cost of gains when cattle are receiving a fattening ration containing a large amount of corncobs. But when the cattle are on a high-corn ration, the addition of either molasses or trace minerals makes considerable less difference.

These conclusions are drawn from feeding experiments on the Iowa State College Western Iowa Experimental Farm at Castana.

Three lots of cattle full fed for 150 days on corncobs with limited ground ear corn for 50 days, were compared. One lot received an average of 1½ pounds of molasses a day. This lot gained an average of 2.1 pounds a day at a cost of 21.9 cents a pound. This compared with an average daily gain of 1.94 pounds per day for the third lot, which received a trace mineral premix instead of molasses. The other lot, which received neither trace mineral nor molasses, averaged only 1.73 pounds of gain per day and the cost was 25.2 cents per pound.

Three other lots got a full feed of ground ear corn, alfalfa-brome hay and soybean oilmeal urea supplement for 112 days. One of these lots also received molasses and another received trace mineral mix. The difference in rates of gain among these was no more than .06 pound per day. The cost of gain was a little more than 1 cent a pound cheaper for the lot getting the trace minerals.

The cost of gains was about 10 per cent less on the better corncob lots than on the full corn-fed lots, but the cob cattle too nearly twice as long to come to the same weight, finish and carcass grade.

Animal husbandmen say molassess apparently contains constituents superior to those in trace mineral premix, and is of most value with poor-quality roughage.

Predict Third Highest Annual Corn Production For Iowa

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 4—Corn production for Iowa in 1953 is now estimated at 661 million bushels, according to the August issue of the Iowa Business Digest.

This should be the third largest corn crop on record, exceeded only by the 1948 and 1952 crops of 677 and 698 million bushels, points out "Iowa Trends", an article in the monthly publication of the State University of Iowa bureau of business and economic research.

Production of oats this year is estimated at 195 million bushels 12 million bushels below the 1942-51 yearly average production. The Digest editors note that cold weather at planting time and developing rust appear to have held down the per-acre yield of this crop.

Prices received by farmers for all farm products decreased four per cent between mid-May and mid-June, the Digest reports. But the June price index of farm income, though below that of May was higher than that of any of the other months in the year thus far. Drops from May to June in hogs, poultry and eggs were the sharpest declines the Digest observes.

On the other hand, consumers throughout the nation paid record prices for goods purchased between mid-May and mid-June, with food costs rising 1.4 per cent during the period, according to a report of the U. S. bureau of labor statistics. Actually, however, the consumer price level has remained fairly steady for the past 12 months, according to the Iowa Digest's report of the Washington bureau's analysis.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Corn Belt lamb feeders should keep an eye on wheat pasture prospects. They will help determine the course of feeder lamb prices.

Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College, points out that one of the features of the past year in the lamb-feeding business was the lack of wheat pastures. When wheat pastures are good, western operators offer stiff competition to Corn Belt Feeders. They can outbid Corn Belt feeders for lambs.

These wheat-pasture lambs normally come to market in late winter, Kutish points out. But there were no wheat-pasture lambs last year. Lambs out of the Corn Belt feedlots were bunched on the market in early winter. Lambs sold later—in March and April— did better than those sold in December. Wheat pastures prospects will have a lot to do with the prospect for late-fed lambs this year compared with early-feds, Kutish says.

Lamb prices are also affected by the supply and demand of lamb and the beef situation. Beef prices may weaken this winter, Kutish says, if business slumps about then. But another sharp adjustment due to a great increase in supply such as we had last year is unlikely.

CATTLE

The cattle price upsurge has changed several parts of the cattle outlook, according to Kutish. Many feeders had been selling their cattle earlier than usual due to the high cost of gains on the last pounds of finish in comparison with the selling price. Now they have decided to finish out their cattle. This postpones current slaughter at the expense of heavier marketings later on this year.

More meadow in the rotation will reduce corn root rot and corn rootworms. Root rot is generally more severe in rotations with a high proportion of corn.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Socialistic waste. That's what Congressman Ralph Gwinn of New York terms the Tennessee Valley Authority, or TVA.

But many hold whether or not TVA is waste by socialism, blunt business standards condemn it.

C. W. Harder

Government needs to reduce both public indebtedness and taxes. While no one seems to know just how much has been poured into TVA, there are strong feelings that government could realize $27 billion by selling TVA to private operators, could save $500 million per year on bond interest, other costs.

In mid-thirties TVA was started to provide irrigation, power, and to control floods, although Army Engineers claim the Tennessee Valley will not flood more than once every 500 years.

The efficiency of TVA as a source of hydro-electric energy is held open to question, too. Congress is asked to build a total of 9 steam generating plants, presumably to meet greater needs for electricity.

There is evidence in Washington that administration may come to grips with the TVA question in order to justify its billing as a businessmen's administration. But there are many smoke screens of emotion and false premises to cut through.

* * *

Besides the cry of Socialism, there is the argument that the tax free TVA doesn't pay the taxes of private utilities.

This last argument is probably a half-truth as there is considerable doubt any utility pays taxes out of profits, but instead adds them to consumer rates. Recently, the Pacific Gas & Electric, one of the nation's biggest utilities, told stockholders no rate increases are planned, unless taxes are increased, thus admitting that unlike individuals and small businesses, taxes do not come out of profits, but out of the customers. This situation could be remedied, however.

The big point is that the P G & E is located in California with more irrigated acreage than rest of U. S. And business deals have been worked out in California which if applied in the Tennessee Valley 20 years ago would have kept the government out of the power business.

A group of farmers needed a dam in the nearby Sierras for irrigation water. The dam is owned by the farmers' organization, but the power house is owned by the utility. And in exchange for permitting the water to run through their generators, the utility company pays off the dam's bonded indebtedness by semi-annual payments.

When TVA was started, it was necessary for the government to drive out of business 17 different private utility companies. A deal similar to the above would have given area even greater benefits without permitting bureaucrats to waste millions.

Many plans have been drafted for turning TVA over to free enterprise in a manner that will not result in merely changing from government monopoly to private monopoly. But Washington has given no authority to solve TVA question on basis of sound business and under a free enterprise system to reduce national debt by $27 billion, save at least half billion yearly.

8.5 Millions of Cans of Milk Are Used Daily

A look at the 1952 production figures indicates that evaporated milk remains an important member of the dairy products family Over two billion eight hundred and seven million pounds of evaporated milk were produced last year, taking nearly six per cent of the total milk production. The retail output is a third of a billion dollars a year, for which the dairy farmer receives $250,000,000.

When the processing of whole milk into evaporated milk was developed some sixty years ago, it was to meet the need for a year-around milk supply, especially in those areas remote from dairy centers. The convenience of this concentrated whole milk in cans, however, was readily recognized by homemakers all over the country Its ease of transport, storage and use started evaporated milk consumption on its rapid climb to its present high level.

Today around 8,500,000 cans of evaporated milk are being used daily in American kitchens for family food preparation, for infant feeding and other purposes.

Through its own association, the evaporated milk industry has maintained a research and education program designed to improve human diets through a greater use of milk. Research has demonstrated that evaporated milk supplies all the nutrients of the whole milk from which it is made — the proteins, minerals, vitamins, milk sugar and butterfat.

Research has also shown that the heat treatment in the processing not only renders evaporated milk sterile, but makes the milk more easily digested. Recognizing these factors, physicians began prescribing evaporated milk for infant feeding more than 25 years ago.

Today this form of milk is the most widely used milk for feeding infants and young children. Because of its concentration, too, evaporated milk is especially suitable for use in special dietary cases where more milk nourishment can be provided in less volume. Keeping pace with nutritional research, manufacturers began to fortify evaporated milk with vitamin D back in 1934. This is the vitamin essential for the body to use efficiently the milk minerals, calcium and phosphorous, in building and maintaining strong bones and sound teeth.

In line with recommendations of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association and the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council, today's evaporated milk is fortified with 400 USP units of vitamin D per pint. Recently the American Medical Association reported that rickets in children has practically disappeared in this country — and they credit the widespread use of vitamin D fortified milk for effecting the eradication of this childhood disease.

Mass production, lower costs of transporting and handling have made evaporated milk an economical form of whole milk and opened the way to larger consumption of milk by consumers everywhere.

Birth Certificate Now Necessary For Many Things

The antics of a three year old may seem proof enough to a harassed mother that he was born and is very much alive, but she'll be a wise mother if she makes sure he has a birth certificate. He'll first need it when he enters school as thousands will do this fall.

Birth certificates are necessary for number of things. You must have one to obtain a first work permit, to obtain a driver's license, to vote, to marry, to enter civil or military service, to obtain a pension, social security and other benefits, and to prove citizenship. You'll need it, too, if you inherit property, need to establish identity, or trace your ancestry. A birth certificate is necesary for all of these.

Most Iowans know the importance of birth registration. Iowans have a record on this score to uphold and be proud of. In 1950 a national survey showed that 99½% of births in Iowa were registered. In 1951 there was a record number of 67,039 registered births, three more births than the bumper year of 1947. And there will be more record years to come. It is important that all births are registered.

If you do not know whether your birth was registered or not, or for a copy of a birth certificate, write to the State Department of Health giving your name, date and place of birth, and parents' names, and enclose a fee of 50 cents.

Better Meals At Lower Cost

Better meals at lower cost are what every homemaker, restaurateur, and institution manager is seeking today. Nonfat dry milk solids enables each of them to serve foods different enough to be interesting — familiar enough to be appealing — low cost enough to be irresistible.

Nonfat Dry Milk Solids is one of the least expensive and most concentrated sources of protein, calcium and riboflavin. It is remarkably uniform in composition, and therefore a reliable source of the nonfat milk solids.

More than one-third of nonfat dry milk solids is a complete milk protein — capable of maintaining life and supporting growth. This milk protein has a "bonus" value — it effectively supplements cereal protein so that when used in baked or cooked foods more of the cereal protein is assimilated than otherwise could be. In theraputic diets, where emphasis is on high protein, nonfat dry milk solids is the economical answer.

Nonfat Dry Milk Solids contains 8 percent calcium. Formerly it was thought that calcium was needed primarily in the formative years — now it is established that it is urgently needed at all times of life for building and maintaining bones and teeth.

Not only riboflavin, but all of the water-soluble vitamins of milk are a component part of nonfat dry milk solids. These include niacin, thiamine, pantothenic acid, and pyridoxine.

Nonfat dry milk solids is an important staple ingredient for every kitchen. It requires no refrigeration and has excellent keping quality. It is convenient and easy to use in cooking and baking — is simply mixed or sifted with other ingredients.

'Coon Season Lengthened A Month

Iowa 'coon hunters will have three months of their favorite sport this year, with the raccoon season extended from October 10 to January 10.

This year's opening is a month earlier than in 1952. Although our 'coon populations have been very high in recent years, the dates within which a season could be set were fixed by law and could not be changed except by legislative action. The 55th General Assembly broadened these dates and granted the Conservation Commission power to define the method of take. Under the new law the Commision was enabled to lengthen the season to increase the harvest of this year's raccoon population.

The October 10 - January 10 season is for hunting only, and raccoon trapping dates have not yet been set. Since raccoons are usually traped with water sets, an early trapping season would also endanger mink, muskrat and beaver, none of which may be taken in October. All trapping seasons will be announced at a later date.

During the open season raccoons may be taken with dogs and any legal hunting weapons, including bow and arrow. There is no bag or possession limit of raccoons.

The early opening should prove an advantage to hunters in northern Iowa, where 'coons often begin to den up soon after the old November 10th opening date.

It is unlawful to train fox hound, raccoon hound, or trailing dog on any fur-bearing animals between sunrise and sunset from September 10 to October 10. It is also unlawful for any person to use a dog to hunt, molest or chase any raccoon between the same dates.

Farm real estate values in Iowa declined 5 percent between March 1 of this year, according to the USDA.

If you are going to store shelled corn, be sure your grain bin is built so that water can't get in at the floor or bottom of the wall. Iowa State College grain storage specialists say a way that water can drain in under the bottom of the wall.

Arrests for Booting Law Violations

State lake patrolmen and conservation officers have reported several arrests during July for violations of state navigation laws on state-owned waters.

Violations included overlaoding of boats, operating boats recklessly or while intoxicated, and for improper lighting of boats at night.

Fishermen and boaters are reminded by the Conservation Commision that there are safety regulations governing the use of boats in state-owned waters. One of the most important and common violations is the overloading of boats, which is responsible for many tragedies each year.

Copies of state navigation laws may be obtained from lake patrol officers, state conservation officers, or by writing the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court Ave., Des Moines, Iowa.

Check Corn Fields Now For Hunger Signs

The time is ripe now for Hancock County farmers to check the corn plants themselves for signs of deficiency for nutrients needed for top yields.

Paul Henderson, county extension director, suggests making the inspection now, since corn is in the period when plants make the greatest demands on the soil for nutrients—that's for a period of several weeks starting with pollination and extending through the early ear formation. And much corn in Hancock County is in that stage now, he says.

The hunger signs that show up the clearest at this time, Henderson points out, are those resulting from lack of moisture, lack of nitrogen and lack of potassium.

Nitrogen hunger leads to a general lightening of the color of the plant, Henderson says. However, there are differences in plant color between different hybrids and that can't be considered a sure-fire sign of nitrogen hunger. Your surest sign is firing of the lower leaves, with the brown appearing first along the midrib of leaves and spreading outward from there.

What many farmers have been calling dry weather firing is really the result of lack of nitrogen Henderson believes. And he gives this guide for deciding which shortage is causing the firing: If the top leaves roll and there's firing without rolled top leaves, the lack is nitrogen.

Firing on lower leaves also indicates lack of potassium. But Henderson tells how to distinguish this hunger sign from the others. Firing for lack of potassium, he says, begins at the outer edges of the leaves and spreads toward the middle—opposite of nitrogen firing.

Some signs may appear of phosphorous shortage, Henderson says, but there's no completely satisfactory way of recognizing that shortage in the plants at this stage.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

The last few weekends on the state's highways present the frightening possibility that Iowa drivers no longer are impressed by heavy death tolls; that they are forgetting to be concerned.

Always in the past, a high death count in a short period has shocked the public into safe driving for anywhere from two weeks to a month. That reaction has failed to appear this summer as weekend after weekend brings an almost unabated fatality record. A clue to what is happening may be found in these incidental reports:

A newspaper man reports that he covered a recent weekend accident in which two were killed and others badly injured. When he left the scene, a car pulled out just ahead of him, and he followed it down the highway.

From the way heads were shaking and turning in the car ahead, the news man could tell the people were discussing the accident they had just seen. He noticed, however, that he was gradually increasing his speed to keep up with the car.

Less than one mile from the accident, he reports, the car ahead passed on a yellow line and pulled away from him at a speed he didn't have the stomach to match.

And another worrisome item: Just before the Fourth of July weekend, the safety department offered to write, on request, letters of travel advice to persons who would be driving over the weekend.

per in Iowa carried the story of

Though nearly every newspa-

that offer, fewer than 25 persons requested that the letter be sent to their friends or relatives.

Are we forgetting to be concerned?

Iowa Industrial Growth Surprises Eastern Writers

After a three-week study of conditions in Iowa, three Wall Street Journal writers came up with the report to the nation that the Hawkeye state is not all corn and hogs but a "land of industrial opportunity.

In a special one-page report of Iowa's agriculture, industry and general developement, the three reporters conceded that Iowa is not a vast, level prairie.

They write in their full page series of Iowa stories that the state's agricultural achievements and industrial progress "would open the eyes of an easterner."

Ellis Haller, Journal's industrial editor, reports:

"Though inustry is expanding in Iowa (annual value af manufactured products is now greater than income from farming), the industrial growth is rooted firmly in the rich black soil that makes the state by far the nation's top producer of such agricultural staples as corn, oats, hogs, chickens, eggs and grain-fed cattle."

Reporting on Iowa's rich market potential, the Journal states that the "average yearly income of $12,000 per farm family is nearly double the national average."

The eastern reporters found that Iowa farmers rank first in the nation in ownership of tractors and autos, and in the purchase of livestock and poultry feeds.

The Journal writers credited Iowa's surplus of native-born labor, its central location for reaching consumer markets and its opportunity for "relaxed living" in luring new industry to the state.

Of Iowa labor force, the Gotham city writers quoted a Davenport industrialist:

"They rapidly become skilled workers. The girls have dextrous fingers, well suited for the growing electronics industry. Most of the farm boys are good mechanics; they've taken a tractor apart and put it together again while still in high school."

Two weeks after corn is put into storage, check it for heating crusting or molding. This advise comes from agricultural engineers at Iowa State College. The corn should be checked at least once a month after that.

KILLED

Nine year old Henry Behrens of near Victory was killed last week, when a tractor he was driving went into a ditch and threw him between a rear wheel and the embankment.

8TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa
July 27, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clinton D. Daniels, Clarence Bird and S. A. Barber present.

Iowa Businessmen In Tribute To Hawkeye Farmers

The Iowa development commission points to Clarion in Wright county as a shining example of good agriculture-industry relations in the Hawkeye state where "manufacturing income equals farm income."

Each year Clarion businessmen and Wright county farmers take turns honoring each other at a "one-day blow out."

H. O. Salisbury said this year the Clarion Chamber of Commerce is chartering a special train to take 150 farmers to the "world's largest county fair" at Spencer on Sept. 16. The 150 farmers will be guests of 150 Clarion businessmen.

Weeds use more water than crops. The average ragweed plant uses five times as much water for growth as a corn plant. A mustard plant not only uses four times as much water as corn, but takes twice as much nitrogen and phosphorous and four times as much potash from the soil.

Corncribs using natural ventilation should not be sheltered from wind by other buildings, trees or high embankments. They should never be built as a lean-to to some other building.

For safety's sake stop machines before unclogging or adjusting them.

Thrill Days to be Big Fair Attraction

Six different crews of stunt men and daredevils were announced here today as definitely booked for the Iowa State Fair's two 1953 "Thrill Days", Monday, Aug. 31 and Thursday, Sept. 3.

Twenty-seven auto crash events and similar stunts will be feattured on each of the two days fair Secretary L. B. Cunningham said.

Among the top "thrillers" announced on the program are head-on auto collisions, motorcycle fire wall crashes, "death drops" from speeding cars, autos catapulted from ramps, autos turning turtle at high speed, and a "human gyroscope". In addition a new feature will be a Cuban stunt man who drives a midget car down a high ramp and loops the loop in mid-air.

Auto polo, between two international championship teams will be another attraction each day, Cunningham said.

Among the groups of well-known daredevils announced today as booked for the Iowa State Fair are the Hollywood Stuntmen, Chitwood Daredevils, Canadian Aces, Swenson Thrillcade, Scottie Krash-men, and Texas Tornadoes.

What You Eat Does Make a Difference—

Food Guide to Good Living

You can bet the older person with a zest for life and still-high capacity for work and recreation has a high nutrition score. For good living usually hinges on good eating day in and day out.

One hundred percent living hinges on good health. No matter what generation claims you, you must be well nourished to take advantage of all life can offer you in work, play, new experiences and friendships. Even the grandads among us can increase their capacity for living by eating the right foods each day.

That's the contension of Iowa State College extension nutritionists, who have studied the record and find its often the older folks who miss out on the foods their bodies need most for good health.

Eating Habits

The eating habits of a lifetime are hard to change. But once you consider the vital reasons for piling up a higher nutrition score, you'll probably decide its worth the effort.

It's a scientific fact that a chronic tired feeling, a gloomy outlook on life, worry over small things, loss of sleep and even too much weight may be signs of a borderline state of nutrition. So if you have some of these symptom's don't just attribute it to age creeping up on you. Instead, check up on your diet.

All through life you need food that contains protein and minerals for the upkeep of your body tissues and bones. That means you should be eating plenty of such foods as meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables. And drink plenty of milk, for calcium deposits in the bones must be continual or there's danger of brittle bones. The incidence of bone breakage in elderly people who've cut down on their milk intake is very high, say nutritionists.

You need food that supplies the many different vitamins and food for fuel that gives you energy and warmth.

Survey show that these foods are often neglected in older folks' diets: milk, fruits and vegetables, whole grain and enriched white breads. Many should eat less sugar, which is easiest to accomplish if you cut out sweet carbonated soft drinks and sweet pasteriets. Others over 40 need to cut down on fat consumption.

Daily Food List

Here in general are the amounts and kinds of food you should eat each day: one or more servings of leafy, green and yellow vegetables, one or more servings of citrus fruit and other high-vitamin-C foods; two or more servings of potatoes, other vegetables and fruit; 2½ to 3 cups of milk or its equivalent; at least one serving meat, poultry or fish; and about one serving of enriched or whole grain cereal food.

Use four or more eggs a week and one or more servings a week of dry beans, peas or nuts. Use some butter or margarine daily, but go light on the fats used in cooking. Use sugar, syrups and preserves sparingly.

You may find that your appetite needs coaxing if you're to get all these foods into your diet. Walking or other light exercise is a good appetite builder. So is an attractively served meal with at least one colorful food included. Keeping regular mealtimes is another help.

Weight Problem

If your overweight, you'd better ask your doctor to help you out in losing extra pounds. For every 5 pounds you are overweight, your heart, each time it pumps, needs to labor enough harder to send the blood 3 extra miles. And that extra weight is also a drain on the body's calcium bank.

If your teeth are faulty and you can't chew foods well, don't let this fact rob you of an enjoyable and balanced diet. Let knife or food grinder supplement your teeth.

C. R. I. & P RR Gives Scholarships to Three

D. B. Jenks, executive vice president of the Rock Island Lines, today announced the names of three youth who have been selected by the railroad for four-year university scholarships in engineering. An alternate also was named to fill in in case one of the others drops out.

The boys named, all sons of Rock Island employees, are Donald D. Larson, Evergreen Park (Chicago suburb), Illinois; Richard J. Heidenreich, Manly, Iowa, and James R. Gallaughar, East Moline, Illinois. The alternate is Edward H. Graham, Belleville, Kansas.

All the boys were graduated from high school last Spring. Larson and Gallaughar will attend the University of Illinois, and Heidenreich, Iowa State College. They will start class work this Fall.

The scholarships will cover books and tuition. Summer-time jobs on the railroad will provide for other expenses, Mr. Jenks said. All the youths are presently employed on the railroad.

Previously, if had been planned to name only two for scholarships beginning with the Fall term, then two more next year. However, Mr. Jenks said, it was the opinion of the committee on selection that the four boys were so closely matched it became necessary to name one additional and an alternate.

KILLED

While at work, two Colfax men, Harold Wharff and Walter Henry were killed when the boom of a power company truck came in contact with a high voltage line. The driver of the truck was uninjured.

Here's How to Can Or Freeze Peaches

Peaches are plentiful this year for home canning and freezing, but the Colorado crop of Elbertas preferred by many Iowa homemaker, is short. So if you're determined to wait a few weeks for these Colorado peaches, be prepared to pay a bit more than last year.

Other good varieties for both canning and freezing are Sungold, Polly and Hale, according to Iowa State College extension nutritionists. Steer clear of mealy or bruised fruit.

Freezing Directions

To freeze, wash sound ripe peaches and scald in boiling water until the skins slip—about 10 to 30 seconds. Cool immediately in cold water and slip off the skins. Use a stainless steel knife to trim out any defects. Halve or slice peaches into freezer container partially filled with sugar syrup. (Make syrup beforehand, allowing 3 or 4 cups sugar to 1 quart water, bottle, cover tightly and cool.) Add more syrup if necessary. To allow for expansion during freezing leave headspace one-tenth the height of the container.

Here's how to keep the top peaches from floating and turning brown from contact with air in headspace. Cut a cardboard strip about ½ inch wide and 1½ inches long. Insert in freezer container so that the lid will press on the ends of strip, holding it against fruit. Or you could use a wad of crushed cellophane instead.

Canning Directions

Scald peaces in boiling water until skins slip, and cool in cold water. Slip off skins and halve or slice. Prevent peaches from darkening by dipping in mixture of 2 quarts of water, 1 tablespoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Rinse fruit, add ¼ cup sugar per pound of fruit to draw out juice and heat to boiling. If fruit isn't very juicy, add sugar syrup before heating. Pack hot in hot clean jars, or you may prefer to raw pack peaches. Cover with hot peach juice or sugar syrup, filling jars to within ½ inch of top. Work out bubbles with a knife blade and adjust lids. Process pints or quarts 20 minutes in boiling water bath.

ARSON

At Logan, Nick Schroder, 65, has been jailed on an arson charge in connection with the death of John Sanbothe there March 7. Officers say he has confesed to paying Sandbothe $100 to burn down the house on the Earley wine farm. Sanbothe's burned body was found near the house several days after the home burned.

Damp hay is one of the principal causes of barn fires.

Announce Plans For 3rd Annual Farm Youth Tour

The third annual Iowa rural youth tour has been tentatively set for the week of Sept. 13, Iowa development commission officials announce.

The tour, sponsored by the state's promotional agency and the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, is an annual event to acquaint the state's farm youth with the interdependency of farm and factory.

A chartered bus will take the youths on tour of large Iowa industrial plants and experimental farms.

The tour, both educational and entertaining, is expected to impress Iowa's farm youths how agricultural raw materials support an industrial economy.

"The boys from the farms will learn that Iowa is not altogether dependent upon a corn-hog livelihood, but that the state's agriculture and manufacturing industry are twin segments in the state's basic economy," commission officials said.

Some 40 youths will be selected from Boy Scout troops, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America chapters and Young People's assembly units for the tour.

Tentative itinerary indicates a tour of industrial sites in north central and eastern Iowa.

Breeder's Ass'n to Hold Open House, Aug 15 & 16

On Saturday and Sunday, August 15 and 16, Minnesota Valley Breeders Association will celebrate their 12th year of progress with an Open House at New Prague, Minnesota, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. each day.

Minnesota Valley Breeders Association started in 1941, servicing cows for about 100 members with 1300 cows. In 12 years time, they have grown so that there is service being provided to 40,000 members with about 225,000 cows in 145 units in Minnesota, North Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The Klemme Unit was started in 1952. The local directors include Mervin Barkema, Goodell; Edwin Nedved, Britt; George Kern, Garner; Ned Howard, Ventura; and Lester Anderson, Ventura.

The technician providing the service in the local area is Robert Stith. Anyone interested in the improvement of dairy cattle is urged to visit New Prague on August 15 or 16 where visitors will have a chance to see the entire operations and to examine the new buildings that have recently been completed.

Free coffee and doughnuts will be served and Door prizes and souvenirs given away.

There were 127,400 more persons injured in U. S. motor vehicle accidents last year than in 1951.

Klemme Takes Second Money In Softball Tourney At Thornton

In the softball tournament at Thornton last Sunday, the Klemme softballers won their first two games and then ran into a defeat at the hands of Thornton in the final game of the eight-team affair. Their share of the prize money was $15, and they played in three well-played games to win it.

In the first game they met with the Alexander nine, and behind the pitching of Freddy Lear, eked out a 2 to 1 win. In the net round of the tournament, they tangled with Decker Bros. team from Mason City, and avenged an earlier defeat by winning 5 to 0. "Coonie" Smith handled the mound duties and received good support all the way to aid him in shutting out the opposition. In the final game with Thornton, the locals took the field behind the pitching of "Big John" Eenhuis and came out on the short end of a 5 to 3 score, to put them in the second-place standing in the tournament.

Employment Changes In Local Businesses

"Dick" Finders, who has worked the past several months at the local yard of the Northern Lumber Company, has resigned his position there and is at present taking training with H. E. Barz, Standard Oil Agent. Dick will drive tank wagon for Harvey, and will drive one of the school buses. He is filling the vacancy created when Graydon Back took over the Hancock County Cooperative Oil Ass'n tank wagon formerly driven by Everett Weiland.

Maurice Buckley, who recently returned from Korea, has moved his family into the Koerner house in northeast Klemme (formerly occupied by the Cappon family) and is working as truck driver and yard man at the Northern Lumber Company; the position formerly held by Finders.

Annual Meeting

This Friday evening, August 14th, is the date set for the annual meeting of the Klemme Co-operative Grain Company. There will be a business meeting, including election of directors. At the close of the evening, lunch will be served. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

Event Will Take Place September Twentieth At Reformed Church

The annual Mission Festival Reformed Church of Klemme will be held on Sunday, September 20, with services at 10:00 A. M.; 2:00 P. M., and the evening service at 8:00 P. M. The speaker at the morning and afternoon services will be the Rev. Gerard H. Gebhardt of Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Gerard H. Gebhardt, S. T. M.

The Rev, Gerard H. Gebhardt, S. T. M., Associate Secretary of the Board of International Missions, carries the administrative responsibility for the mission fields of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Japan, China, and Iraq. The promotional work in the Eastern area of the Church in the United States is also under his direction. Previous to his appointment with the Board of International Missions, November 11, 1947, Rev. Mr. Gebhardt served as pastor of Carrollton Avenue Church, Indianapolis, Indiana; Trinity Church, Wadsworth, Ohio, and from 1932 to 1946, as pastor of historic Old First Church, Philadelphia, Pa. From 1946-47 he directed the Building Fund Campaign of the Fort Wayne Children's Home of the Evangelical and Reformed Church at Fort Wayne, Indiana. Rev. Mr. Gebhardt has been associated with the Board of International Missions since its inception in 1940 as the Recording Secretary, and served on the Board of Foreign Missions of the former Reformed Church in the U. S., from 1934 to 1940. He graduated from Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, in 1918 with the degree of A. B., and from Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio (now merged with Eden Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo.) in 1921, with the degree of B. D. He received the degree of Master af Sacred Theology in 1946 from the Graduate School of Theology, Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.

Iowa Farmers Eligible For Emergency Livestock Loans

Special Livestock Loans To Bear 5% Interest

Emergency livestock loans, authorized by recent legislation, are now available to eligible farmers in Iowa, B. W. Lodwick, Farmers Home Administration State Director, announced today.

These loans will be made to established producers and feeders of cattle and sheep, provided they have good records of operations, have a reasonable chance to succeed and are unable to obtain needed credit from other sources to continue their normal operations. Such loans will not be made to carry on commercial feed lot operations, to refinance existing debts, except for payment of current incidental bills, or to enable a borrower to start livestock operations.

Special livestock loans will bear 5 per cent interest and may be made for periods up to 3 years. Borrowers will be expected to repay the loans as rapidly as they can. Each loan must be secured in the full amount by the personal obligation and available security of the borrower. The Government will not require present creditors to subordinate their liens, but borrowers will be expected to obtain standby agreements from their present creditors so they will have a chance to work out their difficulties. Also, presnet creditors must be willing for a portion of the borrower's livestock income to be paid on the Government loan.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has designated the Farmers Home Administrtion as the agency to handle this emergency credit program, and has made Administrator R. B. McLeaish administratively responsible for it at the national level. However, all loans must be approved by the special livestock committees appointed by the Secretary.

To serve as a temporary State special livestock loan committee for Iowa, Secretary Benson has named the following: B. W. Lodwick, State Director, Farmers Home Administration; Floyd Andre, State Director of Extension, and Dwight W. Meyer, Chairman, State PMA Committee. This temporary committee was named in order to speed up processing of application for assistance.

Application forms may be obtained at any county office of the Farmers Home Administration or from other established lenders in the area. They may be filed with the local county FHA supervisor or directly with the state special livestock loan committee. The FHA office servicing the Klemme office is located in Room 219 of the Post Office Building, Mason City, Iowa.

We have, on occasion, found something to make us temporarily angry, but the atrocity reports our repatriated prisoners are bringing back from red China are just too much for us. We've been mad since we heard the first one.

There are those who think that Ike spends too much time playing golf. They say that's a silly game, anyway. If they had as much on their minds and the demands on their time that our president does, they might need to relax a little, too. In order to avoid damage, most machines that are constantly working at top capacity, have some sort of a safety valve or slip-clutch in case the load gets too heavy . . . and our president is not a machine. Just a human being.

In our estimation, one of the biggest jolts to communism has been the free food distribution in Berlin. Food is a language everyone understands, and we imagine that the majority of East Germans are a bit peeved at their Russian bosses for not accepting President Eisenhower's offer.

The returning prisoners of war tell of some Americans who turned informer for their communist captors and who are turning their backs on the U. S. We can't imagine what manner of men they could be. We don't blame those prisoners who remained faithful to their country for wanting to get their hands on these "stool pigeons". The fate that the Rosenbergs met with would be too good for them.

Did you know that there is a clause in the Taft-Hartley law that states that no man shall be compelled to join a union in order to gain employment? There is, and we think that is a fine clause. The only trouble is that when you read a little more of this law, you will find that in order to hold his job, the man has to join the union within thirty days. We live in a free country, though. No one has to join the union. They can keep changing jobs every thirty days, or get into some type of work where the union has no control. Little like the fellow that said he didn't have to work. He could starve!

Another thing that gripes us about unions is that they are the biggest destroyers of initiative that ever hit this country. For example: Mr. "X" has worked at a job for twenty years and knows it inside-out. Along comes Mr. "Y". He serves a brief apprenticeship, becomes a journeyman, works right along side of Mr. "X", and draws the same wages. Now there is no need of either of these fellows over-exerting themselves to try and get ahead. They're both drawing wages according to the pay scale their jobs call for, so why not just take it easy. The union will look out for them.

We'll say this much for unions, though. It is through their being that the laboring man in this country enjoys better living conditions than does his counterpart anywhere else in the world. We think though, that the unions could have accomplished this without being quite so dictatorial.

Did you hear about the three fellows that were waiting for the train? It was a couple of hours late and to help pass the time, they did their waiting in a bar across the sreet from the depot; assuming that they would see the train when it pulled into the station. The only trouble was that they became engrossed with the merchandise dispensed by the bartender and didn't see the train until it was pulling out. All three burst out of the tavern and started after the train. The first one swung onto the step of the last car, and managed to help the second one make it too. The third fellow, who was a little on the fleshy order, ran after the train as hard as he could go, and as he was just about to catch it, he tripped over a tie and sprawled full-length between the rails. He lay there a few moments and then started to laugh. The depot agent came out, looked at him and said, "What are you laughing at? Weren't you supposed to catch that train?" The fellow replied, "Sure I was supposed to catch it, but those other two fellows came down to see me off."

10 YEARS AGO—

Last Wednesday afternoon, Klemme folks witnessed a good old fashioned run-a-way, something that has not happened in Klemme for more than twenty years. Allen Barz was driving his brother, Raymond's team when they became frightened at the creamery and ran down the alley. They swerved past the post office and north up the street past the community hall. At the corner near the telephone office one of the horses fell down and the run-a-way simply ran itself out. It was a good show while it lasted.

Melvin Coobs, who was inducted into the army recently, writes that he will be stationed at an army camp in Mississippi.

The boys and girls and the women who were on the corn detasseling crew from Klemme held a picinc at the state park at Clear Lake, Sunday.

The Klemme Auxiliary ladies report that they sold a total of $725 worth of war bonds and stamps in observance of Molly Pitcher Day held here Saturday.

20 YEARS AGO—

Last week Tuesday night when Clair West was returning home to Klemme, his car caught fire north of Goodell, at a point a short distance north of the Christie farm on Highway 15. Clair first noticed smoke and flames shooting up from the floor boards. Before he could stop the car and get out, the flames had slightly scorched his face and singed his hair. The car, a Ford Model sport roadster, was completely destroyed.

The Riverside Threshing Co. held their business meeting Tuesday afternoon at the First National Bank in Klemme. They finished threshing Monday afternoon.

Mrs. E. J. Schneider and daughter, Doris, attended the the Avery Girls Club meeting at the J. J. Cook home Monday afternoon. Mrs. R. W. Elder and Mrs. Schneider acted as judges in the well groomed girl contest. Their ratings went to the Misses Dolores Cook, Jane Dutheridge and Carrie Swalve in the order named. A lovely lunch was served after the business meeting.

Saturday night someone imbued with mischief jerked two mail boxes off their posts east of Klemme on Route 1. A warning at this time might not be amiss. The culprits should bear in mind that in disturbing mail boxes, they are stepping on Uncle Sam's toes.

30 YEARS AGO—

What is more fiiting than red tape causing trouble in Russia?

Mr. and Mrs. Elko Buss were at Garner, Sunday. We can always spot Elko as his car carries license number 13.

Julius Priebe is putting up a fine new house and also a barn on his farm near Klemme.

Mr. and Mrs. George Albers gave a barn dance in their new barn, Saturday evening. All had a good time.

Over at Humboldt they are getting excited over the breaking out of a real oil boom. It seems that the boom has been underway since last spring, but it didn't become real healthy until last week, when an expert arrived with a drill and prepared to erect a derrick.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

Ask an experienced safety man, "What's the most stupid driving act you have ever heard of?" and prepare for three or four minutes of blank silence.

While you are waiting for the answer, you realize that the man is sorting through a hundred memories of wild acts on the road to find the one he can call the worst. That a man should know so many stories of recklessness with the automobile is a little chilling to begin with.

We asked the question of a man with 17 years experience in traffic safety work and, after the sobering memory-search, he told this story:

The farm home of a teen-ager who owned a car became the gathering place for most of the young people in the area. The house faced one of the gravel roads that make a four-mile section of land.

When milder entertainments failed, it occurred to the youngsters that the four-mile square could be turned into a race track. They would leave the farm, drive around the square as fast as possible, then time their arrival back at the house.

An edge of excitement was added to the game when another car was involved. Then the cars would leave the house going opposite directions. The car to complete the square and arrive back at the house first was the winner.

One night, two cars filled with young people left the house to race the square. But they had thought of a new twist to the sport. As each car came around the final corner and headed into the straight road to the house, the drivers turned out the lights.

The cars met head-on right in front of the house. Two were killed and another disfigured for life. This happened in Iowa.

Speeding on U. S. streets and highways injured 600,000 men, women and children.

Exam for Conservation Officer Candidates

The State Conservation Commision has announced the preliminary examinations for state conservation officer positions, which will be held on September 28th, 1953 in the house chambers of the state house in Des Moines.

The examinations will begin at 9:00 a. m. Applications to take the examination must be received by the State Conservation Commission office on or before 2:00 p. m., September 15.

The preliminary examination will be a series of tests similar to those given civil service employees. Applicants receiving satisfactory grades will be eligible to attend the conservation officer training school in October. Final examinations will be given at the school and the candidates wil be placed on an eligibility list according to grade ranking. From this list vacancies in the staff of field officers will be filled.

The Conservation Commission is required by law to hold competitive examinations prior to appointment of any law enforcement officer position with the Commission. Minimum age for applicants is 25 years. The maximum age shall not exceed 38 years at the time of the preliminary exam. Minimum height must be 5 feet 9 inches and minimum weight is 140 pounds. Only Iowa residents may apply.

Examination application blanks may be obtained by writing the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines.

Oats Storage Space May Be Used for Corn

If you have some unused oats storage space because of a short oats crop, you are in a position to make extra money through the fedral government's corn resealing program this year, according to Carl Malone, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

Besides, you can do your part toward reducing the serious shortage of corn-storage space in Iowa.

A special situation is that of landlords and tenants who have separate bins in which to store their shares of the oats. Malone suggests the possibility that tenant and landlord may agree on a plan for putting both shares of oats in one bin. The oats crop in Iowa was so light this year that both bins are probably only partly filled.

When both shares are in one bin you will have an additional bin in which to reseal your 1952 corn. The government will pay you 13 cents a bushel to reseal. This will be mostly clear money for you, because you will be using storage space that would not otherwise be filled. Bear in mind, Malone suggested, that the maintenance and other overhead charges on your bin go on all the time whether you use it or not.

So the only cost you would have in resealing corn this way would be the relatively small cost of an extra handling of the grain, such repairs as the bin might need to make certain it would keep corn in good condition for a year and the possible cost of occasionally inspecting and protecting the quality of the resealed corn. You should also bear in mind how this may affect your next year's harvest plan, Malone says.

Hancock County Is Represented At North Iowa Fair

The Hancock County Farm Bureau Women will have a Booth at the North Iowa Fair August 11th through 16th. You may like to stop at the booth while attending the Fair to see the table centerpiece and Christmas ideas that will be on exhibit. The booth will be on the second floor in Floral Hall. The following women are responsible for putting the booth up. Mrs. George Legge, Liberty Township Chairman, Miss Nora Eliason, Twin Lake Township Chairman, Mrs. Aaron Stromer, County Farm Bureau Women's Chairman and Miss Rachel Peterson, assisstant home economist.

The 4-H girls will also have a booth at the Fair and their subject will be Home Furnishings since that is their project for this year.

Supt. Whitney Reports on School Lunch Funds

School children in Hancock County benefited to the extent of $8,832.80 in Federal Funds used to help finance their noon lunches during the school year 1952 - 53, Chas. S. Whitney, County Superintendent of schools announced today.

Nine (9) Hancock County schools participated in the Iowa School Lunch Program during the past year. In these schools 214,738 Type A or complete lunches and 5,746 Type C lunches were served. (The Type C lunch is a half-pint bottle of milk.) Of this number 6,479 were served free to children unable to pay.

In addition to these funds, Chas. S. Whitney reports that the schools received without cost to them except for transportation from the distribution center, a large variety of commodities, such as processed cheese, dried beans, canned beans, tomato paste, canned tomatoes, canned peaches, peanut butter, and grapefruit sections. The above items were purchased from part of the school lunch appropiation as authorized by the National School Lunch Act. In addition the following surplus commodities were distributed to schools and institutions during the past year. Fresh pears, frozen turkeys, butter, pork shoulders and hams, shell eggs, canned cherries, orange juice, and dried milk.

Whitney said the money paid to participating schools in this county is part of the total of $937,477 allotted to the public schools of Iowa to help finance the lunch program in the 1,038 participating schools. That word comes from C. W. Bangs, the State Director of the School Division of the Department of Public Instruction. This division administers both the school lunch program and the commodity distribution program in Iowa.

Bangs also reports that the total value of commodities distributed to schools and eligible institutions amounted to approximately $1,500,000.

New Pamphlet Offered On Stored Grain Insect Control

Down-grading on grain that goes out of condition during storage or which picks up contamination can cause a sizable reduction in profits on a grain crop.

And Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, says insects in stored grain can lead to both problems—actual contamination they cause may reduce the quality and grade and the chain reaction set off by their activity may result in heated, moldy out-of-condition grain that gets graded down. Besides that, they actually destroy noticeable amounts of grain.

A new pamphlet just published by the Iowa Agricultural Extension Service will serve Hancock County farmers as a practical guide in efforts to control insects in stored grain, Henderson says. Description of the chief stored grain pests in Iowa, control measures and steps to safeguarding grain are included. The most up-to-date information available on this subject is outlined in the new publication.

Also of interest to grain elevator operators, Henderson believes, will be the special section in the pamphlet which discusses controlling these insects in grain elevators.

This 4-page pamphlet was prepared by Iowa State College extension entomologist Harold Gunderson. It is number 14 in the extension service pest control series and is available free from Henderson's office in Garner.

Pedestrian Deaths Show Sharp Increase

A near 100 per cent increase in pedestrians deaths tops the bad news contained in a state safety department summary of fatal accidents during the first six months of this year.

The department said 31 pedestrians were killed during the period compared to only 16 killed during the first half of 1952. The state won second place in the National Pedestrian Safety contest last year.

Noting an increase in nearly 18,000 license registrations during the period to bring the number of vehicles in Iowa to a record 1,131,300, the report said traffic in the state is running about 5 per cent heavier than last year. The results:

Two-hundred and ninety-four drivers involved in 198 fatal accidents that cost 225 lives during the first six months of this year compared to 241 drivers in 169 fatal accidents and 214 lives lost last year.

The report said 190 of the drivers involved in fatal accidents this year had never been involved in a reportable accident before and had never been convicted of a traffic violation.

Forty-four of the drivers were non-residents compared to 32 last year, and 40 had been drinking prior to their fatal accident compared to 38 last year.

800 Tons of Rough Fish From Iowa Lakes

Rough fish removal crews of the Conservation Commission seined and trapped over 800 tons of rough fish from Iowa lakes during the fiscal year of 1952-53, it was revealed today.

The total catch of 1,626,085 pounds of carp, buffalo, shad, quillback and other species was far above the 1951-52 take of 919,806 pounds.

According to Commission spokesmen the greatly increased catch was due to the number of fish traps in Iowa lakes and more efficient methods of rough fish removal. There are now 30 traps in Iowa lakes, making rough fish removal possible in areas where seines cannot be used. These traps, usually at inlets or outlets of lakes, imprison fish as they make spawning runs into streams or sloughs. Game fish are returned unharmed to the lake, but rough fish are removed and sold.

From March 1 to July 1 of this year, traps have taken 600,000 pounds of rough fish from Iowa waters. Two of the traps, one at Spirit Lake and the other at Lost Island took over 100,000 pounds in a week.

The three rough fish crews now total eight permanent employees and fourteen temporary workers. Operations are carried on during the entire year, and the catches are sold to the highest bidders.

Lane-Blockers and Whizz-Passers Are Big Highway Menace

Keep pace with other traffic—it's safest—don't be a "lane-blocker" or a "whizz-passer" on highways.

This traffic accident preventer was suggested today by E. R. "Johnny" Lange, Safety Director for the AAA Motor Club of Iowa, for all drivers, especially those planning vacation trips on main highways or turnpikes.

"Driving much faster or much slower than the general traffic stream involves serious hazard because it results in entirely too much overtaking and passing, and there is no question but that this is one of the dangerous practices of many drivers on high speed arteries," Lange said. "The safe driver keeps pace with other traffic and doesn't continually force other drivers to pass him because he is going too slowly in comparison with the speed of most of the traffic, nor should he continually pass other cars going at or near the cruising speed of the road.

"The greatest hazards result from indiscriminate passing," the motor official said. "This is especially true on narrow highways where the distance the driver can see ahead may be obstructed by curves and road dips —and head-on collisions happen in the flick of an eyelash.

"Last year in rural areas", Lange added, "of the 11,800 persons killed in collisions between motor vehicles, one out of five met death in head-on or side-swipe crashes. Excessive speed, failure to keep to the right of the center line and improper passing were driver violations in nearly half the fatal accidents.

34 Called For Physicals

The Hancock County Local Board has received an Armed Forces Physical Examination Call for 34 registrants to be delivered on 17 August 1953. The call has been filled and the registrants notified. However, due to certain restrictions the names will not be released for publication.

The Local Board has also received its induction call for the monh of September calling for 5 registrants. The call will be delivered on 9 September 1953 and the names of those reporting for induction will be published at a later date.

WHISTLE

When highway 30 was detoured through Belle Plaine, a lot of cars went too fast past the home of a former police chief there, Bob McKee. Now ill and retired, Bob dug up his old police whistle and gives a sharp blast from his home at offending motorists. The old whistle still slows 'em down.

Questions and Answers From the Office of the Hancock County Nurse

What is a Public Health Nurse?

She is a registered nurse with special training in public health, whose chief concern is to protect and preserve health in homes, school and industrial plants of your community.

Are her services available to every one in the community?

The services of public health nurses are not limited to indigent or low income groups. Everyone in the community is entitled to aid and advice from the public health nurse.

Where is the office located?

The Public Health Nurses office or as it is called in this county—"the county nurse" is in the southeast corner of the basement in the court house. The office is open from 8-4, closed over the noon hour, and 8-12 Saturdays. The nursee will be in the office from 8-9 A. M. Monday through Friday, 8-12 on Saturdays with stenographer there during the day.

The classifications of the responsibilities of the County Nurse are:

1. Nursing care and health guidance to individuals and families at home, school, work, and at medical and health centers.
2. Collaboration with other profession and citizen groups in studying, planning, and putting into action the community health program.
3. Participation in educational programs for nurses, allied professional workers, and community groups.

The number of cattle on feed for market in the 11 Corn Belt states on July 1 this year is estimated to be 8 percent larger than the number on feed a year ago.

There's more rust than usual in corn this year, says Arden Sherf, Iowa State College extension plant pathologist. However, he doesn't expect rust to cause appreciable loss in the corn crop.

Iowa cornfields are being attacked by bacterial wilt, or Stewart's disease. Both sweet and field corn are affected this year. There is no practical control for the disease at present.

The price of farm labor has more than trippled in the past 10 years. In contrast, the cost of electrical energy for a farmer using 200 kilowatts a month has risen only 20 percent. This is reported in a survey made by the USDA and the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station.

There's a four-way saving for you in LOWE BROTHERS STANDARD BARN PAINT:

Kenny Foundation Doctors, Therapists Stem '52 Epidemic

When fate unleashed polio in its greatest fury in history upon Midwest residents in the summer and fall of 1952, the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation countered by rushing all trained personnel and facilities in the area into action.

When patients overflowed the wards, beds were set up in the halls and offices at Elizabeth Kenny Institute, the Kenny Foundation treatment center in Minneapolis, Minn. Kenny doctors and Therapists worked themselves into state of near exhaustion. Still the demand for the Kenny treatment for polio patients continued to mount.

To meet the need, emergency polio wards, staffed by Kenny Therapists, were opened in Asbury, Mt. Sinai and Swedish hospitals in Minneapolis. Other Kenny Therapists were assigned to General and Sheltering Arms hospitals, also in Minneapolis. In addition, a staff of five Kenny Therapists was placed on emergency field assignment.

Thus, the Kenny Foundation was able to provide the Kenny treatment for polio AT NO CHARGE to every victim of the disease for whom it was requested by his or her doctor.

Over 1,200 polio patients were admitted to Kenny Institute. The Kenny treatment also was administered to some 400 polio victims by Kenny Therapists at Minneapolis General hospital. An additional several hundred received the Kenny treatment at Sheltering Arms hospital, Minneapolis.

As a result of having received the Kenny treatment, hundreds of victims stricken with polio in 1952 have returned to their homes, where they are living happy, normal lives, unencumbered by crutches and braces.

Along with providing the Kenny treatment, the Kenny Foundation trains registered nurses and physical therapists to become Kenny Therapists under scholarship arrangements, provides facilities and funds for clinical research, conducts medical seminars and makes available to the public information concerning polio and the Kenny treatment for the dread disease.

The Kenny Foundation is dependent upon public contributions to carry on and expand this humanitarian program. It has no other source of revenue for this work. Give generously to the Kenny Foundation polio fund appeal now being conducted in this area so that the program may continue and, where possible, be expanded.

Twenty-five per cent of all drivers involved in fatal auto accidents in the U. S. last year were under 25 eyars old.

Eighty per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents in 1952 were traveling straight ahead.

Excessive speed was the principal cause of traffic accidents in 1952.

In 1952, 8,650 pedestrians were killed in U. S. traffic accidents.

Last year's traffic toll of deaths and injuries was the heaviest in history.

In 1942 butter consumption in the United States averaged 16½ pounds per person per year. Now the figure is 9 pounds, but consumption of other dairy products has increased steadily. This report comes from the USDA.

Final Report of Community-Wide X-Ray Survey

In the recently completed county-wide x-ray survey in Hancock County 15 tuberculosis findings were revealed. This report was issued by the Division of Tuberculosis Control, State Department of Health, Des Moines.

These cases included: 5 minimal tuberculosis; 5 moderately advanced; 2 tuberculosis suspects, and 3 with primary complex. Of these 7 were probably healed..

All findings in the survey were confidential between the patient and the physician.

Seventy non-tuberculosis findings were also reveaied in the survey.

The survey in the county was begun June 17, 1953 and completed July 23, 1953.. There were 7,232 miniature x-rays taken in Hancock County which has a total population of 15,077 in the 1950 census. The survey included adults and school children from seventh grade up. There were 63 persons re-examined. Large x-rays were taken of these persons, 18 of which revealed healthy chests.

The community wide x-ray survey is a program being carried on throughout the state so that every Iowan will have an opportunity to have a chest x-ray free of charge. The annual sale of Christmas seals in Hancock County helped to defray the expense of the recent survey.

This survey, with the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society, has been made possible through the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association and volunteers from its organization, the Division of Tuberculosis, State Department of Health, and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Much Fertilizer Is Going on Land

Will Be Plowed Under For Next Year's Crop

Fall plowing this year will see considerable expansion of an idea that is new in fertilizer use. This is bulk spreading of moderate to heavy rates of mixed fertilizers.

Iowa State College agronomists H. R. Meldrum and Joe Stritzel say they have seen some of this work under way already and expect to see more as the summer and fall plowing season progresses.

Has Advantages

Applying fertilizers for next year's crops just ahead of fall plowing, they say, offers some excellent advantages. First, the ground is firm then and will hold the trucks used for bulk spreading. And it asures getting the fertilizer in the ground—a thing that can't always be managed in a spring difficult for field work. Bulk spreading also eliminates the time-consuming and hard work of handling fertilizer bags in using a farm spreader.

One year's work conducted in Iowa by research agronomists showed applying moderate to heavy rates of phosphate and potash in the fall was as effective in boosting the yield of the next crop as spring-applied, disked-in fertilizer. Of course, Meldrum and Stritzel point out, the college tests were on fertilizers applied in October, but there's not much reason to think that there will be excessive loss of value from these two materials from applying earlier.

May Lose Nitrogen

However, they add, results are not yet conclusive on the effects of applying nitrogen fertilizer in the fall. They think you chance some loss of nitrogen by applying it in the summer. And this applies particularly to light and sandy soils. Fall rains and warm weather may lead to changing much of the nitrogen to a soluble form that may be leached from the soil before next year's crop has a chance to use it. The chances of conversion will be reduced, they add, after soil temperature drops below 60 degrees, probably by mid-September.

Meldrum and Stritzel regard late summer and fall application of needed phosphate and potash ahead of the plow as a sound practice. But they caution against applying nitrogen without considering the chance that some of it may be lost.

Meyer Reports on Farm Storage Facilities

Definite trend toward keeping 1952 price-supported corn on the farms where it was produced and increasing farm storage facilities has become apparent in Iowa within the past two weeks, it was reported today by Dwight W. Meyer, new chairman of the State Production committee

"The problem of finding a home for all the 170 million bushels of 1952 Iowa corn under price support is still very much in existence," he declared, "but I am convinced that very good progress is being made."

Meyer, a prominent Sac county farmer, became state PMA chairman on August 1, succeeding Marvin L. McLain of Brooklyn, who is now national director of PMA's grain branch in Washington. One of the first official duties of the new chairman was to review steps already taken to get farm owners and operators to reseal 42 million bushels of price-supported corn for which the government lacks storage space.

Factors in the growing acceptance of the resealing program, he said, are the present threat of dry weather to cut this year's crop and the "commendable" belief of many producers that they assume some of the responsibility of caring for price-supported grain.

The high moisture content being found in cribbed ear corn under loan in some areas of the state is causing farmers having such grain to delay requests for permission to deliver to the government in settlement of their notes, Meyer stated. Such delay, he asserted, will result in many instances in a decision to reseal and thereby permit producers to earn the 13 cents per bushel storage fee offered them for keeping the corn on the farm another year.

Meyer explained that his encouraging view of the resealing drive was based on personal observation and information as well as reports from county committeemen and the PMA fieldmen whose duties keep them in close touch with all sections of the state.

Reports by the fieldmen that more new cribs are being constructed or purchased than in recent years and that many county offices have had a noticeable increase in inquiries regarding government loans for building additional farm storage structures are especially significant, the state chairman declared.

He emphasized, however, that there have been relatively few actual applications for storage building loans, indicating that the many owners and operators now adding facilities to their farms are doing their own financing.

"These things point to an intention on the part of many farmers to team up with the government to solve the corn storage problem," Meyer said, "but a lot more of them must do the same if a home is to be assured for every bushel of 1952 corn now under price support".

Rainbow Girls To Have Bazaar At Britt

The Rainbow Girls will have a bazaar at Britt on the first day of September. This is a regular meeting night of the Eastern Star and the bazaar will be held during the Eastern Star meeting in the hall.

Each one of the girls is supposed to have something that they have made brought to Deloris Holmes by the last week in August. The article can be anything, candy, aprons, pot holders, etc. Just so the girl has made it herself.

The Rainbow Girls have three meetings coming up. Sept. 14th is the first meeting. Sept. 20 is installation and Sept. 24th the third meeting.

Remember these dates and remember about the bazaar.

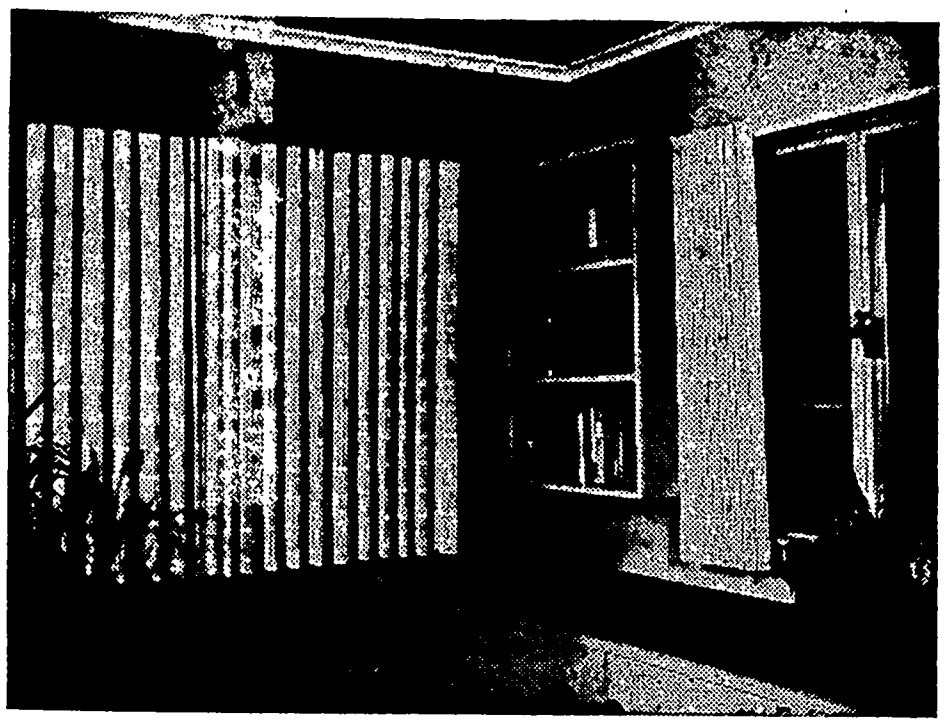
There's a Popular Trend to—

Modern Blinds for Windows



Within the last 5 or 6 years, venetian blinds have become a very popular way to handle window problems. In the past year, bamboo and basswood blinds, which operate on the principle of draw draperies, have begun to gain popular acceptance in homes. Here you see floor-length blinds made of vertical, woven reeds as the sole treatment of the window in place of draperies.

The old green and tan window shade has "gone out the window" figuratively speaking. Modern blinds and shades have taken over the job in a more colorful, more serviceable way. If fixing up the windows is to be the order of business in your home one of these days, you can do nothing better than give yourself a "short course" in what's new in blinds. Emelda Kunau, Iowa State College home furnishings specialist, says you're in for a happy surprise.

Venetian blinds have hit a high note in popularity. The reason is obvious. They are more modern looking than ever before. They come in a wonderful variety of colors to match many home furnishing schemes. And they come in a wide variety of materials—aluminum, plastic or painted wood slats. Some are easier to clean than others. The tapes may be plastic, synthetic fabric or cotton—of the same or contrasting colors. Plastic tapes and pull cords, or those of nylon, mean easier care also.

Bamboo Blinds

Up-and-coming contender for modern window treatments is the vertical hanging bamboo or reed blind. It may be made of natural, dyed or painted bamboo or basswood slats, and it comes in a wide variety of colors and weights. The price—a real factor to note. But, if these blinds are to serve you well without warping or changing color, you'll want top quality. Consider, however, that the money you would put into a top-quality blind will probably be no more than you would pay for a good-quality lined drapery. Chances are it will outlast the drapery, for sun "punishment" is not such a problem.

The blinds may be ordered any length you wish—floor, sill, or apron length. Many homemakers like the apron length, although some homes achieve a most modern effect with full-length blinds in place of draperies. Most quaint are the blinds made up in "cafe" style.

In most cases, these blinds are being installed with traverse rods and open and close as draw draperies do. Tape stitched to the back of the blind takes the small hooks which in turn fasten to the traverse rod.

Acetate Blinds

Another newcomer is the blind made with vertical strips of acetate fabrics. The "vanes" are available in neutral or decorator colors. Such blinds are installed on a special frame which allows them to be opened or closed simply by turning a lever. The strips are removable for washing.

It goes without saying that blinds are destined to receive a lot of rough treatment from family use and the weather. Over the long haul of several years, however, a good quality blind will repay you in service. If you put good money into blinds, you should expect that slats will keep their shape, not warp or rust, and the finish will remain intact. The tapes and slats should be sun-fast and washable, and the blinds should be easy to operate. If color choice is a problem, ask your dealer to let you borrow samples of slats and tapes. Then make your selection at home.

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

A major question for the cattle feeder to determine is, "What will finished cattle bring in 1954?" according to Sam H. Thompson, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

After considering this and feed costs, Thompson says, he is in a position to decide how much to pay for feeders.

Recent cattle cycles have been shorter. Thompson says this may possibly have resulted from the fact that the farmer's access to outlook facts on demand, supplies and related factors have helped in obtaining more prompt adjustments.

Whatever the cause, some feel this is a good year for feeders range producers to consider realistically what prices feeders can afford to pay in the light of finished cattle prices—and then govern themselves accordingly.

Thompson says that when feeder cattle prices shot up in response to the rise in slaughter prices on July 14 this year there was reason to wonder whether feeders had forgotten what happened following the over-optimism in purchase of feeder cattle last fall. Last year's experience, he says, will councel careful buying.

Last year—1952—all grades of feeder and stocker steers at Kansas City averaged $25.24 in July, $25.17 in August, $23.57 in September, $22.76 in October $22.31 in November, $20.50 in December.

This summer steers sold in the week ending July 16 at sharp advances over the preceeding week. Primes were up over the $3.90, good $3.83, commercial $3.10 and all grades $3.54. This was the most pronounced buying wave since the runaway market of October 1946, immediately after price controls were removed. Abnormally heavy marketings resulted from the rise in price and erased a large part of the advance.

Stocker and feeder markets promptly reflected the apparent optimism of the slaughter steer market. At the close of the same week all grades of stocker and feeder cattle averaged up $2.60 per 100 lbs. at Sioux City, $2.24 at Kansas City, $1.02 at Omaha and $2.05 at eight major markets.

The week which followed, ending July 23, found receipts at 12 markets 9,000 under the previous week and 49,000 larger than a year ago. Supply distribution was abnormal and price fluctuations from day-to-day were relatively wide.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the town of Klemme, Iowa, on the 27th day of August, 1953, for the purpose of submitting to the legal and qualified electors of said town, to be voted upon by them, the question of whether the following public measure shall be adopted:

Shall the following non-exclusive franchise ordinance No. 43 passed by the town Council of Klemme, Iowa, on the 28th day of July, 1953, be adopted?

ORDINANCE NO. 43

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING UNTO CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY, AN IOWA CORPORATION, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE AND RIGHT FOR A PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO ERECT, CONSTRUCT, RECONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, IN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND TO ENTER UPON AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, HIGHWAYS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC PLACES OF SAID TOWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, CONSTRUCTING, RECONSTRUCTING, MAINTAINING AND OPERATING THEREON, THEREIN, THEREUNDER AND THEREOVER SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, CONSISTING OF POLES, POSTS, WIRES, CABLES, CONDUITS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT, APPARATUS AND CONSTRUCTION NECESSARY OR INCIDENT TO SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, AND THEIR USE AND TO FURNISH GENERAL TELEPHONE SERVICE, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, TO SAID TOWN AND THE INHABITANTS THEREOF AND OTHERS WITHIN AND WITHOUT SAID TOWN FOR ALL PURPOSES AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE GRANT AND THE PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1. The Town of Klemme, Iowa, hereby grants unto Central Iowa Telephone Company, an Iowa corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinfter called the Grantee, a non-exclusive franchise and right, for a period of twenty-five years from and after the date this ordinance becomes effective, to erect, construct, reconstruct, maintain, operate and use within the corporate limits of said town of Klemme, Iowa, as the same now are or may hereafter be located, a telephone system, or systems, both local and long distance, together with the franchise and right to enter upon and to use and occupy the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and public places of said town as the same now are or may hereafter be located or extended, for the purpose of installing, constructing, reconstructing, maintaining and operating thereon, therein, thereunder and thereaover said telephone system, or systems, consisting of poles, posts, wires, cable, conduits and other equipment, aparatus and construction necessary or incident to said telephone system, or systems, and their use, and together with the franchise and right to furnish general telephone service, both local and long distance, to said town and to the inhabitants thereof and others within and without the corporate limits of said town for any and all purposes and under such restrictions and regulations as are hereinafter contained, and such other reasonable regulations as may hereafter be provided by ordinance

Section 2 All poles, posts, wires, cables, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction connected with said telephone system, or systems, shall be located, erected, adjusted and maintained (subject to all ordinances, rules and regulations of said town) so as not to endanger persons or property or unreasonably interfere with any improvement the town may deem proper to make, or to unnecessarily hinder or obstruct the free use of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges or private or public property.

Sestion 3. Whenever the Grantee, in erecting, constructing, or maintaining said telephone system, or systems, shall take up or disturb any pavement or sidewalk or make any excavation in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, or public grounds of said town, such excavations shall be at once refilled and the pavement, sidewalk or other improvement, replaced to the satisfaction of the town officials.

Section 4. Whenever it shall be necessary for any person or persons to move along or across any of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town any vehicle or structure of such height or size as to interfere with any poles or wires erected hereunder, the said Grantee upon receiving twenty-four (24) hours notice served in writing upon its agent or manager at Klemme, Iowa, and upon receiving payment of the actual cost of so doing, shall temporarily remove its poles and wires from such places as must necessarily be crossed by such vehicle or structure; provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to apply to circus or other parades upon the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town.

Section 5. Any person who shall cut, injure or destroy any of the poles, wires, fixtures, conduits, cables or other property of the Grantee lawfully erected, maintained or being within the corporate limits of said town, or who shall post bills or signs upon any of the poles or other property, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $100.00, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days.

Section 6. The Grantee shall agree to allow said town to attach at any time to any of said poles of the Grantee, the town fire alarm and/or police wires, including necessary apparatus incident thereto, provided such attachments shall be made under the direction and supervision of the Grantee and made and maintained so as not to interfere with the Grantee's use of said poles.

Section 7. All the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to the successors or assigns of the Grantee, with the same force and effect as they do to the Grantee itself.

Section 8. The Grantee shall hold the town harmless from any and all causes of action, litigation or damages which may arise through or by reason of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of said telephone system, or systems, and other construction hereby authorized.

Section 9. The Grantee shall within sixty days after the publication of this Ordinance signify in writing an acceptance of the grant herein, including the conditions and restrictions herein expressed, and this Ordinance, and the franchise granted herein, shall not be operative or binding unless such acceptance is filed with the town Clerk. The Grantee shall pay the costs incurred in holding the election to submit this ordinance to the legal electors for their approval, as provided by law.

Section 10. All Ordinances, or parts of Ordinances, insofar as they are in direct conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 11. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect, subject to its approval by a majority of the legal electors of the town of Klemme, Iowa, voting thereon, as provided by law, and subject to its acceptance by the Grantee, as provided in Section 9 above, upon its publication, as provided by law.

Animals, Fish, Snakes Readied For Fair

The 1953 Iowa State Fair is on the horizon, and at the state game farm near Boone more than 75 baby racoons are being groomed for their part in the big show.

The young 'coons will be one of the main attractions at the Conservation Commission Exhibit Building, where they will be placed in a kingsized cage and left to their own devices. Their bright-eyed curiosity and general deviltry have made the 'coon cage a favorite of fair visitors in recent years.

Presiding over the fisheries exhibit wil be the patriarch of Iowa fishes, old Oscar the sturgeon. The big rock sturgeon is now about 50 years old, and tips the scales at over 100 pounds.

Other exhibits will include a deer family, many species of Iowa game birds and mammals, and a game-saving flushing bar for high-speed mowers. Blue prints of the flushing bar will be distributed without cost.

Another perennial favorite, the snake exhibit, is said to be the best and most complete collection in years.

To control milkweed, use a smother crop such as alfalfa, suggests E. P. Sylwester, weed control specialist at Iowa State College.

Gardeners who want good tomato yields should continue regular treatment to control blight. Dusting or spraying with fixed copper or organic carbamate fungicides is recommended.

Five New Teachers In Klemme School For Coming Year

School To Open August 31

According to an annoucement made by Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel, the Klemme Schools will open on Monday, August 31, with five teachers and twelve hold-over faculty members conducting classes.

William Westberg, of Boone, who in addition to coaching boys athletics, will teach shop and driver training. Mr. Westberg is a single man, 27 years old and a graduate of Iowa State Teachers College. He is a World War II navy veteran and has coached the past three years at Urbana, Iowa. He has spent this summer attending classes at Iowa State Teachers College in order that he will be qualified to teach the driver training classes.

Forrest R. Hiller , of Jewel, will teach English, have charge of dramatics and the school publication. He is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers College, and taught the past year at Manistee, Michigan.

Erwin Beenken is no stranger to this community, as he taught here several years ago, before going into the service. He was discharged from the service last spring and returns to his old job. He will teach the eighth grade. He has had two years of schooling at Waldorf College at Forest City, and has been attending Luther College at Decorah this summer. He and his wife will live in the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Juhl and son.

Mrs. Gladys Wessels, of Klemme, will teach the first grade. In formation as to her schooling has not at this time been available to The Times, but for the past three years she has taught in the Kanawha Schools.

Miss Rachel Huenemann ,of Garner, will teach the second grade. She has attended Iowa State Teachers College and spent this summer attending classes at Mason City Junior College. She taught last year in the Goodell Schools.

In the center of this issue of the The Times you will find pictures of all the teachers.

Hearings Will Be Held On School Redistricting

Wins Purple Ribbon At 4-H Show

Gruis Boys Get Honors At North Iowa Fair

Galen and Lee Gruis had five blue ribbon steers at the North Iowa Fair at Mason City last week.

Lee won the trophy for the best home-raised purebred heifer in the shorthorn division.

They had other purebred entries at the fair and won their share of blue ribbons in the open class.

Contract Let on Bridge

Yohn and Stone, Britt contractors, were the successful bidders at a letting held at the courthouse here Monday afternoon on the construction of three wooden bridges in Amsterdam township and the removal of the old structures. Their bid of $2608..20 for the project was the low bid and Hancock county supervisors awarded a contract for the construction of the bridges.

Local Business Places Buy 4-H Calves At Achievement Show

A total of $46,389.11 worth of livestock was sold at the annual Hancock County Junior Achievement Show held Wednesday morning, August 12th at the new Fairgrounds at Britt. The average price paid for the calves was $25.55 per hundred pounds.

Klemme business places purchasing livestock at the sale were: Larsen and Johnson, Klemme Food Market, First National Bank, Gerardi Music Sales, Don's D-X and Josten Hardware and Appliance.

Held Annual Meeting

The annual member meeting of the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company was held last Friday evening at the grade school basement. Manager Marvin G. Lemke has given us all the particulars for a story on the meeting and the year's business, but we are running so far behind this week that we are going to have to save it for the next issue.

To Be Discharged

Richard Tiggeman left for Fort Sheridan, Illinois, August 15th. He has been enjoying a furlough in Klemme but had to report back to camp to receive his discharge. He is supposed to become a civilian again on Friday, August 21st.

Purchases House

Graydon Back has this week purchased the house which formerly belonged to the estate of Mrs. Lena Medaus. The Backs are now living in the downstairs apartment of the J. W. Johnson house, two blocks north of the post office, but will move into their new home on September 1.

Eenhuis Hurls 2-Hitter

"Big John" Eenhuis threw a fine two-hit performance at the Meservey softball team on the Meservey diamond Tuesday evening, to help keep the local nine at the top of the heap in league play.

John got fine support from the rest of the Klemme team. Final score was 4 to 0 in favor of Klemme.

When Earl Allen retired as mail carrier at Iowa Falls recently, he estimated that he had covered a minimum of 187,000 miles in the past 43 years.

People To Express Feelings On Plans Of County Board

Iowa law now provides that no new school district shall be planned by the county board of education, nor approved by said board, nor submitted to electors unless there were 300 person of school age enrolled in the proposed district on the preceding year.

The law also provides that if any proposal for reorganization be presented to the county board of education, they shall adopt and file a tentative county plan with the state department of instruction no later than 60 days after receiving said proposal.

On July 6, the Britt Independent School District submitted a proposal to the county board of education, so now the board has had to get busy and prepare a plan to file with the state department. Deadline, due to September 6th falling on Sunday, will be September 7th.

The county board has foreseen that such action would be forthcoming, so they have been busy for some time, meeting with various school boards and with residents of school districts throughout the county. This proposal is tentative, and no action will be taken on it until hearings are held and the people of the county are given a chance to express their feelings on the matter. This tentative plan, as set up by the board, is more of a sounding board or starting point than it is a definite plan. In setting up their plan, the county board has as nearly as possible used existing transportation service areas for district boundaries.

Klemme-Goodell

The tentative plan as proposed by the county board would call for an administrative district which would include the transportation service areas of Klemme and Goodell. In this district there would be two elementary schools and one high school. Corwith and Kanawha would each have a district, the same as now. Crystal Lake and Hayfield would form one district; Garner and Miller a district; Britt a district, and Woden one. However, Woden would have to have some territory from Winnebago county, and ten townships in Orthel township now serviced by Britt, in order to reach the 300-pupil minimum.

An alternate proposal, the board will submit at the hearings would put Garner, Hayfield and Miller together, and throw Crystal Lake and Woden together, This would leave Britt the ten townships in Orthel county which Woden would reqiure in the other proposal.

It should be remembered that these proposals that the county board of education are submitting are just tentative. and no definite action will be taken on them until hearings are held.

Last Show; Stores Closed

This evening will be the last show of the season. Klemme merchants have sponsored free movies each Wednesday night throughout the summer, and have kept the stores open until nine o'clock on show nights. However, no more movies this season, and stores will be open at night only on Saturdays.

Thada's Shopping Center Sold to Mason Citian

Howard Trevett Will Take Over Business On September 8th

The first of September will be the twenty-third anniversary of Thada's Shopping Center. On the eighth of September, the store will go under new management, as Howard Trevett of Mason City takes over. Mr. Trevett recently completed a deal whereby he purchased the grocery and meat departments from the present owners, Mrs. Edna Thada and Ed Thompson.

Before the business changes hands, Mrs. Thada and Mr. Thompson are holding an anniversary and clearance sale. Their ad on the back page of this issue offers some real bargains.

Thada's store has been a prominent one in Klemme for the past 23 years. It was started by W. L. Thada in 1930, and he managed the business until his death in 1939 At that time, Mrs. Thada and Mr. Thompson formed a partnership and continued the business in the Wellemeyer Building, where is was then located.

Three years ago the business was moved into a beautiful new building, built especially for a modern shopping center. The rear of the building was made into an apartment for Mr. Thompson and his family.

Mr. Trevett has had considerable experience in business and is at present associated with Currie's at Mason City. His wife is an able grocer, having had years of experience in that line. They will live in the apartment now occupied by the Thompsons. They have two girls, 18 and 19.

Mrs. Thada will continue in the dry goods business in the present location, and plans to do some remodeling and carry a more complete stock. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson plan on taking a couple of months vacation and looking for a place to settle in the southwest.

Taken from Our Files

10 YEARS AGO—

"Jack" Runge set up a mark for local anglers to shoot at when he hooked and landed a five pound catfish while fishing in the Iowa River near the Stille bridge west of town, Sunday morning. This is without a doubt one of the best gamefish caught in the river in recent years.

Mrs. Eddie Epps, who has been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Paul, went to Des Moines, Monday for a tonsil operation.

A. J. Kudje and family started a ten-day vacation Monday which they will spend at a cottage at Clear Lake. Their daughter, "Jackie" who has been attending summer school at Cedar Falls will join them this week.

Mrs. A. H. Dulmes came this afternoon from Grundy Center for a few days' visit with Klemme friends. Her husband, Capt. A. H. Dulmes, has gone overseas.

20 YEARS AGO—

John Lemke, Liberty Township farmer, accepted the challenge issued by The Times last week, by bringing in a tall stalk of corn Saturday. The stalk measures fourteen and one-half feet from root to top. Some corn. That should hold the rest of you tall corn farmers for awhile.

Misses Ethel Wellemeyer and Marie Blank returned Wednesday morning from Chicago where they attended the World's Fair and took sight-seeing trips around Chicago. The Klemme young ladies were in company with a young ladies tour from Anamosa.

Clair West, Kenneth Kluckhohn and Leonard Swanson left Saturday night on a tour and sight-seeing trip. To where they failed to state but promised to later. Cards were received from them from South Dakota, Tuesday, and they stated they were going to Cody, Wyoming from there.

30 YEARS AGO—

Clarence Elder, the office devil, is responsible for this issue, so please blame all mistakes to him and leave the worthy editor out of the entanglement. He's on vacation.

Vernon Turgasen assisted with work at the local creamery during the absence of Harl Gimer, who was spending his vacation visiting relatives at Riceville.

Howard Wiles and Fred Arnold were at Ames, Tuesday, making arrangements for their college courses this fall. Both of the young men intend to take engineering courses.

An auto accident occurred on the main street of Klemme, Wednesday morning, when Frank Louk, driving on the wrong side of the road, collided with the ice cream truck from Iowa Falls. The truck had its front axle bent and the Louk car received a broken lamp and a few other bumps as a result of the collision.

Esther Circle Met

Esther Circle met in the Methodist Church parlors Tuesday evening with Mrs. James Carlson and Mrs. Lyle Green as hostesses.

The meeting opened with hymn singing and a devotional period led by Mrs. Roy Schaefer, lesson leader. She presented an interesting lesson assisted by a number of other members.

A social hour followed the business meeting. There were 16 members and one guest present.

The hostesses served a delicious lunch.

BRUISED

Six girls, members of a detasseling crew, were slightly injured, simultaneously, while riding in the back end of a truck, near Grinnel. The vehicle passed under a low-hanging telephone wire, which caught the girls on their heads, throwing them to the bed of the truck. One girl, Mrs. Darrell Weaver, was hospitalized.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward and Sharon returned Monday night from several days of visiting with friends and fishing in Wisconsin.

Miss Ardella Nelson of Madison, Wisconsin and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Halferty of Des Moines, were week end visitors in the Verner Nelson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bachman and family of Palm Springs, California, arrived Sunday for a visit with relatives here and at Forest City, Belmond and Kanawha.

Mrs. Louisa Schroeder of Chicago, is a guest at the home of Mrs. Lena Schroeder. From here she will go to Minnesota to visit other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Nelson, and Ardella, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Halferty and Mrs. Tom Nelson were Sunday dinner guests in the Lloyd Jasperson home near Rockwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson of Saginaw, Michigan, are spending a few days at the Dorance Day home. Mr. Peterson is Mrs. Day's brother.

Mrs. Henrietta Wilkins of Meservey and Mrs. Martha Bachman of Kanawha, were supper guests in the Verner Nelson home Friday evening.

Elmer Langlitz and Gage Lackore drove to Fairchild Wisconsin, Sunday, where they visited with a friend who formerly lived at Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clements drove to Estherville Monday for a few days visit with relatives and to help Jonh's mother celebrate her birthday.

Pictured above are Jane Renner and her brother, Billy, on the two ponies which she showed at the Achievement Show. She won blue ribbons on each of the two ponies and on a hereford calf. Jane and Billy are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Renner.

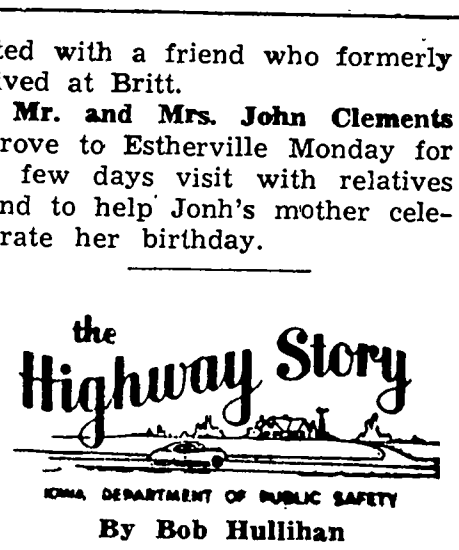
The purebred Hereford heifer which Marcella Nuehring is holding in the above picture won a blue ribbon at the Achievement Show, when shown by Marcella. Marcella is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Neuhring. There are many other ribbon winners from the Klemme territory, but we are cramped for both time and space this week, and just won't be able to get them in.



By Bob Hullihan

Perhaps the sharpest indication of what is happening on Iowa highways this summer comes in this story from the highway patrol:

A patrolman was assigned a new car, but there was to be a couple of days delay in putting the usual patrol insignia and lights on the machine.

With the traffic death toll climbing as it is this year, however, it was felt there should be no delay in putting the patrolman and his new car on the highways. He went on duty driving the unmarked car.

At the end of the first day, he came back to his sergeant a shaken and troubled man. "We have to get some indentification on that car," he said, "or I'm going to get killed.

"Those drivers out there don't know who I am. They're runing me off the road, pulling out in front of me, cutting in, and riding my bumper. We've got to get that car looking like a patrol car so I can get some protection."

Patrolmen tell this for a true story, but they tell it a little sadly. It indicates many drivers have to see the law before they will obey it.

Another straw in the wind appeared in a letter to the safety department recently. A man had been receiving the department's maries. He wrote to the depart- accident and fatality summaries. He wrote to the department:

"Will you please discontinue your report o me. It gets on my nerves."

With the way things have been going this summer, them man's request is understandable, to say the least.

TELEPHONE FRANCHISE DAY

Next Thursday, August 27, 1953
Vote "Yes" For Klemme's Telephone Franchise

THE KLEMME TOWN COUNCIL HAS SET THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, AS THE DATE FOR THE TELEPHONE FRANCHISE ELECTION IN KLEMME.

ALL EXPENSES OF THE ELECTION ARE PAID FOR BY THE CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY.

As provided by low, the complete text of the franchise is published once each week for four consecutive weeeks. First Notice of Special Election appeared in the July 29 issue of the Klemme Times.

Join With Your Neighbors to Make Thursday a Bright Day For the Telephone Future of Klemme.

Good Telephone Service Is Important to Us All - Housewives - Businessmen - All Industry

We are asking for your go-ahead to provide good telephone service and help the Klemme community grow.

Long-range planning on the part of the Telephone Uti lity is required for future growth of the Town and the Company. Terms of financing major improvements are on a long-range basis too, and in order to attract investors who furnish this money the Company needs to have a franchise.

The Franchise sets forth certain conditions and standards of performance and thus guarantees to the Town of Klemme, and its citizens the maximum benefits from their telephone service.

Some of these conditions are:

1. A franchise will establish minimum standards of material and workmanship.

2. The Company must provide sufficient service to meet all the telephone needs of the Town during the entire franchise period.

3. The Town is relieved of liability from legal action or damages arising out of the construction or operation of the telephone system.

4. The Franchise is non-exclusive. A similar grant can be made at any time to any other Company or municipality.

Your "Yes" Vote At The Election On August 27 Will Insure Klemme's Telephone Future

State Fair Gets Glamour

DES MOINES— Stars of Broadway, Hollywood and television will be featured in a huge musical revue being brought here for the Iowa State Fair, Aug. 29-Sept. 7. Fair officials said this week that plans for the biggest revue in fair history have been completed. The musicalshow, presented under the stars, will open Aug. 29 and continue every night through Sept. 3 with an all-star cast of more than 150 entertainers.

Tips For Parents of Kindergarten Children

When your child enters kindergarten he will be starting one of the first important experiences outside of his home. He enters a new way of life for a few hours each day. If he is to learn and grow normally he should find there a life as simple, natural and happy, as school and home together can make it.

Also, it is important that the child come to school with a healthy outlook on his life and that he be mentally, socially and physically prepared to become an active, happy and growing citizen of the school.

If you have any mental social or physical problems, or wish information concerning vaccination on your kindergarten or school child, grade or high school, feel free to write or call Garner, phone number 7 or come to the Nursing Service Office, Saturday morning 8-12 or by appointment any time during the week, office is open 8-4 Monday through Friday except over the noon hours.

We have many pamphlets, in our office, that you might find helpful in working out the problems or we could help by suggesting proper channels for professional help as needed.

$6,615,000 For 1954 Conservation Program

Soil management problems of the present crop year have been sufficiently varied to prompt many farmers to start planning now for conservation measures they should establish or inaugurate next year, according to A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the Hancock county PMA committee.

The Iowa ACP handbook for next year is expected to be approved and ready for issuance about October 1 which means that the annual sign-up by farmers should get under way by early fall, Chairman, Rasmussen said.

Practices approved on the national basis for ACP in 1954, he stated, are about the same as those for 1953 except that more definite limitations will be placed on recurring practices such as spreading of limestone, contouring of intertilled crops and application of commercial fertilizer. It is certain, he said, that emphasis will be placed on "enduring" or permanent-type practices.

The Iowa PMA has been allotted $6,615,000 of federal funds to conduct its 1954 cost-sharing conservation program. In line with reduction in the national appropiation, this amount is $1,990,000 less than allotted the state for ACP in 1953.

To Race At Fair

DES MOINES—Jimmy Campbell, 1952 IMCA big car racing champion, has announced he will defend his title here in the Iowa State Fair races, Aug. 30, Sept. 4 and Sept. 7. The races on Sept. 7 will mark the inaugural of big car racing under the lights at the State Fair. On the other two days, the races will be in the afternoons.

Conservation Commission Names Hunting Dates

The State Conservation Commission has annouced the first of the 1953 hunting seasons, which includes squirrel, rabbit and migratory waterfowl.

Squirrel season will be the same as last year, with the season on gray and fox squirrels opening on September 15 and extending through November 15. The entire state will be open to squirrel hunting, with a daily bag limit of 6 and a possession limit of 12 after the first day of the season.

The open season on cottontail and jack rabbits will begin on September 15 and run through January 31, 1954. Shooting hours will be from 6:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. daily. The daily bag limit of rabbits is 10, with no possession limit.

Duck season will again be open from October 8 through December 1, but an extra hour of shooting will be allowed each day in the 1953 season. Instead of closing an hour before sunset, as in 1952, duck shooting this fall will be permitted until sunset. Daily shooting will begin one-half hour before sunrise.

The daily bag limit of ducks is 4, which is also the possession limit for the first day's shooting. Thereafter the possession limit will be 8 ducks. Only one wood duck may be held in bag or possession at any time.

The daily bag limit on geese may be Canada geese, their sub- is 5, not more than 2 of which species or white-fronted geese. The entire bag may be either blue or snow geese or any combination of them. The possession limit of geese is the same as the daily bag limit.

Bag and possession limits of coots is 10. There is a daily bag limit of 25 on American and red-breasted mergansers, with no possession limit. Guns must be carried by all migratory be plugged to a 3-shell capacity and a 1953 duck stamp must waterfowl hunters over 16 years of age.

Another species of waterfowl has been added to Iowa's open list with the opening of a jacksnipe season, which will extend from October 8 through October 23. Bag and possession limits of jacksnipe will be 8. There has been no jacksnipe hunting permitted in Iowa since 1941, when the season was closed by federal agencies.

Pheasant and quail seasons have not yet been set, but will be announced later

Three Break-ins At Garner Past Week End

Hancock County Sheriff L. M. Brower was called to investigate three burgularies in Garner on Monday morning and clues were meager. The break-ins were discovered when the places opened for business on Monday and are presumed to have taken place Saturday or Sunday night. Garner business houses visited by burgulars over the week end were the Smith Hardware, the Coast-to-Coast Store and the C. and H. Dime Store. Undetermined sums of cash were pilfered according to Sheriff Brower.

Plan Home Water System Field Day

Date Is Sept. 16 and Place Is Polk County

At least one solution will be shown for almost any problem on farm water systems at a field day to be held in Polk County on Sept. 16.

That's the date for the Farm Water System Field Day, which will be held on the Harvey W. Moeckley farm near Polk City. At this event, educational specialists from Iowa State College will join with representatives of industrial and utilities organizations to show and talk about water systems for the farm.

The Moeckly farm has been serviced in the past by gravity-flow water system, but now it's being equipped for an up-to-the minute pressure system. In the coming weeks the new system will be installed. It will furnish convenient and work-saving water under pressure for beef, dairy, swine and poultry enterprises, for easier work in the farm home and to serve as standby fire-fighting protection.

All New

This farm water system will be new practically from well to faucet. A new well is being drilled to a depth of more than 600 feet. A new pump will be installed at the field day. New water mains, hydrants and convenient connections will take water to every location where it will be needed. There will be a range of different types of waterers or livestock or field day guests to see in service.

In the farm home, visitors will see water being used to a full extent to ease the work of homemaking and provide more comfortable and healthful living. Included will be an automatic laundry, water heater, water softner, basement shower, dishwasher and bathrooms.

For "Haves," "Have Nots"

This field day will furnish Iowa farm folks an opprotunity to get facts on water systems. It will show the result of good start-to-finish planning for those who have not yet installed water systems. And it will offer suggestions for revision and modernization of existing systems for more efficient use.

In addition to the system that will be installed on the Moeckly farm, there will be exhibits of commercial water system equipment. And Iowa State College specialists in agriculture and home economics will be there to discuss many phases of use of water on the farm and in the home.

The field day will be held Sept. 16, beginning at 10 a. m. and continuing until 3:30 p. m. The Moeckly farm is 3½ miles east of Polk City and 3 miles west of highway 69.

Fall Care Helps Insure Good Lawn in Spring

Late August is lawn care time around many Iowa homes. And A. E. Cott, who is an extension horticulturist at Iowa State College, says it is about the best time of year to help insure a good lawn next year.

Folks who were satisfied with the condition of their lawns this year can limit their work to application of a complete fertilizer, such as 6-10-4 at 6 to 8 pounds per 1,000 square feet. But where thin stands and weeds are problems, Cott advises additional work now.

Thin spots should be fertilized and reseeded. Cott suggests a seeding of straight bluegrass—at 1 pound per 1,000 square feet—for open areas. He advises using a fertilizer spreader and lawn seeder to assure uniform distribution of both fertilizer and seed. Follow the fertilization and seeding by rolling and watering.

Cott says the second week in September is the best time to go after broadleafed weeds. He believes a September application of amine for 2,4-D will give better weed control than you can get at any other time of the year. And there is less danger then of damage to other plants.

Where crabgrass is a problem, Cott advises working the ground, fertilizing and reseeding. And you'll probably need to use special crabgrass control measures next spring. Weed control measures, he emphasizes, offer only temporary help unless good fertility practices encourage the bluegrass to take over and maintain a vigorous stand.

Cost Increase At State Institutions

Costs of State Institutions have increased about five fold since the low point in 1934 according to a report released by Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman. Cost for maintaining a patient at the State Hospital in Cherokee for the quarter ending December 31, 1934 was $41.11. For the quarter ending June 30, 1953, the cost per patient at the same hospital was $225.37, the highest ever recorded. The cost for the quarter for all patients from Hancock county for the quarter ending June 30 was $4,387.38.

Hearty Eater or Dawdler?—

Child's Eating Habits Change With Age

This little fellow needs no coaxing to eat well right now. Infancy is the heyday of happy eating, says Child Development authorities. But he's going to give his parents some anxious moments one of these days unless they know that his eating habits are running true to the pattern of most children.

Probably more meals have been upset and more parents frustrated because a happy little eater suddenly decides to determine when how and what he's going to eat.

Well, the sage advice from Child Development authorities at Iowa State College is "relax." Your little fellow is performing true to pattern. If you meet the situation with reasonable calm and some sound objectives, he'll not only get the right foods in the right amounts in him, but will enjoy eating.

Appetite Lag

About the time this little fellow gets to be 1 year old, he's going to slow down in his eating The reason is logical; his growth rate has slowed down. Most mothers, say Child Developement experts, expect quite the contrary and think that he should have an even bigger appetite. Instead, they should recognize this appetite lag and try to provide food oftener and in smaller amounts.

Calmness is an asset here and for some time to come. For small as he is this youngster will sense the extreme importance being placed on his eating. Food thus becomes a weapon, and there be a prolonged battle between Mom and her offspring for many weary years.

From 1 to 2 years of age, he's going to find everything about him much more interesting than his food. If he comes to the table in his high chair, his appetite will have its ups and downs according to whether something distracts his attention whether there's a lot of noise and activity around, and whether mother can sense his wants—a particular bib and spoon, for example. He will want to feed himself but the process will be lengthly and messy, for the handling of his spoon is an intricate process to learn. In the normal course of time, he'll master it. If he doesn't chances are mother has fussed too much about spillage. Fingers will go into the food more times than one. But its far better for the child to eat and enjoy his food than to worry about the method by which he gets it.

Food Strike

Somewhere around 2 or 2½ years of age, he's apt to want his foods served separately. Sometimes a divided plate works. Often it's best to bring just one food at a time. If foods are ersved together, he's apt to mix them and then refuse to eat the unappetizing concoction. He may go on a food jag or food strike. He may decide to eat only foods of one color. Although catering to these childish whims sounds silly, here again the important point is that he eats without too much attention being placed on the act of eating. If too much pressure is placed on him, he may find that not eating is a good way to gain attention.

Three- and 4-year-olds usually can come to the table without causing too much fuss. But the 2-year-old will want everyone's attention, and will resort to endless dwadling. His first answer to anything may be "no." Best way to cope with this "no" in regard to foods is to calmly ignore him and let him take his time to finish eating. Put the food on his plate (in small portions, of course) and take for granted he is going to eat it.

If he gets past these early stages without developing a finicky approach to foods, chances are he has set up a pattern which will last him for quite some time.

Management Essential As Farm Prices Drop

The downward trend in farm income which started last year is continuing in 1953 and is putting a premium on good managemen, according to Iowa State College farm economists.

The day when we could count on the general price level rising enough to offset poor management decisions is past, the economists say. But, they add, the present farm income is still far from presenting a depression picture. Iowa's 1952 farm income was more than 2,300 million dollars. This is nearly three times the total Iowa farm income in 1929 and more than double the total in 1941.

The recent drops in grain and cattle prices following the high incomes of 1951 have jarred many farmers, the economists point out. Farmers are less sure of the future this summer than they were a few months back, and so are businessmen. The stock market has also dropped. The Dows - Jones average of 65 representative stocks dropped from more than $113 last March to $106 at the end of June.

One of the places where the uncertainty is showing up in the farmer's plans is in the hog business. In spite of a favorable corn-hog ratio and good hog prices, farmers are planning a smaller fall pig crop in the United States this year than they produced last year. Most of this planned cut in farrowing is outside the Corn Belt.

If farmers follow through on these intensions, there should be a favorable hog market next winter, even allowing for some drop in demand caused by a possible let-up in business activity.

The sharpest cut in hog farrowings this year came in May. This should help support the hog market in December when hog receipts are usually at their peak.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the town of Klemme, Iowa, on the 27th day of August, 1953, for the purpose of submitting to the legal and qualified electors of said town, to be voted upon by them, the question of whether the following public measure shall be adopted:

Shall the following non-exclusive franchise ordinance No. 43 passed by the town Council of Klemme, Iowa, on the 28th day of July, 1953, be adopted?

ORDINANCE NO. 43

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING UNTO CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY, AN IOWA CORPORATION, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE AND RIGHT FOR A PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO ERECT, CONSTRUCT, RECONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, IN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND TO ENTER UPON AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, HIGHWAYS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC PLACES OF SAID TOWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, CONSTRUCTING, RECONSTRUCTING, MAINTAINING AND OPERATING THEREON, THEREIN, THEREUNDER AND THEREOVER SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, CONSISTING OF POLES, POSTS, WIRES, CABLES, CONDUITS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT, APPARATUS AND CONSTRUCTION NECESSARY OR INCIDENT TO SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, AND THEIR USE AND TO FURNISH GENERAL TELEPHONE SERVICE, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, TO SAID TOWN AND THE INHABITANTS THEREOF AND OTHERS WITHIN AND WITHOUT SAID TOWN FOR ALL PURPOSES AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE GRANT AND THE PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1. The Town of Klemme, Iowa, hereby grants unto Central Iowa Telephone Company, an Iowa corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinfter called the Grantee, a non-exclusive franchise and right, for a period of twenty-five years from and after the date this ordinance becomes effective, to erect, construct, reconstruct, maintain, operate and use within the corporate limits of said town of Klemme, Iowa, as the same now are or may hereafter be located, a telephone system, or systems, both local and long distance, together with the franchise and right to enter upon and to use and occupy the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and public places of said town as the same now are or may hereafter be located or extended, for the purpose of installing, constructing, reconstructing, maintaining and operating thereon, therein, thereunder and thereaover said telephone system, or systems, consisting of poles, posts, wires, cable, conduits and other equipment, aparatus and construction necessary or incident to said telephone system, or systems, and their use, and together with the franchise and right to furnish general telephone service, both local and long distance, to said town and to the inhabitants thereof and others within and without the corporate limits of said town for any and all purposes and under such restrictions and regulations as are hereinafter contained, and such other reasonable regulations as may hereafter be provided by ordinance.

Section 2. All poles, posts, wires, cables, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction connected with said telephone system, or systems, shall be located, erected, adjusted and maintained (subject to all ordinances, rules and regulations of said town) so as not to endanger persons or property or unreasonably interfere with any improvement the town may deem proper to make, or to unnecessarily hinder or obstruct the free use of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges or private or public property.

Sestion 3. Whenever the Grantee, in erecting, constructing, or maintaining said telephone system, or systems, shall take up or disturb any pavement or sidewalk or make any excavation in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, or public grounds of said town, such excavations shall be at once refilled and the pavement, sidewalk or other improvement, replaced to the satisfaction of the town officials.

Section 4. Whenever it shall be necessary for any person or persons to move along or across any of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town any vehicle or structure of such height or size as to interfere with any poles or wires erected hereunder, the said Grantee upon receiving twenty-four (24) hours notice served in writing upon its agent or manager at Klemme, Iowa, and upon receiving payment of the actual cost of so doing, shall temporarily remove its poles and wires from such places as must necessarily be crossed by such vehicle or structure; provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to apply to circus or other parades upon the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town.

Section 5. Any person who shall cut, injure or destroy any of the poles, wires, fixtures, conduits, cables or other property of the Grantee lawfully erected, maintained or being within the corporate limits of said town, or who shall post bills or signs upon any of the poles or other property, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed 100.00, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days.

Section 6. The Grantee shall agree to allow said town to attach at any time to any of said poles of the Grantee, the town fire alarm and/or police wires, including necessary apparatus incident thereto, provided such attachments shall be made under the direction and supervision of the Grantee and made and maintained so as not to interfere with the Grantee's use of said poles.

Section 7. All the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to the successors or assigns of the Grantee, with the same force and effect as they do to the Grantee itself.

Section 8. The Grantee shall hold the town harmless from any and all causes of action, litigation or damages which may arise through or by reason of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of said telephone system, or systems, and other construction hereby authorized.

Section 9. A NEW IDEA IN USED CARS!

BIG SELECTION—Because he handles so many cars, you've got a better chance of finding the right used car at the right price, at your Ford Dealer's.

Now you can get New Car Driving Confidence, at a used car price

WITH FORD A-1 USED CARS

Here's how a new system of selecting and reconditioning used cars gives you the value protection of full dealer backing

When you buy a used car, you want to buy with confidence!

When you drive a used car, you want to drive with confidence.

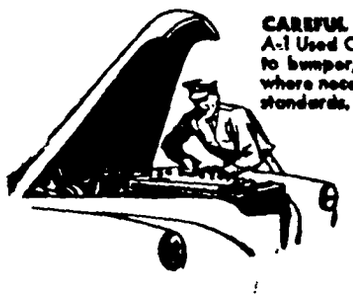
You can do both as a result of your Ford Dealer's new A-1 used car program.

Ford Dealer's A-1 used cars are fully checked for mechanical soundness . . . fully backed by the name of your Ford Dealer.

See your Ford Dealer about an A-1 car . . . one that gives you new car driving confidence, at a used car price.



CAREFUL RECONDITIONING — Ford A-1 Used Cars are checked from bumper to bumper, and carefully reconditioned where necessary to bring them up to A-1 standards.

Be Sure! Be A-1 Sure! WITH THE FORD DEALER'S A-1 QUALITY CODE

To give you topmost value, Ford Dealers always do these things to every A-1 used car:

1. BRAKE lining is examined for wear. Brake lines and brake fluid checked for safety. 2. CLUTCH is tested for smooth engagement and adjusted. 3. FRAME is checked for alignment and structural fitness. 4. ENGINE gets a complete test, plus tune-up to make sure it's all set for plenty of dependable mileage. 5. IGNITION system gets full check-up for reliable starting and efficient operation. 6. AXLE operation is checked to assure road-worthiness of gears and bearings. 7. UPHOLSTERY is checked for wear and appearance, and reconditioned where necessary. 8. STEERING is tested and inspected from wheel to knuckles. 9. UNIVERSAL JOINTS and propeller shaft are checked for alignment. 10. TRANSMISSION is tested for shifting ease.

Ell Tip Toppers Hold Local Achievement Show

The Local Achievement Show of the Ell Tip Toppers was held at the Grade School basement.

Mrs. Robert Wilson and Mrs. Clarence Griemann of Garner, judged our exhibits.

Following is the list of names of the girls and the articles she took to our County Achievement Show:

Emily Goll - portfolio, pillow, reclaimed picture, and an improvised unit; Doreen Lackore - dresser scarf, upholstered chair, a natural refinished unit, a homemade picture and frame, a flower arrangement, and a senior record book; Maurine Johnson - a porfolio; Luaine Weiland - portfolio; Elaine Jurgemeyer - a dresser scarf and storage box; Barbara Clayton - dresser scarf; Ginger Kudje - pillow; Rosalie Rosendahl - pillow and improvised unit; Gracka Gerardi - reclaimed picture and upholstered chair; Myrna Barz - homemade picture frame.

Joyce Thiemann - curtain and painted unit; Lavohn Josten - natural finished unit and junior record book; Jane Renner - improvised unit and natural finished novelty; Roxanne Back and Carol Humphrey - dusting mitts; and Lois Weiland - natural novelty.

Following the program, homemade ice cream and cake was served with the help of the Ell Midgets.

The following Friday we took Furniture Store where we were a tour through Wellemeyer's told what to look for in buying furniture.

Hogs Tumble

Hot weather in most of the country was a big factor in decreasing the demand for pork products as well as other meat in the early part of this month, according to Donald J. Hunter, farm economist at Iowa State College. Pork loins showed the biggest drop at Chicago—from $11 to $16 for loins weighing 8 to 16 pounds.

New-crop light hogs under 200 pounds were in greater supply in some of the large terminals early this month. This accounts for the price drop on that class. Spring-farrowed slaughter hogs will probably be an increasing supply factor for the fall months ahead. They appeared on the market earlier this year than is normal.

Slightly larger receipts of slaugther hogs and less pressure from the order buyers also contributed to the sharp tumble that hog prices took the first week in August. The decline for that week went up to $3 for hogs weighing less than 200 pounds on interior Iowa markets and up to $3.50 for those weighing more than 300 pounds. The drop at Chicago on butchers close to 240 pounds was only $1.75.

Shipments of sows have slacked off and traders at some points think the peak of sow marketings is past for this season.

Cattle More Stable

Cattle marketings are approaching a more normal day to day distribution, Hunter says. As a result the markets are becoming more stable than was the case earlier in the summer. Some price shifting is evident. Early this month the choice and prime steers weighing more than 1,400 pounds declined. However, most of the choice and prime cattle have been holding to a steady or near-steady price. The small numbers of stockers and feeders, however, have been hard to move and were down 50 cents at Omaha early this month. The lower grades are especially under downward pressure.

Improved pasture prospects in the southwest have contributed to a near standstill of stock cattle trading at country points in the Denver area. Asking prices are around $20 and $21, with few buyers interested.

About a ton of feed can be mixed for a penny with an electric feed mixer.

Klemme Co-op Grain Shows Sales Over Million Dollar Mark

E. J. Arnold Elected President of Board For Coming Year

On Friday evening, August 14, the annual member meeting of the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company was held at the grade school basement. The annual report, showing sales of $1,033,-749.01, was read by manager Marvin G. Lemke, and discussed by the assembled members. The million-dollar figure is an increase over last year's business of $125,000.00, and marks the attainment of a goal which the concern has been working toward for the past three years. Not satifsfied with having reached this goal, manager Lemke says that now they will be aiming at a million and a quarter in yearly sales.

From the sales in the past year the report shows that there were gross operating savings of $80,-820.23. Operating expenses were $58,590.01, leaving a net operating savings of $22,230.22. This plus patronage refunds earned from other cooperatives of which the local concern is a member, makes a total net savings of $27,037.41.

The company handled a half-million bushels of grain in the past year. From the handling of this volume of grain, patronage refunds were declared as follows: 1½c per bushel on grain sold by members, and ½c per bushels on grain sold to members. In addition refunds on sale of merchandise and services were declared at the rate of 5.65%.

Declared refunds were deferred to retire bonds outstanding on the mill which the company constructed and put into operation some three years ago.

During the business meeting, three directors were re-elected to three-year terms. They were Leslie Hartbeck, Emil Lau and Harold Stromer. Stromer was appointed to the board last spring to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Raymond Barz.

Officers elected for the board were E. J. Arnold, president; Emil Lau, vice president; and Harold Stromer, secretary. Other members of the board are Clarence Lenz, Verner Priebe and Dwight Helps.

This cooperative concern has been steadily growing, and to handle the ever-increasing amount of business, the firm now has nine employees, They are as follows: Marvin G. Lemke, manager, Walter Lemke, assistant manager;Mrs Darlene Hensgen, bookkeeper; Elmer Wesesls, elevator foreman; Alvin Thiemann, mill foreman; Robert Beier and William Jones, millers; Francis Ames and Elmer Bachman, truck drivers.

Truck Driver Dozes Two Vehicles in Ditch

Tuesday afternoon, Lynn Shoger, driver for Harold V. Selton of Nora Springs, dozed off while driving a truck north on highway 69. He was just north of the Fred Etchen corner, three miles south of Klemme, when he veered onto the wrong side of the road

Mrs. Ralph W. Green of Des Moines was driving south in a 1947 Buick convertible, when she noticed the truck wandering into her lane. She drove clear out on the shoulder in an effort to try and avoid colliding with the truck driven by Sloger, but she didn't quite make it.

The two vehicles side-swiped, and both went into the ditch on the east side of the road. The truck appeared to have only a slight scratch, but the Buick was torn up pretty badly on the left side.

The truck driver was not injured, but Mrs. Green and the four persons who were riding with her, all received minor cuts and bruises from shattered glass, and from bouncing around. One little girl was thrown from the car and was picked from the ditch on the west side of the highway. Luckily no one was hurt seriously.

In the Green car was a pup about three months old, and he provided the comedy highlight of the mishap. Mrs. Green said that when they finally came to a stop in the ditch, the pup was rammed head first right into the glove compartment, and although not hurt was badly frightened.

Damage to the Green car was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $700.00.

To Dedicate Choir Robes

In the worship service at Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church on Sunday, August 30, thirty-six new choir robes will be dedicated. These robes have been made possible by memorials given in memory of Mr. Edwin F. Jacobs and by contributions by the membership of the congregation.

The choir robes are claret or deep maroon in color and beautified by a white stole. The robes were purchased from the E. R. Moore Company of Chicago, Ill.

The congregation and friends of the ongregation are cordially invited to attend this service of dedication.

Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neuberger entertained Mrs. Neuberger's relatives at a family reunion, Sunday. A picnic dinner was held on their lawn at noon

There were 83 present out of a total of 99 in the family. They were all childrn, grand-chldren, and great-grand-children of Mrs. Neuberger's parents.

Services For Wesley Schuldt Were Monday

LaNelle Harvey Wed At Waterloo, Sunday

Miss Marjorie LaNelle Harvey and Max Dean Sherrill of Waterloo were united in marriage Sunday at 4 p. m. at the Wesley Foundation Chapel. The double ring service was performed by Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor ot the First Methodist church of Beloit, Wisconsin.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Herschel E. Harvey, 2422 College St., and the late Rev. Harvey. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sherrill of Waterloo loo.

Baskets of gladioli and candeabra formed an all white setting for the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Richard Acker was vocal soloist, with Mrs. Wayne Gifford as violinist and Miss Gladys Gray as organist. Selections included "At Dawning," "Because," "Wedding Prayer" and "Ave Maria."

Mrs. Herschel E. Harvey Jr. of Gulfport, Miss., sister-in-law of the bride, was her matron of honor. Mrs. Frank Sherwood of Waterloo was bridesmaid. Robert Walden was best man, and Don Zierath, also of Waterloo, groomsman. The groom's brothers, Ross and Dale Sherrill, were ushers.

Serving as flower girls were Janet Gifford and Margaret Sherrill, neices of the groom, while his nephew, Craig Gifford, was ring bearer.

Two hundred guests were entertained at the wedding reception which was also held at the Wesley Foundation student center. Baskets of mixed gladioli decorated the rooms. The four-tiered wedding cake was baked and decorated by the groom's mother.

Following their wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells and Madison, Wis., the young couple will be at home at 1923 Maple dr., after Sept. 1. For traveling, the bride wore a white linen suit with white accessories.

Mrs. Sherrill is a senior student at Iowa State Teachers college, majoring in kindergarten and primary education. She is affiliated with Pi Phi Omega and Kappa Delta Pi.

Mr. Sherrill attended Cornell college and was graduated from Gates Business college. He is a member of Delta Nu Omega fraternity. He is presently employed by the Fullerton Lumber company in Waterloo.

Guests attended the wedding from Swanton, Md., Independence, Mo., Chicago, Ill., Gulfport, Miss., Detroit, Mich., Madison, Wis., Fort Worth, Texas, and Klemme, Ledyard, Swaledale, Allison, Sioux City, Clarion, Manchester, Shannon City, Mt. Vernon, Bellevue, Des Moines and Mason City.

First Hearing On School Redistricting Held Here Monday

Goodell Seems To Favor Being In Belmond District

Public hearings on the Hancock County Board of Education's tentative plan for redistricting the county's schools got underway Monday night at the high school gym in Klemme.

About fifty people were on hand to express their views pro and con on the board's proposal for county district No. 1. This district would include the present service areas of both the Klemme and Goodell schools and would have one high school located at Klemme. There would be two elementary schools in the proposed district; one in each of the towns.

Due to a misunderstanding, folks in the Goodell district thought that the hearing was only for school men, and consequently, there were only some board members from Goodell and the superintendent on hand. However, they had with them a petition which they stated bore the signatures of 95%, of the taxpayers in their district under a statement to the affect that they would rather send their children ren to a Belmond district than to be a part of the board's proposed district No. 1.

Those from the Klemme district who were at the meeting seemed to be in favor of the proposal and during the course of the evening stresed several points whereby they thought the Goodell district might benefit by the propsed merger.

What the outcome of this hearing will be, remains to be seen, but before anything definite can be done, the state department of instruction has to approve the county board's plan, and the plan brought to a vote.

Marriage Licenses

Hancock County Deputy Clerk of Courts Garnet Gelner reports a run on the office the past week for marriage licenses. Seven licenses were issued the past week to Robert C. Stock, 26, Chapin, and Anna Smidt, 25, Kanawha; David Geske, 21, Melvin, and Anna Diers, 21, Titonka; Neil E. Irwin, 26, Sac City, and Grace Marilyn Skouge, 23, Kanawha; Robert J. Bunkofske, 27, Lakota, and Margaret V. Nielson, 21, Britt; Donald Daggett, 22, 1939, West Broadway, Minneapolis, Minn., and Doris Jeanne Gruis, 19, 83 Lindall Ave. North, Minneapolis, Minn.; Robert William McAloon. 21, Minneapolis, Minn., and Irma Lee Young, 21, Minneapolis, Minn.; and to Eugene J. Wood, 21, Britt, and Hazel Ziegler, 22, Garner.

A baby girl, weighing eight and one half pounds, was born to Sgt. and Mrs. Dick Gardner at the Belmond Hospital on August 14th. She has been named Denice Kay. Her daddy is in the army, stationed in Germany.

Lifetime Resident Dies In Sleep

Wesley Schuldt, 71, lifetime resident of Klemme, died in his sleep last Wednesday night, August 19. Mr. Schuldt had been in apparently good health and had worked until noon Wednesday, completing a feeding floor on a farm west of Klemme. His death came as a shock to the whole community.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, August 23, at 2 o'clock from the Klemme Methodist Church with Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg in charge, officiating in the absence of Rev. Egeland, who is on vacation.

A sextet composed of Mrs. Roy Arnold, Mrs. C. A Arnold, Mrs. George Schoenwetter, Mrs. Vernon Bisom, Mrs. Gerald Koerner, and Mrs. Otto Lemke, sang two selections, "Someday We'll Understand" and "Beyond the Sunset". They were accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Gerardi at the organ.

Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery, and Mr. Schuldt was carried to rest by Fred Kluckhohn, Roy Schaefer, Byrnes Lemke, Asa Arnold, Fred Klinge and Albert Etchen.

Arrangements were in charge of the Wellemeyer Funeral Service.

An obituary of Mr. Schuldt appears on page six of this issue of The Times.

Crippled Children's Day At The Clay County Fair

Don C. Roe, Garner, Easter Seal Sponsor for Hancock County, annouced today that official application blanks have been mailed to public health nurses, social workers and educators announcing the "3rd Annual Crippled Children's Day" at the Clay County Fair Spencer, Monday, September 14. This special "Crippled Children's Day has been arranged cooperatively between the Clay County Fair Board and the Easter Seal Agency.

According to Roe, admission will be free on that day for any handicapped child between the ages of 3 and 16, and also free for one adult accompanying the child as an attendant. Transportation is being arranged where neessary by the Easter Seal Agency. Caravans of cars are expected from all northwest Iowa counties and also from nearby Minnesota and South Dakota.

Special arangements are being made by the fair board to accommodate those children confined to wheel chairs. The fair board is making special plans to give these crippled children the best seating arrangements in the grandstand.

Roe said that any parents of a handicapped child interested in attending this county fair on "Crippled Children's Day" and who has not been contacted, should write directly to Steve Jones at the Iowa Society for Crippled Children, Des Moines, and arrangements will be made.

In California Camp

Merrel Carpenter, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter, Goodell, Iowa, recently reported here for duty and has been assigned to Guard Company, Depot of Supplies.

Terhufen Sells Corner Store to Forest City Man

Change To Take Place October 1st

Glenn Terhufen, owner of the Corner Store, announced Monday that he had sold his busiess to Wallace Eichorn of Forest City. The transaction was completed on Monday, August 17, and the new owner will take over the business on October 1st.

Mr. Eichorn, who has worked for a number of years at the Pinckney Drug Store in Forest City, is not a registered pharmacist, and will continue to run the store in much the same manner as Mr. Terhufen. He is a married man and has two daughters of school age. One is a junior in high school and the other is a grade pupil.

Mr. Terhufen purchased the Corner Store five years ago from Ray Jorgenson, Jr., He and his wife have taken care of the business since then, and under their hands it has become one of the most popular places in town . . . especially for teen-agers. During the school year, the place is packed with students, especially during the noon hour and after ball games.

Mr. Terhufen has no definite plans for the future, but both he and his wife hope that whatever they decide on, it will still be possible for them to live in Klemme.

The Times seconds the motion. It just woudn't seem right not to have "Sam" and Margaret around.

We wonder who will be the next Klemme business man to sell out. We know of one who would like to. He probably will, too, First, Thada's Shopping Center; then The Corner Store and ?????

We can see no reason to be afraid of a Hydrogen Bomb. As yet no one has made any threats to use one. If they do use one, there is still no need to worry. Either you won't be in the blast area and consequently, won't be hurt; or you will be in the blast area, and then nothing will matter.

If you want to gamble with death, go out and drive our country roads with out slowing down for the intersections that are surrounded by corn fields. We think it would be a very fine act if every farmer who has corn right up to an intersection, would get out the old corn knife, whack some of it down, and improve the visibility. We don't think feeding five or ten dollars worth of green corn to stock would break anyone, and it might save a life . . . or several.

This warm, dry weather that we have been having for the past couple of weeks is just the thing for corn in this vicinity. In the southern half of the state . . . especially in the southeast, farmers are really in need of rain for their crops, but we, here, are in good shape as far as moisture is concerned.

We got a large charge out of the impromtu jam session at Gerardi's, Tuesday morning. A salesman calling on a local hardware dealer stopped in the cafe for coffee. He was an old trumpet player from way back. When he and "Ernie" got into a conversation, one thing led to another, until neither one could stand it any longer. Ernie had both trumpet and accordion handy, and it wasn't long before the "joint was really jumpin'".

Monday night's hearing on the County Board of Education's proposal to make one district out of Klemme and Goodell brought forth a wide variety of comment, and brought to light the fact that at present a large majority of those in the Goodell service area would much prefer being put into the Belmond district. The meeting was conducted in a very orderly manner, and after talking to members of the County Board, we learned that they were agreeably surprised. They have had some meetings recently that were pretty disorderly and nearly got out of hand. They have asked that we thank everyone who attended for doing their part in keeping the meeting orderly and businesslike.

School starts next Monday, so don't forget to observe the laws with regard school buses. When the school bus is stopped, you are not supposed to pass it until it starts up again . . . regardless of whether you are meeting it or approaching it from the rear.

10 YEARS AGO—

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Pavey were at Webster City, Tuesday, looking for a house to rent. They expect to move to Webster City the latter part of this week as Mr. Pavey begins work in a creamery there next Monday.

Miss Elsie Ward, who is a student at the state university at Iowa City, left for that city Thursday after a few days spent visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, and her brother, Chester, who was home from Waukegan, Illinois.

Mrs. Eddy Epps left Monday evening for the state of Oregon where she will visit with her husband at an army camp. She was accompanied by her daughter, Tally.

Garland Brinkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brinkman, returned to the naval base at Norfolk, Virginia, last Wednesday, after spending a ten-day furlough visiting in Klemme. Garland is a SeaBee.

20 YEARS AGO—

The Liberty 4-H girls had a meeting at the home of Miss Lillian Brown on Tuesday.

Miss Norma Barz, Klemme grade teacher, and Miss Helen Horecka, of Garner, left Sunday evening for Chicago to attend the World's Fair.

Herman Paul and Dwight Hummel were at the North Iowa Fair Monday, attending the auto races. "Hank" Smid was in charge of the oil station.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Griggs, Nellie and Kenneth and Mrs. R. F. Kernon spent Wednesday evening at the H. Groz home in Meservey.

30 YEARS AGO—

John B. Hammill of Britt became acting governor of the state today, taking over the duties of Governor Nate Kendall, who is enroute to Honolulu for a vacation that his friends hope will restore his health. Mr. Hammill will occupy the executive office at least ten weeks.

"Happy" Johnson and Miss Sarah Smith of Spencer were visiting with friends in Klemme last Thursday.

Dick Bamman has resigned his position as street commissioner to work in the Griemann Garage. Tom Hake has been appointed by the city council to fill the street commissioner's job.

During the absence of Ye Editor last week our "devil", Clarence Elder got out the paper and it was an issue we were proud of when we saw it. Clarence is getting to be a good printer and he got out a real paper, doing all the work himself. He did so well that we have a notion to take another vacation and let him run the plant again.

10 Ways For Landlord And Tenant to Share Improvement on Farm

How to make improvements on rented farms is one of the most difficult problems facing landlords and tenants, according to extension director, Paul Henderson. About a third of the requests coming to Iowa State College for rental information, deal with this problem, he says, and it has special importance now since new storage space is needed on many farms to handle the big 1953 corn crop.

Extension far economist I. W. Arthur, of Iowa State College, says various Iowa landlords and tenants have worked out at least 10 different ways to handle the problem of various kinds of improvements including struc improvements including structure and soil improvements. Here they are:

1. The landlord and tenant share the costs of an improvement according to the benefits they receive. If the benefits extend beyond the costs the period the tenant is sure of remaining on the farm, the landlord might assume the costs in proportion to the benefits which remain after the tenant leaves.

2. The landlord furnishes material and the tenant furnishes labor. This fits in well with minor improvements such as fencing. If considerable work is involved, the tenant may want an agreement to obtain compensation for any unused value in the improvement if he moves soon after the improvement is made.

3. Swapping improvement efforts. A tenant may fill a gully the landlord wants fixed and in return the landlord may improve the house or other buildings needed by the tenant.

4. The tenant makes improvements himself under a long-term lease. This applies particularly to improvements from which the landlord gets no direct benefits through current income. A yard fence, liming a field, a feeding floor or a temporary corn crib on a cash-rent farm might be built under this plan, with a lease that assures the tenant use of the improvement for several years.

5. Where the tenant may have to move and therefore not receive full benefits from the improvement, he may still make the improvement providing the landlord agrees to compensate him for any unused benefits when and if that tenant leaves the farm. A special lease supplement is available to record such an agreement.

6. Sometimes the landlord would rather make the improvement himself and charge an "improvement rent" paid annually by the tenant. Sometimes a silo is erceted on this basis.

7. A stock-share lease enables landlord and tenant to share benefits from a wide range of improvements, particularly if the tenant has assurance he will remain on the farm long enough to get full benefits from his share of the investment.

8. Tenants make their own improvements which can be removed when they leave the farm. They must be sure in this case that the improvements are not made in such a way that they are considered fixtures of the farm under law.

9. If tenant nor landlord has funds for an improvement, such as a crib for sealing corn, they may wish to obtain credit and be jointly responsible for interest and repayment of the debt to the extent that both share benefits.

10. Tenants renting farms from their parents may make improvements if they have a written understanding that it will be reimbursed to them in case the property goes into an estate.

Lease forms and suggested methods of evaluating improvement benefits are available at extension director Henderson's office.

Dairymen to Hold Meetings to Explain New Advertising Program

Iowa dairymen are moving into action on the nationwide program of increased advertising, merchandising, public relations and research for dairy products, which is sponsored by dairy farmers across America.

To explain the program and make plans for Iowa participation, the Iowa State Dairy Association has called a statewide series of nine district meetings during September for all milk producers.

The program means "stepped-up" support for the American Dairy Association in Iowa on a volutary basis, at the rate of ½ cent per pound butterfat marketed for ten months. This is in addition to the regular two months set-aside. This is in line with similar action by dairymen from coast to coast.

The national ADA caries on promotion activities for the industry and its products as one phase of self-help to move butter and all other dairy foods from farm to family table.

C. R. Schoby, Algona, Iowa dairyman and former national ADA president, has been named state chairman of the district meetings where the "Year Round ADA Set-Aside" will be presented. Local chairmen have been apointed for each district.

All meetings open at 1:00 o'clock. The meeting which will be of interest to local farmers will be held on September 23rd, at State Brand Creameries at Mason City.

Check Fabrics, Finishes, Growth Features—

Clothes for the Small Set

Fabric, finish and room for growth are all-important features in your youngster's clothes if you expect long service, easy care, rugged wear and a continually fresh, new look in spite of many washings. Slacks and shirt pictured are made up of a crisp Orlon-nylon seersucker. Fabric is quick drying and needs no ironing.

The well-informed mother who selects her children's clothes thoughtfully from the modern array of fabrics and styles finds the easy care and rugged wear features save her countless hours at the ironing board and make a smaller wardrobe possible for each of her offspring.

Orlon, nylon, Dacron and some of the other comparatively new synthetic fibers now appearing in clothes for the toddler, kindergarten and grade school sets help account for this trend, according to Iowa State College extension clothing specialist Lucille Rea. New washable woolens· denims, seersuckers, corduroys and all kinds of other cottons with wool-like weaves and crease and soil resistant finishes also have a share in making children's clothes infinitely more practical.

Label Is Your Cue

All this makes that little label attached to each garment a valuable piece of cardboard indeed. For there you'll find what the fabric is and what you can expect of it in wear and care. Look for information on color fastness, shrinkage, special finishes, as well.

If the label says the fabric is a seersucker of Orlon and nylon—and this is one of the latest fiber combinations in children's clothes—here's what to expect. The crisp fabric is rugged and highly resistant to abrasion. It will keep its crinkled finish, pleasing hand and fresh appearance through many washings and wearings. You should wash it by hand in warm, mild soapsuds and rinse in warm, clear water. Allow it to drip a few minutes—press water out in a turkish towel—don't wring it, and hang it on a wooden or towel-padded hanger, smoothing it into a natural position to dry. It will dry in a few hours' time and need no pressing.

These washing directions hold true for most of the new synthetics—from the little permanently pleated Orlon skirt or crinkled nylon dress to the nylon tricot blouse or shirt. But do check the washing directions on your label to be sure. Sweaters of Orlon or nylon need no blocking, won't shrink.

Save those washing directions for each garment, Miss Rea advises. Corduroys and any crease-resistant or synthetic fabric should never be put through a wringer for this tends to set in wrinkles that are hard to remove This doesn't mean you can't do up many of these clothes in your washer, but it does mean using great care as to the temperature of the water and eliminating the wringing step.

Growth Features

Here are some of the "growth features" to look for in the styling of your youngster's clothes. Choose a little dress or coat with no definite waistline, fullness from the collar on down, a deep hem, sleeves cut in with the blouse and with turn-back cuffs. Look for deep turn-back cuffs on slacks and shorts; an elasticized waist band on slacks, shorts and skirts; extra long jumper or overall straps for lowering buttons.

Do more women than men die of cancer?

Until recently the answer would have been "Yes"; but now the tide is turning and in some areas more men than women die from malignant disease in spite of the fact that women slightly outnumber men in the general population, especially in the older age groups. In 1951, Iowa reported 2129 cancer deaths among men as against 1991 in women.

Those interested in analyzing such statistics believe that the cancer control program is in large part responsible for this shift. It so happens that two of the most common cancers in women (breast and uterus) are so situated that they can easily be detected by relatively simple procedures. Both usually produce early symptoms so that attention is drawn to the possibility of serious disease. Moreover, the radical treatment of both is so well understood that the percentage of effective control (and possibly even cure) is high (more than 50 percent) when the tumor is discovered and treated early.

The Iowa Division has reason to believe that the concentrated showing of the film "Self-Examination of the Breast" will still further reduce the number of deaths due to cancer of those organs. Already many early and probably curable tumors have been discovered by women following the instructions illustrated. And wider use of the simple cytologic test for uterine cancer of that organ recognized and treated in their early and hopeful stages.

Will radiation hurt me?

X-ray or radium treatments may cause skin tanning or nausea, but these are temporary and certainly preferable to the certain outcome if no treatment is taken. New irradiation machinery now pinpoints previously inaccessible deep-seated cancers. It causes less skin damage, much less nausea, and can be used on patients who have already absorbed as much conventional radiation as they can stand.

For answers to cancer questions, write American Cancer Society, Mason City.

Several Changes Made In Iowa's Seed Law

Several changes in the Iowa seed law were enacted by the 1953 legislature, and L. E. Everson, who is in charge of the Iowa State College Seed Testing Laboratory, says three of the changes are particularly important to seed growers and sellers.

The new law reduces permissible total weed content of seed, it requires permit numbers for sale of seed, and it increases fees for seed testing service of the college and state Department of Agriculture laboratories.

These changes went into effect on July 4, 1953, Everson reports.

The new seed law, he says, forbids sale of agricultural seed if it contains more than 1½ per cent total weed seed. The former limit was 3 percent.

Each container of seed for sale in Iowa is now required to have a permit number affixed to it, according to Everson. There are two exceptions—the person who sells seed that was packaged and distributed by a seedman with a permit number and the grower who sells seed of his own production on or from his farm. The grower must have a permit number if he offers seed sale off his farm. The permit numbers, Everson explains, may be obtained from the state Department of Agriculture.

A new fee schedule for testing services replaces the former open-price fee, which Everson says paid less than half of the average testing cost. County extension directors or the seed laboratories can furnish specific information on charges.

For more information about the seed law changes and for copies of the revised seed law, Everson suggests writing to the state Department of Agriculture, Des Moines.

County Nurse Gives Pointers to Parents Of School Children

Vacation days wil soon be past for this year for the children and school days will be taking their place. You as parents, interested friends and neighbors can be a real help in making the school days one of happy experience.

You can help him look forward to school as a place where he will be with friendly people of his own age. Show interest in the things he does in school and brings home from school. Each experience is important to him adn should have your interest. Not only the first year but each year your child is in school.

Plan to visit school often, and discuss your child with the teacher and nurse when she visits your school when she visits your school.

Give your child time to grow If you are concerned about him, you may wish to discuss the things you observed with the teacher or with the nurse. Such discussion will help you to overcome your anxiety, which only makes additional problems for your child. If at any time you wish to have the Nurse speak or bring a film or visual aid to your group at school or in the community, the request is to be written including the following: place, time, and date, topic, length, number and type of group—to be in at least two weeks in advance. It is necessary to clear all speaking engagements through the Nursing Service Office in writing.

Rural School Exhibit At At Iowa State Fair

The Hancock County school system will have an exhibit at the Iowa State Fair. The theme will be "Iowa-Past and Present".

These materials have been worked out in seventeen (17) of the forty-six (46) schools operating last year with approximately 125 pupils taking an active part. A teacher planning committee, working with the County superintendent's office and the State Department of Public Instruction, has done considerable planning and work in preparing this exhibit. It will be shown in a booth with other exhibits located on the second floor under the amphitheater. The committee plans to display the exhibit in some place within the county after it is returned from the fair so that more people wishing to see it will have that opportunity.

The exhibit consists of a mural thirty-two feet long, various constructed objects, and separate posters. The mural depicts the changes in Iowa's history, mode of living, and methods of work from Indian days to the present. This mural is done in water color and tempera paint and is used as a background for the display of the various articles from the tepee and canoe to the modern farm of 1953.

These objects are displayed on a ledge at the base of the mural. The articles include work done in paper sculpture, papier-mache, plaster of Paris, cardboard, construction paper, wood, cloth, and egg shells. Among them are boats, people, animals, covered wagons, schoolhouses, rugs made on a hand loom, a model of a modern farm, and many others.

Above the mural are hung various pictures. These include a painting of the Governor's home, a map of Iowa made from corn, and other pictures made with chalk, water colors, or crayola.

OLD HOME WEEK

It was "Old Home Week" at the Appleby Motel near Loveland, Colorado, recently. By coincidence, 17 persons from Jones county, of formerly from Jones county, stayed at the motel on the night of July 24. All were traveling separately.

Representative Palmer Possible Candidate For Governor

Fort Madison, Iowa—Rep. Ernest Palmer, Jr., said today that he is seriously considering being a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Iowa.

"I intend to make a complete tour of Iowa in the next two or three months before making a final decision," Palmer said. "If the survey shows a good opportunity to be of service to the people of Iowa, I will be a candidate."

Palmer, 38, has served three terms in the Iowa House of Representatives and one term on the Iowa Budget and Financial Committee as Secretary. Prior to his legislative service, he was Lee County Supervisor for two years..

At the Chicago Republican National Convention he was Taft Chairman of the Iowa Delegation. In Lee county he was first Young Republican Chairman, then for six years regular Chairman.

A Trustee of Parsons College, member of the Board of Governors of the Iowa State Bar Association, he has also served as President of the Fort Madison Chamber of Commerce and President of the Board of Trustees of his Presbyterian Church.

After 3½ years service in the Navy, from which he was discharged as a Lieutenant Commander, he entered general law practice in Fort Madison, the home of his wife, the former Sue Waldron. They have four children, the oldest eight years old.

Palmer is a member of the Shrine, Rotary, Elks, Izaac Walton and Veterans Organizations.

Nine year old Carol Asfahl of near Riceville was accidentally shot in the foot recently. Her brother was playing with a rifle, believing it to be unloaded, as Carol ran nearby.

County Dairymen May Attend Cow Conference

Hancock County dairymen will have an opportunity to hear the details of the Iowa State Dairy Association program to solve the "dairy problem" when they attend the Third Annual Cow Conference at Iowa State College at Ames Sept. 15, according to county extension director Paul Henderson.

Highlighting the morning program at the Curtis Hall Auditorium on the college campus will be C. R. Schoby, Algona, chairman of the action program committee of the Iowa State Dairy Association. This committee's report was approved recently by the association's directors and will be submitted to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Schoby has been chairman of the Iowa Dairy Industry Commission and president of the American Dairy Association. He owns a Holstein herd at Algona, milking about 20 cows.

Other events on the program will be talks on "Reducing Cost of Milk Production" and on new developments in artificial insemination by W. E. Peterson of the research staff of the University of Minnesota. Peterson is known internationally as an authority on foilage utilization.

Awards will be presented at this conference to winners of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association Supervisors Records and Reports Contest, the winner of membership in the 400-Pound Club and winners of theMeitorious Proved Sire Contest.

Hancock County Artificial Breeding Association officers, directors, and technicians will attend a special program on artcial insemination at the college dairy farm during the morning. Besides Peterson, speakers at this session will be extension dairymen Robert Fincham and Robert Malampy of the zoology and entomology department at Iowa State College.

The afternoon session of the conference will be held at the Dairy farm. Speakers besides Peterson will be R. S. Allen of the chemistry, who will speak of "Results of Studies With Grass Silage Preservatives," and L. D. McGilliard of the dairy husbandry department, who will speak on "Selecting for Production and Type."

Women attending will meet in the afternoon at the Dairy Industry Auditorium where C. A. Iverson, head of the dairy industry department, will speak on "Production and Use of Concentrated Milk." The women will tour the Dairy Industry Building.

Those who plan to attend the Cow Conference and who would like to furnish transportation for others, or those who will want transportation to the event may leave their names at the county extension director's office in Garner, according to extension director Paul Henderson. A considerable group from this county is expected to attend. The conference was attended by about 1,500 Iowa dairymen last year.

Red Cross Seeking Overseas Personnel

It's not so far from (town or county) to the Far East and other interesting places if you have a few qualifications the National Red Cross is seeking, according to Leslie This, Director of Personnel, Red Cross Midwestern Area office. The Red Cross, in a nationwide search for qualified paid personnel to serve with its staff at military installations all over the world, is combing the country for eligible persons.

In its traditional repsonsibility of service to the armed forces, the Red Cross has been charged with the task of supplementing the Army's special services program with a club and club mobile program of its own to provide leisure-time activities for able-bodied servicemen.

Ever present with the armed forces in the emergency of war, the Red Cross remains with American troops in peacetime, maintaining vital, morale-building recreational facilities for GI's, wherever they are stationed. The cessation of hostilities in Korea has created an urgent need for prompt expansion of these facilities.

To be eligible, women must be between 23 and 40 years of age, with college training or special aptitude in recreation, education, music, dramatics, art and speech. The salary sale will be determined according to background and experience. In addition, the Red Cross pays maintenance and travel for all of its overseas personnel.

Women selected will receive two weeks orientation at Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C., and then go overseas. They will also be entitled to a short training period in Japan, after which they will be given their Far Eastern assignment.

Openings are also available for young men, preferably veterans who are graduates between 25 and 35 wears of age as assistant Red Cross field directors for service with troops. Two important qualifications for this position are world-wide mobility and physical fitness.

Men who qualify will serve for a year in a domestic station as counselors to servicemen, advising them and lending assistance on such personal problems as emergency leaves,dependency discharges, medical reports, and emergency financial assistance. Then they will receive two-year assignments aboard, either in the Far East or Europe.

Married men are entitled to bring their families overseas. maintenance for its personnel, and will pay transportation and will pay transportation and maintenance en route for dependents joining employes overseas.

Me and women interested in receiving further information on these openings should write to the Director of Personnel Service, Midwestern Area Office, Amercian Red Cross, 4050 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis 8, Missouri.

Obituary of Wesley J. Schuldt

By Arthur Wellemeyer

WESLEY JOHN SCHULDT, 71, a lifetime resident of our community died in his sleep at his home in Klemme, early Thursday morning, August 20, 1953.

He was born September 17, 1882 on a farm two miles west of Klemme. He spent his childhood there; attended the rural school nearby; completed a course in religious instruction at the German Methodist Church in Liberty Township, and became a member of this church by confirmation under the pastorate of Rev. Gotlieb Haefner.

On December 13, 1905, Wesley Schuldt and Malinda Lau were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Lau, by the Rev. George H. Wessel. They began housekeeping on the Hans Josten farm west of Klemme. Here their first son, Elden was born, and died at the age of four months. Another son, Raymond, was born to them and survives. Later they bought and moved onto the "Home Farm", and several years later, in 1918, they moved to Klemme. They built a house in the south part of town and this has been their home for the past thirty-five years.

Wesley Schuldt has been a contractor and builder during the years he lived in Klemme, and was a friendly man with a jovial disposition. He had a pleasant word for everyone. His last job was a large concrete feeding floor west of town which he completed at noon, Wednesday, August 19. He rested after dinner, went to bed early after supper, went to sleep and awoke in eternity. His age was 70 years, 11 months and 3 days.

He was preceded in death by his father and mother, Ernest H. Schuldt and Minnie (Gruetzmacher) Schuldt, who died in 1928 and 1947, respectively.

He leaves of his immediate family, his wife, Malinda; his son, Raymond; five sisters, Edna, Mrs. John Suckow; Alice, Mrs. Wes Haefner; Addie, Mrs. Charles Busch; Lydia, Mrs. Vic Schoenwetter; and Geneva, Mrs. D. P. Anderson, and other more distant relatives and friends.

Last but not least, the County Women's Committee won a blue ribbon on their special feature exhibit. This feature showed step by step how to make a glo-candle with wiped wax frosting, thus, giving a completed product of a nice centerpiece. Their theme was along the line of "Christmas Ideas."

TWO TOP PERFORMERS
PAPEC
FORAGE HARVESTERS and CROP BLOWERS

With this team on your place you'll handle all your forage crops faster, easier and at lower cost than ever before. Papec Forage Harvesters handle all hay and row crops. They are available with their own engines or with power take-off assembly. With the Cutter Bar Attachment on the harvester, one man can handle the complete field operation. Patented silage shelf, adjustable axles, adjustable hay pick-up fingers, and finger feed roll are a few of the Papec features that help Papecs keep going after other harvesters quit.

The big Model 45 Papec Crop Blower elevates silage, chopped hay, grain or other feed faster than any forage harvester can supply it. The big 10 ft. long hopper can be raised quickly to allow trucks to get into position for unloading without backing. Has adjustable throat opening. Power unloading attachment available.

Let us demonstrate the superior features of Papec Forage Harvesters and Crop Blowers. You'll be glad you did.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Grains

Grain markets during the next few weeks will move largely in response to crop developements according to Donald J. Hunter, farm economist at Iowa State College.

Continued favorable prospects for new corn knocked 1 to 4 cents off the price of corn at most markets early this month. But oat prices climbed 3 to 5 cents as the result of poorer-than-expected yields. Barley gained 6 to 11 cents on reports of poor new crop offering.

Hunter says another element in the frain picture, however, will be the size of storage stocks. Corn stocks on July 1 were exceeded in size only by the stocks on hand July 1, 1950. The smaller number of hogs fed this year as compared to last had something to do with the big supply of corn. The amount of corn fed in the first 9 months of this feeding season was the smallest since the 1948-1949 season. Corn exports from October through June, on the other hand, were 6 million bushels above the previous record.

Cattle

Cattle markets are likely to be very responsive to changes in cattle receipts, Hunter says. Bureau of Agricutural Economics surveys indicated earlier that farmers would be selling fewer cattle this month than they did in July. But a private survey conducted a little later indicated the farmers intended to sell more cattle this month.

Buyers and feeder market were still maintaining their wait-and see attitude. Medium and good feeders declined early this month.

Fats and Oils

Loose lard rose to 14 cents a pound at Chicago this month while prices of hogs were falling. Hunter says the rise in lard prices appears to result from government purchases for export combined with low lard production.

Heifers Easier To Handle If Placed In Milk Herd Early

Now is the time to be giving attention to your dairy heifers which are to freshen in the fall, according to county extension director Paul Henderson.

At least a month before freshening the heifers should be put with the milking herd so they become accustomed to the management practices for the herd and get used to stanchions and stalls. If the heifers are carefully handled in this period they will become quiet.

Henderson says Iowa State College extension dairyman, Floyd Arnold recommends brushing them daily and massaging their udders and teats lightly. Then they will not be nervous when the milking machine is put on.

Arnold recommends plenty of beding to avoid swollen hocks and udder injuries. When the heifers are put in stanchions it takes them a while to get over their awkwardness. There is danger they will be hurt in their first eforts to lie down and get up.

A bulky feeding ration for 2 or 3 weeks before freshening, including plenty of hay, will help keep the udders from becoming swollen and unduly subject to injury, Arnold says. And he advises milking the heifer before freshening if necessary to reduce a swollen udder.

Noah's Ark was built of gofer wood.

Hancock Wins Blue Ribbons

Hancock County won three blue ribbons at the North Iowa Fair in Mason City. Those due credit for giving Hancock this honor are as follows: Twin Lake Go Getters 4-H Club for their exhibit of their special feature, Double Duty Hassocks". This special feature illustrated how to make a hassock plus materials needed to make it. "Double Duty" stands for (1) storage and (2) an extra chair for a room. Evelyn Formanek and Karolyn Newell, club members of the Garfield Lively Workers, for their demonstration, "Be-Lighted and De-Lighted" which was given Staurday, with Esther Whetstone, State 4-H girls leader, as their judge. Select Correct Pattern For Your Figure, Fabric Discouraging results in your sewing ventures often trace back to a pattern that isn't the correct size, design or type for your particular figure. That's the opinion of Iowa State College extension clothing specialists who have worked out a list of valuable tips on pattern selection.

First, they say, if you're a beginning seamstress stick to a simple pattern with just a few pieces so that you won't be apt to run into difficult construction problems.

Keep in mind the fabric you plan to use. Soft, drapable fabric requires a pattern with the same softness of design. Check your pattern envelope to see what fabrics are recommended if you're not quite sure. Patterns with many seams are fine for plain-colored material, but they will break up the design of large-figured or plaid fabrics.

If you have a large bust, are broad across the shoulders or have a large thigh muscle developement, choose your pattern with these fitting problems in mind. For a large bust, choose a pattern with an underarm dart or darts. A blouse front gathered or tucked to a yoke or a design with shoulder or neckline pleats also allow needed ease and give a more fattering effect for the full bust. Look for soft pleats at the waistline rather than darts.

For a comfortable fit across back and shoulders, select a pattern with pleats or gathers in the back or with darts at the shoulder or neckline. If you have large thighs, choose a skirt with ample ease below the hipline in the form of fullness, gors or unpressed pleats.

Pattern Type, Size

Make certain you choose the correct pattern for your figure type or you'll have trouble ever getting a good fit. Misses' patterns are for the average type figure. Women's patterns are for the mature figure with the full but slightly lower bust line. And half size patterns fit a fully mature, short-waisted figure.

As for pattern size, you may think there's no problem here. But let's just check. Pattern sizes don't necessarily coincide with size you buy in ready-to-wear clothes. The pattern you buy should correspond closely to your own high bust, waist and hip measurement. And the high bust measurement is the most important one, for that's the hardest pattern alteration to make.

Check your measurements with those given on the pattern envelope. It may be that you'll discover you need one size pattern for the blouse and another size for the skirt.

Here's the correct way to take these three important body measurements. For your high bust measurement, pass measuring tape around your body under the arms and over the chest, above the fullest part of the bust. To measure waist, draw tape as snug as you like your garment to be at the waistline. Take hip measurement 7 inches below the waistline, straight around the figure.

State Fair To Get Underway Saturday

Des Moines, Iowa:

The Iowa State Fair show place and holiday for half a million Iowans, will open its gates officially Saturday on the biggest program of entertainment and enteries in history.

L. B. Cunningham, fair secretary, predicted today that attendance at the 1953 fair will again top the 500,000 mark as Iowans pour in to enjoy the big national livestock show, agricultural exposition, acres of displays, mile-long midway and varied entertainment features.

The hustle and bustle of getting ready for the 10-day exposition was evidenced here today on the first of two Preparation Days. Livestock rolled in by truck, train and trailer with nearly 8,000 animals entered in the national livestock show and the junior competition. Livestock enteries equalled or topped last year's totals in almost all departments, with swine showing the biggest increase, a gain of 333 percent over last year.

Major exhibit features of the most interest are the stock show, corn and grain show, women's exposition, fish and game exhibit, 40 acres of farm machinery, hall of science, statewide flower and garden show, and the farm boys' and girls' exposition.

Headline events on the 10-day and night entertainment schedule include stock car races, horse races, big car auto races, rodeo, fireworks, musical revues, thrill shows, and open air circus.

A number of new features are included in the fair's program too. These include the world-famed "House of Magic", a state championship baton twirling contest, an Iowa talent contest, to choose the most promising amateur radio talent of the year, and an armed forces show featuring some of the latest weapons developed for the nation's defense.

Opening day of the state fair, Saturday, Aug. 29 will be children's day, with free admission to the grounds for youngsters, and a free grandstand show for children in the morning.

Squirrel Numbers Are Good This Fall

A report on Iowa's squirrels by Conservation Commission game biologists indicates that Iowa squirrel hunters will have about the same number of squirrels to hunt this fall as last.

Depending on the weather, however, hunting may be better. The report revealed that although 60% of the hunters contacted last fall believed that their was a squirrel increase, there was a lower average hunting success per party. This was mainly due to the extremely dry weather conditions which made squirrel hunting difficult.

General observations indicate a good "carry-over" from last season, and squirrel populations are good in most parts of the state. Sufficient moisture this fall would result in thicker, quieter ground cover and better hunting conditions.

The report stated that there have been no major changes in population levels in the past three years. Of the bags reported last year, fox squirrels comprised 92.6%, of the squirrels bagged and 91.1%, of the squirrels seen. Nearly two thirds of the hunters contacted used .22 rifles, while the others used various combinations of shotguns, pistols, and rifles.

Squirrel season will open on September 15 and extend through November 15. The entire state is open, with a daily bag limit of 6 squirrels and a possession limit of 12 after the first day of the season.

Telephone Company Transfers Jones To Tama-Toledo Post

Will Take Over September 15th; Was Here 12 Years

Gilbert Jones, who for the past 12 years has been manager of the local exchange of the Central Iowa Telephone Company, has been transfered to the Tama-Toledo Exchange and will take over as manager there on September 15th.

The transfer comes in the way of a promotion for Mr. Jones, as the Tama-Toledo exchange, having some 2800 phones, is much larger than the Klemme exchange.

During the twelve years that Mr. Jones and his family have lived in Klemme, they have always taken an interest in community affairs. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones have taken active part in various projects and they will be missed.

We talked with Gilbert in an effort to find out who was to be the new manager here, but he was not able to give us that information since company officials have not as yet reached a decision on the matter.

William Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who is employed at the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company, will remain here at his present work.

School Opened Monday With Enrollment Down Seven From Last Year

The Klemme Schools opened Monday with a total enroll-ment of 306 students; a decrease of seven from last year's total. Breakdown of the enrollment shows that the larger classes are in the lower grades and high school, with the following totals for each grade:

Kindergarten, 31; 1st grade, 27; 2nd grade, 28; 3rd grade, 27; 4th grade, 23; 5th grade, 17; 6th grade, 19; 7th grade, 14; 8th grade, 21; 9th grade, 28; 10th grade, 23; 11th grade, 26; and 12th grade, 22.

Supt. Ahrenkiel stated that he expected a few more students to enroll before another week goes by, and that will bring this year's total up to more nearly what it was last year.

Teachers and students are spending this week getting acquainted and settling into the routine that lies ahead for the next nine months, although the hot weather has made it all but unbearable in the school buildings.

Next Monday being Labor Day there will be no school, but Tuesday, classes will again be held. Tuesday will also see the hot lunch program get underway for the year.

Iowa Children's Home Society To Make Drive For Funds In County

The Iowa Children's Home Society held its annual kick-off meeting for the campaign workers for the Eastern half of Hancock County on Tuesday, Sept. 1, at Hull's Dining Room in Garner. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney of Garner are co-chairmen of Eastern Hancock County. Miss Grace Giddens, Director of Public Relations for Iowa Children's Home Society, met with the group.

Through the years, the Iowa Children's Home Society has cared for an average of 2½ children and unmarried mothers from Hancock County a year. This means we might have under care 4 children one year, 2 the next year, 1 the next and 3 the next.

The service given to these children has included: children from Hancock County placed in ICHS foster family boarding homes; children from Hancock County placed for adoption in other counties; children placed for adoption with Hancock couples; service to unwed mothers.

Since county welfare departments and other public agencies have not developed an extensive foster home program, they are largely dependent upon private agencies for this type of service when needed. Private agencies do have at their command not only trained case work staff, but psychological and psychiatric services not easily available in most counties. Because of these resources they are being used more and more for the disturbed child, for the pre-psychotic and pre-delinquent. It is only through these specialized services that such children can be helped to overcome their problems, or develop into better adjusted indivilduals who will take their place in society as useful citizens.

During 1952 ICHS had under care 1 unmarried mother; and 3 children were placed in the county for adoption.

The Iowa Children's Home Society is asking for the support of residents of Hancock County. Contributions through the local volunteer workers will help provide case work services and temporary or permanent homes for neglected dependent and predelinquent children.

Sgt. Eugene Beier Weds Kansas Girl In Arizona

Wedding vows were repeated by Miss Carmen Fuentez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felipe Fuentez of Edson, Kansas, and Sgt. Eugene E. Beier of Garner, Iowa at Yuma, Arizona on August 8 at the R. H. Lute Wedding Chapel. Rev. George Kew officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Beier graduated from the the Edson High School in 1948. Sgt. Beier graduated from the Klemme High School in 1946 and is at present stationed at Oceanside, Californa with the U. S. Marine Corps.

The couple are making their home at 4337 49th Street, San Diego, California.

Sgt. Beier has 5 months left in the service.

Lois Hueneman Will Attend Farm Youth Exchange Conference

Lois Hueneman of Garner will attend the second annual International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) conference in Ohio, September 1-4.

The IFYE program sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation, local 4-H Club members and other interested groups, is a two way exchange between the United States and 41 Foreign countries. It began in 1948 and is dedicated to the idea of peace through understanding. There are 288 IFYE alumni who have lived in rural homes in foreign countries.

"Extending the Influence of IFYE" is the theme of the conference and delegates will exchange ideas and experiences on how to improve the effects, depths and quality of the program.

They will discuss problems involved in the operation of the program on the state and county level and how IFYE alumni may continue to promote international understanding in the local community.

The conference at Camp Ohio is planned and financed by the delegates attending and Richard Taylor, 1950 delegate to Greece, and county agent in Ohio, is chairman.

There will be an international dinner and revue in which the delegates will prepare food typical of the countries visited and wear costumes that they brought home. The movie "Grass Roots Ambassador", will be shown and plans will be made for next year's conference.

The program calls for delegates to "share" their experiences with youth groups, rural organizations, civic clubs, and others in their own country and state. Reports from former IFYE delegates as of March 1, 1953 indicate that they have given over 23,000 talks to a total audience of over 2.2million people. In addition, they have given over 3,000 radio talks, made about 550 TV appearances, and either written or had written about them over 15,000 newspaper articles. In this way delegates contribute to a better underdstanding in their communities of the problems and attitudes of rural people in other parts of the world.

HOLIDAY

Next Monday will be Labor Day. This is a legal holiday, and all Klemme stores and business places will be closed. Schools in Klemme will also be closed for the day, as will the courthouse at Garner.

Annual Reception For Teachers, September 11

A reception for the teachers of the Klemme Public School will be held in the High School Gym, Friday evening, September 11, at 8:00 o'clock.

This is sponsored by the Music Mothers, The Reformed Women's Guild and The Methodist Women's Society.

Each family is asked to bring 1½ dozen small cookies to the Home Making Room for lunch following the program.

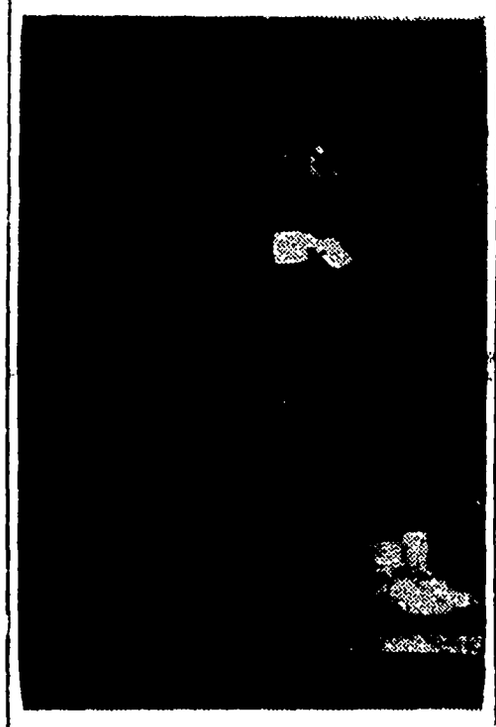
100,000 Bushels

The Klemme Cooperative Grain Company, this week started taking in sealed corn. According to Manager Marvin G. Lemke, they expect to get in the neighborhood of 100,000 bushels.

4-H Girls' Entries Receive State Fair Awards

Hancock County's entries in the 4-H Home Furnishings Division of the 1953 Iowa State Fair were awarded 3 blue ribbons, Elsie Mae VanWert, county extension home economist, announced today. Red ribbon awards were made to 5 of the exhibits an white ribbons were pinned on two entries.

All articles entered by the Hancock County girls with those from other counties were on display and ready for the inspection of fair visitors when the gates officially opened last Saturday. They will remain in place until the close of the fair on Sept. 7.



GRACKA GERARDI

In addition to the articles entered in the Home Furnishing division, Hancock County is represented at the State Fair this week by a demonstration team (and an entry in the state style revue—Clothing Counties Only). Members of the demonstration team are Frances Anderson and Yvonne Olson, Garner. They were accompanied to the fair by Mrs. Earl Anderson and Mrs. Kenneth Olson, mothers of the girls. They will give their demonstrtation, "The Three M's of Curtain Making" on Thursday, Sept. 3 at 2:45 p. m.

Girls whose entries received awards, the name of the article and the placing are listed below:

Blue ribbons went to: Eleanor Kluver of Crystal Merrimaids on Cushion Cover; to Gracka Gerardi of Ell 'Tip Toppers on Reconditioned Chair; and to Judith Dean of Boone Magor Pals on Unit for room which included one piece of furniture of natural wood finish.

Red ribbons went to: Joy Hansen of Amsterdam Pace Makers on portfolio; Glenys Kluver of Crystal Merrimaids on Dresser Scarf; Georgia Gaskill of Boone Magor Pals on Reclaimed picture Frame; Sylvia Jante of Garfield Lively Workers on picture frame of new wood; and Kay Bonnstetter of Boone Magor Pals on Unit for a room which included one piece of furniture painted or enameled.

White ribbons went to: Winola Zwald of Liberty Busy Bees on window curtains; and to Faye Janssen of Twin Lake Go Getters on Unit for a room including one piece of furniture with plastic covering.

Franchise Approved

Last Thursday's telephone franchise election brought out 141 voters. They approved the franchise by a vote of 97 to 44. Hence, Central Iowa Telephone Company or its assigns are entitled to a 25-year non-exclusive franchise to furnish telephone service to Klemme and the surrounding territory.

Two Klemme Men In Hospital After Car Goes Out Of Control

Greimann In Critical Condition At Belmond

Tuesday night, after Fred Aegerter closed his pool hall, he and Robert Griemann drove to Belmond to have lunch. They drove Griemann's car, a 1950 Chevrolet.

At about 2:00 A. M. while on the way home, Griemann lost control of his car just south of Klemme. The car went off of the east side of the grade, overturned and came to rest about a hundred and fiftey feet from where it left the road.

Aegerter suffered a cut forehead and was badly bruised. He was taken to Garner to a doctor by Johnny Evans, who was following the Griemann car. After treatment he returned to his home, but by noon today, (Wednesday) he was so sore and stiff that he could not get around, so he was taken to the Belmond Hospital.

Griemann, who was driving the car, did not fare so well, he is in the Belmond Hospital still in a coma. He has a fractured arm, fractured jaw, and possibilities of a fractured skull. Dr. Dulmes, who examined him at the scene of the accident and rode with him in the ambulance to Belmond, stated that he is in critical condition.

Evans, who was driving behind the Greimann car said that when the car went out of control it just seemed to rare up on the right front wheel, as though maybe a brake had locked. The car must have turned over several times, and it appears to be demolished. Evans said that it happened so quick, he wouldn't know just what happened.

Stork Club

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Bock now have two girls and a boy in their family. Newest arrival is a baby girl, born last Wednesday, August 26th at the Hampton Hospital. She weighed eight pounds and three ounces, and has been named Jo Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gast have a new grandson. A seven-pound, three-ounce boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Fredin of Des Moines on August 25th. He has been named Gerald James and is the third child for the Fredins. The other two children are girls. Mrs. Fredin was Lola Gast before her marriage.

Schoolmasters Elect

The Hancock County Schoolmaster's Club held its first meeting of the school year in Garner on August 27, in the Courthouse.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Supt. Francis Hartung, Kanawha; Vice president, Supt. J. R. Tisdale, Woden; and Sec'y-Treas., Co. Supt. Chas. S. Whitney, Garner.

HAIL

When it hailed near Boyden recently, hail stones were left piled two feet deep in the ditches on the Henry Westa farm. Damage was heavy.

School got underway in Klemme, Monday, with some over 300 children in attendance. A lot of these children are very small and very young, and don't stop to think what might happen if they dart out into the street. We, who are old enough to assume the responsiblity that goes with driving a car, have to do a part of their thinking for them. When you drive past one of our school buildings, take it easy and keep your eyes open. These children can move mighty fast, and when you least expect any such maneuver, they are liable to be out in the street in front of your car.

We watched our first stock car races, Sunday evening, and we arrived at the conclusion that although one does not necessarily have to be crazy to drive in such a race, it would be a big help. The cars we saw in action, were of rather ancient vintage, and drivers are not too careful about whether they bump into someone else or not. Consequently, they have some pretty good pile-ups. They seldom get hurt very seriously, though. They wear crash helmets, strap themselves into their cars, have the tops reinforced, and have a positive lock on their doors. When they roll their car or get rammed, they don't fly all over inside of the car or get thrown out. They stay put in the seat, and we are told by rather rabid fans that they have seen them roll over two or three times, land on their wheels and keep right on in the race. Might be that if a few of their safety devices could be incorporated into our passenger cars, there would be fewer fatalities on our highways.

This dry hot weather we have been having has been with us just about long enough. Some of it was just what the crops needed, but now it has gotten to the point where a good rain and a cooling off would be in order.

By Wm. Henderson
County Extension Director

Hancock County farmers who are planning to feed cattle this fall should do some "pencil figuring" on prospective feeding margins before they bid on feeder cattle.

That's important, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, believes. For cost of gains put on upper grade cattle bought this fall will be somewhat greater than those pounds of gain will sell for next year in the form of fed beef. Cost of gains definitely will be higher than corn fed lower grade beef will sell for, Kutish points out.

Source of Profits

Cattle feeding profits can come from two sources. One is feeding margins—that is buying feeder cattle for less than they later sell for as fat cattle. This gives you a profit over purchase price on the weight of feeder cattle you buy.

The second possible source of profits is the gain you put on the cattle over purchase weight. This has been a profitable part of the feeding program in recent years. But, as Kutish points out, gains are likely to cost more than the selling price of fat cattle next year.

So cattle will have to be bought for less than you will get for them as fed cattle next year. This puts lower grade cattle in a less favorable position, compared with upper grades than has been the case in the last few years. Lower grade cattle which are fed corn will have to be bought for at least $5 less per 100 pounds than you expect to sell them for next year to show a profit, Kutish emphasizes. and some feeders believe the feeding margin should be even more.

Guide to Next Year's Prices

Kutish advises feeders to estimate what their gains will cost them. Then estimate the fat cattle prce for next year. No one knows for sure, of course; but Kutish suggests that Hancock County feeders use the fat cattle market which prevailed this past spring as their estimate of next year's cattle prices.

Then be sure to buy your cattle cheap enough to leave you a profit.

A little figuring before feeder cattle are bought can be the difference between a profit and loss in your 1954 feeding program, Kutish stresses. Also check on what different grades of cattle are selling for at the markets. This will post you on the market. And it will give you an idea of the kind of cattle that will give you best chance for a profitable feeding program.

Set Up a Sandwich Center

Tips That Will Save You Time—

Organize your work so that you can sit down and have an assemblyline set-up for making a number of sandwiches at once.

Sandwiches are the versatile main-stay of your youngsters' pack and carry school lunch. And they're a five-morning-a-week chore for you, so set up a well-equipped and fully stocked sandwich center in your kitchen to speed you on your way each day to a nutritious lunch for the kiddies.

Plan to do your assembly-line sandwich making at a kitchen table or a lapboard that pulls out from the counter, suggests Leslie Smith, Iowa State College extension nutritionist. That's so you can sit down and save your energy in the process. Or you may have a breakfast counter that lends itself to the task.

Sandwich Center

Keep sandwich-making equipment and supplies on a shelf or in a drawer near by so that all the things you'll need are gathered in one small area. If you're short on storage space, you might stock a large breadbox with your supplies. Keep foods like the following on hand and you'll always have the making of nutritious and tasty sandwiches: soft cheeses, canned tuna fish and meats, dried fruits, pickles, olives, cream cheese, garlic salt, onion salt, mustard. Keep some good "munchers" like cheese crackers, canned potato sticks and canned nuts on hand, too. And you'll find lots of call for hard-cooked eggs in many a different sandwich spread that you mix up.

You're in luck if you have a freezer, for then you can keep a wide variety of breads on hand—from hamburged buns and frankfurter rolls to pumpernickel, rye or nut bread.

Mix up your sandwich fillings ahead of time and refrigerate them. Most will keep at least 2 or 3 days. You can use your electric mixer for some of the fillings. Take the butter out an hour or so beforehand so it's soft for easy spreading. Then it will just take a few miuntes to set up your sandwich assembly line, get them made and packed. Better still, let the younsters spread, cut, wrap and pack, while you get together the rest of the lunch. This could turn into a family enterprise that's lots of fun if you go about it in the rght way.

Don't forget these extras that can make or break a lunchbox meal. Include some colorful foods like a bright red apple, carrots, stuffed olives, a dipper of castup. Use colorful paper napkins, one or a place mat, another for the lap and a few spare just in case. And lots of mothers put in a surprise each day—a cartoon, funny picture, of piece of candy, for instance.

Use Your Freezer

If you have a freezer, your sandwich-making task can be a once-a-week or twice-a-month enterprise. Make them in quantity, wrap and label separately.

All kinds of breads freeze well. Just spread each slice with butter or margarine so that fillings won't soak through. Don't try to freeze these fillings: egg salad, jelly, lettuce or tomatoes. Most other fillings freeze well. Plan on adding sliced olives or pickles to the sandwiches after they come out of the freezer. Wrap letuuce and tomatoes separately and add to the sandwich just before it's to be eaten.

Most sandwiches can be stored 2 or 3 weeks. They thaw in from 3 to 4 hours. Pack them in the lunch box in the morning and they'll be completely thawed by the noon hour. They have the best flavor immediately after thawing, too.

Europe is the second smallest Continent in the world.

Summary of Hunting Seasons Released

A brief summary of the 1953 hunting regulations has been released by the State Conservation Commission.

Pheasant and quail seasons have not been set, pending complete biologists' reports. These seasons will be announced at a later date, as will all trapping seasons.

Carp Fishing Tips Now Available

A new tip sheet on the fine points of catching carp is now available to Iowa fishermen from the State Conservation Commission.

The two-page instructions include the recipe of a fine carp bait, the best tackle used, and where and how to catch the big ones. Copies of the instructions may be obtained free of charge from the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines, Iowa.

Iowa was remembered in the closing hours of Congress. A total of $40,000 was appropriated to start the Honey Creek watershed project, near Chariton. The Congressional act makes it a 50-50 project, with land owners sharing half of the cost. The total cost of taming Honey Creek will be between a quarter and a half million dollars.

ORDINANCE NO. 43.

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING UNTO CENTRAL IOWA TELEPHONE COMPANY, AN IOWA CORPORATION, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS A NON-EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE AND RIGHT FOR A PERIOD OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO ERECT, CONSTRUCT, RECONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, IN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA, AND TO ENTER UPON AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, HIGHWAYS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC PLACES OF SAID TOWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF INSTALLING, CONSTRUCTING, RECONSTRUCTING, MAINTAINING AND OPERATING THEREON, THEREIN, THEREUNDER AND THEREOVER SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM, OR SYSTEMS, CONSISTING OF POLES, POSTS, WIRES, CABLES, CONDUITS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT, APPARATUS AND CONSTRUCTION NECESSARY OR INCIDENT TO SAID TELEPHONE SYSTEM OR SYSTEMS, AND THEIR USE AND TO FURNISH GENERAL TELEPHONE SERVICE, BOTH LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE, TO SAID TOWN AND THE INHABITANTS THEREOF AND OTHERS WITHIN AND WITHOUT SAID TOWN FOR ALL PURPOSES AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE GRANT AND THE PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION OF SAME AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1. The Town of Klemme, Iowa, hereby grants unto Central Iowa Telephone Company, an Iowa corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinafter called the Grantee, a non-exclusive franchise and right for a period of twenty-five years from and after the date this ordinance becomes effective, to erect, construct, reconstruct, maintain, operate and use within the corporate limits of said town of Klemme, Iowa, as the same now are or may hereafter be located, a telephone system, or systems, both local and long distance, together with the franchise and right to enter upon and to use and occupy the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and public places of said town as the same now are or may hereafter be located or extended, for the purpose of installing, constructing, reconstructing, maintaining and operating thereon, therein, thereunder and thereover said telephone system, or systems, consisting of poles, posts, wires, cable, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction necessary or incident to said telephone system, or systems, and their use, and together with the franchise and right to furnish general telephone service, both local and long distance, to said town and to the inhabitants thereof and others within and without the corporate limits of said town for any and all purposes and under such restrictions and regulations as are hereinafter contained, and such other reasonable regulations as may hereafter be provided by ordinance.

Section 2. All poles, posts, wires, cables, conduits and other equipment, apparatus and construction connected with said telephone system, or systems, shall be located, erected, adjusted and maintained (subject to all ordinances, rules and regulations of said town) so as not to endanger persons or property or unreasonably interfere with any improvement the town may deem proper to make, or to unnecessarily hinder or obstruct the free use of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways, bridges and private or public property.

Section 3. Whenever the Grantee, in erecting, constructing, or maintaining said telephone system, or systems, shall take up or disturb any pavement or sidewalk or make any excavation in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town, such excavations shall be at once refilled and the pavement, sidewalk or other improvement replaced to the satisfaction of the town officials.

Section 4. Whenever it shall be necessary for any person or persons to move along or across any of the streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town any vehicle or structure of such height or size as to interfere with any poles or wires erected hereunder, the said Grantee upon receiving twenty-four (24) hours notice served in writing upon its agent or manager at Klemme, Iowa, and upon receiving payment of the actual cost of so doing, shall temporarily remove its poles and wires from such places as must necessarily be crossed by such vehicle or structure, provided, however, that this section shall not be construed to apply to circus or other parades upon the public streets, avenues, alleys, highways or public grounds of said town.

Section 5. Any person who shall cut, injure or destroy any of the poles, wires, fixtures, conduits, cables or any other property of the Grantee lawfully erected, maintained or being within the corporate limits of said town or who shall post bills or signs upon any of the poles or other property shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed 100.00, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty (30) days.

Section 6. The Grantee shall agree to allow said town to attach at any time to any of said poles of the Grantee, the town fire alarm and/or police wires, including necessary apparatus incident thereto, provided such attachments shall be made under the direction and supervision of the Grantee and made and maintained so as not to interfere with the Grantee's use of said poles.

Section 7. All the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to the successors or assigns of the Grantee, with the same force and effect as they do to the Grantee itself.

Section 8. The Grantee shall hold the town harmless from any and all causes of action, litigation or damages which may arise through or by reason of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and operation of said telephone system, or systems, and other construction hereby authorized.

Section 9. The Grantee shall within sixty days after the publication of this Ordinance signify in writing an acceptance of the grant herein, including the conditions and restrictions herein expressed, and this Ordinance, and the franchise granted herein, shall not be operative or binding unless such acceptance is filed with the town Clerk. The Grantee shall pay the costs incurred in holding the election to submit this ordinance to the legal electors for their approval, as provided by law.

Section 10. All Ordinances, or parts of Ordinances, insofar as they are in direct conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 11. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect, subject to its approval by a majority of the legal electors of the town of Klemme, Iowa, voting thereon, as provided by law, and subject to its acceptance by the Grantee, as provided in Section 9 above, upon its publication, as provided by law.

Field Day Visitors To See "Cultivated" Weeds

You can find weeds on the Iowa State College Agronomy Farm that get better care than any farmer can give his field crops. These weeds are seeded like a crop, thinned as you would thin a row of radishes in the garden, and competition from "unwanted" weeds is removed.

All this work on weeds goes into an experiment that is probably the only one of its kind in the world, reports Hancock County Extension Director Paul Henderson. Through this experiment, Iowa State College weed control research men are arming themselves to fight weeds by learning as much as they can about the weeds and the damage they do to crops—in this case soybeans.

The experiment—which is one of the futures planned for the fall field day at the Agronomy Farm on Sept. 11—is under way to discover just how much soybean yields are reduced by weed competition and at what stages of growth they cause the greatest reduction. Eventually, this work may give better ideas on controlling these weeds to keep competition loss at a minimum.

The research men, Henderson explains, seed stands of foxtail, butterprints and smartweed with soybeans. They remove all other weed species and thin the weeds to different stand levels. At certain stages from seedling to maturity, they remove the weeds. By this scheme, says D. W. Staniforth, who is in charge of the study, we will find out when the weeds do the greatest damage to soybean yields.

"We think this will also give us an answer," Staniforth says, "to whether soybeans do grow more weeds than other crops, as some folks say."

There's promise for the future in this experiment, Henderson says, but probably nothing that will be useful immediately. However, there will be some ideas on weed control in soybeans shown and discussed at the field day that will be useful now.

Visitors will see plots where different weed killers have been used. And they will see plots where different defoliants have been used. The use of these defoliants, Henderson points out, is to kill weeds in the beans, rather than remove leaves from the soybean plants. By killing weeds at the crop nears harvest, he adds, you allow the ripening plants to dry for earlier harvesting and remove heavy green weed growth that would make combining difficult.

The field day program will offer many other timely features on corn and soybeans, Henderson says. It will begin at 1 p. m. at the farm, which is 3 miles south of Ames.

Goodell Young Man Chosen As Group Leader For ISC Freshman Days

Ames, Iowa—Roger S. Hanson son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hanson, of Goodell; has been chosen a student group leader during Iowa State College's annual Freshman Days, Sept. 17 - 22.

Approximately 275 Iowa State College upperclassmen will be helping freshmen and transfer students with orientation problems during this time. Each leader will be assigned to a group of 20 students.

These student leaders were chosen by the five division councils to assist new students with registration difficulties, to answer questons and conduct campus tours, and to help them meet the close schedules which have been arranged for their first days at Iowa State College.

The leaders will aid the estimated 2,700 freshman and transfer students in their particular divisions of science, engineering, agriculture, veterinary medicine and home economics. Many will also be available for counselling during the remainder of the year.

Excluding the Presidents who were assassinated, three U. S. Presidents have died in office.

BURNED

Donald Sprung, two, of near Osage, was severely burned last week as he played near a tractor. His father was filling the machine with gasoline, when it caught fire.

Termination Of Labor Dispute Ups Non-Farm Employment In State

Non-farm employment in Iowa reached 641,550 in July, a new record for that month, the Iowa Employment Security Commission reported today

The sudden jump is due to the sharp increase in all construction throughout the state as the labor dispute involving building trade unions was terminated during the month. This, coupled with a pent up seasonal demand, caused the new record.

mentum, the addition during July of 2,650 workers for residential and commercial building, 950 for highway and streets construction, and 1,150 for special trades increased construction employment to 36,750, a gain of 5,100 more than June.

The new employment record for July was established despite a drop of 1,750 workers in manufacturing employment as a result of farm machinery manufacture cutbacks.

Iowa factory workers during July earned an average of $66.33 a week, $1.67 an hour, and worked an average of 39.7 hours per week, all slightly down from the June averages.

Garner, Iowa
August 6, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with S. A. Barber, Clinton D. Daniels and Clarence Bird present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the application bond and permit for a Class "B" beer permit is hereby approved for Catholic Workmen Lodge, Inc. of Duncan, Iowa.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 1 and 2, East Main.

This being the 6th day of August, 1953, a date heretofore set for a letting on the construction of D. D. No. 159, Hancock County, Iowa, the hour for said letting having arrived, the proof of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised, said letting was held as scheduled.

The Chairman of the Board proceeded to open all bids on file and after duly considering said bids, the bid of Ardell M. Smith Company of Hornick, Iowa, was found to be the lowest and best bid on file for labor and material on D. D. No. 159.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 159, that the bid of Ardell M. Smith Company of Hornick, Iowa is hereby accepted as the lowest and the best bid on file for labor and material on D. D. No. 159. All other bids are hereby rejected.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a contract is hereby awarded to Ardell M. Smith Company of Hornick, Iowa and Clinton D. Daniels, Chairman of the Board, is hereby authorized to execute a contract in behalf of Hancock County, Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clinton D. Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clinton D. Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second Ralph H. Wallace of Mason City, is hereby appointed Construction Engineer on D. D. No. 159 and his bond as such is hereby fixed at $1,000.00.

On motion and second Wm. Henschen, Engineer, Wm. Boehnke and Chas. J. Goll are hereby appointed a commission to classify lands and assess benefits in D. D. No. 159, as commanded in Section 455.45, Code of Iowa 1950 and laws amendatory thereto. Said commission to file its report on or before December 1, 1953.

On motion and second the contract of Ardell M. Smith Company of Hornick, Iowa on D. D. No. 159, is hereby approved.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to August 17, 1953 at 9 o'clock A. M.

Does blood in the bowel movements indicate cancer?

Blood in bowel movements may appear as bright red blood, which orginates in the lower bowel, or as black "tarry" stools which originates higher in the canal. The former is usually on the surface of the stool whle the latter is thoroughly mixed with the fecal material. Bright surface blood more commonly comes from bleeding hemorrhoids or "piles" but may be due to other causes, including cancer it is dangerous to assume that it is due to piles. Dark, tarry blood where higher in the alimentary tract and its origin must be investigated; it should be vewed as evidence of a maligant condition until proven otherwise by x-ray and other diagnostic measures.

Can the presence of cancer be determined without seeing a doctor?

No. Regular thorough physical check up by your family physician is your best guard against cancer, plus an examination when one of the seven danger signals or warning signs appears. You are the first line of defense against cancer because you, and you alone, can recognze a danger signal and heed its warning.

The danger signals of cancer are:

1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Any change in a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

You should go at once to a doctor upon the appearance of any one of these danger signals.

What is the cancer "silent period?"

In many cases, particularly of the lung and stomach, there is long time, sometimes as much as twenty months, when its presence is unsuspected because it causes no pain or other symptons.

For answers to cancer questions write American Cancer Society, Mason City.

Cub Scouts Held Picnic At Clear Lake State Park

Friday, August 28, the Cub Scout Pack held its annual stew picnic at the Clear Lake State Park.

We left Klemme about 3 p. m. As soon as we reached the shelter house at the park, a fire was built, and each boy prepared the onion, carrot and potato he had brought. While the stew was cooking, the boys enjoyed a swim.

The supper consisted of stew and crackers, pop, cake and friut. The birthday cake and pop were furnished by Daryl Kothenbeutel who was 10 years old the following Monday.

There were 11 scouts and 11 visitors present. This "cook-out" is one of the highlights of the year for the Cub Scouts. They all agreed that it was an excellent day for swimming and from the way it disappears they can make delicious stew.

Iowans Play Safe

Iowa drivers have a right to be proud . . . that is, most of them do.

The news just came out that this is the 4th safest state in the nation.

How did we make that wonderful highway safety record? Most of all, I believe, by observing the rules of the road, respect for the rights of the other fellow.

And wouldn't it be a fine thing if we could carry a little more of that spirit into our every-day life. The driver who causes trouble is the fellow who goes ramming down the road, with no regard for the rest of us.

And the person who causes trouble in a neighborhood or town is the one who pounds away at his own ideas, and would like to dictate to his neighbors what they should think or do . . . regardless of their own likes, leanings, or tastes.

I say, let's guard against narrowness, intolerance in our communities, just as we guard against "one track minds" on our highways.

Rev. G. H. Gebhardt To Speak At Mission Festival

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme will observe its annual Mission Festival on Sunday, September 20.

The guest speaker for the morning and afternoon services will be the Rev. Gerard H. Gebhardt of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Rev. Mr. Gebhardt is the Associate Secretary of the Board of International Missions or the Evangelical and Reformed Church. He carries the administrative responsibility for the mission fields of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Japan, China, and Iraq. He has recently returned from a trip to these fields.

Previous to his appointment with the Board of International Missions, Rev. Mr. Gebhardt served as pastor of Carrollton Ave. Church, Indianapolis, Indiana and as pastor of Trinity Church in Wadsworth, Ohio. He served from 1932-1946 as pastor of historic Old First Reformed Church in Philadelphia, Pa.

Rev. Gebhardt is a very able speaker and will bring helpful messages to the congregation and friends.

The speaker in the evening service will be the Rev. Lowell E. Ferguson, pastor of Bethany Evangelical and Reformed Church of Baxter, Iowa. We are certain he will bring an inspirational and challenging message.

The hour of our service will be as follows:

Morning worship, 10:00 A. M.; Sunday School, 11:00 A. M.; Afternoon, 2:30 P. M.; Evening, 8:00 P. M.

Special music for these services will be provided by the Church Choir, the Women's Chorus and the Men's Chorus.

We wish to invite all friends of the congregation to share in this Mission Festival. The women of the church will serve dinner at noon.

Music Mothers To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Music Mothers at the high school building at 2:00 p. m. next Wednesday, September 16.

Couple Will Live In Minneapolis After Trip

Miss Doris Jeanne Gruis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Gruis, of Klemme, became the bride of Donald Daggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Daggett, of Clarion, at a ceremony in the Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church on Saturday.

The Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg performed the double ring ceremony at an alter flanked with tall baskets of gladiolus and bronze mums. Mrs. Gerardi, organist, played nuptial music and accompainied Laurence Gruis of Thornton, cousin of the bride as he sang "Through the Years", "Because", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride was escorted to the alter and given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned of white slipper satin with chantilly lace yoke and vogue sleeve insets, the princess skirt extending into a train. Her head piece was lace covered satin with pearl trim and a fingertip veil. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried the same handkerchief which her grandmother, Mrs. Janssen carried at her wedding. She carried a cascade of bronze pom-pom mums tied with blue streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Doris Peck of Forest City, who wore a blue formal, bronze picture hat and mitts, and carried a cascade bouquet of blue mums surrounded by blue. Diane McFranklyn Carter of Minneapolis, was attendant attired in an orchid formal, with bronze picture hat and mitts. Her bouquet was a cascade of bronze mums surrounded by blue. Diiane McClintock, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of blue net over taffeta and a bronze picture hat and mitts. She was escorted by the ring bearer, Jimmy Janssen, nephew of the bride, who wore the rings in a lily.

The groom was attended by Galen and Lee Grius, brothers of the bride. The men in the wedding party wore light suits, blue neckties and had blue carnation boutonnieres. The mothers of the bride and groom each wore navy blue and had rose corsages.

Donald Grius of Kansas City, Missouri and Donnie Ruiter of Meservey were ushers.

A reception in the Church parlors followed the ceremony. Mrs. Vern McClintock, aunt of the bride, of Mason City and Mrs. Gene Daggett, sister-in-law of the groom, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, poured and Mrs. Loius Grius of Thornton, aunt of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake. Miss Pauline Kramer and Mrs. Junior Rayhons assisted at the reception table which was covered with heirloom linen and centered with an arrangement of bronze mums and blue tapers. Miss Lois Helps, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Ernest Abele of Kanawha, sister of the groom, had charge of the gifts. Mrs. Virgil Ruter was at the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of the Klemme High School in 1952 and attended Gale Institute in Minneapolis. The groom was separated from the service last November after serving four years with the army. After a short trip the couple will be at home in Minneapolis where both are employed.

Our nation must be getting mentally conditioned to accept the large numbers of fatalities on our highways. The Iowa State Safety Department expected anywhere from ten to twenty deaths on the highways over the long Labor Day week end, but there were only seven. Tuesday morning we heard an announcer, who sounded almost happy about it, make the statement, "Iowa had only seven deaths on the highway over the week end. Much better than the ten or twenty that were expected," True. It is better, but those seven are gone, and think how those feel who were left behind.

Some people are never satisfied. The day after our long heat wave broke, we heard some one complaining about being cold. Bet they were the same ones who sounded off the loudest about the heat.

One of these days this county is going to have a big election coming up on school redistricting. We believe one way on the proposition and we know that there are plenty of people on the other side of the fence. We're not mad at them, but we are unhappy with the ones who are on the fence and haven't got the ambition to dig into the facts and make up their minds one way or the other. If no one took any interest in public affairs in this country, we would soon be just as bad off as are the people behind the iron curtain.

Highway 69 is a busy one. Sunday evening, while returning from the State Fair at Des Moines, the Ernest Gerardi family counted the cars they met in the two hours it took them to drive the 90 miles from Ankeny to Klemme. They counted 860. That's almost ten cars per mile. That means that they probably drove the whole distance with headlights shining in their eyes. No fun!

We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trevett and family. The Trevetts have purchased Thada's Shopping Center and took over the business Tuesday. We like our town, and sincerely hope that they will too.

Memory "Joggers"

Taken from Our Files

30 YEARS AGO—

A quartette consisting of Elmer Ludeke, Art Wellemeyer, Emil Patet and Bert Mathews sang at the Sunday School Convention at Goodell last Sunday.

The Klemme song birds made a great hit.

W. F. Pavey has remodeled his blacksmith shop to make room for a new Storming machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koerner gave a dance in their garage last Thursday evening. Refreshments were served and all had a good time.

Mr. an Mrs. G. P. McCullough returned Sunday from their vacation spent at the Minnesota State Fair. They also camped at one of the lakes several days.

20 YEARS AGO—

Dr. A. H. Dulmes and Miss Vera Mutch, Grundy Center were united in marriage at the Reformed Church Wednseday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, August 30th, with the Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Carver, friends from Grundy Center were in attendance.

While helping with the silo filling at the Aug. Kropp home last week Ben Reimer had the misfortune to get his hand in the machine. One finger was amputated and another was badly mangled. He is getting along nicely now.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Netland and three children moved to Klemme this week from Maple Hill, Iowa, and will occupy the Dave Ross house. Mr. Netland is the new section foreman for the Rock Island.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Shoafstall, Wayne, and Maxine went by train to Chicago Saturday night to attend the World's Fair. They returned to Klemme Tuesday morning. Mr. Shoafstall did not have to work Labor Day so made good use of a short vacation.

10 YEARS AGO—

The offering taken at the Klemme Reformed Church at the Mission Festival Sunday totaled $801.00 and was the largest offering ever received in a single day. The offering is used for benevolences by the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Patterson of Bancroft were visiting with Klemme friends Monday evening. Mr. Patterson, who was athletic coach here the past two years, will leave for the army this week. Mrs. Patterson and baby daughter will reside at Missouri Valley for the duration. Mrs. Patterson will do part time teaching in Missouri Valley this year.

Mrs. John Clements returned home Tuesday evening from Alexander, Louisiana, where she had been with her husband who is in an army camp near there.

Roy Schaefer began work Monday at the hemp plant at Britt as a mechanic. It will be Roy's job to keep the hemp cutting machines and binders in the fields in tip-top conditon. He has closed his automobile repair shop here for the the present.

Poor Oats Crop Up for Discussion

Will Be Part Of Varied ISC Field Day Program

One of the varied programs offered fall field day visitors to the Iowa State College Agronomy Farm in recent years is set for this year's event, Sept. 11.

The half-day program will combine demonstrations of brand-new research studies and visits to establish experiments. And this year's poor oat crop will be up for discussion by one of the nation's leading oat breeders.

The field day program will start at 1 p. m. sharp at the farm south of Ames, with a talk by H. C. Murphy, who is in charge of U. S. Department of Agriculture's oat breeding work. He will review the oats disease situation and may have some hopeful reports for better oats crops in the future.

Four Stops

There will be four major stops in the tours of the Agronomy Farm. One will allow visitors to see a new experiment with fertilizer and corn. Plots which have grown corn continually for more than 30 years have been fertilized at different rates this year. John Pesek, soil research man who is doing this work, thinks some of the fertilizer treatments will push corn to 100 bushels.

Corn breeders G. F. Sprague and W. A. Russell will show guests through their corn variety demonstration plots. Here they will see many different varieties, both experiment station selections and commercial hybrids, growing side by side.

Soybean variety demonstration plots will be another tour stop. C. R. Weber, who is in charge of soybean breeding work at the college, will show more than 70 varieties. Included will be many of the varieties—both past and present favorites—grown in the area from Canada to the boot-heel of Missouri.

Rare Experiment

The fourth tour stop will give the guests a chance to see an experiment that is probably the only one of its kind in the world. In this experiment, crops men and botanists are studying the influence of weed competition on yields of soybeans. They have removed weeds at different stages of growth, and collected data on how much weeds may reduce yields and at what stages they do most damage.

After the 1½-hour conducted tour, visitors will be free to follow their own interests. College specialists will be on hand to show plots and discuss results of experiments with forage varieties, green manure crops, wide-row spacing of corn, crop rotations and popcorn. And there will be an exhibit of tmeporary corn storage structures.

A special morning program has been planned for corn breeders and those interested in the experimental phases of corn breeding work. This program—will start at 9 a. m.—will center on the technical phases of corn bredding.

SWALLOWS

13-months old Douglas Henderson, of Manchester, swallowed a small rubber ball recently. The ball could be seen bulging in his throat for several minutes and it was feared he might choke to death, but it finally passed on into his stomach. Physicians told the parents not to worry.

Naomi Circle Met

The Naomi Circle met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gerald Koerner with Mrs. Sibert Shoop assisting the hostess.

Mrs. Clarence Lemke, Vice-Chairman was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Emil Beier presented the lesson.

There were thirteen members, one guest and three children present.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses.

Controlling insects that work in stored grain is an important step in maintaining quality and conditions of grains in storage. College extentsion entomologists.

Local Library Gets New Books For Children

Mrs. Lena Lewis, librarian, reports that several new children's books have been added to the Klemme Public Library. She wishes the children would come in and get acquainted with the books. Even without a membership card, the children can read the books while at the library.

Adults, as well as children, are urged to visit the library.

The library, now is located in the bank basement. Hours are from 2 to 5 p. m. each Saturday.

Three states in the Union have four-letter names—Ohio, Iowa and Utah.

There's a Style for Every Figure—

Fall and Winter Suit Story

Fitted, boxy or belted; smooth, tweedy or nubby—you'll find all this variety of style and fabric in suits featured for fall and winter. Skirts are mostly slim, but you'll find some with extra fullness, too. Colors of suits shown are, left to right: a soft lavendar, tan and white with brown, and the tweed is sprinkled with purple, gray, white and black.

The suit story for this fall and winter is interpreted in many ways. It's as if designers have made a special effort to create a becoming style for every woman who shops for a suit, no matter what her age of figure type.

Boxy Jacket

This season's boxy jacket is surprisingly smart, according to Iowa State College extension clothing specialists. It's made up most often in a nubby, textured wool and mated with a smooth, slim skirt in a solid color.

The extra fullness that made many women by-pass the boxy jacketed suits last spring—because they had the look of a maternity fashion—is gone. Instead most of the jackets are slim and straight and come about to the hip line.

A good smattering of these suits come with a soft sweater that tones in with the outfit, a vest, or blouse that matches the jacket lining. They can be worn as separates or cordinates. Some jackets are teamed with a dress.

You'll see jackets that are double breasted, single breasted or with no buttons at all. Some lapels, pocket tabs, cuffs and buttons are in a contrasting shade that matches the skirt—as in a nubby tan-and-white with smooth brown. Collars are rolled, wide-lapeled, stand-up or omitted entirely.

Some of the boxy jackets have a vertical line due to vertically placed contrasting pocket tabs and buttons, while others have more of a horizontal look. There are, in fact, so many different interpretations of this style that you should really try them all before deciding the boxy jacketed suit is not for you.

Fitted and Belted Jackets

There's lots of variation in fitted and belted suits, too. The belted styles seem to look best on the slim, long-waisted figure. A slim, small-boned woman of average or below average height will find a slim-skirted suit and short jacket with nipped in waist becoming. A taller woman will look better in a longer fitted jacket—if she chooses too short a jacket, the long length of skirt will give an unflattering proportion.

A pleat at the outer shoulder edge of a fitted jacket gives a smooth line across the shoulder plus fullness for the bust.

Large-size Suits

Even the large woman who's especially broad and fleshy across the back and upper arms can find a good looking suit that fits her comfortably this season. A few suit firms cater to this customer with nicely tailored semi-fitted suits, usually in dark colors and with a flared skirt.

Fabric Story

Wool predominates this season, but you'll find a good many lovely rayon suits in the lower price ranges—suits with the feel of smooth, tweedy or textured woolen. And in some cases, wool is blended with one of the synthetic fibers, usually nylon or Orlon, you many find a permanently pleated skirt featured.

A few of the higher priced wools have been permanently mothproofed to save storage headaches.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

Highway patrolmen, setting up road blocks around the state this month to test brakes, have come across some unhappy examples of driver attitude.

A number of times, patrolmen have climbed into care carrying entire families, stepped on the brake pedal and had it thump the floor with no stopping power at all.

"It makes you go cold all over when that happens and you look at the innocent kids sitting in the back seat of that car," one patrolman said.

The usual excuse the officer hears while writing out the court summons is, "All I have to do is pump the brake a few times and I can always stop in plenty of time."

That doesn't make much impression on patrolmen who have had to take the bodies out of cars wrecked because the driver was one split-second too late in the act that might have saved the situation.

But the prize incident in the current brake check came when patrolmen waved down a car at a road block then had to jump for safety. The car finally stopped some 200 feet beyond the inspection point.

The patrolmen found a woman pulling herself up on the steering wheel in order to get one toe on the brake pedal. She was too small to reach the brake any other way.

She explained she usually drove with three pillows behind her back to bring her feet close enough to the brake. This day, she had forgotten the pillows,

When the patrolmen tested the car, they found it didn't have any brakes anyway. The pedal had to be pumped a number of times before any stopping power appeared.

"People drive cars like that because they think they won't be caught," one patrolman suggested. He sounded discouraged when he said it. He was probably thinking of the terrible death toll this summer and the small impression it has made on some.

Cost Of Paved Feedlot Offset By Money Saved

Farmers don't think much at this time of the year about muddy lots. And when the muddy lots are at their worst, there's nothing one can do about them.

Paved feedlots cost money—there's no doubt of that. But C. H. Van Vlack, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College, says there's no doubt that paved feedlots also save money. And he thinks feeders without paved lots may be paying anyway in terms of feed wasted, slower livestock gains, loss of bedding and manure, hazard to animal health and thriftness, and more labor.

In the spring of 1951, Iowa State College research men compared the feed used and the gains of cattle on full feed through the "muddy feedlot" season. In 60 days, cattle on paved feedlots gained one-third pound more a day and did it with 2.1 bushels less corn.

During a month when cattle were in deep mud, they actually lost weight. But during that time feed consumption was at the same level as when cattle were gaining 2½ pounds per day.

When it comes to planning pavement for a feedlot, Van Vlack offers these recommendations: Make it large enough—where you pave the entire lot allow 30 to 50 square feet per steer or cow. If you pave only a feeding floor for hogs, allow 12 to 15 square feet for each 200-pound hog. Where you don't pave the whole feedlot for cattle, put 20- to 24-foot paved strips under feed and hay bunks and 8 to 10 feet of concrete around the water tanks.

New Potato Variety

A new potato variety—called Osage—has been developed for northern Iowa in the cooperative Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station and U. S. Department of Agriculture potato breeding program. It has resistance to potato scab and has produced better yields than the Irish Cobbler in northern Iowa.

Knute Rockne was born in Norway.

County Board of Education Files Tentative Plan With State

Klemme And Goodell Left As One District In Board's Proposal

The Hancock County Board of Education met in special session the afternoon and evening of September 2, 1953 to prepare a tentative county map for school district reorganization in Hancock County. The tentative plan must be filed with the Department of Public Instruction on or before September 4, 1953 to comply with House File 229, Acts of the 55th G. A.

The Board gave every possible consideration to questions and recommendations coming from the five (5, public hearings held during the last week, to petitions and surveys as well as written suggestions filed with the Board up to 4:00 P. M. September 2, 1953.

With minor modifications and one major change the Board adopted what was called Plan No. 1 in the study plan booklet. The major change places Woden Independent School with its transportation area in Bingham Township and Orthel Township, also twelve (12) sections in Grant Township, Winnebago County, in with and made a part of Proposed District No. Six (6) which includes Hayfield Consolidated and Crystal Lake Consolidated and their respective bus service areas in Hancock County plus two and one half (2½- sections in Linden Township, Winnebago County.

In the tentative plan the boundary lines are "tentative" subject to and can be changed by the County Board of Education if a sufficient number of people in an area should petition through the proper channels for which meets the legal requirements as to number. The Board will give every consideration to said petition or others of a similar nature.

All objections and recommendations coming to the attention of the Board through all reliable media were given careful consideration in making any changes from those shown on the study plan maps. Petitions from patrons in Bingham Township affecting parts of section 7 and 18 were approved. Proposals filed by Britt, Corwith in Hancock County and Belmond in Wright County, filed in that order, were studied. The survey in Grant Township, Winnebago County, Orthel Township Hancock County, and petitions from Orthel Township and Goodell and area surrounding it were studied.

The petition of residents in the twelve sections in Orthel Township, Sections 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 15, 16, 17, 18, filed August 31 was sustained since the petition included a large majority of the residents in the area. The petition from Goodell bearing the signatures of sixty-four (64) residents of Goodell Independent and thirty-two (32) signatures of those residing in the surrounding area was rejected for the reason that:

1. It does not constitute a majority of the residents in the area affected by the petition.
2. The County Boards of Education in Wright and Hancock Counties have not agreed on the proper disposition of said petitioned area.
3. Said action by the Hancock County Board does, in no way, permanently establish any boundary line.
4. Consideration was given to all school districts which might be affected by any change in the study plan in this area.
5. Any action by the County Board does, in no way, limit the rights of a majority of petitioners living in and around Goodell from getting the type of district it wants. A majority of residents may be included in a proposed district of their choice even though such proposed district may differ from the tentative plan now established. This numbered paragraph five (5) applies not only to the Goodell area but to any area in the county.

Obituary of Carl Manuel Pearson

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mr. CARL MANUEL PEARSON, whose departure form this life is sincerely regretted and sorrowfully mourned by his family and friends, was born on October 23, 1885, in Godegard, Sweden.

He was a son of Peter Abrahamson and Augusta nee Johanson. He received the Sacrament of Holy Baptism as an infant in the local Swedish Lutheran Church of Godegard. He received his elementary education in the schools of his home town in Sweden. After receiving instruction in the tenets of the Christain Faith, Carl Pearson was received into the membership of Swedish Lutheran Church through the rite of Christian Confirmation. He was a member of a very large class which included all the confirmands of the county.

His youth was devoted to farming on the parental farm until he reached the age of twenty-one years, at which time he spent two years in the service of the Swedish Army. Carl Pearson immigrated to America at the age of twenty-three years and found employment as a coal miner in Monroe County, Iowa.

He was united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony with Miss Lillie nee Bates of Albia, Iowa on April 27, 1914. God in His Providence, blessed this marriage with five children. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson began farming near Albia, Iowa where they resided for a period of six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson moved to Hancock County, Iowa in 1923 where they lived for the past thirty years. Mr. Pearson was a very industrious farmer and livestock feeder and has been loved as a father, neighbor and friend.

He was a member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme, Iowa.

Mr. Pearson has been ailing physically for the past several years with asthma and heart difficulties which became critical during the last six months. He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Mason City on Sunday, August 30 and it was there he departed from this earthly "veil of tears" on September 7, 1953, having attained the age of 67 years, 10 months and 14 days..

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Carl Pearson; one daughter, Lydia of Klemme and four sons; Herbert of Klemme, Francis of Dougherty, and Melvin and Norene both of Klemme. He is also survived by four daughters-in-law and four grandchildren; Jerry, Valinda, Rosalyn and Janeil Pearson. Also surviving are brothers, David and Ernest, and sister, Lydia who live in Sweden. He is also survived by other more distant relatives and dear friends and neighbors.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one infant sister, Christina.

Camp At State Fair

On Friday, August 28th, Mrs. Elmer Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold, Bill and Arlys, Erwin Lau and Dennis Ridder went to the State Fair Camp Grounds to set up camp for the duration of the fair on the Arnold camp site.

Several years ago the family built a cement floor for their tent and each year they set up their residence on this platform. They have sleeping accomodations for eleven pepole. Each year several relatives and friends take advantage of their hospitality and visit them at their tent. The following are some who were with them this year. Miss Eveyln Arnold and Miss McCurdy spent the first week end there.

On Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koerner, Miss Leona Lau, Mrs. Lee Ridder and Mrs. Virgil Ruter spent a few days there. Elmer Arnold accompanied them to Des Moines to stay for the remainder of the fair.

Thursday, Kermit Koerner, George Lau, Mrs. Nova Stokesbary, Janice, Jerry and Julie arrived for three days.

Evelyn Arnold and Dennis Ridder returned on Saturday. Bruce Arnold from Rock Island, Illinois and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Ridder from Mason City also arrived on Saturday for the week end.

Roy and Wilbur Arnold arrived on Sunday to stay and help break up camp.

Every one enjoyed the fair and their stay at the Arnold tent.

SLUGGED SELF

Police Chief Clarence Steig of Storm Lake slugged himself on a day off recently. He was working with a steel bar, tearing up a sidewalk, when the bar slipped. A second bar flew up, hit him in the face and knocked two teeth out.

Recorder Reports

Edith Sonquist has released her report to the State Conservation Commission for the month of August. The report lists sales of fishing, combination and non-resident fishing licenses totaling $62.50. The office issued 19 fishing licenses, 10 combination licenses and 6 six-day non-resident fishing licenses. No hunting licenses were issued during the month.

Mary Circle Met

Mary Circle met at the home of Mrs. Albert Lange Wednesday, with Mrs. Frank Schulz as co-hostess.

Mrs. C. A. Arnold presented the lesson. There were fourteen members and one visitor present.

Lunch was served at the close of the business meeting.

Campaign For Funds Still On In County

The campaign here for the benefit of the Iowa Children's Home Society is still continuing this week Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Whitney, Garner, are Co-chairman for the eastern half of the county. Mrs. Marvin Lemke is Klemme Chairman. She is being assisted by the following workers: Mrs. Margaret Bisom, Mrs. Cora Schaefer, Miss Leona Lau, Mrs. J. D. Baker, Mrs. Melvin Schaefer, Mrs. Wilbur Haefner and Mrs. Myrtle Lemke.

Township Chairmen are: Ellington, Mrs. Harvey Sorenson; Madison, Mrs. Kerome Erdman; Concord, Mrs. Caris Kropp; Twin Lake, Mrs. Harlan Nuehring; Avery, Mrs. Roy Arnold; Ell, Mrs. Clifford Grieman; and Liberty, Mrs. Laurice Lemke.

Mrs. Bill Ayers is Goodell Chairman.

Liberty Township SCHOOL NEWS

Liberty No. 3

School opened on Monday, August 31, with an enrollment of 21 pupils, representing all grades except the 3rd and 7th.

We are highly appreciative of the effort made in making our school more modern, and hope that other Liberty Township schools will soon enjoy similiar conveniences.

Marie Niemeyer, teacher

Liberty No. 7

School opened with an enrollment of 17, with all grades but seventh and eighth.

The first week was mostly spent in getting books and settling down to work in spite of the heat.

Three people had perfect spelling papers. They were Pamela Lemke, Richard Meints, and Daryl Brager.

Aline Burgess, teacher

Liberty No. 8

We have an enrollment of 13 pupils; 7 boys and 6 girls. We are proud to have the Beier triplets in our school.

Our class room was given a nice new coat of paint before school opened.

Perfect spelling grades for our first week were earned by Kathryn Gast, Donna Stille, Joann Beier, Lois Hummel, Eugene Zwald, and Janis Beier.

James Beier was absent Tuesday because of illness.

Bertha Johnson, teacher

Liberty No. 9

School opened Monday, August 31, with an enrollment of 12 pupils, representing all grades except primary and fourth.

We certainly appreciate the new flag and also the new equipment for the playground.

Eunice Ball, teacher

Obituary of Robert Elmer Greimann

By Arthur Wellemeyer

ROBERT ELMER GREIMANN, 46, Twin Lake Township farmer, passed away at the Belmond Hospital, Thursday night, September 3rd, 1953.

He was the son of Wm. F. Greimann and Emma, nee Macholl, Greimann. He was born September 22nd, 1907, and spent his entire life on the home farm.

He was baptized as an infant in the Klemme Reformed Church by the Rev. Albert Muehlmeier. Later he attended religious instruction and during the pastorate of the Rev. A. A. Depping, became a member of this church by confirmation.

He completed his common school education in the rural school nearby, and then, in partnership with his father, operated the Greimann farm for these many years.

Robert Greimann never married, but he had a kind heart, was friendly to everyone and his ready smile will be missed.

Tuesday morning while driving to Klemme, something happened to the front end of his auto, which caused it to leave the road and roll over into the ditch. The injuries suffered here caused his death, late Thursday night.

He reached the age of 45 years, 11 months and 12 days.

His mother, Emma Greimann, preceded him in death on January 2nd, 1950.

He leaves to mourn his passing: his father, Wm. F. Greimann, Twin Lake Township, one brother, Herbert Greimann, Klemme; two sisters, Ruth, Mrs. Henry Klinge, Garner Route 4, and Elmyra, Mrs. Palmer Barnes, Charleston, West Va.; one nephew, Herbert Raymond Greimann, Jr.; two nieces, Nellie Ray Klinge and Marilyn Kay Barnes, and other more distant relatives and friends.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

One reason behind drive to reduce government employees is belief a big army of government jobholders is greater threat to nation than any foreign army.

* * *

History illustrates socialistic or communistic dictatorships are preceded by a huge corps living off the taxpayers. In time the corrosive effect of living without producing often warps mental processes of government jobholders.

C. W. Harder

An example of this socialistic thinking among government employees is supplied by Local No. 135, Federation of Federal Employees, in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

This group seeks furniture, appliances, auto accessories, sporting goods and general merchandise to sell on non-profit basis.

Letters to manufacturers are bluntly coercive. Stating that their store, called the Federal Employees Cooperative, will serve 2300 Federally employed families in Vicksburg, the manufacturer is tacitly threatened with boycott for non-compliance.

The letter states: "Because of the fact that the merchandise we will handle will be sold on a non-profit basis, there is little doubt the cooperative will command practically all the business for these lines from the 2300 families served by our cooperative. For this reason, we believe that it will be advantageous to your concern to grant us sales privileges for your products, as these privileges will virtually preclude any sales of similar lines to Federal employees in this vicinity."

almost 30% of the population.

The president of one firm selected wrote a very thought-provoking reply.

Stating it apparently was the intention of the Federal employees to eliminate retailers and wholesalers, he wondered what percentage of their salaries are paid by the people they desire to put out of business.

He then stated: "At the risk of losing the business of 2300 families in the Vicksburg area, we must consider what appears to us a serious threat to the American way of life as we have known and learned of it during the last century and a half. No, if all trade and industry must be socialized and all of us become pawns in a giant wheel whose speed, direction or stagnation is controlled by a master switch, or politboro, I'll go down swinging. It seems to me now that I would much prefer to be a very thin, rugged individualist, than a sleek and well fed puppet on a string."

He probably knows some short-sighted competitor will sell the cooperative of the Federal employees commune of Vicksburg.

Many hope they will be publicized for guidance of independent retailers and wholesalers.

No Washington observer is surprised over employees action.

It is recognised government employee ranks are loaded with those who believe more in socialistic and communistic methods than the free enterprise system.

And here is the way many Washington observers refer to the Vicksburg action with a common saying.

"An unwatched bureaucrat is more dangerous to the national welfare than three Red Army Divisions."

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Every fall in normal years, thousands of lambs and cattle are grazed on Kansas wheat pastures. Some of this wheat is volunteer growth on land that will be followed. Some is wheat growth from fall-seed wheat. In any case it provides lowest pasture for the fall and early winter months.

Last year there was no Kansas wheat-pasture grazing. It was too dry. The wheat didn't grow enough.

So thousands of head of lambs and cattle which earlier had been contacted for delivery had to find other outlets. This was one of the big factors in the late-fall price break for feeder cattle and lambs last year, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist believes.

This year wheat prospects look much better, says Kutish. There is more adequete sub-soil moisture. In addition, wheat allotment regulations will permit normal grazing—even though acreage controls will limit the acreage cut for harvest.

For allotments have been modified so that the areas certified as wind erosion danger areas can go ahead and put their land ready for wheat—provided they use it as a cover crop, for green manure, or for hay. The wheat must be cut or pastured or turned under while it still is green or it will be accounted as a part of the farmer's allotment, however.

The result: A number of loads of stock cattle and a few lambs have been shipped to Kansas wheat pastures for grazing purposes. Many western observers believe that demand for feeder lambs will strengthen as the wheat pastures develop. If this proves true, early September likely will mark the low spot in feeder lamb prices. For the season would be just the opposite seems shaping up.

While cattle will be affected by the same forces, the effect of the total feeder cattle market won't be nearly as pronounced. For a smaller portion of the total number of cattle going on feed normally wind up on wheat pastures, Kutish emphasizes.

North Iowa Breeders Technicians To Attend Conference At Ames

Artificial breeding service will not be available to members of the North Iowa Breeders Co-op. on Tuesday, September 15, accordng to Clifford Schaper of Britt, Iowa, president of the cooperative.

The technicians and the board of directors expect to be at Iowa State College in Ames that day for the Third Annual Cow Conference. A special program for artificial breeding technicians and directors of artificial breeding association is included in the day's activities there.

The artificial breeding group will attend this event to learn of the latest techniques and developments in the field of artificial inseminaton so they can be of greater service to members, Clifford Schaper says. Those attending the event from the North Iowa Breeders' Cooperative will be: Technicians Lester Anderson, Kanawha, Iowa; and Dayne Hardinger, Clarion, Iowa; and Board members Henry Mennenga of Belmond. Other board members of this cooperative are: Edwin Hefti, LuVerne; Floyd Friedlow, Kanawha; Sam Hammon, Garner; LuVerne Thompson, Corwith; Kenneth Tillman, Clarion; Kenneth Severson, Kanawha and Dale Brede, Klemme.

Anyone wanting to attend this conference may contact either technician for transportation.

Can a tuberculosis patient have cancer?

Yes. It was formerly believed and taught that a tuberculosis individual was relatively immune to cancer but later and more careful studies have shown that there is no significant difference in the incidence of cancer in the tuberculous as opposed to the non-tuberculous. Actually, tuberculosis is a chronic disease of the lungs, bone, skin or other tissues due to a specific bacterium, while cancer is pretty certainly not due to infection. On the other hand, tuberculosis is a chronic inflamatory condition involving an organ or ograns, and on the basis of the theory that chronic irritation may precede and possibly initiate malignant changes, should, if anything, predispose to, rather than protect from, cancerous degeneration. The fact is that it apparently has no effect whatever on cancer incidence even in the lungs where the disease may remain active for decades. Pulmonary cancer may appear in a tuberculous lung but the incidence is no greater than in normal non-infected lungs.

Does cancer bear any relation to food or drink?

No, not directly, although it is thought by some that prolonged deficiency of certain elements in the Vitamin B Complex may induce changes in some tissues, especially of the mouth and lips, which finally become malignant. However, certainly the vast majority of cancers in those locations can be better explained by chronic irritation from jagged teeth, poorly fitting dentures and pipe-smoking.

There is no scientific evidence that regular eating or theingestion of very cold or very hot food or drink will cause cancer.

The old idea that food cooked in aluminum containers might cause cancer has no basis in fact and has been generally abandoned.

While alcoholic drinks, especially distilled liquors may irritate the lining of the stomach it has not been proved that habitual drinkers are any more prone to stomach cancer.

Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle met at the home of Mrs. Otto Lemke with Mrs. Elmer Anderson as assisting hostess.

The meeting was opened with the song "Take My Life and Let It Be".

Mrs. Lee Ridder lead devotions and lesson, "You Must Have A Sacrificial Spirit".

Mrs. Henry Busse gave a talk on Abraham.

Fourteen members, three visitors and two children were present. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Council For Retarded Children To Meet

Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties will meet Sept. 14th, at the lunch room of the Forest City High School for the purpose of discussing the possibility of securing classroom facilities in the area for the trainable retarded children.

During the summer months the group has received monetary gifts from the Ellington Lutheran Sunday School, and two girls' 4-H groups in Hancock County—Twin Lake Go-Getters and Ell Tip-Toppers.

Iowa Crop Production Not Yet At Capacity

Iowa farmers could produce more than 50 percent more grain and 170 percent more forage than they now are, according to Iowa State College and U. S. Department of Agriculture farm specialists.

This increase could be made if all farmers fully adopted the improved practices and techniques in crop management that would be profitable and practical.

The conclusions are based upon the report of the Iowa Productive Capacity Committee. All state experiment stations and extension services in the United USDA in making an estimate of the nation's agricultural production capacity.

Boys 4-H Demonstration Team Wins Blue Ribbon

The county boys 4-H demonstration team, made up of Larry Fox and Dave Tegtmeyer, are to be congratulated on the fine job they did at the Iowa State Fair. They earned a Blue Ribbon on their demonstration, "Win the War with Rats."

The boys demonstrated Monday afternoon. The rest of their time was spent enjoying the fair.

The county boys 4-H judging team composed of Dennis Hayes, Lyle Goll, Gerald Gabel, and Paul Smith had a little harder time. Since there is only one team named as the number one team, it is a difficult job to be on top. These boys are to be congratulated also for their hard work and time they put in trying to earn a first place for the county.

The county owes a word of appreciation and congratulations to these boys.

Obituary of Agatha Belle Stille

By Arthur Wellemeyer

AGATHA BELLE STILLE was born May 22, 1912, at Garnavillo, Iowa, the eldest of two daughters born to her parents, John and Ada Smock Steeman.

At the age of one and one-half years, her parents moved to Britt, Iowa. She completed her common school education there and at the age of thirteen, she moved, with her parents, to Klemme, finishing her schooling in the high school there.

Agatha, as a child, loved the Bible stories she learned in Sunday School, and she became a member of the Methodist Church at the tender age of seven. Through all of her adult life, she lived her religion, by being a good neighbor and by being kind and helpful to everyone about her.

On February 3, 1930, at the age of eighteen, Agatha Steeman was married to Kermit Stille. They began housekeeping on a farm in Liberty Township, five miles west of Klemme, and ten years later moved to their present farm home, southeast of Thornton, Iowa. Three sons were born to them; one of which survives, and they opened their home and their hearts to an adopted boy, and were glad to love him and call him their son.

The story of Agatha's last illness is briefly told. In October of last year, she spent a few weeks in a hospital and submitted to surgery, but found only temporary relief. However, she continued to attend to her household duties, which she enjoyed, until just a few weeks ago when her condition became serious. The end came at 8:30 P. M., Friday, September 4, 1953.

She reached the age of 41 years, 3 months, and 12 days.

She leaves to mourn her passing: her husband, Kermit Stille; two sons, Jerry, age 18, and Richard, age 19; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Steeman, Waterloo, Iowa; her sister, Ila, Mrs. Raymond Davies, Dunkerton, Iowa; and many more distant relatives and friends.

Outstanding soils and livestock men who will appear on the program of the Livestock and the Land Institute at Albert Lea, Minn., Sept. 24 include from left to right: J. Earl Coke, U. S. assistant secretary of agriculture; J. R. Richards, meat buyer, Buffalo N. Y.; H. Russell Stadheim, general manager, Wilson & Co., Albert Lea, Minn.; and Will Meyers, head of the Agronomy Department, University of Minnesota, internationally known as a grassland expert.

Institute Program Will Show Uses For Grass In Livestock Farming

Ames, Iowa, Sept. 3

The story of how grasses and legumes fit into profitable livestock farming will be told by experts, farmers themselves, and special exhibits at the fourth annual Iowa-Minnesota Livestock and the Land Institue at Albert Lea, Sept. 24.

Heading the Institute program will be such speakers as J. Earl Coke, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Will Meyers, head of the University of Minnesota Agronomy Department.

Coke's appearance is expected to be especially significant since the Department of Agriculture's farm program is being widely discussed at the present time.

William G. Zmolek of Ames, Iowa, extension animal husbandman at Iowa State College, and W. E. Morris, extension animal husbandman at the University of Minnesota, will discuss "Feeding Programs for Efficiency in Beef Producton." This event will include a demonstration which features live cattle and the developement of actual rations for different feeding programs giving efficient, low-cost grains in producing quality grades of beef in primary de-

The experiences on two farms—the Don Fluher farm, Charles City, Iowa, and the Harold Olson farm, Odin, Minn.,—will be spotlighted during the program.

Experiences on these farms as told by members of the farm families themselves and illustrated by special color slides will show that profitable livestock production and good conservation farming go hand in hand.

In addition to the regular program special clinic exhibits will feature "Efficiency in Farming." Exhibits involving animals on experimental rations will be included.

The Institute is made possible by the cooperation of the University of Minnesota and Iowa and Minnesota Soil Conservation District Associations; Iowa Beef Producers' Association; Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association; U. S. Soil Conservation Service; and Wilson and Company, Albert Lea.

HOT ROD

Dick Hemmingson, Newell, tried out a "hot rod" on a special hot-rod strip in a field on his farm. He received minor injuries when it turned over.

Rusts And Weather Caused Poor Oat Crop

It was the rusts that turned early season prospects for a bumper oat crop into the dismal harvests brought in by many Hancock County farmers. And if there's any comfort in it, the Hancock County farmer who was badly disappointed with 1953 oats can be sure he has lots of company.

At heading time this year the rust organisms attacked the oats and actually sapped the life from the plants. There are two types of rust that damage oats—stem rust and crown rust—and both appeared this year.

The rusts are actually diseases caused by fugus organisms that are to small to be seen by the naked eye. When one of these organisms—or spores—lands on an oat leaf it germinates and prouces a rust "plant". This "plant" then produces more spores in 10 to 14 days which go into the air and infect other oat plants. It is by this system that rusts spread.

When the rust "plants" develop in the oat plant, they destroy tissues that the plant needs to manufacture food to fill the kernels. The result is lighter kernels and lower yield.

That, briefly is what happened to the 1953 oat crop. It happens to some extent every year, but seldom with the deadliness of the 1953 season.

Weather conditions in 1953 were just what the rusts would order—warm and moist with heavy dew at night. The rust spores germinated in drops of water on the leaves and then grew into the leaves. And warm and humid conditions made the rusts grow rapidly and produce more spores rapidly.

Rusts that attack Iowa oats come in from two sources. Some over winter in the state in a different form and more to an alternate host in the spring. From there they change back to a form that will attack oats. Other spores are blown in from southern areas.

The alternate host from stem rust is common barberry, which has been the subject of an eradication campaign for years. Buckthorn serves as an alternate host for crown rust, and in recent years plant pathologists have urged eradication of that shrub.

However, the main defense to rusts has been in hands of the oat breeder. Certain strains have resistance to some of the races of rusts—and there are many different races of both stem and crown rust—but are susceptible to other races. Then oat breeders tries to bring resistance to most prevalent races of the rusts along with many other factors of high yield, stiff straw, lodging resistance and desired maturity into an oat variety.

There are no breeding materials which offer the foundation for varieties that will perform as a farmer demands and still give farmers an "ideal" variety.

At the time our present varieties were developed, for example, oat breeders weren't able to breed a variety which had resistance to both race 7 and race 8 of stem rust, the two most prevalent stem rusts. If the variety carried resistance to one race it was susceptible to the other. Besides resistance to races of stem rust, breeders have to try to secure resistance to crown rust races, and the recent appearance of Septoria black stem as an important oat disease has complicated the problem still more.

In 1953, the rusts ganged up on the leading varieties. There were heavy infections of the major races of both crown and stem rust—the heaviest combined infections in Iowa since 1926. And under those conditions no variety was able to withstand the attack completely.

Realizing that there are no "ideal" varieties and that it's impossible to predict at planting time what diseases are most likely to be important, there's no sure variety recommendation that can be made. The best advise, most agronomists agree, is selecting two or more varieties with different disease resistances as insurance against a complete loss.

New Policy To Bring Early Distribution Of Missouri River Power

Early distribution of hydro power from the Missouri River Dams to electrical users in Iowa should get a boost from the recent power policy announced by Secretary McKay, according to Sutherland Dows, President of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company.

He pointed out that McKay's policy stated, "It is recognized that the primary responsibility for supplying power needs of an area rests with the people locally. The responsibility of the Department of the Interior is to give leadership and assistance in the conservation and wise utilization of natural resources."

In speaking of distribution and sale of hydro power from government projects, Mr. Dows noted that McKay's policy further stated, "In all contracts with public utilities serving principally domestic and rural customers—provision will be made to insure that power is furnished to ultimate consumers at the lowest rates which shall reflect as nearly as possible the cost of the service plus a reasonable return on the investment at work."

The electric companies of have been urging exactly that plan on the Department of the Interior for more than two years, Dows said. More than two years ago, the companies tried to get the Department of the Interior to permit the electric companies to buy and distribute hydro power from the Missouri River Dams with a guarantee that the companies would pass on all benefits to the ultimate consumers.

Since that time, the electric companies in Iowa have gone ahead on their own with a statewide grid system for the interchange of power from their own generating plants, and to be ready for the distribution of any Missouri River hydro power which may become available to Iowa. Parts of the grid system are already built and other parts are under construction.

The edlectric companies of Iowa are still willing to make contractual arrangements to pass on to the ultimate consumers any benefits which may result from the distribution of government hydro-electric power over the company lines, Dows stated. The new power policy announced by Secretary McKay gives reason to hope that these arrangements can now be concluded in a reasonable time.

Unimproved farm land in Iowa is bringing higher net rent than land that is improved with buildings.

The dinner was in honor of the birthdays of Verne Batcheller and Robert Malaise. The Malaises are students of the Rio Grande Bible Institute of Edinbury, Texas, and plan to leave next week to begin the new term at the Bible Institute.

WESTERN TRIP

Wyman, relatives of Margaret Black. There are many Spanish and Indian adobe villages in this area of New Mexico. One of our interesting side trips from Las Cruces was to El Paso, Texas and across the border to Cindad Juarez in Mexico. We greatly enjoyed shopping in the Mexican Market. Another interesting trip was to La Posta, an old cafe in Mesilla where Billy the Kid, Kit Carson and Pancho Villa used to stay. The White Sands National Monument and Carlsbad Caverns were two other places in New Mexico that we especially liked.

Continuing westward to Arizona, we saw the Petrified Forest, the Painted Desert, the huge Meteor Crater, Walnut Creek Canyon where there are homes of ancient cliff-dwelling Indians, and scenic Oak Creek Canyon. The South Rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, of course, provided some very beautiful scenery! While enroute to the North Rim of the Grand Canyon, we spent an afternoon traveling through the Navajo Indian Reservation. There we saw many Navajo boys and girls herding large flocks of sheep and goats on desert land. The crude hogans (homes) of these Indians indicated their poverty.

After leaving Arizona, we visited several interesting places in Utah—Zon National Park, Cedar Breaks National Monument, Bryce Canyon National Park, and Salt Lake City.

The next part of our trip took us northward through the Snake River Valley of Idaho into the John Day River Valley of Oregon where we were surrounded with lovely forest-covered mountains. Crater Lake National Park in Oregon was one of the very lovely spots of our trip. We were at Crater Lake on Aug.17, but there were still many snow fields right beside the road.

From Crater Lake we went south across Grants Pass, through the Siskiyou National Forest, and into the Redwood forests of northern California. These Redwood trees are among the tallest trees in the world. From Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park, we followed the coastal highway northward again. Although we traveled all day along the Pacific Coast, we had very few views of the ocean, for the Pacific was blanketed by heavy fog. At Gardener, Oregon we stopped for a brief visit with the Joe Abbot family. Mrs. Abbot is the former Wilma Day.

Lumbering is a big industry in this area of Oregon, and we were especially interested in all the big lumber mills and storage ponds around Coos Bay We also saw many large ships being loaded with lumber. At Taft Beach, Oregon we left the coastal drive and went eastward to McMinnville, where we visited the David Brown family. Mrs. Brown is the former Lois Day. We also visited with the Steve Day family (Esther Lau) of Hubbard, Mrs. Iola Walch and family of Mollala, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Day in Portland. The Day's live in the Willamette River Valley, one of the leading agricultural regions of Oregon.

Erom Portland we began our homeward journey along the Columbia River Drive. This is a beautiful road that follows the Columbia River and passes several high waterfalls. At Bonneville Dam we stopped to see the fish ladders that have been constructed to enable Salmon to go upstream over the dam. Watching the Indians fish for salmon at Celilo Falls was certainly an interesting experience for us. These Indians have been granted permission by the government to fish for Salmon at any season of the year at Celilo Falls. The Indians build scaffolds out over the falls in the Columbia River, and then standing on the scaffolds they use long handled basket-like nets to scoop up Salmon as the fish come through the rapids. We saw several large Salmon caught while we were there.

We followed the bend of the Columbia River into eastern Washington which is a dry-farming section. Much wheat there was in the process of being harvested. In the Pend Oreille region of Idaho and in western Montana we again entered a lumbering district. On Aug. 22 we enjoyed the lovely mountain scenery and the cool weather on the Going-to-the-Sun highway in Glacier National Park. Another interesting stop in Montana was at the Fort Peck Dam, largest earth-filled dam in the world. This dam is a part of the Missouri River Basin Flood Control project.

All through Montana and North Dakota we saw much wheat being harvested. Our drive through North Dakota was greatly enlivened by the numerous ducks and other waterfowl on the little marshes along the road. In Minnesota we stopped at Bemidji to see the huge status of Paul Bunyan and Babe, the Blue Ox. We also spent a day at Lake Itasca State Park and saw the source of the Mississippi River. We arrived home in Klemme on Aug. 27 and decided that we had seen quite a bit of the U. S. in our thirty-one days of traveling.

Avery Sunbeams Met

The meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of Elizabeth Lemke. The meeting was opened by repeating the 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by 8 members. Diane Avery gave a talk on How to Plan Color Schemes For A Room. We sang "Dreaming" and the 4-H Field song for our music. Recreation was chosen by the girls. Refreshments were served by Elizabeth Lemke, Ruth Ann Louster and Eunice Helps.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Some men can remain decent human beings even while driving a car!

That theory, though long doubted in some quarters, was proved recently when one Iowa motorist voluntarily wrote to another—a complete stranger—to compliment him on his driving.

One afternoon late in August, J. H. Booth of Waterloo, driving between Des Moines and Marshalltown, followed a car driven by C. S. Gustafson of Marshalltown. A few days later, Booth wrote to Gustafson:

"I have never in my life, in my many years of traveling, followed anyone who was a safer driver in his own behalf while, at the same time, taking every precaution to safeguard others on the highways.

"Your courtesy was so unusual and so much in contrast with a large percentage of drivers that it was particularly and outstandingly noticeable."

What had Gustafson done? Simply been considerate of a stranger in the car behind, principally by giving adequate hand signals, according to the letter.

What had Booth done? Simply written the kind a letter he might write to anyone who had shown him some courtesy in a businees matter or social engagement.

In other words, this incident should not be surprising, it should be the kind of thing that happens every day. But it is surprising because, as far as the state safety department knows, such a thing has never happened in Iowa before.

Gustafson is a traveling man and he intends to pass through Waterloo some day soon to stop off and shake hands with Booth. It's too bad that first meeting can't be held in some huge stadium with about 100,000 Iowa drivers looking on.

The example of these two men might help us realize that we had better start acting like the close neighbors we are on the highways.

Annual Mission Festival To Be Held Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Don Daggett who were married September 5 in the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme. They are now at home in Minneapolis where they are both employed.

Rev. G. H. Gebhardt Guest Speaker

Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme will observe its annual Mission Festival on Sunday, September 20.

Our guest speaker for the morning and afternoon services, will be the Rev. Gerard H. Gebhardt of Philidelphia, Pa. Rev. Mr. Gebhardt is the Associate Secretary of the Board of International Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. He carries the administrative responsibility for the mission fields of the denomination in Japan, China and Iraq. He has recently returned from a trip to these fields. Rev. Gebhardt is a very able speaker and will bring helpful and challenging messages to the congregation and his friends.

The speaker in the evening will be the Rev. Lowell E. Ferguson, pastor of Bethany Evangelical and Reformed Church of Baxter, Iowa.

The hour of our services will be as follows: Morning Worship - 10:00 A. M.; Sunday School - 11:00 A. M. Afternoon 2:30 P. M. Evening - 8:00 P. M.

We wish to invite you and your family to share with us in the spiritual blessings and Christian fellowship of this Mission Festival. The women of the chruch will serve dinner to all in attendance. Plan to come and spend the day with us.

Editor Away

Weekly editors have a habit of complaining how old and tired they feel after the paper comes out, but most of the old columnist doesn't take them too seriously. They're just looking for sympathy. Actually the satisfaction of getting to press far overbalances the aches and pains and fallen arches of publication day. Wednesday night for the editor is the time of complete freedom. It's too late to worry about the imperfections of this week's edition and to early to fret about next week's. Thats why your editor, Pete Kilgore is away for a vacation.

"Newspaper publishing is a different kind of business," as it requires digging into other people's business. We do not print so much state, national and international news to any extent. We are interested in what goes on in our county. We go on the assumption that all readers subscribe to some newspaper that does print the news of the world. We figure our readers have read that before their weekly newspaper comes out. Readers probably know the local news already, too, but they buy the paper and read it to see whether the editor knows it or not. So please, while Pete is away call or send us your news, so we can print it.

New Workers For T. B.

Nine fall Regional Institute for tuberculosis workers have been announced—meeting to be held in all sections of the state.

Paul C. Williamson, executive secretary of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Assooiation and the Iowa Heart Association, said that in the meetings, plans will be made for the forthcoming Christmas Seal campaign which opens November 16.

The first Regional Institute will be held in Grundy Center, September 15. Other Regional Institutes will be at Dubuque, September 17; Muscatine, September 18; Mason City, September 22; Orange City, September 24; Sac City, September 25; Shenandoah, September 29; Oskaloosa, September 30; and Minburn October 2.

Mrs. Vera N. Ewing, Christmas Seal Sale consultant, Mr. Wendell Lawhead, health education consultant, and Miss Paula Robinson, social service consultant, all with the state association, and John Hermann, Iowa Heart Association, program coordinator, will participate in workshop sessions with volunteer tuberculosis workers in their respective fields.

At then, noon luncheon of each meeting, Mr. Williamson will discuss the problems still created by tuberculosis despite dramatic strides that have been made in control of the disease. Following the luncheon, publicity techniques for promoting the Christmas Seal Sale will be presented, as well as a demonstration of an educational activity. Various other members of the staff of the two health organization will attend certain of the meetings to assist in the program.

Particular emphasis is being placed on the value of the close working together of the professional workers and county TB and heart groups. Since the meetings are brought closer to local associations, more volunteers are expected to attend these than the fall and spring state meetings in Des Moines.

Good Crowd Out For Teachers' Reception

Friday evening at the High School Gym a reception was held for the new and old teachers in Klemme. The evening's entertainment was sponsored by the Music Mothers, the Evangelical and Reformed Guild Ladies, and the Methodist W. S. C. S. ladies, with the capable assisstance of Allen Barz as Toast Master. In fact he added so much pep and zip to the program, many have decided to call him the second Arthur Godfrey.

Superintendent Ahrenkiel introduced the teachers, and welcomed them to Klemme A couple of skits were presented, some musical numbers by the Reformed Choir directed by Mrs. Wm. Reinhart were very much enjoyed. And the Toastmaster, Barz, rendered several numbers on his ukulele. After which a lovely lunch was served.

Celebrates 86th Birthday

One of our older residents, Mr. Julius Priebe, celebrated his 86th birthday on Sunday, September 13th. Variety Show September 30th

Klemme Lions Club Plan Big Entertainment

The Lions Club in Klemme is a very active organization. This takes place on Wednesday evening, September 30th, at the school Gym, at 8 p. m.

They will have Vaudeville, Musical Numbers, Pantomime and what have you, for fun. The purpose will be to raise funds for Community Service. Each year the Klemme Legion Auxiliary ladies always furnish the community with many needed supplies, such as hospital beds, crutches, and other medical supplies. And the Klemme Band Mothers spend much time and effort in purchasing enough band suits each year. So part of the proceeds from this entertainment will go to these two worthy organizations.

This will be the first show put on by the Lions Club. One act will feature "Hill Billy" bandplaying instruments from things you never dreamed of. Another act will be a skit, portraying the Men's Version of a Sewing Circle. This alone, will be worth the cost of admission. Then there will be Accordion band playing, special arrangements of "Missouri Waltz" "Tinker Polka" and "God Bless America".

Many other numbers are in the making yet—but remember, and save September 30th for the entertainment by the Lions Club.

Tickets may be purchased from the Club members, Auxilary or Music Mothers any time.

Lesson For Drivers

A hitherto unknown element may be playing a big part in Iowa's traffic safety problem has been discovered by the state safety department.

The deparment reported Thursday that 130 drivers involved in fatal accidents during the first six months of this year were driving vehicles owned by other persons. A total of 294 drivers were involved in fatalities during the period.

David Herrick, highway patrol chief, called the number of non-owners involved in fatal accidents startling. We are quite frankly surprised to learn that nearly half the drivers in our serious accidents did not own the vehicles they were operating."

He said the report may indicate that a considerable number of the state's fatal accidents are caused by drivers who are unfamiliar with the vehicles they are driving.

"A man driving a vehicle he doesn't own can easily misjudge the ability of the machine to get him into or out of a tight spot in traffic," Herrick said.

He urged owners to be especially cautious about the type of person they let drive their cars. "Don't lend your car to anyone whose ability to drive safely and carefully is not known to you," he said.

Herrick warned non-owner drivers not to drive at "excessive speeds" and not to put too much dependence on the mechanical reactions of the machine.

"Every vehicle has its own pecularities and one of them can kill you unless you are familiar with it," he warned.

EDITORIAL

Welcome! All students and teachers welcome to another year at Klemme Public Schools!

It is interesting for your editors to notice the bright, intelligent faces of the students as they peer devotedly at their new text books (and sometimes longingly out of the windows), and the determination of the H. S. teachers, particularly our two new ones, as they enter the classroom each day and defiantly attempt to pound some "book learnin" into our heads.

Yes, vacation is over, and we are now back at the old grind. For us seniors it is our last year the year most of us have been looking forward to for a long time. Too soon we will be looking back upon it for the rest of our lives! But now for the freshmen, you lucky, lucky kids! I'll bet every one of you just can't wait until initiation. Oh, well, even if you can wait, have fun and good luck to you, anyway!

SIXTH GRADE

There are nineteen pupils in sixth grade this year. Lynn Huenemann is a new student in our grade.

When we came back to school we were very happy to find such an attractive room. During the summer it was painted t cheery yellow, with the lower walls a light green.

We are busy getting acquainted with our different books. We especially like our new social studies books. We are learning now about the life of the cave men.

BOYS' SPORTS

Another year of school has started and we have already started baseball. Baseball is a game that needs constant practice and we don't want to put a team on the field that only practices 3 times a week for about 30 minutes each time. The boys and the coach do not like to lose by a 14 to 0 score. Therefore every bit of practice is important.

We played Hayfield, Tuesday, September 8, and won the game by the close score of 2 to 1. The game was won in the 7th inning on a hit by Barz. For the second time Hayfield had walked Karsjens to get at Barz. The bases were loaded both times. The first time he struck out, but the second time he came through with a timely hit and won the game.

The following boys are on the team; R. Terhufen, R. Karsjens, D. Ridder, T. Waddingham, G. Barz, C. Jacobs, D. Dulmes, D. Thieman, A. Neuberger, D. Michelson, H. Anderson, G. Lenz and M. Brinkman.

FIFTH GRADE

The total enrollment for the fifth grade this year amounts to 17 pupils.

In social studies class the pupils are learning about the adventures of discovering a new world.

In most of the other subjects, for the past two weeks, we have had a brief review of what we learned in fourth grade.

Claudia Neugerger has been absent for a few days with a cold.

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

If you ever see Lois J. and Jo Ann Burgess heading south toward Clarion, think nothing of it. They just like the southern atmosphere better.

Who is Daisy's heart throb of the moment? A handsome lad from Cicero, Illinois, named Larry Malek. I wonder how she met him. That's a long way off, "Daz", you better be careful.

It looks like Donnie T. and Jo Ann Bacon are geting along very well. What happened to Terry, Jo Ann?

I see Eleanor and Eddie are still together, too. I wonder what will be happening by 1954?

Oh yes! We mustn't forget little Harriet must we? I hear she is going with a handsome lad from Clarion.

Lois J. has had a number of romances this summer. First Gary, then Bob, and now another one of these Clarion men.

I see Gordon L. and Ione R. are together again. Could it be because Gordon is now the owner of a car, Ione?

It sounds like Daisy and Joan made a little switch a while back. "Daz" was going with Clarence and "Jo" with Chuck. Something must have happened because now it's "Jo" and Clarence, and "Daz" and Chuck.

It looks as if Janice will be lonely come next January when Gene leaves for the army. Those evenings get pretty long, Jan.

Haven't been hearing much about Carol and Graydon lately.

I guess the little romance between Roger T. and Faye J. ended in a hurry. Gene came home and Faye changed schools.

Ron Hummel and Beverly C. are a pretty steady couple and only freshman, too. This will have to be watched.

Something has happened between Gracka and Lee during the summer. What happened Gracka? I thought you had that all packaged up.

It's almost initiation time. You had better be nice to your classmen or you may get some pretty rough treatment. (You probably will anyway.)

Well Alan N. has had bad luck again. Who was it this time, Alan? A Garner gal named Linda?

Say, Berleen, did you ever get that letter written to Dale Beattie? I heard it was pretty important.

I hear Joan had a preety good time at Duncan Tuesday night. Even if Clarence had to play in the orchestra. Are you always lucky enough to have his nephew along Jo?

It seem like quite a few of our Klemme boys are spending most of their spare time in Garner. Isn't that right, Dennis, Lyle, Merlyn and Alan?

That's all for now; see you next week.

Can anyone offer any information on these two?

K. H. S. Class Officers Elected For '53-'54

The election of class officers of Klemme High School was held on Monday. Augusst 31, 1953. The following are the class officers for 53-54:

FRESHMAN

President: Arthur Carlson
Vice President: Beverly Christiance.
Sec. Treas: Martin Brinkman.
Student Council: Ronald Hummel and Berleen Bridges.

SOPHOMORE

President: Shirley Barz
Vice President: Warren Terhufen
Sec. Treas.: Denny Haefner
Student Council: Dave Waddingham and Margaret Haefner

JUNIOR

Vice President: Donnie Thiemann.
Sec.-Treas.: Graydon Barz
Student Council: Terry Koerner and Joan Lemke

SENIOR

President: Jo Ann Bacon.
Vice President: Noel Egeland
Sec.-Treas.: Janice Swanson
Student Council: Lois Helps and Delwyn Brede.

We hope all these kids will be worthy of their offices and will do their best to help their class achieve success.

MUSIC

Once again the noisy blaring of horns is heard around 8:30 in the chicken coop. Students rushing here and there, trying to get band on time. The Senior Band includes some 38 students, who are beginning work on their annual Fall Concert. The band elected officers this year. They are as follows:

President: Lois Christians
Vice President: Jo Ann Bacon
Sec. and Treas.: Carol Bridges
Student Judges:
Brass: Margaret Haefner, and Cecil Jacobs.
Woodwind: Lois Ann Jacobs and Lois Christians.

The Junior Band consists of 20 players, all working hard at the art of learning.

Girl's Glee Club has started off with a bang this year, with 26 girls turning out. Let's hope this number increases instead of decreases.

INTERVIEW

On August 31, 1923, Forrest R. Hiller was born at Jewell, Iowa. He has brown hair, hazel eyes, and is six feet tall.

He attended three years at S. U. I. and one year at I. S. T. C.

People who don't like other people is his pet peeve. Sirloin steak and lobster tails are his favorite foods. He has no special sayings. His favorite movie stars are Zsa Zsa Gabor, and Gregory Peck. Rosemary Clooney is his favorite singer. He enjoys listening to Ray Anthony's band. As a pastime, he plays golf and dances and getting information about different countries is his hobby.

His classes in high shool are all four years of English. He will also direct the class plays and is adviser for the school newspaper and school annual. His future plans are to keep on teaching.

SEVENTH GRADE

Fourteen students have enroled in the seventh grade and have high hopes for a successful year.

Dorothy Roul has been absent for a few days due to illness. We hope to see her back soon.

We are all happy to find our room newly decorated and we are trying to be careful not to mar it.

? ? of the Week

What is your opinion of freshman initiation and what do you think we should make you do at initiation?

Winola: I think we should have intiation. I think the girls should wear their hair in several pony tails.

Berleen: I think we should have initiation and not have to do anything that's to bad.

Art: I hope it's the bloodiest initiation we ever had!!!

Beverly: Yes we should, but they should get new ideas. They have had sack dresses too long.

Martin: Yes, because we are just coming into high shoool, and the teachers should dress up just the same.

Marvin J. I think so.

Bob L.: Make is so we will have a lot of fun.

Juda Stahl: I don't care if we have it. Make us girls wear our dad's clothes.

Barbara S. Yes, we should. It will help us get acquainted with our classmates.

June: I don't care what they do to us. It'll be fun.

Fonda Bier: I think it should be fun if you don't get too rough. All the girls wearing bangs should have to wear pompadores. All the girls should wear three ponytails in their hair.

SENIOR NEWS

The writing of three themes for English has kept us busy in our spare time, if we could find any.

In history, a test is promised us over what we are supposed to have studied, but which most of us have not even finished reading.

Bookkeeping is getting much harder than the first few days caused us to think it would be.

The boys in advanced shop are working on blue prints for their first project.

The girls taking senior home economics are studying food preservation and have canned tomatoes and plum butter.

Multiplication of algebraic expressions has been taking most of the time in advanced algebra.

The study of our social living and how the effects of our heredity and environment on our lives has been taking our time in sociology.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

Alegbra

We are having our troubles with percentages and equation problems.

English

We've been writing themes about dreams.

History

Studying about the Egyptians and their interesting ways of living has been keeping us occupied in history.

Biology

In this subject, studying the functions of plants and animals is our latest venture.

Freshman Initiation Friday, September 18

Vacation is over and another nine months of school is in store for us. As we enter the school, we are greeted with the sight of newly painted walls. We can assure you that there will be no sleeping during school hours, because of the bright contrasting colors!

The first school event which we are all looking forward to is the annual freshman initiation, Friday, September 18th. If you freshman only knew what we had planned for you! Well, all we can say is that we're glad we are seniors.

The Student Council has planned to have several dances this year and if there is a good attendance we may even have a prom. Do let's all participate in the school activities this year.

JUNIOR NEWS

Driver's Training

We are learning the laws of our highways. Maybe next week we will have the car and be able to drive soon.

Economics

We're studying about "Our Everyday Life" and working with a few tests mixed in.

English

We are making over some sentences to be topic sentences. We also wrote a theme.

Typing

We are learning the alphabet all over in a different order. Some of us are finding it rather difficult to learn this, too.

Sociology

The chapter "Culture Changes Come About by Inventing and Borrowing" is now taking up our time in Sociology.

EIGHTH GRADE

In history we have had quite a few tests. We are studying how Europeans settled in America.

We have elected Gordon Johnson the president of our class.

The news reporters are Elaine Jurgemeyer and Barbara Avery.

In spelling we have studied four units, and in arithmetic we have studied per cents and fractions. We feel that we accomplished much during these two weeks.

FRESHMAN NEWS

In English we are writing themes, and in mathematics we are reviewing 8th grade math.

The girls have been studying good grooming in home ec. class, and reading about matter keeps us busy during science class.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Since this is the beginning of the school year, we have not either basketball or kittenball underway. Just small amounts of P. T. and large amounts of gossip occupy our recreational period. We are all quite anxious for basketball practice to start and to get on the road to success, we hope.

LaVonne took office at an installation tea at the Des Moines Art Center on August 16, and assumes her duties in September.

Halloween

Halloween is just around the corner. If your youngsters want a treat, make some carmelized apple this easy way. Take 12 medium-sized apples, 12 orange sticks, 1 pound light colored caramels and ¼ cup cream. Wash the apples and stick skewers in stem end. Put caramels and cream in top of double boiler and cook over hot water, stirring until the caramels melt. Plunge the apples into the mixture, twirl once or twice, and place on wax paper and put in the refrigerator. Takes about two hours to harden.

After Supper Club Met

The After Supper Bridge Club met with Mrs. Asa Arnold last Wednesday evening. High prize was won by Mrs. Jack Etchen and second high by Mrs. Sumner Trumbell. A lovely lunch was served.

A car driven by Walter Law, Des Moines careened off the highway, jumped a fence and overturned, near Maquoketa recenty. In its flight, it knocked over a "Drive Safely" sign.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Ivan Henderson
County Extension Director

A year ago the big risk in the cattle feeding picture was the large cattle population in the country. This fall the big risk is the business picture for 1954, Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College believes.

Many people are inclined to attribute the sharp cattle price drop off the past year to slumping demand. This is not the real reason, however, Kutish points out. Rather it was the 30 to 50 percent boost in cattle slaughter. We were just overwhelmed by the big rush of beef to market.

The chances of a further slaughter increase of a similiar nature this coming year are remote, in Kutish's opinion. We are not likely to feed any more cattle than a year age—probably less. Total slaughter this year will be about equal to the number of calves raised. Unless we run into widespread drouth, or sharply declining business next year, the 1954 kill will be up slightly from this—but not a great deal.

This leaves business prospects as the big risk in the 1954 cattle feeding outlook.

Present signs point to steady business until some time next spring. Then some weakness is likely to begin to show up, Kutish believes.

His reasons: By that time government spending for national defense will be dropping. Construction and spending by business for new factory and factory eqiupment are likely to decline moderately next year, according to present signs. And auto sales are likely to be reduced from their present levels.

It adds to a prospect for some decline in 1954—but no sharp depression. For the Iowa cattlemen, the outlook probably means a fat-cattle market in 1954 about like the market which prevailed this past spring, says Kutish. This would put choice steers at the $20 to $22 mark.

That is less than the cost of gains. So all grades of cattle will have to be bought at a price which will net a margin. That's why it is important that the Hancock County cattle feeder do some careful figuring before he buys feeder cattle this fall.

But if the cattle are bought right, his chances for a normal profit are better than a year ago, Kutish believes.

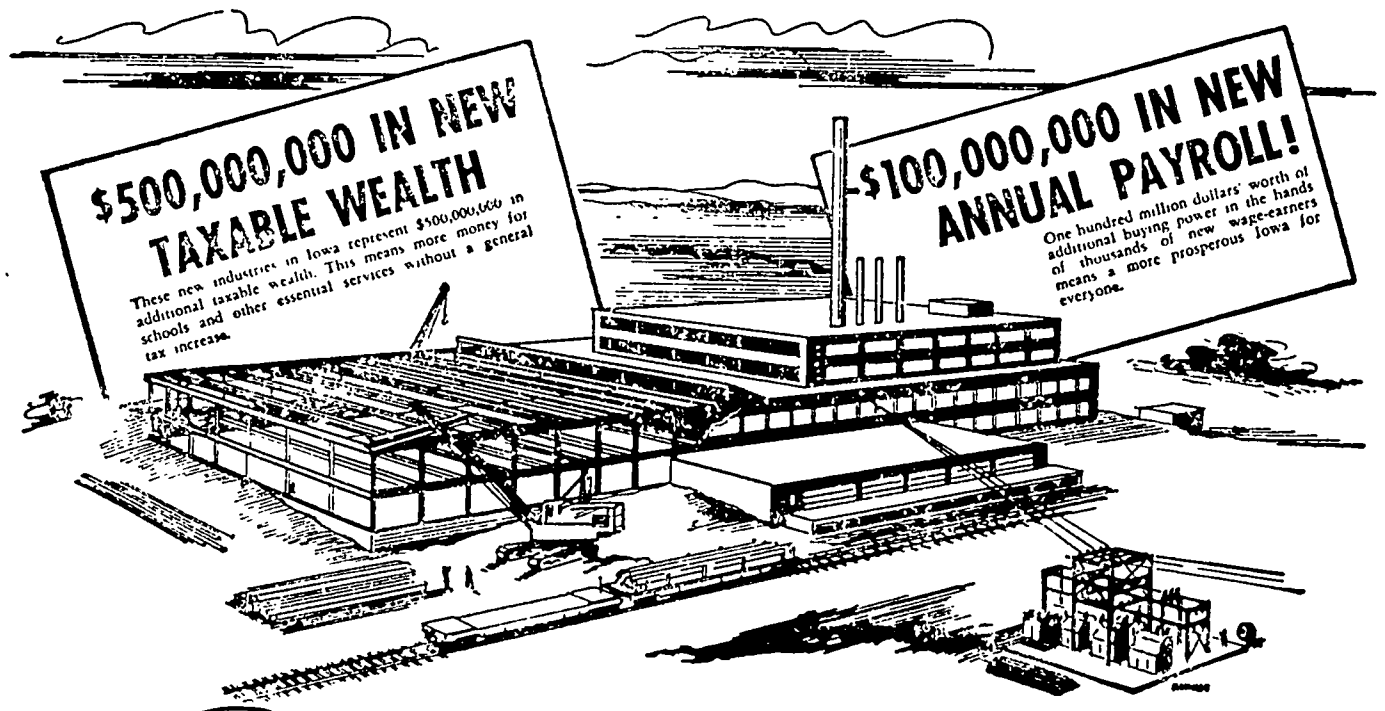
850 NEW INDUSTRIES IN IOWA SINCE 1947



$500,000,000 IN NEW TAXABLE WEALTH
These new industries in Iowa represent $500,000,000 in additional taxable wealth. This means more money for schools and other essential services without a general tax increase.
$100,000,000 IN NEW ANNUAL PAYROLL!
One hundred million dollars' worth of additional buying power in the hands of thousands of new wage-earners means a more prosperous Iowa for everyone.

AND PLENTY OF ELECTRIC POWER FOR ALL OF THEM!

THINK OF IT! 850 NEW industries in Iowa in the last 6 years or since 1947. No matter where you work, we think you'll agree that a healthy balance of agriculture and industry gives everyone a higher standard of living. New industries create new jobs, more buying power, and help finance better highways, schools and state institutions. Industry likes to build in Iowa. Factory sites are plentiful. There is a big labor supply of willing and able workers. And electric power is adequate.

The electric power companies of Iowa believe it is their duty to keep Reddy Kilowatt, your Electric Servant, strong, doubly strong to serve you and to serve industry. When industry is healthy, everyone gains.

To do this, Iowa's power companies have had to look to the future. They have had to keep ahead of the demand for power. Right now, anticipating an even greater use of electricity, these power companies are cooperating to build a $38,000,000 system of high-voltage transmission lines. Some of these "super expressways of power" are already completed. The whole project will take several years.

This system will permit power to be fed to any section of the state from at least two directions. When and if hydro-electric power from the Missouri River becomes available, it can be transmitted to users all over Iowa. The Iowa Grid system is made possible by the use of private capital. No government funds will be needed.

Hancock Operates 46 Rural Schools

All rural schools in Hancock County this season, according to Supt. Charles S. Whitney. Forty-six schools are operating with a full staff of teachers.

Two townships, Orthel and Liberty each have eight rural schools in operation with Erin next in line with seven schools open. Five townships are operating two schools each and Avery, Concord Ell, Madison and Magor have no schools open. The townships in which no rural schools are open have town schools to which the students go.

Obituary of Ruth Lassahn

By Arthur Wellemeyer

RUTH LASSAHN was born January 20, 1920, on a farm in Liberty Township, Hancock County, Iowa, the youngest of eight children born to her parents, John Heginger and Fannie Kratchmer.

The family moved to Klemme in 1925, and Ruth completed her education in the Klemme Schools. She attended religious instruction and became a member of the Klemme Methodist Church by confirmation.

On October 2, 1946, Ruth Heginger and Harold Lassahn were married at Forest City Iowa. This union was blessed with two daughters.

They commenced housekeeping on the Mrs. C. A. Arnold farm, and for the last two years resided on the A. M. Rosedahl farm north of Garner.

Ruth had a sweet disposition and was kind and helpful to everyone around her.

A year or more ago, Ruth had a sick spell and spent some weeks in the Iowa City Hospital and suddenly became well. Just recently she again spent several weeks in the hospital with the same high fever. The doctors could not locate the trouble, and she died Thursday evening September 10, 1953.

She reached the age of 33 years, 7 months, and 20 days, and leaves to mourn her passing: her husband, Harold Lassahn; two daughters, Lavohn Kay, 5 and Larinda Sue, 2. Six sisters: Mollie, Mrs. Lee Price, Mason City; Martha, Mrs. Will Tiggeman, Klemme; Anna, Mrs. John Pannhoff, Klemme; Fannie, Mrs. Jake Blumer, Garner; Doris, Mrs. Edwin Medaus, Klemme; Cecelia, Mrs. Taas Harms, Belmond; one Brother, Carl Heginger, Klemme; and other more distant relatives and friends.

School Talk

By Arthur Wellemeyer

When the town of Klemme started, more than 60 years ago, the town had seven children of school age who attended a one room school, known as district No. 9. We were under the jurisdiction of the Ell Township School Board.

Six years later we built a four room building and formed an independent school district for the Klemme Community. This was in 1898, and now for 55 years we have continued to be an independent district.

There was a certain thrift about the Klemme school board all through the years. In 1939, all debts having been paid, they had a cash balance in the bank of some $1,000.00 which they had been saving to build a new school house. So they got busy and in 1939 completed our new brick high school building at a cost of $72,000.00. This building today, after 14 years of use, has been well kept up and looks just like new inside and out.

In 1950, the school board acquired the large Community Hall and remodeled it to use as a grade school building. With a new coat of paint, it too, looks like new inside and out.

Just this summer, 1953, the Board rebuilt and enlarged the "Bus Barn", with concrete block construction, overhead doors, thus giving us room to house six school buses.

All this was done and paid for, except a small bonded debt of $16,000.00.

Yes, our school property has been kept up, is in excellent condition, and our thrifty school board will have us out of debt in three or four years.

Years ago, in the horse and buggy days, Hacock County operated about 140 rural schools but when the automobile arrived, and better roads were built, rural children of High school age, began to attend classes in the nearest town high school.

Then came a day, when the state said, "Every child is entitled to 4 years of high school." The rural children flocked to the high schools and the township paid the tuition.

This put a burden on the town schools, who, during the early years, furnished this schooling to the rural children for less than actual cost. But, the town school board was generous, because, after all there were the children of our customers, and a small annual loss was not considered important.

But today, 1953, even the grade children are coming to town. Klemme has been bringing them in with five buses.

All thru Hancock County, this change has been going on, and 95 of our rural schools have been closed and discontinued, and for the present school year only 46 are open and in use.

Now then, the state has ordered, the County School Board to form a new set of school districts for Hancock County, with no school having less than 300 pupils.

As was stated in the Klemme Times of last week our County Board of Education has divided Hancock County into six school districts, which plan has been sent to the state for approval, and must also be approved by the voters in the several areas.

The county board has seen fit to put Klemme and Goodell and their rural service areas in one district. Some of the Goodell people were hoping they would be put in with the Belmond District.

Lets look at the facts from the rural voters view point:

First, a school district can be too small to serve its peolpe well.

Second, a school district can be too large and have too many pupils to do a good job for the school children.

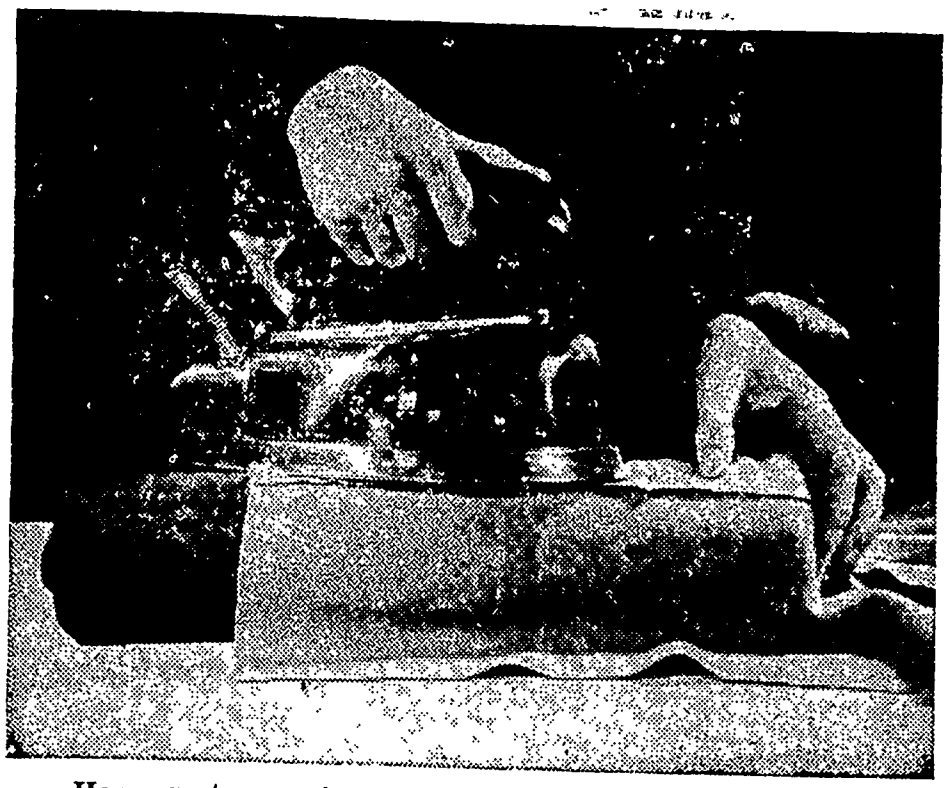
They'll Streamline Your Work—

Modern Sewing Aids



Here are two sewing aids that will speed your work and help give professional results. The sleeve roll is made by covering a large, tightly rolled magazine with cotton and then wool. With it you can press sleeve seams and other hard-to-get-at seams so that the edges won't show on the right side. The wrist pincushion is a triangle of fabric filled tightly with wool scraps or hair and fastened to an elastic wrist band.

If you learned to sew 10 or 15 or more years ago, you may not be familiar with some of the sewing equipment today's college or high school girl is being taught to use speed in her sewing and help give more professional results.

Get acquainted with them, suggests Iowa State College Extension Clothing Specialist Lucille Rea. You'll find they trim your sewing time and make your work enjoyable.

Tracing Carbon

Team tracing carbon with a tracing wheel or dinner knife to transfer markings from your pattern to the fabric with speed and accuracy. Tracing carbon usually comes in a packet containing many different colors. Use a color that contrasts slightly with your fabric. The directions tell how to use a tracing wheel or knife to transfer pattern markings. A tracing wheel is most effective when you are sewing wool.

Wrist Pincushion

Once you use a wrist pincushion, you'll wonder how you got along without one, Miss Rea predicts. Pins are always just a few inches away when you need them, and pretty soon you get into the habit of flicking your wrist a certain way whenever you want to pull out or replace a pin.

To make, cut a piece of firm fabric about 4 inches square, fold into a triangle and stitch free edges, leaving about 1½ inches unstitched. Turn and stuff tightly with bits of fabric, yarn or horse hair and sew closing shut. Attach to an elastic band and slip it onto your wrist.

Have plenty of slender, smooth, rustproof pins on hand. Learn to pin-baste, placing the pins either parallel or perpendicular to the seamline, just far enough away from it to avoid the presser foot on your machine.

Pressing Aids

Several small pressing aids are handier and more efficient to use than your full-size ironing board for most of those very important press-as-you-sew jobs. You'll find a sleeve roll, tailer's ham or pressing mitt and miniature ironing board very useful.

Make the sleeve roll by covering a large, firmly rolled magazine (or several thinner ones) with a rectangle of wool. Use it for pressing open seams in sleeves and other hard-to-get-at places before joining pieces.

A tailor's ham is used for pressing darts, curved seams and colars. Make it from two pieces of cotton fabric cut in a "teardrop" shape. Or you might describe the shape as that of a ham or gourd. The longest dimension should be about 12 inches and the widest part should be about 7 inches across. Sew the two pieces together, leaving 4 inches free for stuffing with small scraps of wool. Stuff it tightly enough so that it doesn't dent when you press your finger against it. Add a tightly fitting removable cover made with one side wool and one cotton. Or you might prefer to buy a pressing mitt instead.

Make the miniature ironing board by padding and then covering with muslin a piece of very heavy cardboard that measures about 9 to 16 inches. Ask for the piece of cardboard that comes out of a bolt of fabric at your yard goods store.

Other small equipment you should have on hand: shears, yardstick, tape measure, small scissors for snipping threads, and a 6-inch ruler.

Hunters Do Well On Wyoming Trip

Sumner Trumbell, Bert Lieuwen, and Darwin Bode left here on Friday, September 11, for Casper, Wyoming, where they planned to hunt both antelope and deer. The men had very good luck and enjoyed their trip immensely.

They first hunted the more open country for their antelope, and after they had each gotten one, they moved on into the Bighorn Mountains, about 80 miles from Casper, where they each got a fine large mule deer.

The first day they were in the mountains it started to snow, so they had to leave. Bode got his deer that day, but "Sum" and Bert had to go back a couple of days later. They got them alright. "Sum" got his first and then Bert climbed higher on the mountain to get his. He said that from where he was he could look down and see the other men dressing out the deer "Sum" shot, but they had to drive ten miles to get up to where he was.

The men returned Monday, and from what they say, we think they are ready to go back anytime some one says the word.

Otho Keraus To Be Partner In Minnesota Newspaper

Purchase of the Tribune-Herald, weekly newspaper at Chisholm, Minnesota, was announced today by Otho K. Keraus of Osage, and Lester G. Benz of Iowa City. They will take possession of the business October 3. Chisholm, a town of 8,000, is located on the Mesabi Iron Range in northern Minnesota.

Keraus, who has been mechanical superintendent of the Press-News at Osage for the past eight years, will leave this week for Chisholm and will assume active management of the Minnesota publication. Mrs. Keraus and their two children, Deborah, 3½, and John, 4 months, will join him at Chisholm as soon as living quarters are secured. Before her marriage, Mrs. Keraus was employed for several years on the office staff of the Press-News.

Benz, former publisher of the Press-News, is now a member of the faculty of the school of journalism of the University of Iowa. The new partnership brings together again an association which won six national and state awards for general excellence, typography, and community service for the Osage newspaper.

Keraus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keraus of Klemme. He began his newspaper career on The Klemme Times under the tutelage of the late R. A. Jorgenson, Sr.

Lions Rehearsing For Varieties Show To Be Presented September 30

Members of the Klemme Lions Club are busy rehearsing for the variety show which they are going to present next Wedesday evening at the high school gymnasium.

Proceeds of this show are to be used for worthwhile causes, with 25 percent of the net proceeds going to the Music Mothers, 25 percent to the Legion Auxiliary, and 50 percent remaining with the Lions Club.

Several skits and pantomime numbers have been worked out, and the Lions Hillbilly Band has some numbers dreamed up that are "long gone". There will also be music by the Gerardi Accordion Band, and tap dance numbers will be presented.

Lion president, Don Schaefer has expressed the hope that this show will be well supported by the public.

Music Mothers

On the third Wednesday of every month, the music mothers will meet at the school house. All mothers who have children in the glee clubs or band, or any taking lessons, are automatically members, and invited. Last Year they were very worthwhile workers for community service. They bought a French horn, served the alumni banquet, basketball banquet, lunches for the concerts, dinners for the Lions Club, and kept the band suits ready at all times. Don't forget the meeting date, come and be active, and get in there and pitch with the rest of the community workers!

New officers: President, Mrs. Don Bacon; Vice President, Mrs. Alvin Thiemann; Secretary, Mrs. Orville Bridges; Treasurer, Mrs. Art Kudje.

Plans Being Made For Special School

When school doors open in September, there are children in every community who do not enter those doors because of their mentally retarded children who cannot keep up with the schooling given average children.

It is estimated that one child in every two hundred needs a very special type of schooling in order to help him develop to his fullest. Heretofore, the only training facilities available for these children have been the overcrowded state institutions for the mentally retarded. Many parents are reluctant to institutionalize their children as they feel the reponsibility for caring for the child is theirs, especially when the child is responsive and alert. It is felt the child has a better chance to develop with individual care. For this and other reasons it is felt that a community training program for these handicapped children is of greatest benefit to the child.

The Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties was organized for the purpose of securing community schooling for these children and promoting the welfare of these children everywhere. There are not enough such children in any one school district or in a rural area, in one county. The alternatives is to establish facilities for children from a wider area.

Plans are being made to conduct a survey in Kossuth, Hancock and Winnebago Counties. The purpose of the survey is to locate the children in this Tri-County Special Education Area who would profit from special classroom training. Plans for such training are now underway.

Mr. W. A. Winterstein, Director of Special Education of the State of Iowa, met with the interested professional people and and parents of the Council for Retarded Children, Monday evening, September 14, at Forest City. He stated, "I am interested in seeing such a classroom established in a rural area to serve as a pilot project.. This type of training should be a part of the public school program".

Mr. L. B. Blom of Forest City, the Special Education Director of this Tri-County area, will be the supervisor of the project. He stated, "I see great possibilities in such a program".

Mrs. Victor Bunge, Garner, who has spearheaded the movement in this area and the state, urges that all parents who have a trainable retarded child conntact her for further information. Also, all parents of a retarded child are urged to become active members of a group which is interested in the welfare of these children wherever they are.

Mrs Bunge has stated, "Though the capacities of the retarded child are limited, we must not limit the opportunity to develop these capacities to their fullest extent".

Petit Jury Chosen

The Petit Jury will report on September 29, 1953, at 10 o'clock A. M., the Honorable Judge M. H. Kelper presiding.

Those chosen appear for jury duty from this community are:

Albert Swanson, Mrs. Katherine Goll, Mrs. Floy Lackore, Harvey Boller, Betty Carolus, Thelma Larson, and Kenneth Schultz.

Shamrocks Reach Finals of Sectional Tourney

Annual Mission Festival Held

The Evangelical and Reformed Church held their annual Mission Festival Sunday, September 20, with a large crowd attending. Rev. G. B Gebhart of Philedelphia gave an interesting and educational address in the morning concerning mission work in Japan, Choina, and Iraq. He had recently returned from trips to these fields. In the afternoon he spoke on Japan and he brought impressive messages concerning the Church in Japan.

At noon, all were invited to the dining room where the Guild members assisted by the young girls and boys as table assistants, served a delicious dinner. They served some over five hundred dinners.

In the evening Rev. Lowell E. Ferguson of Baxter was the speaker, after which pictures of Japan were shown.

Turkey Supper

The Methodist Women's Society will have a turkey supper instead of chicken this year for their annual dinner. It will be held October 8th and serving will begin at five thirty. Tickets are going to be sold by any of the members before the dinner. The adult tickets will be $1.60 and children under ten years of age will be fifty cents. The community is invited.

Pastor Visits Dr. Baker

Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Egeland visited Dr. Baker in the University Hospital at Iowa City on Monday and found him recovering satisfactorily from surgery. Dr. Baker was in fine spirits and according to the schedule he outlined for the weeks ahead expects to be back in Klemme in a couple of months to continue his practice. Both he and Mrs. Baker, who is staying with him at Iowa City, expressed their appreciation of the flowers and cards and other expressions of interest that have been received from Klemme people. He will be needing further encouragement during his convalescence, however, and your continued expressions of concern and goodwill will be helpful to him, as well as to Mrs. Baker. The Bakers will be spending some time at Ames after he is released from the Iowa City hospital.

His addrss is as follows:

Wins Contest

Mrs. Frederica Girres of Garner won the new Domestic sewing machine in the dot counting contest sponsored by Harson's Sewing Service last week. Other winners will be notified by mail.

Down Thornton And Vernon Township; Play Kanawha

Last spring, the Klemme Shamrocks were the "winningest" baseball team that the school here has had for years. Most of the club is back this fall and already they are continuing with their winning ways; their only loss coming at the hands of Kanawha.

In sectional tournament play, they have been going very well. In their first game, they knocked off Thornton by a score of 7 to 5, scoring five runs in the fifth inning. Thiemann and Jacobs formed the battery for Klemme, and Thiemann allowed only two hits. However, errors were numerous, allowing Thornton their five runs.

In their second game in the tournament, they played Vernon Township and won by a score of 7 to 1. Once again Thiemann allowed only two hits. His mates played better ball too. Hence, only one score for the opposition.

This afternoon (Wednesday) the Shamrocks take on the fast Kanawha nine, and will be trying not only for the sectional championship, but for a win to get them even for the defeat suffered earlier in the season.

Friday afternoon, Thornton will be here for a regularly scheduled game, and then on next Wenesday, the Shamrocks will be hosts to Fertile.

Memory "Joggers" Taken from Our Files

10 YEARS AGO—

Ye Editor, R. A. Jorgenson, received a letter from Milo Patet, from the South Pacific. He said food was good, even the cocoanuts, and the natives would climb the trees for two American cigarettes.

Friday was the birthday anniversary of at least four Klemme people: Mrs. Lyle Wilcox, Rev. H. E. Harvey, Mrs. Harvey, and Levi Ridder.

At the Avery Theatre they showed: "Silver Skates", "Lone Prairie", "The More the Merrier" and "They Came to Blow up America".

20 YEARS AGO—

Auxiliary officers elected this year are: President, Mrs. Carl Wolfe; Vice President, Mrs. Paul Grange, Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Thomas; Historian Mrs. Benn Coobs, and Chaplain, Martha Bredbenner.

The Royal Neighbors gathered for a District Meeting and Klemme won honors that year, by winning the slogan contest. It was used for the State Slogan and was submitted by Mrs. Lee Ridder.

P. T. A. was busy preparing for their annual Hobby Show.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Dulmes drove to Grundy Center to make arrangements to have some of the doctor's equipment moved to Klemme.

30 YEARS AGO—

Griemann's Motor Company fire was discovered about seven o'clock Friday morning, and later it reached the Etchen Bros. Pool Hall. It was the biggest fire Klemme had ever had up to that time.

Members on the Town Council were: Joe Johnson, H. L. Suckow Valentine Josten, Wm. Smith and A. D. Gimer.

A. D. Gimer "cops" a prize at the Iowa State Fair on his butter.

Mrs. Paul Griesmer entertained the teachers last Friday night. Flinch was played after the refreshments were served.

The Post Office received a shipment of the new Harding Memorial 2 cent postage stamp one day last week. The new stamps are a dark gray color.

At Decorah, Rollin Isenberger has built himself a real horseless carriage. Using an old buggy as the chassis, the Decorah youth has constructed a vehicle which is boy-powered from within.

Squirrel Hunters Asked To Cooperate

Iowa squirrel hunters can help themselves and their sport this fall by becoming cooperators in squirrel hunters' report program.

The program will consist of hunting information forms to be filed out by cooperating sportsmen, and the sending of the right front leg bones of squirrels shot.

The reports include information on number of squirrels killed, number crippled, number seen, number of hours hunted, and county. The right front leg bones can be easily severed at the "elbow", with practically no watse of meat.

From the leg bones and other information received from hunters, Commission biologists determine the percentage of young squirrels in the harvest, success of breeding season, and whether populations of squirrels are up or down. Such knowledge aids the Commission in making hunting regulations and results in better future squirrel hunting.

Sportsmen wishing to cooperate may obtain full information by writing the Dept. of Biology, State Conservation Commission, Des Moines, Iowa

Two weeks after they moved from their home at Delhi to a new home in Wisconsin, Don McAreavy, 28, and his six year old were drowned in a speedboat accident on the Mississippi.

MUSIC

Band is finally getting settled down to its usual routine. Mr. Whitford is once again writing down names in that red book if you are late, so BEWARE! The points we have earned so far are posted on the bulletin board, so if we have been taking our lesons, we should get well on the right track for whatever we want to earn.

We have a new member in the music deptartment, if you could call him that. Little Jerry Music Mouse is his name, and he will report to me any unusual happenings that seem to arise. It seems that Jerry noticed a pale look on Lousie C's. face when she returned to band on Tuesday. Could it be that the heavy date on Sunday night was too much for her? He also reported that Darlene E. has been having quite the time in Glee Club. She sems to think that she is hitting the wrong note, but turns out she is hitting the right note. So don't feel bad Darlene. This seems to be all that Jerry noticed this week.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Along this line, everything is still the same. The girls have quite a time playing P. T. and trying to agree on who is included in the "out" bracket and who's included in the "safe" bracket. First of all we line up at "Army" attention to be numbered off by 4's. Then Mr. Johnson suggests the 2's and 4's play together and the 1's and the 3's play together. Then the battle is on. We play like crazy about the first ten minutes and then everyone is ready for a forty-five miunte rest. By that time bell rings and P. T. for the girls is over.

SENIOR NEWS

We were "disappointed" on Friday by having a current event movie instead of the promised test which had to be delayed until Monday. Like to have a few more disappointments

In bookkeeping we had a test

In bookkeepink we had a test covering questions over the first four chapters.

We also had a test in Alegbra II over the first chapter.

In second home economics, the studying of the different kinds of spoilage and the different methods of canning has been taking most of our time.

In shop most of the plans have been completed and the work on the projects has started.

We have had quite a change in English. Instead of writing themes we are reading and discussing short stories in American literature.

In sociology, we have gone over the chapters "Culture Changes Comes About by Inventing and Borrowing" and "Habit is the Root of Orderliness".

Third Grade

Six third graders have returned their dental cards. They are Linda Jernegan, Vernon Jurgemeyer, Keith Carolus, Linda Waddingham, Nancy Guth, and Dean Burk.

In social studies we have been making booklets on our fruits grown here and in other countries. Last year the third grade planted cotton and watched it grow until school was out in May. Mrs. Martin Brinkman planted it in her garden and during the summer it continued to grow. Now it has blossoms and cotton balls on it. We visited Mrs. Brinkman's garden one day and learned many things about the cotton plant

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

Douglas and Merlyn seem to be spending quite a bit of their time at the airport in Garner. What's the big attraction, boys?

How are you sophomores doing in history? I heard that the last test was pretty tough. Oh well, better luck next ime.

Have Margaret and Alan started a new romance or was Margaret just looking for a means of transportation home?

Who is this Charles that Lois Heginger has written all over her notebook? It seems he's from Belmond. Is that right, Lois?

Dennis H. and his girl from Garner must have had quite a bad quarrel. She even came to see him to try to patch it up. Too bad he wasn't home.

I just wonder what Sharleen and Ione did after church Sunday evening? There just didn't happen to be two boys by the names of Gordon and Larry waiting for them, did there?

Say, Lois Jacobs, who owns that grey Ford that was parked in front of your place Sunday evening? By the way, did you and Don enjoy yourself skating?

I heard that Lois Helps is trying very hard to be a perfect homemaker for Francis. (We're just teasing, Lois.)

I've been trying to quiz some of these freshman girls. They say they know something about Ronald and Beverly, but just won't tell me. I think it's kind of mean of them.

We seniors will really have to keep our eyes and ears open at the party Friday night, so we can report all the latest gossip.

I understand that Joan Lemke has been getting some very interesting letters from Clarence. I suppos they concern business: (What kind of business, Joan?)

Well, good old Daisy must be not be going steady with Larry anymore because I think there is a different kind of car down in their driveway now. But I won't tell you people who it is, because I don't think you want to know, do you?

Eleanor hasn't had her name in this gossip column yet, so just for a change of scenery we will switch down to her place some evening, and just guess who will be sitting out in front of her house? That's right, Eleanor and Eddie.

Ione and Gordon, and Beverly and Pete are getting to be a regular foursome at the Corner Store after school.

? ? of the Week

What do you think of the change from 60% passing to 75% passing?

Ronald Hummel - I think its a pretty good deal.

Daisy S. - I think it was quite a drop. After working to pass 60% you really have to study to get 75%. I think the climb of 15 points all at once was too great.

Winola Z. - I think its O. K.

Delwyn Brede - It will be pretty rough.

Fonda Bier - It isn't any different than last year, so it's O. K.

Dennis Ridder - I think it was good enough the way it was.

Joan Lemke - I think it was quite a change from last year. A lot of kids are really going to have to buckle down or they will be flunking the course.

Douglas Jones - Last year it was 60 and I thought that was high.

Harriet Anderson - I don't care for it. A lot of kids are going to have to study a lot harder.

Ruth Pringnitz - It is quite high, but I guesss we'll just have to work harder.

Terry Koerner - It's rather high, but what are you going to do about it?

Shirley Barz - It's quite a difference, but I guesss it's O. K.

FRESHMAN NEWS

FEATURE ARTICLE

On September 11, the school board held their annual Teacher's Reception. The program began by introducing the teachers, who had each received a novetly corsage. The master of ceremonies was Allen Barz, who during the course of the evening sang several songs. Rev. Egeland and Rev Jaberg began the evening performance by each giving a short tolk, which was followed by the song, "Heart Divine", sung by the Women's Chorus.

Several short skits given by the two churches and the Music Mothers concluded the evening's entertainment.

Afterwards, punch and cookies were served and the parents were given an opportunity to visit with the teachers.

JUNIOR NEWS

Because of the ambition of the Juniors and the speed of the reporter, the only Junior class news will be the cast for the Junior class play, "Father's Wife".

Senior Interview

Jo Ann Bacon was born on September 22, 1936 at Buffalo Center, Iowa. She has light brown hair, blue eyes, and is 5 feet and 1 inch tall. She started school at Reab No. 4 near Lake Mills, Iowa. During fourth grade she went to Austin, Texas, and attended school there for a year. She then returned to Lake Mills and went through her freshman year there. From there she came to Klemme.

Her pet peeve is people who get mad at you and won't give a reason. Her most embarassing moment was too embarassing to tell. Skating and anything fun are her pastimes, and her hobby is collecting odd mugs with faces. Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh are her favorite movie stars. Mary Ford singing "Vio Con Dious" is her favorite record.

Her activities in and out of school at present are: playing flute in the band, church organist, sings in the girl's glee club, is president of the G S. C. S., a member of Rainbow, president of the senior class, works at the telephone office after school, works in the school library ,and is music reporter for the school paper. As to what she will do when she graduates, she is undecided.

INTERVIEW

Donald J. Smith was born December 30, 1925, at Des Moines, Iowa. He has brown hair, blue eyes, and is five feet nine inches tall.

After graduating from Valley High School in West Des Moines, where he lettered in football, track, and wrestling. He entered the Navy for three years. Then in February, 1940, he entered Drake University in Des Moines. While in college he was the division radio officer for the 34th Division of the National Guard for three years.

People talking in class when they should be paying attention, or otherwise just being rude are his pet peeves. His favorite hobbies and pastimes are fishing, hunting and amateur photography. Ava Gardner and John Wayne are his favorite movie stars, and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is one of his favorite movies. Steak, french-fried potatoes, Italian salad, and ice cold milk are his favorite foods. He also likes to listen to Glenn Miller's band.

His wife's name is Shirley, and they have two children, Steve, 5 and Linda, 4.

He is the senior class sponsor and teaches genreal sciecne, American history, sociology and biology—biology being his favorite. His future plans are to continue teaching and work on a master's degree which will lead to a superintendents certificate.

GENERAL NEWS

The "North Star" conference consisting of Dows, Rockwell, Ventura, Sheffield, Klemme, Fertile, and Franklin Con, met on September 15th, at 7:30 at the Klemme School. Twenty-eight members were present.

Election of officers was held and they are as follows:

President, Leo Esbeck, Ventura; Vice president, T. G. Ahrenkiel, Klemme; Sec. Treas., Marvin Peterson, Rockwell.

For the business they discussed whether or not the conference should have a cross country meet and a milt team race this fall. They, also discussed the forming of a football team next fall. Probably a six man team will be sponsored by schools who do not have football this year. The conference basketball tournament was discussed and the basketball schedule was drawn up for 1953-54. Also is was decided that a constitution would be drawn up at a later date.

BOYS' SPORTS

We have played three games this season. We won 2 and lost 1. On September 8th we played Kanawha and lost by a score of 13 to 8. We had a total of 8 runs, 7 hits, and five errors. They had 13 runs, 10 hits, and 6 errors.

September 15 we traveled to Crystal Lake and beat them by a score of 11 to 5. We had a total of 11 runs, 6 hits, and 6 errors. Crystal Lake had a total of 5 runs, 6 hits and 4 errors.

Cook-Miller Herd Ranks High At Cow Conference

About ten farmers and their wives from Hancock County attended the Third Annual Cow Conference at Iowa State College, Tuesday, September 15. They were among 1,200 Iowa dairymen at the event, according to Paul Henderson of Garner.

Virgil Cook and Myrl Miller of Klemme ranked in the 400 pound club. Their herds produced an average of more than 400 pounds of butterfat per year for a total of 10 years including the 1952-53 season.

The dairymen at the conference also received reports on airy research being done at the college. One of the reports which interested the Hancock County dairymen particularly was that on preservatives for grass silage.

R. S. Allen, research chemist on the dairy husbandry staff at the college, reported college tests suggest that good results may be had with sodium metabisulfite, liquid molasses, dried molasses and cane sugar, and that reasonably good results were shown for silage without preservative. Tests in miniature silos, he said, show that if unwilted grass silage is put up at the early bloom stage and is packed properly it will keep well whether or not it contains a preservative.

The dairymen also received from C. R. Schoby, of Algona, a first hand report on the Iowa Dairy Association's program to increase economy of operation, improve quality, promote more research, urge flexible price supports for all farm commodities which are supported by the government and promotion through a voluntary "set-aside" plan.

Increased Theatre Admissions Announced

Beginning next week, October 1, the Adult admission price at the Avery Theatre in Garner will be increased to 55 cents. Children's admission will be increased to 20 cents. All children under the age of five will be required to buy a ticket unless accompanied by an adult. Along with the admission change, there will now be only one matinee on Sundays, starting at 2:30. These changes are in accord with other theatres in this locality. This marks the first increase in admissions in five and one-half years.

In a statement from John Banks, manager of the Avery Theatre, he said that they had held off as long as they could, but the cost of bringing the best in motion picture enertainment has been rising steadily. In order to meet this increased cost they have been forced to advance their admission prices.

Banks said that the movie industry is undergoing a major change, and that in the near future, all theatres will have a standardized method of projection which will be different from the present method. Of all the many new processes now being developed, such as cinemascope, 3-D, wide screen, sterophonic sound, etc., nothing has yet been standardized. In order for all theatres to participate in the same type of movie presentation, the industry must eventualy settle down to one method. From all indications, this will be far superior, from the entertainment standpoint, to present day projection. The Avery Theatre will make this conversion when the time comes.

School Talk

By Arthur Wellemeyer

Third, we will show below, why the middle size school district is best.

Small Schools

Some of the rural schools did a splendid job of teaching the youngsters. But, take a school of 10 to 25 pupils, maybe the teacher has classes in six or maybe all of the eight grades, her program is crowded as to allow only 10 minutes for each class to recite. Compare this with a town school where the teacher has only one grade and maybe thirty pupils. She has 30 minute recitations and time in between to correct papers and supervise the study period of the class If she is a good teacher and loves her work she can accomplish three times as much for the children under her care as was possible in the large rural school. Hence, we must conclude that the one room school is on the way out.

The Big School

The Belmond Paper relates that they will have 1081 children of school age in their district if present reorganization plans materialize. This means there will be from 85 to 90 pupils in each class of the twelve grades taught.

It will take 2 or 3 teachers for each grade if the teaching job is to be done properly. Another thing, in voting, the town would have the most votes. Sure they will listen to their rural friends of the district, but in a pinch, the town can always out-vote the country. Would the farmers like that?

The Middle Size School

In Klemme, last year we had 226 enrolled in the grades and 99 in the high school. The above enrollment would be stepped up some if 2 or 3 rural schools in our area closed and sent their children to town.

Thus, without the Goodell children, we have a perfect set up, which is from 25 to 35 pupils, in each class.

If Goodell and Klemme join, as proposed by the County Board it would be necessary to build a nice new grade building at Goodell to take care of the many grade children

Thus, we could still keep up the perfect set up so far as 30 to 35 pupils per teacher is concerned.

With Klemme and Godoell together in one district there would be about 375 pupils in the grades and 125 in high school. With a grade school at Klemme and at Goodell, it could be arranged to do splendid work at both of these places. The High School would do well, 125 pupils, in the new high school building at Klemme, and plenty of room. Each teacher would have about 30, which is considered almost perfect.

Another thing, in this proposed school district of Klemme and Goodell and their rural area, about two-thirds of the voters would be rural and only about one-third town voters. Thus the farmers could out vote the town anytime they wanted to. They could have most of the seats on the school board if they wanted too. Hence, our proposed school district could be called a country school system.

The big town, boasts of their financial resourses, but remember there are more poor people in town than in the country. Look at Klemme, a "Country Town," our finances show up best of all the systems in Hancock County.

And in closing remember, Klemme, Kanawha and Corwith and schools of this size are big enough to give you everything that the larger town has.

They are small enough to have the friendly neighbor to neighbor atmosphere of the rural school.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

There may not be a feeling of tension in the air apparent to you but, right now, the nation's most unique and promising organization of drivers is meeting its first real test.

The organization is the Good Driver Club, made up of 5,000 Iowa motorists who have not had an accident or a traffic violation charged against them for at least the past three years.

The test is the first renewal of the club's memberships. If the big majority of members renew, probably the club will pass out of its infant stage to become an important factor in Iowa traffic safety.

If too many members fail to renew, the club, only one year old, may go the way of so many other promising safety experiments—starved to death on a diet of good intensions.

The club was formed to give good drivers a sense of organization and strength; to make a good driving record a proud and prized thing; to make good driving a social necessity.

After all, it would be nearly impossible these days to organize the bad or indifferent drivers anywhere outside of a court room. The alternative is, organize the good drivers in the hope of eventually reforming and absorbing the others.

Invitations to join the club were issued after a search of official state records to find qualified drivers. That proved costly and had to be discontinued temporarily. Qualified drivers may join the club by writing to the Iowa Safety Council, 720 Grand Ave., Des Moines. The cost is $2 a year, which is used for safety education and to increase the membership.

Hancock poultrymen can expect egg prices this fall and early winter to be about in line with the fall and winter prices of a year ago, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, believes.

American farmers raised about the same number of pullets as a year ago. We may carry over a few more old hens. But the total number of layers on farms on Jan. 1, 1954, should not be up much from a year ago. This would mean just a slightly larger egg production.

Meanwhile, feed costs will be about the same to slightly lower. Feed this fall definitely is lower than it was at this time last year.

LAMBS

An unusually large share of the lambs coming off the northern plains this fall were in slaughter flesh. This caused undue pressure on slaughter lamb price. The result was a sharp dip in fat lamb prices, Kutish points out.

And in turn it pulled down feeder lamb prices with it The stronger fat lamb market, which began to show up about the middle of September, went hand-in-hand with a let-up in receipts of these grass slaughter lambs. With the upturn in fat lamb prices came a strengthening in feeder lamb prices also.

The outlook for feeding lambs points to prospect for fairly decent feeding margins. This is in contrast to the last 2 years when fat lambs sold for less than they cost as feeders.

Our total lamb crop this year was about 7 percent larger than a year ago. But slaughter was up, too. So total sheep and lamb numbers next Jan. 1 are likely to be no larger than a year earlier—and may be smaller, Kutish believes.

CATTLE

Signs are mounting that Corn Belt farmers will feed fewer cattle than a year ago, says Kutish. There is less interest in feeding in the counties of Iowa which border on the main cattle feeding regions. And southern Iowa and northern Missouri will feed fewer native cattle. They just don't have the corn this year.

Old Oscar Dies Successor Not Named

Old Oscar, the Conservation Commission's famous rock sturgeon, died on Labor Day, the last day of his 28th Iowa State Fair. The big sturgeon, obtained from the Wisconsin Conservation Department in 1925, was believed to have been 53 years old at the time of his demise. He will be mounted and shown at the Commission Exhibit Building at the fairgrounds.

The old passeth away, but there'll be a new sturgeon at the fair next year. He is now 5 feet 6 inches long, longer than Old Oscar but not as hefty. He doesnot have a name yet, but that's being left up to his public. From now until next year's fair Iowans are urged to send in names for the new sturgeon. Prizes will be announced at a later date.

Palmer Is Making Statewide Survey

Representative Ernest Palmer, Jr., Fort Madison, chose southeast Iowa and northwest Iowa for the first two phases of his statewide survey trip to determine his opportunity to be the republican nominee for governer of Iowa. Palmer stated that as a result of his trip and the many letters he has received from throughout the State, he is very encouraged; suffiently so that Palmer intends to take the next three months visiting representative republicans in about six counties per week. Sixteen counties have been covered so far on his trip.

"I don't know yet, whether I will be a candidate," Palmer, said, "but if I announce, I will feel there is a good opportunity to serve."

Palmer stated there had not been a governor from the First Congressional District since 1884.

Palmer, 38, has served three terms in the Iowa House, six years as Republican County Chairman. At the Chicago Republican National Convention last summer he was Taft Chairman of the Iowa delegation and he was one of the first Taft leaders to get wholeheartedly behind Eisenhower by endorsing him at the republican state convention ten days later.

Iowa's "Humoresque"

This year Iowa celebrates another great anniversary.

Just 50 years ago the Bohemian, Dvorak, wrote his famous "Humoresque" music on the banks of our little Turkey River in northeast Iowa.

But, let's remember, if Dvorak and similar settlers from other lands gained something from us . . . we gained much from them, too.

Think of the Germans, English, Italians, Scandinavians and scores of other nationalities who settled our state. And think of the rich cultures of the old world they brought here with them.

Each, of course, had its own tastes and ways of life. One liked tea and crumpets . . . another sauerkraut and beer. One brought us the polka, another the waltz.

But each recognized the other's right to freedom of choice. So they mingled all these cultures, tastes, and ways of life into one, and helped make Iowa the great state it is today.

In celebrating Dvorak's anniversary, let's also salute these many other nationalities . . . who have helped make democracy such a living force here in Iowa.

John Schwichtenberg Writes Interesting Letter From New Home In South

September 14, 1953
Grand Bay 1, Ala.

Dear Pete-
Friends and Neighbors:

I had hopes of finding time to write to all the good people back in Iowa long before now. We would personally like to write a letter to each and every friend and neighbor in and around Klemme. However, if I tried to undertake such a task I must admit there would only be a small minority that would hear from us. So by having this letter in "The Times" we hope that will reach most of the people.

I would like to thank the editor for the splendid job that he is doing with the Klemme Times. Keep up the good work Pete, it's good to see and read about the home folks and what goes with the farmers and all the other lively people of Klemme.

I would also like to compliment the people and the editor on their concern of he accident that took the lives of six persons on Highway 69 back in the month of July. That news hit us 1200 miles away. We too, are human and would rather hear about some good news of wonderful roads, crops, and schools, etc. We know most of you people were deeply concerned and as the editor mentioned, now or anytime would be a good time to remind your senators and representatives about the road improvements most of them spoke about during the last election.

I'm no politician so maybe I better get back to the life of an Alabama farmer. Yes folks, I'm still a farmer and trying to do it southern style. We left a lot of good people and good soil behind us, but even by moving some 1200 miles we found a job on a good productive farm, which is located near Mobile, Alabama. It is about nine miles from Grand Bay, which is located on U. S. 90, the cross roads from the east and west coast.

Grand Bay, Alabama, is nationally known for its wonderful watermelons and pecans. On June 25th they held a watermelon festival, and there were trucks from practically every midwestern state. I noticed a few from Iowa, too. Melons then were selling for 1 to 1½ cents a pound. We heard that Iowans were paying five cents a pound for the same melons.

This farm has a total of 720 acres, over half of which is in cultivation and in rotation pasture. We have 52 acres of pecan trees, and around 180 acres of corn and 150 acres was in summer pasture, seeded to Sudan grass and millet. We put up a lot of Sudan grass for silage, and to me it makes good feed.

Silage is new in this country and I believe in years to come a lot more farms here will use silage for a reserve against drouth and frost. Usually along the coast we have a twelve growing season. However, the winter pastures have to be planted early in September and the first of October. It also takes a lot of fertilizer and a lot of soil preparation to establish winter and permanent pastures.

We have two trench silos. One of them we built this year. It is 140 feet long, 16 feet wide and 10 feet deep. We put around 250 tons of grass and corn silage in it. At the time we filled it we were delayed by rains so it took three of us a full two weeks to fill it.

Shamrocks Lose In Sectional Final To Kanawha Bulldogs

We have not been able to track down the facts on the last couple of games that the Klemme Shamrocks baseball team have been involved in, but we did manage to find out what the scores were.

In the finals of the sectional at Kanawha last Wednesday afternoon, the locals lost out by a score of 9 to 1. Errors accounted for a major portion of the Kanawha scores, and we were told that three runs is all that they really earned.

Friday afternoon, the Shamrocks were hosts to the Thornton team, and took their measure once again. Final score was 12 to 6, and Denny Haefner was on the mound all the way.

The Fertile nine is here this afternoon, and as we write this the game is in progress.

CORRECTION

THe Times was in error last week when it stated that tickets for the Turkey Supper the Methodist Women's Society is sponsoring would sell at $1.60 each. Tickets will sell at $1.00, the same as in past years.

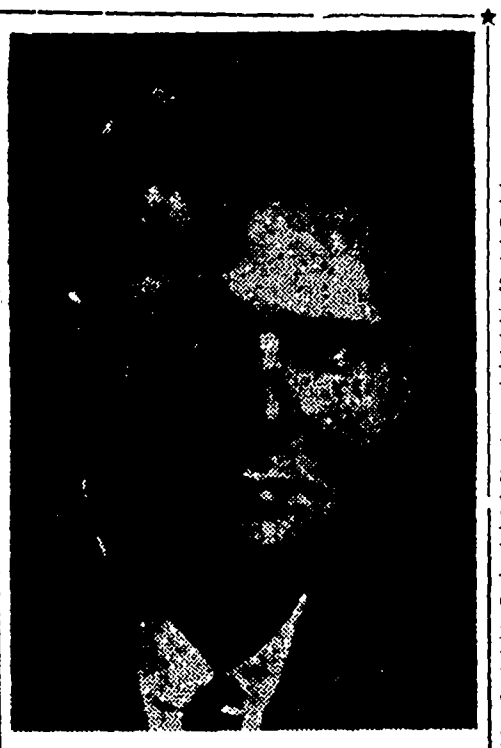
The dinner will be held on October 8, and the ladies will begin serving at 5:30 p. m.

Back From Two Harbors

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Quandt and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gast returned this week from Two Harbors, Minn. The Quandt's returned on Sunday, and the Gasts arrived back in Klemme, Tuesday evening.

Grandmothers' Club Met

The Klemme Grandmothers' Club met Monday night, Sept. 28, at the home of Mrs. Naska Bock, with 24 members present. Mrs. Louise Etchen was elected president for the coming year. Next meeting will be on Monday afternoon, October 26, at the home of Mrs. Louisa Wadingham.



DR. REUBEN K. YOUNGDAHL

Stork Club

Mr. and Mrs. Don Schaefer are the parents of a baby girl born at the Belmond Hospital at at 12:01 A. M., Monday, September 28th. She weighed seven pounds, one and one-quarter ounces. We haven't been able to learn what she has bees named, but her "Pop" has been dishing out cigars and carrying on just like a proud papa should. The Schaefers have one other girl in their family.

Field Clinic For Crippled Children At Forest City

Arrangements have been made for the forthcoming Field Clinic for Crippled Children to be held at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Forest City on Wednesday, October 7, with registration from 8:00 to 10:30 A. M. and 1:00 to 2:30 P. M. The clinic is for the children from Winebago and Hancock counties according to Miss Helen Lemke, Hancock County Public Health Nurse, who is assisting with the clinic.

Those eligible for service are children under 21 with such conditions as cerebral palsy, crippling orthopedic conditions, crippling conditions remediable by plastic surgery, poliomyelitis, rheumatic fever, diabetes, nephritis, convulsive disorders, speech and hearing defects, congenital heart disease, and other congenital anomalies.

The clinic was called by Dr. Roger I. Lienke, M. D. state services for crippled children, State University of Iowa. A report on the mobile field clinic examination will be sent promptly, and the family will be encouraged to discuss the findings and recommendations with their respective family doctors and the county public health nurse.

Town Election Will Be Held November 3rd

According to information received from A. R. Arnold, town clerk, an election will be held on November 3rd to determine who will be our town officials for the next term.

Just who will be candidates, we can't tell, as no one has filed any nomination papers as yet. Deadline for filing is October 6th.. Blanks can be had at the clerk's office.

Dr. Youngdahl To Be Guest Speaker

Dr. Reuben K. Youngdahl, pastor of the Mount Olivet Lutheran Church of Minneapolis, Minnesota, will be the guest speaker at the county-wide Reformation Day Service to be held in the Garner Memorial Building, Sunday, October 25.

This special interdenominational service, which will begin at 8:00 P. M., has been arranged by the cooperating pastors of the Hancock County Ministerial Association. The cooperative endeavor has brought to our area in years past such speaker as Dr. David Wesley Soper and Dr. J. J. Davies and the ministerial group feels most fortunate in bringing the nationally renowned Dr. Youngdahl to Hancock County this year.

Dr. Youngdahl is regarded by clergy and laymen alike as one of the leaders in the American church today. After graduating from Gustavus Adolphus College St. Peter, Minnesota and Augustana Seminary, Rock Island, Illinois. Dr. Youngdahl began his ministerial career in Marshalltown, Iowa, and in 1938 became pastor of Mount Olivet Lutheran Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota. In the fifteen years he has been pastor of Mount Olivet Church the congregation has grown from 300 to 7500 souls. The church was the first to be featured in a series of articles by the Christian Century magazine on the "Twelve Great Churches in America."

Aside from serving on many community church, school and charity committees, Dr. Youngdahl has taken time to write several books, "Going God's Way" and "A House for Tomorrow." During the last years he has traveled extensively around the world and has interviewed many outstanding personalities as President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Nehru of India, Aga Khan and others.

The Hancock Ministerial Association wishes to invite everyone from the county and surrounding area to this special Reformation Day Service, Sunday, October 25th, and hopes that as many as possible will share in hearing this stimulating religious leader of our day. Pastors from the county and choral groups from the area will also take part in this united service. Further details of the service will be announced later.

Hospital Auxiliary To Hold Silver Tea Oct. 7

A meeting and silver tea for members and guests of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hancock County Memorial Hospital will be held next Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 2 p. m. The meeting will be held in the laundry room at the hospital.

Mrs. James Engart, hospital auxiliary counselor from the Iowa State Hospital Association, will be present to explain the various ways in which the women can be of aid to the hospital.

A silver tea will be served in the hospital dining room after the meeting. All members and those wishing to become members are urged to attend.

Town election will be coming up on November third, and as yet no candidates have filed nomination papers. Better be getting at it. Deadline for filing is November 6th.

From now on until the corn is harvested this fall there will be farmers on the road with combines, corn pickers, wagons, trailer, and what have you. This tractor-drawn equipment doesn't move as fast as the regular traffic, and it's a good idea to keep your eyes open when traveling on country roads, especially at dusk. You can come over a hill at 50 or 60 miles an hour in your car and be on top of a piece of farm machinery before you know it.

After the long spell of dry weather that we have had in this section, trying to plow in stubble fields and meadow land, is almost like trying to plow in concrete. We've heard some mighty tall tales about how hard the ground is. Trouble is, most of them are true.

Some farmers are now picking corn to feed their hogs, and from now on until the corn is all picked, the chances of getting tangled up in a picker are going to be good. Treat that corn picker with care and respect. It is one of the most effective cripplers on the farm today. Best practice to follow is to shut it off when ever you get off the tractor.

We want to thank Mary Jane Jorgenson for leaving her business at Garner and coming down to see that The Times got out while we were on vacation. If she had not consented to help us, we would not have been able to take our trip.

We returned from our vacation trip to the state of Washington, last Tuesday evening. In all the excitement of getting out The Times last week, we forgot to mention that we were back. Our nephew, Dean Burgess accompanied us on the trip. We drove out to Spokane, where we spent a couple of days visiting at the home of our brother, C. A. Kilgore. Dad and Mother had been there for the past month and they returned to Klemme with us. We had a very enjoyable trip, and strange as it seems, in over 4,000 miles of driving we saw very little carelessness on the highway. Didn't see a single wreck, and are more against our narrow Iowa highway now than we were before. We saw some just as narrow as what we have, but for the most part, they were good, wide, easy to drive roads.

Since we have gotten home, we have been busy getting back into the swing of things here in the shop, and practicing for tonight's Lion Varieties. We haven't had time to write up any of the things that we saw while on the trip, but we hope to soon be able to tell you of some of the highlights of the trip.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

Wild driving teen-agers you hear about or may be unlucky enough to encounter on the public streets are not hot-rod—they are "squirrels."

This information comes by way of an exchange between the Road Knights, a group of safety-minded young drivers in Clinton, and the Clinton Herald. Said the Road Knights to the Herald:

"A hot-rodder is someone who builds up a car and makes it safer for himself and for his fellow drivers. He is a skilled or semi-skilled mechanic who knows what he is doing.

"A real hot-rodder does his dragging (racing) on a supervised drag strip and not on the highways as many people believe. People who do their racing on the highway or in town are called squirrels."

Extending that definition a little more, a "squirrel" turns out to be a driver who is not skilled and does not know what he is doing. That makes a number of adults, as well as a lot of teen-agers, eligible for the title.

After watching, for some years, the brutal work done by unskilled and ignorant drivers, we nominate "squirrel" as that rarest of all things—the right word.

We are dutifully adding "squirrel to the day's long list of driving "nuts."

10 YEARS AGO—

Donald J. Schaefer, a. s., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schaefer, who became the third member of the Schaefer family to join the navy recently, is now stationed at Farragut, Idaho.

Sgt. Melvin Schlei, of Pendeltcs, Oregon, is spending a furlough visiting with his brother, Kermit Schlei and family, and with other relatives and friends. Sgt. Schlei is a mechanic in the Air Corps and is stationed at the same field as Sgt. Graydon Back, another Klemme youth.

Elwyn Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jacobs of Klemme, is on the Simpson College football squad at Indianola, Iowa.

Lloyd Lau recently re-shingled his house. He says he also intends to fix up all his buildings and do some painting.

20 YEARS AGO—

Kenneth Bell was injured Friday afternoon when his right thumb became caught in a corn binder as he attempted to free a stalk of corn that became entangled near the rollers. He was brought to a local doctor's office and his thumb was amputated at the first joint. He is getting along nicely.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Emil Blumer invited the pupils and teacher of Liberty No. 5, and several neighborhood children to a party honoring her daughter, Marcelle, on her birthday. Dainty refreshments were served and the children enjoyed themselves very much.

The first white frost of the season was seen here Tuesday night. Roofs and low places were white with the season's first hard frost which killed the more tender plants.

Clarence Kluckhohn is assisting with the fall plowing at the Albert Schmidt farm.

30 YEARS AGO—

The fire at the Greimann Garage made a lot of rubbish but it is now about all cleared away and but little is left to show the ruins of the big blaze. John Etchen also has the ruins of his pool hall cleared away.

We are again enjoying some fine fall weather after the cold rainy spell of last week.

Mrs. N. L. Palmer went to Forest City last Friday for a few days visit at the home of E. P. Dow and Mrs. Schaefer.

The Levi Klotzbach family are now residing in the Lew Sampson house, and the house vacated by Levi is occupied by the Swift Co. station man.

Trapping Seasons Set By State Commission

The State Conservation Commission has announced that the trapping season for mink, muskrat, beaver, raccoon, skusk, opossum, civet cat and badger will open at 12 o'clock, November 10.

The mink, muskrat and beaver season will extend from noon of November 10 to midnight, December 9. An exception is the area of the Milwaukee railroad tracks from the north city limits of Mucatine to the Minnesota line, where an extended season on mink, muskrat and beaver will close, December 19.

Trapping of raccoon, skunk, badger, opossum and spotted skunk will extend 60 days, opening at noon on November 10 and closing midnight, January 10, 1954. There's a continuous closed season on otter, and a continuous open season on weasel, red fox, gray fox, ground hog and wolf-coyote.

Thought perhaps this picture might serve to jog your memory a little. It was taken by C. C. Kilgore in 1939, just after the Fire Department had purchased new uniforms to go with the new truck that was purchased in 1938.

Fred Bell and Lloyd Lau are the only ones still on the Fire Department. The only ones who no longer live in Klemme are Paul Mueller and Herman Paul.

Feature Article

Lew Hershey, a former circus clown, entertained the grades and high school at our first assembly program, September 22. He began his program by telling about a clown's makeup and demonstration how to apply it correctly. He first applyed a white creamy substance, consisting of lard and zinc oxide, smoothly over his entire face. He then drew eyebrows, nose, and mouth with regular makeup. He completed his costume with a wig, bow tie, and suit. Next he showed us several different clown costume's and some clown acts. One of his tricks was to pass through the keyhole of a padlock, although it proved to be four feet high. We all enjoyed the program, especially the lower grades.

Freshman News

In English and math we are reviewing what we had last year.

In science we're studying about air.

In home ec the girls have been learning different foods and food classes.

In shop the boys are getting ready to start their projects.

Dead-Eye Luke

Luke, the mountaineer, and his wife decided to take their first trip to the big city. As they drove down the highway in their old Model T, they saw a motorcycle speeding along. Luke stopped his car, and grabbing his shotgun, started shooting at the motorcycle. The motorcycle skidded and turned over, spilling the driver. Luke's wife called, "Did ye git it, Luke?" "Wal," replied Luke, "the durned critter let go of the man, but h'it's still a growlin'."

Sixth Grade News

The sixth grade had a B average in spelling again this week. With just a little more work we should reach our goal of an A average.

We had our first visitor this week. Mrs. Blau visited in our room Wednesday afternoon. We were glad to have her come.

Social Studies class is very interesting this year. We have started a new unit about Egypt and are finding that country quite fascinating.

We have received a nice collection of new books for our library and find it hard to wait while some of our classmates prepare them for circulation.

See Possibility Of Football For Klemme School

Girls' Sports

It is the same all the way around, but there was a little change in it this week. The girls went across the street to the Reformed Church and played volly ball on their court. We all had quite a time and got a lot of laughs out of the way some af us served the ball. Yesterday it was the same grind again. Playing soft ball behind the school house. It has been said that girls basketball starts the first of October so lets have all you girls out for it to trim down your waist line so you'll have something to build onto next spring again. If you don't know how to play it now you can't learn any younger and our team can't get ahead on girls that don't want to learn how.

Junior News

Drivers Training: Figuring out horse power has been our latest problem. All of us now have our instruction permits and are hoping to get our car by the last of the week.

Economics: We are still saving away trying to learn abuot utility, variety, and satisfying our desires.

Literature: We had a vocabulary test over the English short stories that we have been studing.

Typing: We are still hammering away trying to learn all the keys. We have taken a few time tests, but we won't say anything about them.

Algebra: Nothing but factorisg and more factoring.

Sociology: We have been studying the chapter "Personality Types Are a Factor in Social Adjustment."

Play: FATHER'S WIFE is the name of the junior class play which will be presented October 14 at 8:00. It is a three act comedy and should be very entertaining.

Eighth Grade News

In arithmetic we are studying square roots and reviewing fractions.

Monday and Tuesday we gave reports on books we have been reading.

In language we are studying about how to use an index and glossary.

In spelling the following received A's: Roger, Larry, Joyce, and Jeanne, and Karen.

In science we are studying about storms and weather conditions.

In health we are studying about the digestion of food.

In history we were studying about the Constitution and Convention at Philadelphia.

In our art period we learned how to make a perfect circle with square line.

Seventh Grade News

At last the light is beginning to dawn on us, and we are having better luck in picking out subjects and predicates in language.

We have been spending most of our time in arithmetic reviewing things we forgot during the summer. The only new work we've taken is changing fractions to decimals to fractions.

We have had several interesting experiments in science demonstrating the properties of air.

In reading we have been trying to improve our vocabulary. In our first vocabulary test those having a perfect paper were: Gaylon Bridges, Judith Gilpin, Virginia Kudje, Cozette Lau, Mardell Stadtlander, and Marlin Stadtlander.

Fifth Grade News

This year our geography and history classes are combined into social studies. We have been studying about the early explorers. Many of these men found things which are in our unit.

Our arithmetic books are new this year. They are Upton Fuller's. So far we've reviewed addition and subtraction problems. Now we are working on multiplication problems. We learned several new ways to figure out our times tables if we forget them.

We have new spelling workbooks. They are called Goals In Spelling. These new books make us use two week's words each week.

Melva Johnson and Joanne Trampel brought birthday treats for us on their birthdays.

Senior Interview

Lois Helps was born November 19, 1936 northeast of Klemme. During her first seven years of school she attended a country school near her place. In 1947 she started to Klemme Public School.

Lois, who is often called "Joe" or "Helps", has brown hair and brown eyes. Her height is 5 feet 5½ inches, and she weighs about 130 pounds. Some of the activities she has been in are: Glee Club for three years twirling for three years and she plans on going out for it again this year. She has been on the Student Council for two years her junior and senior years.

Her favorite pastimes are roller skating, dancing, and going to the movies. The band she likes to dance to is Guy Lombardo. "Joe's" favorite singers are Rosemary Clooney and Eddie Fischer. "Hey Joe" and "With These Hands" are her favorite songs, and "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" has been her favorite movie so far. For movie stars she likes Tony Curtis and Jane Wyman.

When asked the question what her most embarrassing moment was she replied, "I can't think of any right now, but I have had many. During the years she has found that she doesn't like people who think they're better than others, and her pet saying is "For heavens sake." Right now Lois doesn't have any future plans in particular.

New Conference Has Two Teams Already In Action

As Klemme has joined the North Star, an athletic conference that supports high school sports such as: football, basketball, the formation of a Klemme Football Team is definitey being considered and planned. Dows and Ventura already have football, and if Sheffield, Rockwell, and Latimer start a team next year, we feel that if Klemme wants a team, they should start when these other towns do for then there will be equal competion as they will all have been started the same year.

A census will be taken to determine if we have enough boys for a football team, and if we have, all efforts will be made to establish one.

It is the opinion of your editors and practically everyone else around K. H. S. that a football team would greatly benefit us, both as a school and as individuals. It's a good clean sport and one in which I am sure most of you boys will be anxious to take part, but for you few who don't agree, may I ask you, "Where's your sense of sport, fun and school spirit?" Wake up and get in on something worthwhile. It is our hope to have the approval and support of all you parents. I am sure that after we would get a football team in full swing, every one of you would agree with me in saying, "I think it's a grand idea."

Music News

As the 8:30 buzzer rings, students hurry to band to have their daily 'Jam and Gab Fest' before sitting down to business. The band is working on a number of semi-popular, and mostly classical music for the concert. Many a time some very sour notes can be heard emerging from that "coop". We hope they will disappear before concert time, though.

The Boys Glee Club has finally become somewhat organized. There are eighteen members so far. The shocking thing seems to be that there is only one senior. Are the underclassmen railroading us?? Come on senior boys, let's not let that happen!

Sophomore News

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

Guess who Robert Cavitt has a crush on, That's right, Barbara Avery. No wonder your so late for hot lunches every noon, Robert.

There's a rumor going around that Marlene Blumer and Gary Day are making eyes at each other, could this be true??

These Senior girls sure do like to wear other people's rings. Lois Jacobs is wearing Don's, Jo Ann Bacon is wearing Donnie Thiemann's, Darlene Roul has Durane's, Janice has Gene's, Lois has Francis's.

I hear Jo Ellen and Roger B. are going together, could this be true!!

Somebody told me that Jo Ann Bacon had better watch Donnie and Darlene or she will be sorry. So, watch your man, Jo Ann.

Daisy's birthday is this Thursday and Joan L. and she are really planning a big night at the surf. But it is still udecided who Daisy is going to go with, Larry or the other one. Oh well, time will tell.

Graydon Barz is getting to be a regular visitor at Carol's house. But I don't hear any complaints from Carol so it must be alright.

Ione and Gordon, Pete and Beverly, Gracka and Lee, Sharleen and Larry, were really packed in that car Sunday afternoon. How do you like having to sit on other people's laps, Gracka? ? ? ? ?

I suppose Lois Jacobs will really keep the mail man busy now that Don has left for college. Cheer up, Lois, he'll get to come home on week ends.

The initiation party turned out to be quite a success. don't you think so, Roger T. You looked like you enjoyed yourself talking to Faye Janssen. Too bad she doess't come to Klemme to school any more.

Terry K. really gets around now, doesn't he? I think he danced with almost every girl at the party, Friday night.

These seniors sure have a time deciding where they want their pictures. At the rate they are going, I doubt whether they will ever get around to having them taken.

We had 40 acres in oats that were cut for hay. Most people here harvest their oats around June 1st. Then follow the oats with soy beans. This may interest you farmers—they apply 400 pounds of 4-10-7 when they plant their soybeans. That is a lot of fertilizer but in return their average yield under normal weather conditions will run around 35 bushels. I heard of 50 bushel yields last year but will wait to see them first.

I struck a little bit of luck while working here. I started working here a week after arriving, and after working for three months was promoted to manager. At present there are four of us working the farm. We have plenty to do all of the time and right now we are busy picking corn and preparing land for winter pasture. The corn is averaging 65 bushels an acre.

We are feeding 75 head of cattle and have over 100 head of hogs. We also have another 125 head of cows and around 70 head of calves on pasture. We hope to feed out 150 head of cattle next year and raise at least 250 hogs.

That about covers the farm program, except I might add that the man that owns this farm also owns and operates the Constantine's Restaurant in Mobile. The restaurant is supposed to be noted for its fine steaks and wonderful food (nationally, that is.) Now those steaks are really wonderful and mainly because we produce and fatten the steers out here "Iowa Style."

I forgot to mention, a part-time job I have, is making broad casts, 10 tape-recordings, made with different farmers around Mobile. We usually interview and make the recordings during the week and broadcast at 6:00 o'clock every Saturday morning. They are aired on station WKRG in Mobile. 710 on your dial. I doubt if any of you could ever pick it up though. We can get WHO here once in awhile but there seems to be too much interference.

I'll close now by wishing all of you a lot of luck. We do miss Klemme and wish to invite any of our friends to drop by and visit us any time.

Sincerely,
John, Frances, Little John, and Ray Schwichtenberg.

My sincere thanks to all the good people of Klemme who have made my time in the hospital more pleasant for me. Your cards, letters, flowers, gifts, and visits have made the time seem much shorter than it would otherwise have been.

Dr. J. D. Baker 1tc

We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone in the entire community for the wonderful cooperation and friendliness that they have shown us during the time we lived here. Work among such congenial folk has been a pleasure, and the way in which we were accepted into the community will leave us with a soft spot in our hearts for Klemme always.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Jones

Ell Tip Toppers

The Ell Tip Toppers held their 4-H meeting at the home of Betty and Barbara Clayton. The meeting was called to order by telling what kind of ribbons we got at the County Achievement Show. There were eighteen old members and six new members present.

We elected new officers. They are: President, Gracka Gerardi; Vice president, Lavohn Josten; Secretary, Elaine Jurgemeyer; Treasurer, Joyce Thiemann; Historian, Carol Humphrey; and Reporter, Jane Renner.

Next we had demonstrations and talks. Doreen Lackore and Carol Humhrey gave a team demonstration on sewing. Maurine Johnson and Rosalie Rosendahl gave a team demonstration on dividing dresser drawers. A talk was given by Virginia Kudje on "How to Hang Pictures". Rosalie Rosendahl gave a talk on "Achievments to Make this Year to Reach Our Goal".

We wish to welcome all of our new members.

Reporter, Virginia Kudje

Auxiliary To Meet

The Legion Auxiliary will meet next Tuesday, October 6th, at the home of Mrs. Esther Hess. Mrs. Lena Lewis is co-hostess.

At Jefferson, the fire department found a grass fire with a new "twist" recently. This one was on wheels. A five ton load of straw caught fire on the Vince Leonard farm as it was being hauled out for unloading.

Board Proceedings Hancock County

13TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa
September 2,1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clarence Bird, Clinton D. Daniels and S. A. Barber present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion by Supervisor Bird and second by Supervisor Barber the transfer of $30,000.00 from the Road Construction Fund to the Road Maintenance Fund is hereby approved.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 54-121, Main.

On motion and second the bond of Ralph H. Wallace Construction Engineer on D. D. No. 159, the contract of Yohn & Stone, bridge contractors of Britt, Iowa; and the contractor's bond of Robson & Fritz of Nemaha, Iowa on D. D. No. 8 West Main and Lateral No. 5, are hereby approved.

On motion and second the contract and agreement concerning bridge construction by and between Hancock County and Robert Loock is hereby approved.

REGULAR SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
September 14, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date as provided by law with Clint Daniels, S. A. Barber and Clarence Bird present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the bonds of Chester S. Rice and Rufus C. Welter, members of the Soldier's Relief Commission for terms of three years, are hereby approved.

On motion and second Wm. Henschen of Garner is hereby appointed Preliminary Engineer to make an investigation into the necessity and feasibility of the establishment of a sub-drainage district of D. D. No. 155, by tile drains, through lands listed in the petition and petitioned for by E. F. Bock, et al, which petition was filed September 12, 1953. Said Engineer to report to this Board at his earliest convenience.

On motion and second tax suspension notice case No. 41-627 is hereby approved.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 9, Main and Lat. No. 3.

On motion and second the resolution on the tax sale deed on lots 1 and 2, block 2, Lentengre's addition to Corwith by and between Hancock County and Gloria H. Adams is hereby approved.

On motion and second the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of letting to be published on the leasing of SE¼ of Section 27-96-26, Orthel Township, for a period of one year from and after March 1, 1954. Said letting to be held at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa at 1:30 P.M. on the 12th day of October 1953. The Board reserves the right to waive technicalities and to reject any or all bids.

This being the 14th day of September 1953, a date heretofore set for a hearing on the report of C. F. Merten and Wm. Henschen, recommending that the contracts of Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City, Iowa for labor on D. D. No. 38 and on road ditch work, Sec. 8, Britt Twp. be accepted as complete, and final estimates in the sum of $208.65 for road ditch work and for $179.57 for D. D. No. 38 cleanout be paid, the hour for said hearing having arrived and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. There were no written objections on file and no objectors appeared at the hearing.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors that the report of the Engineers recommending final payment on the contracts of Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City for labor on D. D. No. 38 and road work be approved, is approved, and final estimates ordered paid as by law directed.

WHEREAS Wm. Henschen, Engineer, has to report that Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City has completed his contract for labor on Jt. D. D. No. 37-39 to his entire satisfaction and there is due on said contract a final estimate in the sum of $1432.38 from Hancock County and $299.76 from Winnebago County.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County that the report of the Engineer be and the same is hereby approved and further hearing on the report will be held at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa at 1:30 P.M. on the 2nd day of October 1953. The County Auditor is hereby directed to cause notice of such hearing to be published as by law directed.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Barber, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Dainels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to September 21, 1953 at 9 o'clock A.M.

What is the difference between normal and cancerous growth?

Growth, in the sense of increase in size, normally occurs progressively from conception to maturity; but after full growth is attained, the building of tissue (except fat) is limited to the replacemen of worn-out cells. We don't know the life expectancy of all cells but there is evidence that red blood cells live about four months, and must be replaced by new cells, so that the number in the body remains practically constant during health. This cell replacement is gradual but continuous at least until old age appears. Moreover, normal cells carry out their alloted role in the proper functioning of the body; they behave like useful members of a community, like good citizens in the body politic.

The great majority of cancers appear in mature individuals where growth normally is limited to replacement of worn-out cells. When a cell becomes cancerous, it divides more rapidly than is necessary to provide replacement and soon produces an over-growth, or tumor. During accelerated growth the adjacent normal tissues are destroyed (malignancy), and the cancer cells lose the ability to carry out the function of the cells from which they orginated.

The malignant cells appear also to take up nutritive materials more readily than normal cells, and so gradually deprive the latter of elements necessary even for replacement, until the rest of the body suffers from malnutrition (the final phase of Cancer. The cancer cells not only fail to carry on any useful function, but by robbing normal cells of available nutriment lead to the death of the whole organism. They are gangsters, who, in their efforts to make the rest of the community support them in workless luxury, bring death not only to the community but to themselves

Will smoking cause cancer?

Some informed researhers think so, although it is still premature to make a definite pronoucement one way or the other.

Don't Neglect Garden, Home Grounds—

Your Outdoor Housekeeping

This homemaker and her youngsters are pulling out annuals that have died so as to feature the African marigolds that are in bloom.

In many ways, fall is one of our loveliest seasons, and you can help Mother Nature considerably on your home grounds by not letting down on your outdoor housekeeping. At least that's the opinion of Margherita Tarr, Iowa State College extension landscape architect, who notes that a good many Iowa families who took a late-summer vacation haven't yet caught up with the weeds that shot up and the flowers that stopped blooming while they were away.

The lush growing and blooming season is past, but there are still many beautiful plants in bloom in Iowa home gardens—fall asters, showy sedum, chrysanthemums, and some of the all-season blooming annuals like petunias and marigolds. Show them off to good advantage by clearing out dead and dying flower stalks and keeping seed pods cut off.

Pull up weeds every time you glimpse one, because if you put it off you may forget where you saw it, Don't give them a chance to go to seed and cause lots of trouble and extra work next spring and summer.

Save Flower Seeds

You might want to save the seeds of the flowers you had this year. It's better to control their location by seeding them yourself instead of letting them seed themselves willy-nilly on their own.

One perennial you especially shouldn't let go to seed is phlox. If you have some of the newer white and salmon pink varieties and they seed themselves, the little seedlings that appear next spring will be the common magenta variety. These are stronger difficult to combine well with pink varieties and will eventually choke them out. Magenta-colored flowers are usually rather difficult to combine well with some of the other flowers.

Water the Shrubs

There are lots of jobs to call you out of the house during the delightfuly snappy fall days ahead. Just before the first hard freeze is predicted, water all woody plants so that they'll go into the winter moist. This is to help prevent winter killing. Where drouth has been severe, start watering now. This is especially importantt for evergreens.

Examine all your trees closely. If there are any dead ror broken branches, see if you can get the men folks to help you prune them.

If you edge your walk, cut off the grass wherever it grows over the sidewalk, but don't cut a wide, deep wedge along the side. Weed seeds and leases will just collect in the little trough, and it's also dangerous if you happen to step off the walk.

Don't Burn Leaves

When it comes time for raking up the leaves that pattern your lawn, don't burn them. Instead, plow them into your vegetable garden or compost them. Most Iowa soil can make good use of the humus supplied by dead and rotting leaves. Or if you really do have no such use for the leaves, be sure not to burn them near shrubs or trees, for the heat and flame could do extensive damage to them. But be sure to keep the lawn clear of leaves for the benefit of the grass.

Look around your home grounds. There's probably lots of work to be done—enough to keep you busy at a task or two each lovely fall day, until the first snow flies.

Farewells Held For Gilbert Jones Family

Mrs. Bert Jones was pleasantly surprised Friday afternoon by a group of fourteen neighbor women who came to wish her good luck in her new home. The event was planned by Mrs. Sarah Goll and Mrs. Marvin Meints and all the ladies brought well-filled baskets. Mrs. Dale Linahon baked and decorated a beautiful cake with forget-me-nots on the top and the words "Good luck". The ladies presented Mrs. Jones with a gift and spent the afternoon visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones and Douglas were honored at a reception after choir practice on Thursday evening. The choir members and their wives and husbands were hosts. The time was spent socially after which refreshments were served. A short talk and prayer was given by Rev. Jaberg, followed by a response from each of the Jones'. In closing, the group sang, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds". Mrs. Jones and Douglas have been members of the choir, and the family will leave this week-end for their new home at Tama.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schlei and children entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bert Joens and Marie Blank at a chicken dinner last Saturday evening. This was a farewell courtesy for the Jones family who will be moving away from Klemme.

Twin Lake Go Getters

A meeting of the Twin Lake Go Getters 4-H Club was held at the home of Faye Janssen on September 12th.

We had roll call with two members, one leader, and eight visitors present. The minutes were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given with a balance of $30.24. All joined in with the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

We decided to keep on selling cards to earn money for our club. The following were elected to office for the ensuing year: Pres. Marcella Nuehring; Vice Pres. Marsha Watne; Sec. and Treas., Dorothy Roul; Reporter, Faye Janssen and historian Betty Lauden.

A lunch was served by the hostess. Next meeting will be with Betty Lauden on October 10th.

Klemme Marine Gets Purple Heart

Marine Private First Class Gene Stevens, left, son of Mrs. H. W. Shoop, formerly of Klemme, now of Irving, Texas, is presented the Purple Heart Medal by Major General Randolph McC. Pate, commanding general of the 1st Marine Division, for wounds received in action against Chinese Communist forces in Korea.

March of Dimes Nets $2,875 for County Unit

A March of Dimes Check for $2875.00 has been received by the Hancock County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to help provide care for polio patients here, it was announced by Joe Osman, County Chairman.

This financial help comes as part of a general National Foundation arrangement to provide needy chapters with immediate emergency aid, Mr. Osman said.

He explains that the March of Dimes funds raised each January are shared with national headquarters finances research, epidemic services, professional education and emergency aid to chapters.

We have in Hancock County, he said, a good example of how the local chapter and national headquarters work together to fight infantile Paralysis. The money we send to national headquarters can be used to fight polio elsewhere. If we run in the red, the national Foundation will pull us out even if it means advancing us more money than we were able to raise in the March of Dimes.

Mr. Osman said it is quite possible that the local chapter may require even further aid from national headquarters.

The polio rate has declined from last year's peak, but it still is riding a six-year crest. Gamma globulin has proved to be an effective weapon in fighting polio but the supply is limited, and no vaccine has yet been prefected for general use although great progress is being made towards that goal.

Therefore, we must not fall down in our efforts to help pay for direct medical care for polio suffers.

The chapter at present is providing funds, in whole or in part, for the care of 11 patients stricken this year, in addition to three who contracted polio in previous years.

Joe Osman, Chairman.

Possibility Of Gas For Klemme By Next Year

Roy Schaefer recently has had correspondence with the Peoples Natural Gas Company with regard to gas for Klemme.

In a letter from Ray L. Harrison, president of the company the following information was received:

The company has made application to the Federal Power Commission to build a distribution system in Klemme, and had hoped that they would get an order permitting them to go ahead by this fall. However, no such order has been forthcoming.

They have men in Washington in connection with the application and are hopeful that a permit will be granted in time to allow construction to begin promptly in the spring.

W. S. C. S. Met Thursday In Church Parlors

The regular meeting of the W. S. C. S. was held in the Church parlors, Thursday afternoon, October 1, 1953 with forty-six members present.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Robert Schulz and the lesson, "Ways in Which Church Meets Need Around the World" was presented by Mrs. Lester Neuberger.

Little Glen Schulz sang, "Jesus Loves Me". Franklin Neuberger played a piano solo, "Rock of Ages" and "Bells are Ringing".

Mrs. Vern Bisom sang a solo, "Open Mine Eyes".

Plans were completed for the turkey supper to be held on Thursday, October 8th.

Plans were also made for the "Christmas Party" for home missions and ophan's homes to be given on Thursday afternoon, October 15th. Ladies are all urged to come and bring their gifts for this worthy cause.

Lunch was served by the Naomi Circle.

Large Barn Burns At E. J. Arnold Home

Fire, apparently caused by spontaneous combustion, destroyed a large barn, a small house, and several stacks of hay and straw at the E. J. Arnold farm southeast of Klemme, Monday noon. A silo, full of grass silage, was also damaged to the extent that it might not be of any further use.

The buildings destroyed were at the east end of the Arnold improvements, and the fire, which started during the noon hour, wasn't noticed by the Arnolds until neighbors began coming into the yard. By that time it was too late to do anything about saving the barn, but everyone went to work to do what they could about saving other nearby small buildings and hay stacks. Arrival of the Klemme Fire Department aided considerably in helping to keep the blaze from spreading into a nearby cornfield. One burning ember was carried by the high wind to a spot nearly a half mile away, where it set a stubble field on fire, but quick work by neighbors extinguished it before it had done too much damage.

Mr. Arnold stated that some 200 tons of hay and straw went up in the blaze.

Shamrocks Close Season With Win At Fertile

In their closing baseball game of the season, the Klemme Shamrocks had to come from behind to gain a 12 to 11 victory over Fertile at the Fertile diamond last Friday.

In winning, tht Shamrocks got eight hits and committed five errors, while Fertile got 8 hits and made four errors.

In the ten games that the Shamrocks played this fall, their win record was very good. They won eight while losing only two.

Lions Varieties Was Well Attended; Gross Will Be Close To $550

A crowd of approximately 575 persons was on hand at the Klemme High School gymnasium last Wednesday evening to see the "Lion Varieties", put on by the local Lions Club. Judging from the amount of laughter and the favorable comment heard, the crowd must have enjoyed themselves.

If they did, then the show was a success in more ways than one. After tax and expenses are taken from a gross of nearly $550, there should be some over $400 left. Twenty-five percent of this is to go to the Music Mothers and tweny-five percent to the Legion-Auxiliary. The other fifty percent will remain with the Lions Club to aid in further good works for the community.

The show seemed to move pretty fast, and with a little accordion music mixed in for variety, apparently satisfied the audience. It was the first show of its kind ever to be put on in Klemme, and members of the Lions Club are happy that it went over so well, both in audience reception and financially. Talk has already begun among the members about what kind of a show to put on next year.

Harriet Buss Bride At Cedar Falls

Miss Harriet Virginia Buss, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Buss of Cedar Falls, became the bride of Pvt. Donald W. Schatzberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schatzberg of Cedar Falls, Sunday afternoon in a ceremony performed by her father.

The wedding occurred at 4 o'clock at Washington Chapel in Cedar Falls.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Edgar Buss of Klemme. She attended Iowa State Teachers College, and is employed by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The groom is in the army.

Cook Only Candidate For Mayor's Office

Tuesday's deadline for filing nomination papers for candidates for town offices passed with only one ticket being filed. Mayor Cook heads the ticket, and councilmen are Roy I. Schaefer, Frank Schulz, Henry Buseman, W. F. Pavey, and Byrnes Lemke. Martin Barz is on the ticket as treasurer.

With the exception of Pavey and Lemke, these are pretty much the same officials that we have at present. The only new councilmen are W. F. Pavey and Byrnes Lemke. Fred J. Arnold, who is at present on the council, did not choose to be a member of tha body again, and Martin Barz, who is presently on the council, is running for the treasurer's post. Allen Barz, is treasurer now, but did not care to have the job again.

Election will be on November third, and it looks as though the candidates who have filed will be unopposed.

"Keep Montana Green!" "Use Your Ashtray!" "Don't Be A Flipper!"

These were the kind of reminder signs that we saw along the highways in the lumbering states of the northwest. The reason for these signs are all too obvious. A major portion of the income for these states is derived from their forests. If a fire gets out of control, it burns and wastes millions of feet of lumber which can only be replaced by replanting. Then it takes years and years for the trees to grow to a suitable size for the making of lumber.

Besides the fact that lumber is wasted, there is a terrific loss of wild game, and sometimes the toll of human lives taken is appalling. We passed through one area that had burned in 1910. 87 lives were lost in that fire. We don't know when the area had been replanted, but the timber was still only about half grown.

We don't know how much of an area might be burned over if a fire were to get started in the fields of Iowa, but we do remember that there were lots of fires along about this time last fall. None of them in this area were very serious, but they could have been.

We know we can't keep Iowa green, because most of the green is gone for this year, but we can use our ashtrays and cut down the chances of a serious fire getting started. Roadside ditches and fields are dry and would burn like tinder if they once got a start.

For what it is worth, we have known cases where a bird picked up a cigarette butt, still with live coals, and dropped it in a spot where it could get a start. A good idea would be to make sure that your cigarette is out when you dispose of it. That extra few seconds might be the means of saving some farmer's corn crop . . . and quite possibly a set of buildings.

Fire prevention week got off to a poor start here.

Since we wrote the above, there has been a serious fire in this vicinity. When the large barn at the E. J. Arnold farm burned Monday, some 200 tons of hay and straw were destroyed, a silo damaged . . . possibly beyond repair, and a small house was consumed by the flames. It took hard work to keep the fire from getting a start in stubble and corn fields, but with neighbors pitching in along with the Fire Department, the blaze was kept pretty well confined.

Fire on the loose is a vicious thing, and we hope that the loss at the Arnold farm will serve as a reminder to others in this community. Be careful with your cigarettes, camp fires, and trash burners.

Business as usual was the rule after the Yanks took the world series from the Dodgers, Monday. Lot's of sports minded people were having a hard time trying to work and keep track of the ball games as well.

Only one ticket for the coming town election was filed by the Tuesday deadline, so it looks like it will be a quiet affair.

We enjoyed taking part in the Lions Varieties staged last Wednesday night at the Klemme High School Gymnasium . . . and we think the other Lions enjoyed themselves, too.

Being a Lion, our editorial comment is apt to be slightly biased, but it did seem to us that those in the audience were really enjoying themselves. We feel that for a first attempt, the varieties were very well received, and we have no doubt but what the club will be encouraged to "cook up" a show again next year.

10 YEARS AGO—

The J. W. Johnsons are retiring from their farm and so will sell their livestock and machinery on Monday, October 11, beginning at 1:00 P. M.

"Cap" Blank and Miss Nadine Kimball drove to Boone, Sunday, for a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kimball and family.

Klemme relatives have received word that John Clements and Alvin Keeper have both reached their destination safely in England. Both Klemme men are in the U. S. Army.

Sunday evening callers in the Dan Webner home were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schlawin and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Palmer and Dottie, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kinsella and family.

20 YEARS AGO—

Carl Wolfe returned to his work at his barber shop, Monday, after being forced to take a layoff of about two weeks on account of illness.

Fred J. Arnold returned to Britt, Tuesday, to resume his work at the Pritchard Garage, after being ill at his home here for few days.

For the month of September, a total of 12 car loads of grain were shipped out of Kemme. Both corn and oats were incuded in the shipments.

Miss Geraldine Smid reported for jury duty at the Court House, Tuesday morning. Jurors are to report again Thursday morning.

30 YEARS AGO—

The old time dance held at the Idle Hour Theatre last Thursday night was well attended. All had a fine time and the music furnished by Nolte Bros. and Jennison was fine.

The basket social and program at the high school gymnasium, Friday night was well attended and the program was greatly enjoyed. The baskets did not sell as well as was expected. Bid 'em up next time boys!

Fishing has been good at Clear Lake the past several days and local sports have been bringing in some fine catches.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gram, who left for California in their car a few weeks ago, are on their way back to Klemme and are expected almost any day.

Jolly Workers Club

The Jolly Workers Club met at the home of Ruth Bachman for their September meeting. Sixteen members were present.

Irene took orders for the Christmas cards. We sent flowers to Georgiana Bruhl who was in the Belmond Hospital. All agreed to send Mrs. Green's mother a get well card as she is a shut-in.

We plan to send a box of cookies to Woodward Hospital.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess with Luella Boelman as co- hostess.

The October meeting will be at the home of Mae Blumer with Verbel Gilpin as co-hostess.

the Highway Story
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

The two men could have lived out their lives without one suspecting the existence of the other or caring much.

Frank owned three small clothing stores in different towns and spent his time traveling from store to store, chasing a dream of expansion. Beyond his business, he saw nothing.

After spending a couple of high-speed hours driving through the country, he probably could have told you the grass had been green and the sky blue but little more than that.

Lester owned a farm on a highway, but his interests stopped at his fence lines. Day after day he spread his working life over his acres and the world beyond was simply a place where the dim consumer lived.

One day about this time of year, Frank was driving between stores racing, as always, after the vision of more business. He didn't notice that the fields around him had come to harvest; he didn't notice the men and machines moving down the corn rows in nearly every field.

Lester was driving a tractor on the same highway, pulling a wagon load of corn. The traffic that moved around him was something from that other world beyond his farm and he ignored it.

He had just gone under the crest of a small hill when Frank came up behind him. Frank's dream of business flared out when he hit the wagon. Lester's world of the farm darkened when he was thrown into the ditch and the tractor came over on him.

If Frank had been aware of anything beyond his business, he would have expected farm machines on the highways this time of year and slowed down.

If Lester had been aware, he would have raised a pole topped with a red flag on his wagon. Both died because neither cared to much.

EDITORIAL

For the last few years, one of the main topics of discussion in the student council has been monthly dances. The majority of the students are generally in favor of them, but when the time comes to see how many are going to come, not very many say they will. When we do have a dance most of the students just sit on the bleachers and watch those that do dance. This year the question of monthly dances has come up again. If the student council plans one let's all come and get out on the floor and dance. I'll admit we are doing better, but there is still room for improvement. If you don't know how to dance there are plenty who know how and will teach you. Now is the best time to learn. If you want dances make the job easier for the student council by giving them some support.

Sophomore News

Biology: Different structures and uses of the Monocot and Dicot stem has been our study this week.

Algebra: We're still doing simple equations.

History: We finished up the study of the Greeks and started the study of the Romans.

Literature: Reading many different stories has been our work this week.

Eighth Grade News

In reading we are going to give reports on what we have read.

In science we are studing weather forecasting.

In history we are making questions about our lesson and asking them to the class.

Monday we are to have a unit test in English.

In health we are learning about the digestive system.

We are doing long division in arithmetic.

We played a game with Kanawha Thursday afternoon. The score was Kanawha 20, Klemme 8. OOOOH! THOSE SHAMROCKS!

? ? of the Week

Would you like to have a snake dance before the first basketbkall game?

Lois Christians: It would be all right if everyone would take part in it.

JoAnn Bacon: Yes, have a snake dance and end up having a big pep meeting.

Kay Burk: It would be all right.

Lyle Panhoff: Yes.

Carole Montgomery: Yes, I think it would be fun to have a snake dance. It would be different.

Harriett Anderson: Yes, I think it would be all right. If the kids would all come and practice up yelling.

Lois Boland: Yes, we need something that'll give us pep and school spirit. Everyone should participate and then it would be a lot more fun.

Janice Stokesbary: Yes, it would be all right. We might as well learn the yells before the games.

Gary Lenz: Yes, I think it would be all right.

Ronnie Karsjens: Yes, If I can hold Lois H. hand.

Janice Swanson: Yes, It would be something different and it would probably draw more students to the game.

Shirley Barz: Yes, I think a snake dance or a pep meeting on main street would be fun.

Carol Bridges: Yes, a snake dance would be a lot of fun and something different.

First Grade

Melford Velau and Mark Neuberger have had birthday parties at their houses on Saturdays. Most of the boys and girls went to them. We made birthday cakes for them in school.

We went for an Autumn walk last week. We learned many things about Autumn. We gathered cones and pretty colored leaves. We drew pictures of what we saw.

In reading the Cardinals have finished reading We Look and See and have started the book We Work and Play.

Senior Interview

Darlene Roul has brown hair, brown eyes, and is often called "Dar". She is sixteen years old and was born March 15, 1937 just north-west of Garner. She is five feet three and one-half inches tall and weighs "too much".

Darlene attended grade schools north-west of Garner, and at Klemme Public Schools during her seventh year of school, as at this time she moved southeast of Klemme where she now lives.

Roller skating, movies, and dancing are "Dar's" favorite pastimes. Her favorite actress and actor are Jane Powell, and Tony Curtis. "Crying in the Chapel" is one of the new songs that has recently come to be her favorite. Her favorite singer is Rose Mary Clooney.

During the past few years Darlene has collected salt and pepper shakers and also has done some knitting as a hobby.

The high school activities that Dar has participated in are: band freshman year; Girls Glee Club, sophomore year; and Mixed Chorus, junior year.

When asked what her most embarrassing moment was she replied,"Too many to tell and all too embarrassing to tell." Her pet peeve is people who get mad over something for nothing. Darlene's favorite saying is "Gee Whiz".

Darlene has not made any future plans as yet.

Music News

On Monday and Tuesday, tryouts were held in the gym. In case everyone doesn't know what tryouts are, I will give you a brief summary. Mr. Whitford passes out sheets of music to each member of the band, then during the following week they play individually for him and two student judges. The judges rate them and hand their scores in to Mr. Whitford, who adds up the points determining who has first chair and etc....

ANNOUNCEMENT

Jerry Music Mouse is the proud father of nine little gray mice.

BORN WHERE... In the piano in the chicken coop.

TIME... undetermined

FATHER... is recuperating fine.

MOTHER... no statement, ran away.

DESTINY... I'm afraid they made a quick trip to the Biology Lab.

Jerry feels hurt as Gracka doesn't seem to appreciate his little ones, as she kept standing on chairs at Glee Club on Tuesday. I'm afraid you'll have to apologize, Gracka???

Fourth Grade

Those to return their signed dental cards are James Clements, Billy Clabaugh, Clarice Ann Arnold, Inez Nuehring, Keith Christians, and James Bock.

Last week we weighed and measured each other and put our findings on a chart. We plan to do this every two months to see how much we grow.

In social studies we are studying the people of the Amazon region. We really enjoyed studying their habits.

Arithmetic is a little review of last year. We are multiplying and dividing by two's and three's. We want to be able to do this perfectly before we go to the four's.

The teacher tested our eyes, so a report could be made to the county nurse.

Senior News

In our study of the beginning of American Literature we are discussing the settlement of North America, and why the American Literature which developed in the first two hundred years was not what is truly literature but narrative prose accounts of their experiences.

The reading of the Constitution of the United States and the discussing of why certain articles were included has been taking most of our time in American histiry.

In bookkeeping we are attempting to interpret records and find if there is a net profit and loss.

Factoring is still the main topic in algebra.

What the second home economics class is doing is quite evident by the knitting needles sticking from paper sacks or the sight of yarn being passed from one needle to another.

In shop with sanding particles filling the air some of the projects are nearing completion while others are still being cut.

Junior News

The drivers' training students are waiting patiently for their car to arrive so they can start driving. Meanwhile they have been reading out of their books.

In economics we have had a test over unit two.

We are studying "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in Literature. The members of the play have been practicing during this period.

In typing we have now learned all of the reach strokes.

Sociology class has been quite interesting for we have studied the different kinds of marriages.

The boys in shop have been working on their projects.

The students in algebra II have just finished a chapter in factoring.

Third Grade

Harley Nuehring, Bruce Waddingham, and Bobby Anderson, have returned their dental cards.

We have been reading about dairy products. Wednesday we visited the creamery. We learned many things, and were treated to ice cream cones by Mark's father, the creamery manager. We brought cream home and churned it in social studies. Thursday we had crackers and butter. Richard Miller's mother sent us cheese to eat with our crackers.

Second Grade

Dental cards have been turned in by Diane Patterson, Danny Mau, Deanna Barkema, and Glen Alden.

We are looking for signs of fall, gathering leaves, seeds, and nuts. We plan to make a chart showing the different kinds of seeds and leaves.

Judith Rasmus had a birthday party Tuesday, to which her classmates were invited.

We are sorry that Russell Pehrson has moved and will no longer be with us.

Girls' Sports

Girls basketball practice will soon be getting under way. Some of the girls have gone for their physicals and have come back feeling kind of stiff after a few hours. We will list the better girls next week that will be back with us this year. We hope we can get more girls out this year than have talked about going out.

BOYS' SPORTS

This week we decided to ask the teachers who they thought would win the world series. Here are their opinions.

Mr. Westberg: (He was asked after the Yankees had won the first two games.) The Dodgers will come back and win the next four.

Mr. Smith: Yankees, they are my team, and Mize and Mantle will realy hit.

Mr. Ahrenkiel: Yankees, you can't beat their luck.

Mr. Andreae: The Dodgers will win four games and the Yankees will win three.

Mr. Hiller: The Dodgers should win by coming from behind.

Junior Class Play

On Wednesday, October 14, at 8:00 p. m. in the gymnasium, the Junior Class of Klemme High School will present their annual class play, "Father's Wife", by Earl Dias. The play was designed to bring you a wonderful evening of entertainment plus a very timely message that may, perhaps, throw light on your own family life.

Everyone is cordially invited to be part of the first-nighter audience when the curtain goes up next Wednesday night on "Father's Wife".

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

Carole and Lois must have had fun Sunday afternoon.

I guess we're going to have to start watching Carol and Ding, JoAnn and Donnie , and see that they behave; if all that Ernie said was true anyway! !

Carole M. has a new boyfriend! If you want to see his picture, just look at her billfold for a picture of a guy in an Army uniform.

Calvin Josten is home on leave so I guess we will have to remind Lois Jacobs that she is going steady, now don't you forget, Lois.

Janice and Gene would really have had fun at the barndance Saturday night, only it just so happened that their wasn't any, too bad, kids. Better Luck next time.

What's Merlyn been talking to Winola about at noon lately? It seems she was riding around with him after the Methodist Church Party too. What happened to the attraction at the Garner Airport, Merlyn?

Say, Darlene, will you make up your mind. One day it's Dick and the next it's Donnie. When you decide, let us know.

I hear Donnie and Joan have a pretty good time after play practice. I think JoAnn B. and Clarence had better watch these two.

Who is this Elmer that Daisy is getting letters from now? Honestly, she's got more men on the string. Why don't you make up your mind, "Daz"

Fewer Cattle On Feed Will Mean More Profit For Cattle Feeders

If farmers buy feeder cattle at present market prices, or less, there is a good chance for reasonable cattle feeding profits in the coming year. Fewer cattle will be fed than were fed the last year and demand for beef and pork will decline slightly from present levels. This was the opinion E. C. Stoneberg, Farm Management Speciaist and Wm. G. Zmolik, Livestock Marketing Specialist, present at an Extension and Feed Outlook meeting attending by 45 Hancock County farmers, Thursday evening, September 24.

Indications are that consumer purchasing power will decline about 5% by the end of 1954 but no sharp break is in sight. Stoneberg suggested that since agriculture has already had considerable price adjustments a severe price drop is not expected on farm products.

Feed supplies are ample to carry out normal expected livestock feeding operations. Corn prices will likely follow the same pattern they have the past twelve months.

With 10% smaller spring pig crop and an indicated 5% reduction in fall farrowed pigs, Stoneberg expects a good fall and winter market for hogs, although he does look for seasonal price adjustments this fall. Even though the 1954 spring pig crop may be increased 5 to 10 percent, Stoneberg sees profitable corn-hog feeding ratios the coming year. Compared to last year larger supplies of feeder cattle are likely to be available this fall and the big adjustment in feeder prices has already taken place. However, it is possible that feeders may be bought at lower levels than are presently being quoted.

Indications are that cattle slaughter, in the coming year, will not change much from 1953 levels. Stoneberg said this may mean a 15% lower price on choice and prime cattle from present price levels. The farmer who buys his feeders low enough in price to sell for a $20 cwt as top choice cattle next summer and fall has a good opportunity of realizing a profit.

Zmolek pointed out that with present feed margins are a must on all case of cattle this year. The plainer grades will require greater margins than better cattle. While lighter weight cattle are more efficient in converting feed into pounds of meat it must be remembered said Zmolek that weight can be purchased for less than it costs to put it on in the feed lot. Light weight cattle may actually sell at a discount this fall.

Zmolek suggested that this may be the year to buy several different kinds of cattle. Head the plainer grades for a spring market and choice or better grade cattle for a summer and fall market was Zmolek's advise. Time risk must definitely be considered. Planning a cattle feeding program that extends much beyond 12 months is considered risky.

Anderson To Manage Hancock PMA Office

Robert "Bing" Anderson of Garner, Iowa has been appointed office manager of the Hancock county PMA office, it was reported this week by A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the PMA committee which made the selection. The appointment will be effective on October 1st.

Under the new plan of county office operations ,the county committee will remain in control of PMA activities in the county by making all decisions as to policy, the same as in the past, but committee members will be relieved of the past necessity of office work. The responsibily of policy execution and day-to-day office operations will be assigned to the office manager.

Avery Sunbeams

The regular meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held on September 17th at the home of Mrs. Shelton. The meeting was opened by repeating the 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by eight members and two visitors. For roll call we were to name a game that we played at home and explain it. For music we sang the "4-H Field Song" and "Dreaming".

The election of officers was held. The new officers are Elizabeth Lemke, President; Darlene Ostendorf, Vice president; Patty Burk, Secretary; Ruth Ann Lauster, Historian; and Joyce Nordman, reporter. The installation of officers was held and we closed the meeting by repeating the Flag Pledge.

Games were chosen by the girls. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Shelton, Diane Avery, and Darlene Ostendorf.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ostendorf.

ROCK

When Morse Hunt tried to clear the rocks from an unimproved 120 recently, one rock proved especially stubborn. When finally uprooted by a bulldozer, it proved to be a mammoth boulder, with an estimated weight of 40,000 pounds.

BURNED

Bill Hulen, 18 year old Indianola youth, was badly burned in Kansas last week while working with a brush spray crew. A nearby telephone lineman saved Hulen's life when he used a small fire extinguisher to put out the youth's blazing clothing.

Earthquakes Hit Iowa

What are Iowa's chances of having an earthquake?

Better than you think. In fact, we've had 17 earthquakes since 1843!

Lucky no lives were lost. But it wasn't all luck. Geologists say the thing that saved us was the heavy glacial drift that covers Iowa like a huge mantle. That acted as a shock absorber, prevented much damage.

Living here in Iowa, we have the benefit of shock absorbers in more ways than one. There's more "give and take" to our way of life. Our people go at a more leisurely pace than they do in the big cities.

Maybe "moderation" is a good word for it. Moderation in our thoughts, opinions, prejudices, and habits is good for us . . . and our neighbors. It's one reason why after dinner, I lean toward a quiet glass of beer . . . the beverage of moderation. But if Ed prefers tea, or Bill coffee, I'll go along with them on those, too.

If we think moderately, act moderately, we will be happier, and so will those around us.

Grandmothers Take Eastern Iowa Drive

About thirty-four ladies from the Grandmothers Club of Klemme and Mason City left Sunday on a chartered bus which took them on a sightseeing tour to eastern Iowa and parts of Wisconsin, where they enjoyed the beautiful scenery at this time of the year.

One of the first places of interest where we stopped was at St. Anhony's Chapel, near Festina, Iowa. This is supposed to be the smallest church in the world. It has a seating capacity of eight.

The next stop was at Spillville, Iowa, where Frank and Joseph Bily are famous for their wood carving and designing of clocks, etc.

Mrs. Trevett, president of the Mason City Club ordered a swiss steak or chicken dinner with all the trimmings at the "Blue Heaven Cafe" at Prairie Du Chien, Wisconsin, which the ladies all did justice to.

Next we visited "Villa Louis" at Prairie Du Chein, Wisconsin, a millioniares mansion that is a century old, now owned and operated by State Historic Society of Wiscosin.

Words cannot express the beauty and grandeur on the drive from Prairie Du Chein to La Crosse, Wisconsin along the Mississippi River. Everyone enjoyed the beautiful sunset, and all sang "Day is Dying inn the West".

We had supper at La Crosse and then were homeward bound.

SURPRISE

When Mrs. Gene Winkelpleck, of near Ogden, went to her rural route mailbox recently she received an unusal surprise. A seed-corn sack containing $4,800 in government and postal savings bonds, was found in the box. The bonds proved to be part of of the loot taken in a Fort Dodge robbery.

Can the spread of cancer be stopped or retarded temporarily?

This query introduces the concept of the so-called "palliatives treatment" of cancer. In many instances in which the disease has progresed to the point where its complete removal or destruction is impossible, or in which recurrences have appeared, it may be possible to slow the growth or to remove the cause of severe pain and thus to prolong the patient's life and to make him more comfortable. Depending upon the circumstances, such palliation may be brought about by irradiation, by surgery or by the use of certain drugs which may retard the advancement of some types of tumors. A good example of the last is the admission of ovarian or testicular hormones in far-advanced cancer of the breast. In any specific instance, the physician is guided by the type and location of the cancer and by accumulated clinical experience. One of the objectives of present-day research is to find new drugs which will retard the growth of inoperable cancers or perhaps even cause their regression to the point where they may be attacked by surgery.

Generally speaking, patients gratefully accept the chance for the few months more of life and the greater comfort offered by palliatives therapy, even when the are fully aware of the temporary nature of the relief and know that the growth will eventually destroy them. But occasionally such postponement of the evitable is not welcomed by the individual or, in the case of children, by their parents, and such desires must be respected

Some Mighty Good Reasons Why You Should—

Get to Know Your Child's Teacher

When teachers and parents cooperate they can insure a child's receiving consistent guidance in school and out. And when particular problems arise, such as difficulty in learning to read, they can pool the resources and supplement each other by giving the youngster the same kind of help.

A child lives essentially in one world - a world of tricycle, backyard, sandbox, crayons, blocks, teddy bear and Mom--until he starts to school. Then he enters a very different world, one that can have a frightening impact, according to Dr. Glenn Hawkes, head of the Iowa State College Child Developement Department.

At school he is one of many and has to share his teacher with perhaps 30 other children his own age. At home he had his mother to himself, or shared her with just one or two other children. Maybe he was used to being called Dickie at home, and the teacher calls Richard. He finds out he has to care for more of his own needs, that there's a difference in the discipline or the way punishment is meted out in school and at home. He has to adjust to new surroundings, and learn how to hold his own.

He Needs Help

This is a lot for one small boy or girl to swallow all at once. He needs plenty of help if he's going to make the grade without too much stress and strain. His parents and teacher should get together to help him bridge the gap between his two worlds, to integrate the familiar and the unfamiliar.

A mother (or a dad) can have a real share in a child's school activities only if she takes time to visit his classroom, chat with his teacher and find out the kinds of things he'll be learning. Her little boy or girl will dearly love to have her make this visit and it will mean a great deal to him to have his wonderfully familiar momentarily in the middle of this world of blackboards, classmates and community toys. And Mom benefits by finding out what her child's life is like at school.

When Problems Arise

When special problems arise-difficulty in learning to read, need for speech therapy, continual disobedience-parent and teacher can make an effective team in getting at the seat of the trouble and doing something about it. Together they can work out a way to give the youngster the same kind of help at school and at home. In other words, they can share their resources and information in helping him to grow more effectively and live up to his best potentialities.

Present School Situation

Classrooms in many communities are overcrowded, facilities are rundown and schools are under-staffed. Teachers with too large classes could well use some cooperative assistance from parents, both in getting better acquainted with each child's talents, personality and problems, and in improving the conditions under which she works. In one Iowa school, says Dr. Hawkes, the parents got together and helped paint and remodel part of the school building, turning it into a regular community project. In other schools, parent-teacher associations have bought special equipment which school funds are not ordinarily used for, have helped make a teacher welcome in the community and have been instrumental in working out various school problems.

At its best, a school can only supplement the homes from which its children come each day. And two heads—teachers and parent—are always better than one in helping a child to grow and learn and find his place in the wide, wide world.

Time to Take Stock Of Home Fire Hazards

Fire Prevention Week, October 4-10 this year, is a good time to take stock of fire hazards around your place, says N. J. Wardle, extension farm saftey specialist at Iowa State College.

And he thinks a good basis for inventory of fire hazards is the list of most common causes of fires in Iowa. This is the list in order of prevalence, with Wadle's recommendations for removing the azhards:

1. Inadequate lightning rod system. Replace rods or wires that are worn or damaged and be sure ground connections are secure.
2. Defective heating apparatus and chimneys. Overhaul and clean the heating system, correct chimney defects or do not use it.
3. Combustible roofs. Install spark arresters. Correct faulty construction, remove leaves and guard against sparks and ambers.
4. Spontaneous ignition. Make frequent inspections of cured hay after it is stored. Repair roof or walls to prevent leaks.
5. Electrical defects. Replace worn or frayed wiring and replace or repair defective appliances.
6. Flammable liquids. Never store or bring flammable liquids such as gasoline, benzene, or naphtha, in the house. Do not use kerosene, gasoline or other liquids to start or boost fires in stoves, ranges or fireplaces.

Farm Bureau Craft Lessons in November

October 15th is the last day for sign-up for the Farm Bureau craft lessons to be held in Hancock County in November. The classes will be held in Crystal Lake, November 2; Kanawha, November 3; Klemme, November 9; and Hayfiled, November 10.

The four classes to be held at each town this year include: Italian hemstitching, Christmas Ideas, Ceramics, and Leather tooling.

Anyone in the county, town or rural area, is invited to attend the classes in the town closest to them. Everyone must sign up by October 15 for one craft they wish to take. All crafts will be $1.00 or less. Anyone signing up for a craft is expected to take the materials ordered for them even if it is impossible for them to attend the meeting. Call or drop a card to the county extension office not later than October 15 and give your name, address, and craft you wish to take.

Egg production reached a record high for August, 5 percent over 1952 and 12 percent over the 5- year average.

BAD TRADE

Two youths traded a rifle for 5-gallons of gas, from Harry Kearney, farmer near Osceola. It was a bad trade. Kearney became suspicious and called the sheriff. The two youths had broken out of the Adams county jail, using the sheriff's car as an escape vehicle. They were later apprehended at Muscatine.

TEN MINUTES

It was a hot ten minutes in north Iowa during the recent warm spell. At Parkersburg, the temperature went up 20 degrees in 10 minutes.

Children's Society Tells Case History of Child

The Iowa Children's Home Society, now campaigning for funds in Hancock County, presents a story of one of the children committed to its care by the Juvenile Court. No case or story is typical, because no problem the same. But this child is one of the thousands of children served by the Iowa Children's Society.

RANDY WAS BORN TO TROUBLE . . . the mother was not well . . . the father in the penitentiary. When paroled, the father found employment difficult, at best, but tried to keep his family together, devoting much time to an increasingly ill wife. Randy was cared for by different relatives and neighbors. At 3, Randy was found neglected and badly treated.

The Juvenile Court stepped in and asked the Iowa Children's Home Society to place Randy in an ICHS boarding home. With the constancy of love and understanding by the foster parents, in cooperation with the guidance of the ICHS caseworker, Randy attained a security which he could not have had in the upset world of his family and relatives. Randy's parents visited him regularly and his his mother seemingly improved. They hoped Randy could come back home to live. The teamwork of foster parents and caseworker prepared him for his return home.

With such great expectations by Randy, his father and mother for the realization of these plans, the mother had a relapse. An operation proved nothing could be done to save her. The father remained at her beside through the last, lingering days, arranging for Randy to visit as often as possible.

Then . . . the mother's death. Randy's world and that of his father was shattered. Crushed by this loss and disheartened by the stigma of prison which interferred with steady employment, the father could not forsee a normal future for himself and Randy. At this point, he left it up to the Agency to plan for Randy's future.

Again, with careful planning and interpretation, the caseworker and foster parents prepared Randy, age 5, for a new permanent home. Now at 6, he is settled with his adopted parents who are giving him the security of normal family living.

Your contribution to the volunteer workers will be in investment in the happiness of others like this lad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney, Co-Chairmen of Eastern Hancock County, report that many workers have already turned in their quotas. A final report will be made when all funds are in.

CORN

Orthel sipe, now of Texas, told the Texans that ears of corn grew 14 inches long in Iowa. He sent back to his brother-in-law, Emerson Payne, of Lake Mills, for evidence to back him up, and Mr. Payne sent him four such ears.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

HOGS:

Average weight of barrows and gilts continued very low, and at Chicago was 212 pounds for the first week of September. This extra-early marketings of spring pigs is a reflection of the cautious attitude that hog men have been taking toward the fall markets. Weights for this class of hogs have been running well below last year and the five-year average at Chicago. Extreme lightweights may be letting up somewhat, for fewer butchers under 180 pounds have been coming in at Chicago in recent weeks. On the other hand, hogs selling over 240 pounds have been virtually absent there.

Shipping demand has dropped off in a seasonal slump. Eastern packers are buying more hogs close to the point of consumption, and as a result are not bidding as actively in midwest markets.

Loose lard slipped from its 21-cent high on September 14 to 13 cents on September 22, a drop of 8 cents in shortly over a week.

The squeeze that pushed the price for lard so high has apparently run its course.

EGGS:

Egg production reached a record high for the month of August, 5 percent over last year and 12 percent over the five-year average. Largely accounting for the greater production was a high rate of lay. for the number of layers in farm flocks across the country was about the same as last year and 1 per cent below the average. In August, hens laid an average of 14.7 eggs per layer compared with 14 last year, and the average of 13.1. Greater production per bird has been a pronounced trend in the poultry industry in recent years.

Potential layers on September 1 which includes this season's young pullets not yet laying, were 1 percent more than a year ago. However, with a continued higher trend of production per bird this should mean relatively greater than 1 percent increase in total egg production.

LAMBS:

Just too many slaughter lambs arrived at the major markets during the week of September 14 for the price to hold up at early week levels. In the starting days, prices advanced up to hold up to $2 under the stimulus of higher trends in the dressed lamb trade. However, with receipts double those of the previous week, the $2 price gain was erased. An additional 50 cents was lost in some quarters to account for a 50-cent loss for the week's trading.

In the face of this weak slaughter lamb market, feeder lambs held mostly steady with even some small increases in trading prices. Western feeders were being sod at Omaha in the week of September 14 at $16.50 to $17 for 70-80 pounders.

Harley Barz In Antiaircraft Training At Fort Bliss, Texas

Fort Bliss, Texas—Pvt. Harley D. Barz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barz, Klemme. recently began 16 weeks of basic training in the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Bliss.

Private Barz will spend the first eight weeks training on fundamental Army subjects. He will practice Infantry drill and rifle marksmanship; he will learn to fire machine guns and bazookas; and he will climax this first phase of training by a one-week maneuver in the field.

PVT. HARLEY BARZ

His second eight weeks will see him firing light and medium antiaircraft artillery weapons at low-flying and high altitude aerial targets. He will first practice on the weapons in the Fort Bliss gun parks and then will travel to the million and a half acre Fort Bliss range actually to fire the guns.

After his 16 weeks of training, Private Barz will graduate at a formal parade and retreat ceremony. He will then be eligible for assignment in a permanent antiaircraft artillery unit.

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kurtz will hold open house at their home in Goodell from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. and from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m., on Sunday, October 18. The occasion to be in honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and they extend a cordial invitation to all their friends to be present.

Rock Island Lines Handle More Grain Now Than In 1933

In last week's issue of The Times there was an item in the "Memory Joggers" of twenty years ago concerning the fact that during the month of September, twelve carloads of grain were shipped out of Klemme.

This item aroused our curiosity so we checked with M. L. Harson, local agent for the Rock Island Lines, to see how those figures would compare with figures for the same month this year. The amount of cars shipped during this past September was almost double the total for twenty years ago. Twenty-three cars of grain were shipped out of Klemme, and if cars had been available there would have been ten more.

The lack of cars in September, however, put October shipments off to a flying start. By today (Wednesday, the 14th) 26 cars have been shipped in October. All this grain has been handled by the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company.

In addition to the grain that they have shipped out since the first of October, the cooperative has handled and stored in steel bins, approximately 100,000 bushels of corn.

New Proprietors Will Hold Grand Openings Saturday, October 17

The D. & H Supermarket, which was recently purchased from Ed Thompson and Mrs. Edna Thada by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trevett, and The Corner Store, recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Glen Terhufen by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Eichorn, are both holding grand openings this coming Saturday, October 17th.

There will be prizes and treats at both places of business for the big day. Free coffee and cookies to everyone, roses for the ladies, and a drawing for groceries at the D & H. The Corner Store will have balloons and Frostiks for all the kiddies, and a variety of treats, according to taste, for the rest of the family.

Elsewhere in this issue of the The Times appears a congratulatory ad, sponsored by the other businessmen of Klemme, welcoming the new proprietors of these businesses to the community.

Close One

Lyle Bagne, who works for Aaron Stromer had a close call last Wednesday, when the tractor he was driving upset and pinned him underneath. Most serious damage was done to his arms. Pressure on the arms seemed to injure the nerves, and he has trouble in raising them.

Being pinned beneath the tractor was bad enough, but to make it worse, the tractor caught fire. The fire burned out before it got to Bagne, but it did scorch one of his shoes. It was some time after the accident happened before his plight was discovered and help was summoned.

Bad spot to be in!

District Governor Visits Local Lions

The Klemme Lions Club held its regular dinner meeting Wednesday evening, October 7. We were honored by the presence of R. J. Fritsch of Garner who is district governor of this area. He had some nice things to say about the activities of our club. Also present beside the eighteen regular members were 5 guests. They were Graydon Back, Mayor Virgil Cook, Wallace Eichorn, Roy Jacobs, and Art Kudje.

After a delicious meal served by the Band Mothers, Lion Secretary Bacon gave a financial report on our recent variety show and Lion Ahrenkiel brought us up to date on school reorganization for Klemme. It was also voted that December 2 would be our next "Ladies Night." The next regular meeting will be October 21.

Melvin Howard Weds Tennessee Girl

A/2c Melvin D. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Howard, and Miss Cherldia Mae Braden of Lake City, Tennessee, were married on September 24 at Lake City.

They have been at the Ned Howard home enjoying a short furlough. Many friends were at the Howard home, Friday evening, to charivari them, and a good time visiting was had after the charivari.

The couple left Sunday morning for Sacremento, California, where Melvin is stationed with the Air Force.

Dr. Missman Leaves Main Street After 44 Years

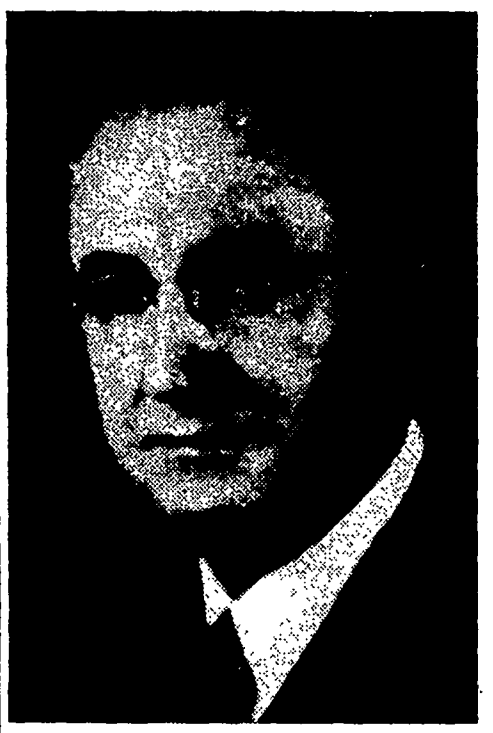
Has Delivered Nearly 3,000 Babies Since Coming Here In 1909

By Arthur Wellemeyer

Dr. W. F. Missman has closed his offices on main street and moved his drugs and equipment to his residence on the north edge of the Klemme Park, where his former patients may call and consult him.

Doctor Missman was a farm boy from Woden. He attended Morningside College and completed his medical education at the University of Iowa at Iowa City. He pasted the State Board



DR. W. F. MISSMAN

Examinations, and came to Klemme in 1909; hung up his shingle, "Doctor Missman, Physician and Surgeon", and has been on Klemme's main street so long, 44 years, that the paint has almost worn off from his original sign.

Doctor was a young man of 29 when he located in Klemme, and could handle his team of Western Broncos as well as any man in town. In the wintertime, he wore a coonskin coat, a fur cap of black sealskin, used a fur buffalo robe, and rattled out over the frozen dirt roads to minister to the needs of the sick. When blocked by a snowdrift, he continued on foot, even freezing his feet on one of these trips. Later, "Doc" put on style and purchased a Buick auto. It was a little red thing that looked like the jeep of today.

We needed "Doc" when he arrived. A scarlet fever epidemic was on the rampage in Avery Township, and we had several small pox cases in town.

Of course, he helped all our families through the mumps, measles, and other various children's diseases. A few times we had outbreaks of diptheria and the dreaded typhoid fever, and in our early days, the little tots would suffer from "summer complaint".

For variety, "Doc" had the more pleasant task of helping to welcome "new born babes" into the homes of our people. These have numbered nearly three thousand to date. Some of these babies are now past 40 years of age, and a few of these are now grandparents.

Once during World War I, everybody seemed to get sick at one and the same time with influenza. "Doc" hired a driver and was on the road night and day calling on the sick. He never went to bed for over a week.

Thanks Doctor, for having given us the best years of your life, We are all your friends and well wishers.

Neighbors Help With Farm Work For Fuller

Sumner Fuller, who lives on the Fuller farm southeast of Klemme, in "Heathen Valley", recently began work for Allied Mills at Mason City. The farm on which he resides has been sold to Earl Bachman.

Last Saturday, Fuller's wife entered Belmond Hospital for surgery. What with his job in Mason City, and his wife being sick, the neighbors felt like he needed a little help. Consequently, a group of them pitched in Monday and helped him pick and shell 20 acres of corn.

Those who helped were Charlie Halfpop, Lyle Green, Ed Green, Webb Green, Harlan Avery, Joe Burgess, and Dean Burgess. Mrs. Charlie Halfpop and Mrs. Lyle Green got dinner for the men, and served them in the Halfpop home, just across the road from the Fuller place.

Friends of Scouting Campaign Gets Under Way Next Tuesday

According to Dr. A. H. Dulmes, local chairman of the "Friends of Scouting" campaign, workers will begin next Tuesday to canvass Klemme in their annual drive to raise funds for the Winnebago Council.

More than 3,600 boys in 160 troops, posts and packs are served directly by Winnebago Council, which covers nine North Iowa counties. The fulfilling of the 1953 finance goal will assure these youths of another well-rounded indoor and outdoor program year.

The Council maintains an executive staff of four full-time men, two working out of the main office in Mason City and a field man at both Sheffield and Belmond. Three secretaries are hired to handle the immense office work.

One of the most important of the Council's funcions is to provide an adequate camping and activities program. Last summer 800 boys and leaders took part in outdoor events, including Camp Roosevelt at Clear Lake, Canadian canoe trips, the national Jamboree in California, camporees, and Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico. Attendance at Camp Roosevelt alone represented a 15 percent increase over the previous year.

Last Rites Monday For Mrs. Emma Medaus, 76

Lived In Klemme Vicinity For Many Years

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m., Monday, October 12, from the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church for Mrs. Emma Medaus, 76, with Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg officiating.

Mrs. Milvern Barz and Mrs. A. H. Dulmes sang two numbers, "In the Garden" and "Sweet Hour of Prayer", accompanied by Mrs. William Reinhart at the organ.

Interment was in Concord Cemetery at Garner, and pall bearers were Ed Christians, Werner Schlawin, George Thiemann, Albert Schmidt, Fred Klinge, and Ernest Henschen.

Obituary

Mrs. Cary Medaus (nee Emma Bock) whose death is mourned by her loved ones, family and friends, was born on September 16, 1877 in Teswoos, Germany. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bock.

She received the sacrament of Christian Baptism as an infant in the local Church in Teswoos, Germany. She also received her elementary education in this village. As a young girl of eleven years of age she came to America with her parents.

Miss Emma Bock was united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony with Mr. Carl (commonly known as Charles) Medaus. God in his providential grace blessed this union with seven children, three of which died in infancy or in youth.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Medaus farmed various farms all of which were in the vicinity of Klemme, Iowa.

Mrs. Medaus had been a member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme, Iowa, but for the past eleven years had made her home in Grafton, Iowa.

Mrs. Medaus has been in ill health for some time and was called to her eternal reward in the hospital in Hampton on Friday, October 9, having attained the age of 76 years and 23 days.

She leaves to mourn, sons, Carl and Edwin of Klemme, and, daughters, Mrs. Ned Howard of Klemme and Helen Medaus of Grafton, Iowa. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Fred Saathoff of Woden, Iowa and two brothers, William Bock of Springfield, S. D. and Emil Bock, of St. Paul, Minnesota. She is also survived by six grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her husband and by children, Walter and Emma and an infant son. She was also preceeded in death by two sisters, Rosa, Mrs. Hagrenes of Minneapolis and by Mrs. John Buns of Woden and by one brother, Charles Bock of Mapleton, Minnesota.

We quote the following from the State Conservation Commission's weekly news release:

Iowa's most powerful volunteer fighting unit, the 350,000 sportsmen going out-of-doors this fall, is urged by the State Conservation Commission to take action.

The Commission has requested all hunters, fishermen and picnickers to be alert for fires and to carry simple fire-fighting equipment. Such equipment, a spade and several burlap bags that can be quickly wetted, can be carried in the trunk of a car and is very effective for fighting small fires.

With roadsides, grasslands and woods in a tinder-dry condition everyone going outdoors this fall is asked to use great caution with fires. In previous years it has been found that hunters cause only a small percentage of fires, the majority of fires being caused by matches and cigarettes thrown from cars.

Although Iowa may have no large forest fires like those in the west, our fires can destroy valuable timber, grassland, and winter cover so vital to wildlife.

When we were in the Black Hills on our recent trip to the west, we stopped and watched for a half hour or so as men fought a blaze which had gotten started in the entrance to a mine shaft. The fire started at the base of a very steep bluff. Fanned by a stiff breeze and fed by the pine needles that carpeted the ground, it was rapidly working its way to the crest. However, quick work by those who were fighting the fire, soon brought it under control, and very little damage was done.

If this fire had gotten up where the wind could have had a good shot at it, it could have been a bad one, and then it is possible that we would have been put to work helping to bring the blaze under control. At the time we were watching the men fighting the fire, we didn't know that South Dakota law requires, under penalty of a stiff fine for refusal, that anyone who happens upon the scene of a forest fire, can be drafted to help in fighting it.

We would have been glad to help, but what we know about fighting a forest fire and our lack of experience at climbing around on the side of bluffs, we are afraid that we would have been of little use. Probably would have been in the way.

It their is a season of the year that is more conducive to getting out-of-doors than is fall, we have yet to see it. The air is sharp and zestful, the colorings of the foliage are more beautiful than at any other time of the year, and there is a sport to suit the taste of nearly everyone. The only flaw that we can see, is that old man with the cold breath, who is just around the corner.

It's coming the time of year when there is more general use of firearms than is normal for other seasons, and already the hunting accident reports are showing up in the newspapers and over the air.

Getting out of doors and hunting is mighty fine sport, but if proper precautions are neglected, it can be a dangerous one, and we are certain that our sentiments are the same.

We remember a young fellow from a small town in southeast Texas who took his basic infantry training with us at Camp Wolters in that state. When he was five years old, he and a playmate were playing with a .22 calibre rifle. They supposed it to be unloaded, but his playmate was killed during the course of their game. From that day until the time that we were issued our rifles, he never touched a gun, and his fear of them was almost a phobia. He mastered it enough to qualify on the rifle range, but some of the fear stayed with him.

None of us knows what our own reaction would be if we were involved in an accident that was responsible for the death or disabling injury of a hunting partner, and any precaution that will prevent us from being in a position to know, is worth taking.

For all the talk about A-bombs and H- bombs, it's quite possible that they will never be used in another war. The great destructive power that is their's is quite a deterrent to their use. Either side knows that they could do a lot of damage to the other fellow, but then they remember that in retaliation he could do the same or worse.

One of the more spectacular places that we visited on our trip was Glacier National Park, located close to the Canadian border in western Montana. We have seen considerable of the mountains in our wanderings about the country, since 1941 when we were drafted into the service of Uncle Sam, but to our mind none are more rugged, foreboding and at the same time beautiful than those of Glacier. From where the timberline ends, and the bare rock peaks extend up towards the sky and many are splotched with snow and glacier ice the year around.

For the benefit of the sightseeing tourist a fine wide highway has been constructed right through the heart of the park. It follows Logan Pass and has been named "Going to the Sun" highway. We were west bound when we went through, and as we started into the pass, about 6 o'clock in the morning, the sun was just beginning to light some of the higher peaks. Made it seem as though we were really going to the sun.

Some of the views from this highway are so vast that flatlander, has no conception whatsoever as to distances and depths involved. We are reminded of the story about the old Texan who said that you could stand on a hill in Texas, look across the countryside, and see for three days. The difference here was, that you could look off the edge of the highway and see for three days. We were glad that the surveyors and engineers who built the road found room to make it as wide as they did. They also found room to construct numerous strategically located parking places, so that stops can be made to really enjoy the sights, without hindering the flow of traffic.

One of the things that we liked most about the park was the fact that it has not been commercialized to such extent as some of our national parks. It is pretty much in its natural state, although there are camping grounds in the park itself, and plenty of tourist accomodations nearby.

If, when you plan next year's vacation, you plan on going west, we would strongly recommend that you include Glacier in your list of places to see. We don't think you will be disappointed.

Then there was the fellow who stood at the bar in a strange town. Each time he would order for himself he wold order an extra drink which he poured in his coat pocket. After he had consumed several drinks and disposed of several into his pocket, he fixed his eye on the bartender and said, "I'm just baout the roughest guy in this joint, and if you don't believe it step outside." At this point, a mouse poked his head out of the coat pocket and piped up with, "Yeah, and bring your ??(%??? cat!"

Fifth Grade News

Last week was our sixth week in school. In our spelling books we had a review of first five weeks words. Ellen Waddingham wrote all her words correctly. Our other people who had A on their papers were: Darly Kothenbeutal, Gary Kubly, and Dean Neuberger.

Wayne Schlichting was absent from school last week. He was ill with pneumonia. We hope he will be back in school soon.

Cheryl Eichorn joined our class October 6th. Cheryl attended the Forest City school before she moved here. We hope she will be happy here with us.

? ? of the Week

What improvements do you think we could make in the paper this year? What part do you like best?

Gracka Gerardi: We should have more gossip and they should make the class news more interesting. I like the band news this year because it's so unusual.

Gary Day: I think we should have more of that good old gossip. I believe the class news could be made interesting too. We need a bigger and better Juke Box.

Blanche Shoop: I think you should put some quoted sayings, Knock Knocks, and jokes in it. More gossip and a bigger juke box would make it more interesting.

Roger Johnson: Jokes, and more news.

Bueford Polsdofer: Have a suggestion box and some INTERESTING class news. A little more gossip wouldn't hurt. The senior interviews are pretty good usually.

Fred Arnold: I think there should be more jokes. The band news is what pleases me most.

Sixth Grade News

Donald Anderson, Sherryle Clabaugh, JoAnne Jacobs Ronand Kubly and Randall Langlitz have had "A" in spelling for the first six weeks of school. We are proud of their record and hope the list will be longer next time.

Last Friday the sixth grade went on a sketching trip for art. We're learning to draw trees and buildings and find it easier to do so when we can see them. Some of the sketches we made Friday were very good.

So far only two dental cards have been returned. We are planning a contest, perhaps that will help us remember to return our cards.

In science we are studying about the solar system. It is very interesting to study about the stars and planets, through it is different to imagine the great distances we read about in this unit.

Darlene E. is getting to be the apple of every boy's eye. Why even Bob Cavitt said just the other day that he would go with her if it didn't mean that he would lose Wanda from Manly.

I hear that Terry K. and Darlene E. are going to settle down and start their own drug store. Is there anything to this kids or was it just a slip of the tongue?

Carole M., have you decided which picture to send that boy in the uniform? It seems that you and Marlene B. just couldn't decide which one should be sent.

Ronnie just can't see the point in going to two movies the day we have our pictures taken. But then I guess it does take a lot of saving to get married. Just don't get too tight that you will squeak, Ron.

It seems that Eva T. and Doyce M. were having a good time on the way home from the juniors skating party. Could this be a new romance?

Say, I hear Carolyn C. had a big date Friday night. You could have brought him to the party, Carolyn.

Lois C. is still pretty interested in Richard Bohn, I hear. Lois, I thought that was ovevr long ago.

Can anyone tell me how a person can get stuck for an hour in a lane this time of year? Just ask Marlene and Gary, maybe they can offer some information. pretty good time babysitting la

Little Jerry Music Mouse reports that quite a few girls had stiff bones on Wednesday when they came to band. Could it be basketball or what??? Ask Lois J. and JoAnn Bacon.

Senior News

With a great deal of effort the bookkeeping teacher is trying to teach us how to close the ledger.

Reading the works of American writers in the revolutionary period, the memorizing of part of The Patrick Henry speech; the reading of two books; the writing of a book report; and the preparation of a five minute oral report are keeping us busy in American literature.

Having finished reading the Constitution of the United States, we had a test over it. The seventh chaper, "The Critcial Period," the time from after the revolution to the adoption of the Constitution, and the eighth chapter,"The Making of the Constition," constituted our work.

In algebra we are studying a new chapter which deals with fractions.

"Problems of the Democratic Family," which deals with the problems of marriages and the marriage relationship, is the unit now being studied in sociology.

In home economics II, the sewing machines are being taken out of mothballs as the sewing projects are starting.

From the lack of news the advanced shop class must be sleeping, or it is being kept too busy on projects.

Sophomore News

Biology: The kinds of living things has been our study this week.

Algebra: We've been doing signed numbers and monomials.

History: We finished our study of the Romans.

Literature: We have started to read the one act plays in class.

Girls' Sports

Girls' basketball has now started for another year. Among the girls out for the team are five letter winners of last year, who are Carol Bridges, Jo Ellen Clabaugh, Gracka Gerardi, Lois Christians and Daisy Schaefer.

Our first game is scheduled for November 4. You can see that since this date is in the very near future, the girls will really have to buckle down and practice. So come on, gals, let's really practice to show just what we can do.

Eighth Grade News

In history we are studying the reforming of the states.

In arithmetic we are having a contest between the boys and the girls to see who is doing better work. The girls are ahead so far.

We will give oral reports soon on books we have read the past weeks.

In arithmetic we have been studying commission and discount.

We are studying the stars and planets in science.

In health we have just recovered from a unit test.

BOYS' SPORTS

Now that baseball is over, we have started basketbkall. The following students have reported for practice: freshmen; Martin Brinkman, Marvin Josten, Bob Larson, Gary Lenz; sophomore; Roger Bachman, Denny Haefner, Donald Kramer, Marvin Michelson; juniors; Graydon Barz, Cecil Jacobs, Gary Day, Doyce Michelson, Alan Neuberger, Don Thiemann, Eugene Wilkinson; seniors; Dick Baack, Ronnie Karsjens, Dennis Ridder, Roger Terhufen, Tom Waddingham. If we work hard we think the team should be a success.

Just to sum up the baseball season we asked the coach what he thought about the past season. He said he thought that we had a successful season and is looking to having a better team this coming spring.

Seventh Grade News

Craig Larson and Judith Gilpin have had birthdays recently and treated the class.

At last we have some decorations up in our room, but we're pretending that we don't know who made some of them as they are considerably more artistic than one could expect to find in a seventh grade room.

We are anxiously awaiting returns from a geograhpy test covering climate conditions and their effect on people and industries.

Each student is keeping a record of his citizenship quiz scores over the material in each week's Junior Scholastic Magazine. This is the first year we have been reading this magazine and we are finding it very interestng.

Local Student Enrolls At Mission House College

Miss Miriam Priebe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Priebe, of Klemme, is enrolled as a freshman at Mission House College. A varied program of events acquainted the new students with life on the campus, under the direction of the officers of the Student Council who were in charge of the orientation activities. Included was an informal "mixer" evening of varied recreation, with introduction to the Faculty members; an informal fellowship evening at the home of President and Mrs. Arthur M. Krueger: a supper meeting and movie in the recreation room of the Chapel; a vesper service conducted by the Christian Fellowship, and a tea for the young women at the home of Dean and Mrs. Oscar F. Hoffman.

Mission House College is located eleven miles from Sheboygan, Wisconsin, and occupies a beautiful rural campus of 95 acres. It was founded by the Reformed Chucrh 91 years ago and is maintained by the Evangelical and Reformed Church. It is open to students of all faiths, and offers a four year course in the Liberal Arts and Sciences leading to the degrees to Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science. Faculty members reside on the campus, creating a family spirit between instructors and students.

NO HULSTEINS

A record of 61 years was broken this fall, when no child of the Hulstein family registered for the first day of school at Welcome township No. 4, near Sioux Center. Every year since 1892 a pupil from a Hulstein family has been assigned a seat in the little one-room school.

STROKE

Authorities believe that Darrel Rosemeyer, Sioux City, suffered a stroke just before his car went out of control in an accident near LeMars recently. Death was ascribed to a brain hemorrhage. A passenger in the car, Charles Capron, was seriously injured.

Liberty No. 7

100% spellers were: Sharon, Pamela, Grace, and Daryl.

The primary class was very interested in the bubbles which rose in a pan of water when they dropped in an empty bottle. They know that the bubbles were caused by water running into the bottle and forcing out the air.

The first and second grades are learning kinds of homes. They are finding pictrues to show the rooms most of them have in their homes.

The sixth grade social science class has figured that Egypt's good land must support over 1,200 people per square mile, while Iowa has an average of about 45 per square mile. They think that cars, refrigerators, and television sets are not common possessions of Egyptian farmers.

We have 3 goldfish in our room. The first graders promised to take care of them.

We started some chemical plants. It is fun to watch them "grow". Our sweet potato is growing fast.

Our teacher reads a chapter or so each day from "The Clue of the Black Keys". This is a Nancy Drew book. It is very interesting.

Our perfect spellers for the week are Eugene Zwald, Lois Hummel, Joann, Janis and James Beier, Kathryn Gast, Donna Stille, and Ronald Beier.

We plan on giving a Hallowe'en program.

Auxiliary Makes Plans For County Meeting

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Esther Hess on Tuesday evening, October 6.

The fall county meeting will be in Goodell, October 27 at 2:30 p. m., with the speaker being Mrs. Gladys Bouma, the 8th District President.

Our membership quota for this year has been set for 79.

We voted to order 1150 small poppies and 12 large ones.

The Auxiliary will serve the Lions Club dinner on October 21.

Ella Polsdofer offered to send the gift to our Woodward sponsored child this month.

Lunch was served by the hostess and co-hostess, Lena Lewis, following the meeting to the fourteen members present.

The hostesses for the next meeting will be Nellie and Thelma Arnold.

Music Mothers to Meet

According to word received from Mrs. Don Bacon, president of the Music Mothers, that organization will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the high school. Mothers of both band and glee club students are urged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Roy Schaefer Tells of Scenic Trip

Sunday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schaefer and granddaughter, Monica, Mrs. Walter Lemke and son Earl, and Mrs. Lydia Ax and son Irvin, left for a trip to the eastern part of the state to view the coloring of fall and to visit places of interest.

First stop was at the Little Brown Church at Nashua, a place that some of the party had never seen before, and then on to Spillville for a look at the Clocks. The whole party enjoyed this spot very much as it was new to all of them. While there, picnic baskets were opened, and all did justice to the contents.

After the picnic dinner, the trip was resumed as far as Watson. Here the party visited an old stone church, where Roy's mother attended services as a girl, some 60 years ago. The late Ed Suckow also attended church there.

From Watson, the party went onto McGregor, where Monica put her hand in the water so that she could tell her folks that she had touched the Mississippi River. The river was then crossed, and after driving around in Prairie Du Chien, the trip home was begun. Remnants of the noon-time picnic dinner were consumed on the way home, and the party reached Klemme about 8 o'clock in the evening; tired, but with the feeling that they had had a very enjoyable trip.

To California

This afternoon (Wednesday), Mrs. Edna Thada and her granddaughters, Barbara and Natalie Thompson, left for Walnut Creek, California. The girls will join their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson, and Mrs. Thada will spend a few days visiting there.

Mr. Thompson, who was formerly associated with Mrs. Thada in Thada's Shopping Center, now the D & H Supermarket, is employed in a millwork and furniture refinishing establishment in Walnut Creek, a town of about 2,500, located about 30 miles inland from San Francisco.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Feeder Cattle

Some feeders seem to be get ting panicky becauses they haven't any feeder cattle yet, according to Francis A. Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College. The big range cattle runs are late this year and just beginning. October 5 was the first day of any sizeable western run on the river markets.

The low spot in the fall feeder cattle market has varied from August to December over the last 13 years. In only four of these years has the low spot for choice feeder cattle prices come before October 1.

Lambs

Feeder lambs continue to move in the $15.50 to $17 range. Fat lambs have ranged around $18 to $21. This makes a decent margin based on today's quotations.

When the fed lambs begin to move later in the fall, we can look for higher prices of fat lambs. The reasons: Corn-fed lambs are of better quality than grass-fat lambs which are now moving. And the pelt conversion figures will be higher as we get into winter weather and better pelts.

If demand remains the same, slaughter lambs should sell $1 to $2 higher then. This makes the lamb feeding outlook favorable this fall. In addition, lambs have the advantage of a short stay on the farm. This is important in a year when the future outlook on business is uncertain.

Business

More and more business observers feel that business is at or near a turning point. But just when this turning point arrives is hard to pinpoint.

Observers who have been looking for signs of a downturn, however, now seem to have more success in picking them out. Steel output has been below the rate of last spring for some time. Scrap steel has nosedived. Automobile output seems too high to hold up. For stocks of new cars on hand July 1, 1953, were more double the number a year earlier. Housing starts have dropped. Farm machinery output has dropped, and the industrial machinery industry expects to cut its output by next year. All these signs point to a slow-up in the durable goods sector of our economy.

Inventories have been mounting. Industrial output has been slowing down.

Yet, personal and business incomes continue at record highs. Prices have been reasonably steady in recent weeks. Retail sales are high. Unemployment is as low as any time since World War II.

However, government spending during the 1954 fiscal year will be less than estimated earlier. The lion's share of this cut will come out of the military. For the first time in several years, we face a future in which we have lower government spending coinciding with other forces which are tending to produce less vigorous business.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

What must be one of the grimest pieces of furniure in this country was built by the late Ola Thompson of Grinnell who died in 1945. The story of Mr. Thompson's "Table of Tragedy" was retold recently by the Garner Leader.

The table is inlaid with 576 pieces of wood taken from wrecked automobiles in which 972 persons died in Iowa.

Mr. Thompson personally collected each piece of wood. Not one was sent to him. Yet, he never drove more than 75 miles to collect an item, and then only on week ends or during vacations.

The teacher of woodworking and the violin Mr. Thompson got the idea for his table while looking for pieces of wood to carve. He found some wooden spokes from two wrecked cars in which some people had been killed.

For a number of years most of the pieces came from wooden spokes and panels but then, as the modern car began to emerge, colecting became more difficult. Not because there were fewer accidents, but because about the only wood obtained was from floorboards of wrecked cars, not suitable for a polished table surface.

It is reported that, one time, Mr. Thompson came on the scene of an accident shortly after it happened. He had helped with the injured, then thoughtfully picked up a piece of wood.

The next day he read that one of the injured had died and the bit of wood became eligible for the table.

The table has long since been finished and the possibly 2,000 who have died in accidedts since then have not been recorded in a similar piece of furniture as far as we know.

Perhaps it is just as well. In this age of speed and indifference, "grim reminders" seem to have worn out their use.

Benjamin Franklin established the first American newspaper printed in a foreign language.

THE KLEMME TIMES

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, OCTOBER 21, 1953 | VOLUME 58 NUMBER 44

It Can Happen Here

We would suggest that it is time for a general awakening among citizens of Klemme . . . and among those in the surrounding territory who feel that Klemme is their town. In fact, the time may be past due.

There has been much said and done in recent months on the problem of school redistricting and reorganization, and on the wall, there is beginning to appear, some hand writing.

We are all cognizant of the fact that a high school is of vital importance to a town . . . and especially to a town the size of Klemme. In our own mind we feel that there are many people living in rural areas whose children go to high school here, even though they are not in the Klemme Independent School District. We don't think that these people would want their children to go anywhere else. Well, it has now reached the point where it is going to take some doing to keep our high school.

At the present time, Belmond has a proposal under consideration, all according to law, that will strike a serious blow here if is goes through. We attended a meeting at Clarion, Monday evening. The purpose of the meeting was for hearing objections to the proposal as offered by the Belmond School. Compared to the number of people involved in the proposed Belmond district, the objectors were in an extreme minority.

We don't believe that some of the people in the Klemme territory realize just how far this thing has gone, or just what can happen in the not too far distant future. They have been thinking in terms of right now when what they should have been thinking about is a few years hence. If this Belmond proposal goes through, then we will lose a portion of the territory that we now serve. If this happens, we will be getting dangerously near the minimum enrollment required by law before a district can maintain a high school. If Belmond is allowed to encroach upon our territory, then we see no reason why some other bordering district will not feel that they can do the same, and there will go some more of our pupils. In other words, it's going to require the cooperation of everyone in the present Klemme service area if there is going to be a high school in Klemme for many more years.

This school reorganization thing is big and is going to affect everyone in the state before it is over with. What we are getting at, is that the way it looks now, every township district and independent district with enrollment under the 300 minimum, is eventually going to be made a part of some large district. If the right action is taken now, the district can be of their choosing. If not, in all probability, the county board of education will place them wherever they see fit.

Again we say, it's time to wake up!

New Title Law Took Effect October 1st

By Roy L. McMillin
County Treasurer

All new cars and trucks registered in Iowa from now on have a certificate of origin given to the buyer. This in turn is assigned to the new owner. This shows that it is a new unit.

The buyer presents this along with an application for a title to the COUNTY TREASURER. This application is signed by the purchaser and also is signed by the garage that sells. There is one place for the total purchase price and then a place to show the lien on the unit if there is a lien, or mortgage.

The application must show the purchasers first name, middle name in full, and last name. They will have to be returned if this is not complete.

The application must be witnessed by a notary public and seal shown.

The County Treasurer in turn will issue a title for the car or truck. No charge for title on new unit. You should take good care of this title for it is the only transfer you hold if you wish to dispose of the car or truck. There is also issued a registraion slip for the car.

If this is a used car or truck you must make application for title in the same manner but this title will cost you 75 cents. If there is a lien on it this will be an additional 75 cents. A duplicate title will cost you $2.00.

When a title is assigned to you and dated, it must be completed in 5 days or else there is a penalty of $5.00. This is the same as was made on transfers.

Before any car or truck can be sold and transferred you must have a title. If you do not change cars or trucks you need not buy title at this time. They will all be taken care of before 1958.

The title to any car or truck will be given to the owner if there is no lien. If there is a lien the title will be mailed to the one who holds the lien.

Noted Speaker and Youth Chorus to Highlight Program

The annual Hancock County Reformation Day Service, under under the sponsorship of the sponsorship of the County Ministerial Association, will be held in the Garner Memorial Building, Sunday, Octobed 25, at 8:00 P. M. The speaker for the county-wide service will be Dr. Reuben K. Youngdahl, noted pastor of the Mt. Olivet Lutheran Chucrh of Minneapolis, Minnesota. An additional feature of this year's Reformation Day Service will be the County Interdenominational Youth Chorus made up from young people from the entire county. The mass chorus will be under the capable direction of Miss Barbara Rankin, director of music of the Garner High School. Pastors from various churches in the county will take part in this service.

Dr. Youngdahl has been regarded by clergy and laymen alike as one of the leaders in the American church today. His church in Minneapolis, during his pastorate, has grown from 300 to 7,500 members. He has not only established himself as a leading pastor, but has written books, traveled extensively and served on many civic and national committees. His church, Mt. Olivet, was the first to be featured in the Christian Century as one of the "Twelve Great Churches in America." The Ministerial Association feels most fortunate in securing a man of this caliber to speak to the citizens of this area.

The youth of the county are reminded that they are all invited and urged to join in the mass Youth Chorus. The group will meet and organize at the First Methodist Church in Garner at 4:00 P. M., Sunday October 25. Lunch will be served by the youth groups of the cooperating churches of Garner after the rehearsal. An organ has also been secured for this special service to add to the worship in music.

The Hancock County Ministerial Association extends a cordial invitation to all persons of the area to hear Dr. Youngdahl, to hear the Youth Choral group and share in the 1953 Reformation Day Service.

County Treasurer Reports On Tax Collections

Mrs. Cosgriff Again Chief Operator On Klemme Exchange

Mrs. Francis Ames has resigned her position as operator on the local exchange of the Central Iowa Telephone Company. Saturday, October 17th, Mrs. George Cosgriff, who operated the exchange here from 1944 to 1949, took over as chief operator.

After leaving Klemme in 1949, Mr. and Mrs. Cosgriff operated the Coffee Shop at Ventura, until a year and a half ago when they moved to Garner. Saturday, they moved into the apartment in the building where the switchboard is located, and Mrs. Cosgriff is again seeing that calls go through as rapidly and as accurately as possible

Mr. and Mrs. Ames, who did live in this apartment, have moved into the house in east Klemme, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lieuwen. The Lieuwens have moved into the house formerly occupied by the W. H. Rosendahl family.

Sometime between the hours of midnight and daylight, Saturday morning, someone helped themselves to between thirty and forty quarts of oil from the drive at Don's D-X Service. Don says that if the oil is not of a suitable grade, he will be glad to exchange it if the person, or persons, who took it will bring it back.

When we returned Monday evening from the school meeting at Clarion, we noticed a car stopped at the "Y" west of Klemme. The machine, a two-tone red Mercury Monterey, was headed toward the east and there were several boys who appeared to be about high school age outside of the car. We did not recognize either the boys or the car, but we wish we had been where we could have gotten the number of the license plate. Then we would have found out who they were.

We had just gotten home and entered the house when this same two-tone car came by on main street, headed east. Whoever was at the wheel, must have thought he was in a race. He really had that Mercury "wrapped up". If he was moving at all, we would venture to say, that he was getting up toward 60 or 70 miles an hour.

Tuesday morning, we found that someone had been doing considerable tearing around in a car from about ten o'clock until ten-thirty. It was just about ten-thirty when we got home, and we would bet that the car load we saw were the ones responsible for all the commotion.

We can understnd young people wanting to snap a car around a bit, but we can't understand anyone driving through the streets of a town at such a terrific rate of speed. They'll pick that kid up in a hand basket someday.

Trouble is, there's no telling how many others may have to be picked up at the same time.

Fewer hogs will come to market this fall and winter than a year ago.

10 YEARS AGO—

The ladies of the Reformed Church packed and sent eleven Christmas gift boxes to the boys of their church who are overseas.

Miss Luella Lewis, who is taking nurses training at Des Moines, visited over the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lewis.

The past two weeks our school has sold $104.95 in stamps and $300 in war bonds. We want to beat this record in the next two weeks, so don't forget to bring your money next Friday.

Basetkball practice is now in full swing. Verne Greimann is the only one remaining from last year's team. Others who saw some action with the first team last year are: Allen Lau, Edward Buntenbach, Ewald Grosshuesch, Herbert Mueller, Ed Barz, Harlan Nuehring, and Ronald Brinkman.

20 YEARS AGO—

Asa Arnold, Wayne Pavey, Paul Grange, C. G. Waterman, Art Kudje, and R. A. Jorgenson, members of the Klemme Rifle Club, entered several matches in the First Annual North Iowa Small Bore tournament held at the rifle range at Mason City, Sunday, in which over sixty shooter from Des Moines, Ames, Waterloo, Clarion Fort Dodge and other cities took part. C. G. Waterman placed first in the Class B. shooting over the 100 yard course.

Dr. H. G. Voetberg, who has been practicing as a veterinarian at Grundy Center, is now located in Klemme and will practice in this cmmunity.

Wilbur Arnold, who is attending school at Ames, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold.

Mr. and Mrs. R .W. Elder and Reva and John Waddingham were dinner guests at the B. H. Katter home, Sunday.

30 YEARS AGO—

County Superintendent J. R. Baggs was in town on business last Thursday and cast his critical eye on our school house with a satisfactory o. k.

It is estimated that a crowd between three thousand and four thousand people were in Klemme last Friday night to hear Rev. Tom Roberts, state Ku Klux Klan speaker.

Sunday was a beautiful autumn day and many took advantage of it for long drives.

An old time invitation dance was given at the Idle Hour last Thursday evening which was enjoyed by all.

County Public Nurse Gives September Report

Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke, has released her report for the month of September. Among some of the visitors reported at her office were Miss Muriel Lehman, Field Nurse, state service for crippled children, Iowa City; Miss Joy Harmon, R. N. B. S. Tuberculosis Nursing Consultast; Miss Wanda M. Rex, R. N. Field Director for Cancer; Miss Jeanne Strom, regional director, Public Health Nursing; and Mr. L. B. Blom, director of division of Special Education, for Kossuth, Hancock and Winnebago counties.

Miss Lemke spoke to five organization teas during the month. At Madison, Twin Lake and Avery township meetings she spoke on "Public Health Nursing", at a meeting in Liberty township she showed a film, "Preface To A Life" and at the Hi C club in Garner the film "Help Wanted" was shown. At each meeting a question and answer session followed the regular program.

In addition to local meetings and many visits to various individuals and schools in the county Miss Lemke attended the T. B. regional conference at Mason City on September 22, and the Retarded Children Parents meeting at Forest City on September 12.

Miss Lemke advises that one of the diseases which has been on the increase in Iowa in recent years is Infectious Hepatitis which according to Dr. Ralph Heeren, director of the division of Preventable Diseases, is the schools' number one problem now. Dr. Heeren's division has prepared in Infectious Hepatitis leaflet for teachers, individuals and members of P. T. A. Groups, asd these are available in the office of the Public Health Nurse as well as numerous other pamphets pertaining to Health and Welfare.

Dr. Heeren also reports that polio cases in Iowa this year than for the same period last year, with only 421 cases reported by September 13, as against 2237 reported for the same preiod last year.

INJURED

Ten year old Lynn Hanson, of Algona, was injured in a freak accident there recently. While Algona firemen were staging a demonstration of a new pumper fire engine, the nozzle got out of control and a stream of water slammed Lynn against the curb. He received a fractured skull.

the Highway Story
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

By mid-morning the sun had warmed away the autumn chill and the young children fell heir to the neighborhood of backyards, empty garages and quiet alleys.

After a time, seven children too young for school were wandering about together easily creating whole news worlds as they went—worlds where cowboys shott Indians who suddenly became football players chased by lions that just as quickly became spacemen traveling between planets.

An occasional mother coming out to the clothes line intruded briefly on these worlds with mild warnings or a handkerchief for a running nose, but none of them wished to destroy the blessing of preoccupied children.

Late in the morning the youngsters became interested in the heavy fall of leaves in the yards. They pushed together one huge pile and spent some time throwing themselves into it.

Then they collected smaller piles of leaves, one for each, and began a game of hiding and creeping and surprise. It was an excellent game and lasted until the lunch hour began to cause casualties in the group.

Shortly after 12 o'clock, only two children were left with the seven piles of leaves. They went from one to another to hide silently for a moment then burst out with cries of triumph.

One of the piles of leaves was in a driveway. One of the children, a four-year-old boy, was hiding there, silently, when the car turned in quickly and headed for the garage.

Every year in Iowa at least one child is killed when a car runs over the pile of leaves that is his hiding place.

Editorial

We would like to congratulate the juniors on their fine play last Wednesday night. We thought it was very good, and we believe that most of he people who saw it are of the same opinion. It was very entertaining. One thing the juniors are to be especially commented for is the fact that they talked loud enough so that everyone could hear them. Some of the previous class plays had this fault, but it was not evident in this one. We thank the juniors for their play, "Father's Wife", and a very entertaining evening.

Third Grade

Two more of our class have returned their dental cards. They are Kathleen Koerner and Verlinda Stahl.

We are reading the story of wheat in social studies. Julie Stokesbary brought us some real wheat. We enjoyed looking at it.

Several people have had birthdays and treated us to candy bars.

Second Grade

The Fairy and Brownie reading groups are now reading in their new books.

In arithmetic we are learning the difference between less and more.

We are decorating our room with the traditional Halloween decorations.

Janette and Janelle Greiman and Danny Mau treated the room to candy and gum on their birthdays.

On Tuesday we were happy to have Mrs. Mau visit our room.

? ? of the Week

Would you be in favor of forming a pep club? Why?

Berleene B.: Yes, because we might get more backing for our at home games and away.

Keith Nuehring: Yes, so I can sit by my girl. (Who is the lucky one Keith? ? ? ? ?)

Elmer H.: Yes, so we can have a lot of fun.

Janice and Daisy: Yes, if we would form a pep club they could go on the bus and therefore we would have a bettter cheering section and more team support.

Joan Lemke: Yes, I think it would be a good idea. It would keep all the kids together at a game instead of all scattered around.

Dick Dulmes: Yes, because I think we would have better attendance at games away from home.

Gordon Beier: Yes, I would. I suppose because it would be a lot more fun.

Freshman News

In English we have been trying to spell difficult words and pick out the right verbs.

In math we are making all sorts of figures such as parallelograms, squares, and rectangles with a ruler, a compass, and a protractor.

In science we are studying water and its use, but we are using our readers "Current Science and Aviation" right at the present. We have one student conduct the class and ask questions while the other students give reports on the subject.

In home economics the girls are starting to cook. we are cooking fruits in different ways.

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

Did the earrings bother so bad that they had to take them off after the play, or did Lee and Graydon complain? How about this Carol and Gracka?

Why didn't Juda go to that skating party? I bet there was a reason.

The cycle must be starting for Lois Christians again. I hear Raliegh Beatie took her to the homecoming dance Friday night.

What is this "double-crossing" business that Gordon Lemke is talking about? Maybe Ione has been stepping out on him.

Denny Haefner likes to change from one Garner girl to another. Now it's Mildred Neved.

How come Joan Lemke hasn't heard from Chuck lately? ? ? It couldn't be that "Jealous Joe" has sent a bug to "Chilly Chuck" to leave "Jumping Joan" alone. But then the way it looks on Sunday afternoon that Clarence is her one and only.

Now that Gordon and Ione are no longer dating, the road is open for Tom Waddingham. It probably won't be long before his old "Chevie" just rolls automatically to Ione's house in the very near future probably.

It seems that Carole and Marlene really were popular after the class play last Wednesday night. Could you handle all four boys alright, girls?

JoAnn Burgess sure felt good after the play, also. Was it just because of a certain boy that appeared at the play?

Was there a little mix-up or what Wednesday night, Darlene R.? It seems she came to town early by herself and then later Duane came walking in with her folks.

What popular, local athletic coach brings his own eggs into the local restaurant to be fried for his breakfast? OUR JOB! ! ! Find out where he keeps the chickens.

Why is it Keith picks such short girls about Karen C. height? How about it Keith? ? ? ?

June, why are you always tossing side glances at Herbert G.? Herb sure doesn't seem to mind this.

Why is it that Janice, Berleen, and Eva like to go skating at Lake Cornelia so well? Could there be interesting people there? Tell us why girls.

Who is the Clarion boy that JoAnn Burgess has on her mind? I hear he brought her home from the skating rink Sunday night. Come on JoAnn, give us the rest of the story.

Who's ring did Marvin S. have about a week ago? LaVohn has one on just like it right now. Is that where it belonged in the first place Marvin? ? ?

Senior Interview

JoAnn Burgess, who is often called "Tweet Tweet" was born where she now lives southeast of Klemme on July 11, 1937. She is now sixteen, her height is five feet one inch, and she weighs ninety pounds. She has brown hair and blue eyes.

Before coming to Klemme Public School in her fifth year, she went to a country school, District No. 4 in Avery Township.

JoAnn's favorite orchestra is Guy Lombardo's; favorite singer is Frankie Lane; and favorite songs are "I Believe" and "Hey Joe". JoAnn's favorite movie is "Hans Christian Anderson". For actors and actresses JoAnn replied, "I like all of them." Fried chicken is one of her favorite foods.

One of JoAnn's pastimes is reading. She is often heard saying "Oh, mercy". People who like you one day and the next day don't know you, is one of her main pet peeves. "I have a good time all the time," she said when asked what was her most enjoyable time.

During her junior year she was in the class play, and she is librarian this year. Planning to go on to college and become an elementary teacher are her future plans.

Girls' Sports

We've really been getting our fill of practice lately. First, most of us couldn't wait for practice to start, and now we can't wait for it to let up. I think it's the running that gets us. Our first game is scheduled with Hayfield for November 4 in the Klemme Gym. Let's have all of you out to see the first game.

Sophomore News

Biology: Our study this week consisted of the study of the simpler animals.

Algebra: We are now doing addition and subtraction of equations.

History: We've begun the study of the Germans.

Literature: Reading different stories of interest.

Eighth Grade News

We have planned a field trip on Friday if the weather remains sunny.

We have recently joined a book club and this will be interesting to all.

In arithmetic we are having a contest on individual scores. The girls have a slight edge over the boys at the present.

Monday we started basketball practice and are arranging our playing scheduale. We hope to have some fine games.

Music News

"BUCKLE DOWN YOU SHAMROCKS, BUCKLE DOWN!" Believe it or not, there is a little more force than voice behind all that singing. That force is the Pep Band. This year, we are trying something different. There will be two pep bands, who will take turns playing during the games here.

Senior News

American Literature: We have discussed some of Poe's poems, which are mostly about an untimely death of a beautiful woman, and William Bryant's poem, "Thanatopis" (thoughts about death).

American History: "Our Times", which deals with present news happenings, arrived and one day a week was set aside to discuss it.

Algebra: We have started a chapter on solving equations after having a test over the chapter on fractions.

Sociology: A chapter on "Juvenile Delinquency" is our present topic.

Advanced Shop: Some of the boys have finished their projects while others are still sanding theirs.

Bookkeeping: We hve started a new chapter on "Recording of Buying of Merchandise on Account".

Home Economics II: The sewing projects, which will take most of the time until Christmas, are started.

Fourth Grade

On October 5th we were happy to have Karen White visit our room for the afternoon.

Last week we had two birthdays to celebrate. They were Kenneth Wilson and Clarice Ann Arnold. Each of them treated the class to candy bars.

Billy Renner reurned his dental card.

For social studies some of us did special projects for our jungle unit. Keith Christians, Tom Burgess, Raymond Howard, and Collyn Bridges built miniature animal traps. Billy Clabaugh native. Karl Nannenga made a small blow gun. Those on the committee for a bulletin board about the jungle were Joyce Hummel, Clarice Ann Arnold, Franklin Neuberger, Judith Swanson, and Janet Murray. They did a fine job.

First Grade

Marilyn and Rosalyn Arnold and Janelle Hanson have treated the first grade on their sixth birthday.

In reading, the Bluebirds have finished reading "We Look and See" and have started to read "We Work and Play".

In numbers we are learning to count by ten's and to count to one hundred. We are also learning to distinguish from one an other the numbers from one to ten.

These boys and girls have returned their dental cards; Larry Kluckhohn, Lynn Alden, Marilyn Arnold, Rosalyn Arnold, Jim Stahl, Leland Jurgemeyer, Bill Arnold, Mary Harson, Richard Trampel, Dorothy Bruggeman, and Sandra Zeiger.

A young man while on the beach remarked, "I may not be a cowboy, but I can tell a good calf when I see one.

WHY "KALONA?"

A historian at Kalona tells how that Iowa town got its name. When a railroad station was built on John Myers' pasture land, he was allowed to name the new town. His first suggestion, was "Myersville," was rejected by railroad officials, so he suggested "Kalona," which was accepted. Kalona was the name bore at that time, by Mr. Myers' registered herd sire.

Iowa Creameries Produce 14% of Nation's Butter

Production of creamery butter in Iowa during 1952 comprised 14 per cent of the nation's total production and ranked second among states in butter output with 173,785,000 pounds, according to a release from the Iowa Development Commission.

Of Iowa's total cash income from farm products of $2,214,238,000, which ranks second in the nation, dairy products provide the third largest source of farm income livestock and products in Iowa with $164,287,000, topped only by hogs and cattle.

Last year in Iowa 412 persons were injured in corn-picker accidents.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Christians and James drove to Payton, Sunday, and were dinner guests with Mrs. Christians' aunt, Mrs. Pete Thompson. On the way home, they stopped at Gowrie and had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Finnicum.

Mrs. Roy Schaefer, Mrs. Walter Lemke, Mrs. Martin Brinkman, and Mrs. Lydia Ax drove to Clear Lake, Monday afternoon to attend the funeral service for Mrs. Chauncy Mervin of Jacksonville, Tennessee. Mrs. Mervin was killed instantly in a car accident last Thursday in Tennessee. Her husband is the Rev. Chauncy Mervin.

Don Schaefer and Leonard Swanson left last Friday for northern Minnesota for a couple of days fishing. They stopped in Swea City and picked up Harvey Hubbard, who accompanied on the trip. The men returned home Monday evening, and report that fishing was pretty good. Don picked up an eight pound northern, and Leonard a six pound walleye. Otherwise their catch was about the normal run.

Liberty No. 6

Perfect spellers last Friday were: David, Audrey, Linda, Beverly, Joyce, Albert, Kenneth, Kathleen and Karen. During the past three weeks, Herschel Lemke has made the greatest improvement in his spelling.

Denis has finished his sixth pre-primer.

Friday afternoon we drew pictures on colored paper, and outlined them with kernels of corn.

We are enjoying the story of "Lazy Liza Lizzard", which our teacher is reading to us.

On Monday, the pupils in grades two to eight spent one period reading their story books. Five of the pupils gave short oral reports on the books they were reading.

Lydia Pearson, teacher

Liberty No. 7

Daryl Brager found a piece of petrified wood in Wyoming last summer. Last week he brought it to school for everyone to see. Everyone wondered how it could have turned into stone and have become so heavy.

Grace, Daryl, and Richard had 100 percent in spelling last week.

Our Hallowe'en program will be October 30, at 8 o'clock. Besides giving a program, we will sell lunch, candy, and home made doughnuts. There will also be a drawing for a dressed chicken and a duck.

Aline Burgess, teacher

Liberty No. 8

We are busy learning our parts for our Hallowe'en program to be given Friday eve, October 30. We will have the drawings for two ducks, a rooster and a pair of bantams. We plan to sell lunch, home made candy, and pop corn balls.

We are making Hallowe'en pictures for art work.

Our perfect spellers for the week are Joann and James Beier, Lois Hummel, Eugene Zwald, Kathryn Gast and Donna Stille.

Eugene Zwald was absent on Friday.

One of our gold fish died. We have two left.

Bertha Johnson, teacher

Liberty No. 9

We missed getting last week's news in on time, we will include the news for the two weeks now.

Wednesday, October 14th, we went for a hike to the river and back. We found many pretty stones, which we are now finding names for. We also found some wild rice along the way.

Friday, John Abele was out of school due to a badly sprained wrist received while playing in the swings.

We who were present Friday, made some 3-D Hallowe'en pictures in art class.

Those receiving A's in spelling for the past two weeks are: Kathryn Olthoff, Elaine Eenhuis, Margaret Pringnitz and Richard Meyer.

Esther Circle Met

Esther Circle met Tuesday evening in the Methodist Church parlors. Miss Marie Blank and Mrs. Mary Jane Jorgenson were hostesses.

The meeting opened with group singing followed by a devotional period in charge of Mrs. T. G. Ahrenkiel, lesson leader.

A playlet was presented by a group of members. Mrs. Roy Arnold, circle chairman, led a short service in connection with "Week of Prayer and Self Denila".

There were fourteen present. Following a business meeting, the hostesses served a delicious lunch.

What is the difference between an "atomic bomb" and a "radiation bomb"?

Both of these bombs have been much in the news relating to the development of atomic energy by governmental agencies, but they are vastly different in the action and in their objective.

Until our atomic energy program was able to supply artificially radio-active substances from its furnaces, or "piles", raditaion bombs were developed that used several grams of radium as the source of the gamma rays that kill cancer cells. There was too little radium and what was available was so expensive that few radium bombs were ever constructed and used. Certain metals, especially cobalt, when exposed for long perios, in a "pile" produced isotopes which emitted gamma rays similiar to those given off by radium, but, if anything, more power-ful. Cobalt is a relatively inexpensive metal and its exposure in the pile could be effected at little or no added expense.

The advantage of any radiation bomb is that the available bem of rays is stronger so that the longer and softer rays may be filtered out while the shorter, harder, and more penetrating rays, permit the radiation source to be farther from the patient. This in turn, means that a deep-seated cancer can be given a larger dose than otherwise.

With a close-by radiation source, the skin receives much more radiation than does the deep tumor, but with the radiation source farther away the doses received by the two structures are more nearly equal and the effect on the cancer is greater.

All such bombs consist essentially of a small source of radioactive material (not much larger than two or three cubes of sugar) placed in a lead container weighing several tons and provided with an aperture that can be closed. When in use the hole is opened and the rays pass out through it. By concentrating the rays in a beam the effect on the body is limited to the tissues penetrated by the beam.

For answers to cancer questions write American Cancer Society, Mason City.

One-Third of Nation's Timothy Crop From Iowa

Iowa will again lead the nation in production of timothy seed, this year, and provide one-third of the total U. S. crop supply, the Iowa Development Commission has announced.

Despite the smallest anticipated crop harvest of clean timothy seed in Iowa since 1948, and estimated production for Iowa in 1953 of 8,265,000 pounds will constitute one-third of the national forecast of 24,002,000 pounds, the smallest expected crop nationally since 1948, due to unfavorable seasonal conditions.

Iowa's production of timothy seed represents a strong and secure leadership among states, with Missouri second in production with 6,960,000 pounds. Other leading states, including Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania, produce 8,777,000 pounds combined, as compared to Iowa's production of 8,265,000 pounds.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Dan. Henderson
County Extension Director

More fed cattle will continue to come to market during the next few months than a year ago. But the increase over a year ago won't be as great as it has earlier this year.

These are the conclusions from a survey of the cattle on feed in the three main Corn Belt states—Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska—by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on October 1, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist points out.

Illinois and Nebraska both had slightly fewer cattle on feed October 1 than a year earlier. But the 10 percent boost in Iowa more than offset these declines.

The ample supply of fed cattle probably means that while prices of fed cattle will have more stability than earlier in the year, at the same time no pronounced price advance for the upper grades is likely during the next 6 weeks, Kutish concludes.

The movement of range cattle to market thus far this fall has not been large enough to result in any general market glut of cattle. Prices held reasonably steady.

Spotted days of large market receipts, however, have resulted in slow trading and downward pressure on prices of the poorer grades of cattle, Kutish reports. This may point ahead to the conditions that will exist as the movement of range cattle gets into full swing in late October and November.

Fewer cattle have gone on feed thus far this fall than during the same period last year. Signs now point to about a half-million fewer cattle on feed January 1, 1954, than a year earlier.

One of the most important and also most unpredictable factors in the demand for feeder cattle is the prospect for wheat pastures. The outlook for wheat pastures is not encouraging right now. But this situation could change with widespread rainfall.

The expected price decline in feeder cattle could be substantially lessened—if not wiped out—if widespread rainfall in the near future produces good fall wheat pastures according to Kutish.

Your Hospital Auxiliary at Work

The Woman's Hospital Auxiliary met Friday afternoon at the hospital. Mrs. Frank W. Senneff, chairman, spoke on the work of the Auxiliary and explained the way in which this organization can and will be a service to the hospital. She named some of the projects that can be carried on and asked that all the organizations in the county be 100 per cent in being typed for the blood bank and in being a service to the hospital. She presented a chart showing the organization of the Auxiliary in the county.

Miss Clestine Lorenz, Director of Nurses at the hosptial, gave a most interesting talk on "Maternity and Infant Care" and told of all the steps taken for the safety of the mother and infant.

The Garner Branch served a lovely tea and the personnel of the hospital were guests.

The Women's Auxiliary is fast becoming an organization of interested women who are proud of this hospital and want to be a service to it. If you live in Hancock County and are interested in this hospital, and your name is not on the membership list, please call the following people in your towns and let them know that you wish to belong to this group of women interested in being a service:

Britt, Mrs. H. R. Morgan; Garner, Mrs. E. F. Bock; Duncan, Mrs. John Lorenz; Hayfield, Mrs. A. L. Christenson; Corwith, Mrs. Esta Schulz; Goodell, Mrs. Kenneth Boller.

Ell Tip Toppers Met

The regular meeting of the Ell Tip Toppers was held at the home of Myrna Barz, October 10, 1953. The meeting was called to order by telling "What we Would Like To learn This Year." There were twenty members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Gordon Schubert is our new leader.

We decided to have a Mother's Tea at the Grade School. Committees are as follows:

Invitations, Joyce Thiemann, Myrna Barz, Virginia Kudje and Gracka Gerardi.

Corsages, Doreen Lackore, Carol Humphrey and Elaine Weiland.

Gifts, Lois Weiland, Barbara Clayton, and Rosalie Rosendahl.

Program, LaVohn Josten, Betty Clayton, Elaine Jurgemeyer, and Maurine Johnson.

Lunch, Jane Renner, Roxanne Back and Eva Thiemann.

Doreen Lackore and Elaine Jurgemeyer were chosen to go to music training school and Rosalie Rosendahl is alternate.

We decided that the officers were to meet and plan the program for the year.

Fourteen girls decided to keep expense account books this year.

Eva Thiemann gave a talk on Citizenship. We had a workshop to make gifts for our mothers.

Meeting was adjourned and the "Pledge" was said.

Hancock County Board Proceedings

1ST ADJOURNED SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
September 21, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervsiors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second Wm. Henschen of Garner is hereby appointed Preliminary Engineer to make an investigation into the necessity and feasibility of the establishment of a sub-drainage district of D.D. No. 108, by tile drains, through sections 12 and 13-95-26, Boone township, petitioned for by Mrs. Wylie Keenan, which petition was filed September 18, 1953. Said Engineer to report to this Board at his earliest convenience.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D.D. No. 151, Lt No. 1.

This being the 21st day of September 1953, a date heretofore fixed for a hearing on the repair of D.D. No. 96, petitioned for by Richard Schubert, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the report of the Engineer recommending such repair, the proof of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. The petition and report of the Engineer were read by the County Auditor and objections and proponents were given the opportunity to discuss the necessity and feasibility of the repair of D.D. No. 69 as petitioned for and as recommended in the report of the Engineer. There were no written objections on file and no objectors appeared. After thorough discussion it was deemed advisable to approve the repair as recommended by the Engineer, Wm. Henschen, with exception of the builkhead item which will be repaired rather than be replaced by a new bulkhead.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D.D. No. 69 petitioned for by Richard Schubert, that said repair as recommended by the Engineer, be and the same is hereby approved, as amended. In accordance with Sec. 455.-135, Code of Iowa 1950 no letting is required with the amendment inclussion on the bulkhead item reducing the cost of repairs below 50% of the original total cost of the district.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Barber, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

WHEREAS Wm. Henschen was appointed Preliminary Engineer as commanded in Chapter 455 Code of Iowa 1950, and laws amendatory thereto, on Sept. 14, 1953 to make a survey, investigation, and report on the necessity and feasibility of the construction of a Sub-District of D.D. No. 155, petitioned for by E. F. Bock, et al, and said Engineer did file his report on Sept. 17, 1953, which report states that he has investigated and surveyed the lands in the proposed sub-district of D.D. No. 155 and finds the present system of drainage inadequate and recommends that said sub-district be constructed as prayed in the prayer of the petitioners and that such improvement will be conducive to public health, welfare, convenience and utility and that the benefits to be derived will be greater than the cost thereof.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County acting for and in the behalf of the proposed sub-district of D.D. No. 155 petitioned for by E. F. Bock, et al, that the report of the Engineer be and the same is hereby approved as a tentative plan and may be amended before final action thereon and said report of the Engineer and plan shall come on for further hearing at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa at 1:30 P.M. on the 2nd day of November, 1953.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of hearing on the report of the Engineer and plan of said improvement to be published in The Garner Leader and Signal, a newspaper of general circulation published in Garner, Iowa, advising all owners, occupants, lienholders and encumbrances of record in the proposed district of the petition on file for proposed construction, the favorable report of the Engineer thereon, the approval of the Board of Supervisors of the report of the Engineer as a tentative plan, and that same may be amended before final action thereon and that all claims for damages and objections to such construction shall be in writing and must be filed with the County Auditor at or before the time set for hearing thereon.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second assignment of Tax Sale Certificate No. 2201 to Alfred Price of Britt, Iowa, is hereby approved as shown by Treasurer's Receipt No. 982.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to October 2, 1953 at 9 o'clock A.M.

ATTEST:
Maynard Schoneman,
County Auditor
Clinton D. Daniels,
Chairman

2nd ADJOURNED SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
October 2, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clarence Bird, Clint Daniels and S. A. Barber present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

DUMMY

Even Van't Hul, Sioux Center, thought he was seeing things one night recently, as he drove his truck along the highway near Austin, Minn. Some pranksters had hung a dummy from an overhead bridge and the "corpse" went through the windshield of Mr. Van't Hul's truck.

BURNED

Phil Steig of Lake City was severely burned recently, in lighting an outdoor bottle-gas cooker. Escaping gas became ignited when he lit the cooker.

KILLED

A .22 calibre rifle bullet took the life of Larry Waddell, 16 year old Earlham youth. While rabbit hunting, Larry raised up in front of a hunting companion just as the latter fired at a rabbit and the bullet struck him in the head.

THEFT

A casual thief entered the office of the Hawkeye Lumber company during the noon hour, and while the one employee on duty was out in the lumber yard, removed $137 from the cash drawer.

One of the best safeguards against swine influenza is providing the hogs with well-ventilated, dry shelter for cool nights.

The Answers to a Big Question—

What's Ahead for the 4-H Girl?

October is 4-H enrollment month throughout the nation. And this quartet of Iowa 4-H girls could give other potential members a glowing account of what it means to be a 4-H'er in terms of learning and living.

Last year more than 23,000 Iowa girls from 10 to 21 years old took part in a program designed to help them grow into capable, versatile women with a talent for friendship, a natural bent for happy homemaking and an active, inquiring interest in community and world affairs.

These may seem like mighty high-sounding words to a little 10-year-old 4-H girl who has just received her clover-shaped membership pin and donned her blue and white uniform for the first time. But let's just travel along with her and see the kinds of things she'll be learning and doing as an Iowa 4-H girl in the next few years.

Homemaking Skills

Each year she'll be working on a special home economics project. This might be in clothing, home furnishings or foods, whichever subject the girls' 4-H clubs in her county are taking up that year. These home economics subjects are adopted by each county on a three-year cycle basis. That means a long-time 4-H girl will have an opportunity to take projects in each field at different age levels, and she can suit each special project to her own interests and abilities. Through the years she'll learn much of these three homemaking skills that will be valuable to her when she marries and has a home of her own.

In food and nutrition, she'll first of all check up on her own diet and get an understanding of just how much good nutrition can do for her. She'll learn through lots of practice to plan and serve appetizing, atractive and health-boosting meals for her family; how to use food resources wisely; how to can and freeze foods; and how to make the most of her time and energy in all these activities.

Home Furnishings

In her home furnishings projects she'll learn to see beauty in nature, in structures, in color, and she'll develop the skill to create some of that same beauty in her own room and home. She will develop some ability to select and make tasteful furnishings in keeping with what she and her family like. She'll absorb some appreciation of art through studying well-known pictures. She might undertake doing her own room over from top to bottom.

In clothing projects she'll study fabric, design and color and apply what she's learned in selecing clothes. She'll learn the importance and the art of good grooming, how to take good care of her wardrobe. With training in clothing construction she'll acquire skill at the sewing machine. She might make herself a whole outfit lovely enough to enter in the county style review and perhaps take her on to the might be one of the girls to win a coveted good grooming award at the annual convention on the Iowa State College campus.

Other Projects

Any year of her 4-H membership, she can also carry projects in gardening, poultry and some beautification, if she likes. In home beautification work, she'll learn how to decide what improvements are needed on her home grounds and how to select, place and care for all kinds of plants, shrubs and trees.

There'll be special activities taken up by the whole club, as well—all kinds of recreational and music activities, parties, field days and different social events. All the girls will receive citizenship training, will take part in a health improvement program, learn special crafts, study nature and conservation and crafts in 4- and 5-day camping sessions; take part in special service projects such as raising money for charities and donating to the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

4-H Leaders

And just who is it that works with the girls, helps them plan their activities and does so much of the work and thinking involved in carrying out a well-integrated, wholesome and worthwhile program year after year?

At the local club level there are two volunteer local leaders, chosen from among capable homemakers with a knack for getting along with young people At the county level there's a leaders' committee of about 7 similar homemakers who meet frequently with the local leaders and the county extension home economist to plan and develop the years' program for that county. At the state level, there's State 4-H Girls' Leader Esther Whetstone and her staff at Iowa State College. They, along with subject matter specialists in textiles, foods and nutrition, music and recreation, direct state events and give the training and guidance to the county home economics and leaders.

W.S.C.S. Held Christmas For Missions Program

The Christmas for Missions program was held at the Church parlors on Thursday October 15. Christmas decorations were carried out and Christmas songs were sung. The Women's Society of Christian Service Sextet sang "Silent Night" and Mrs. Hummel read a poem.

Mrs. Chester Renner directed the singing and Mrs. Everett Guth had the devotions after which Mrs. A. J. Kudje, our supply chairman, asked each one to look at the gifts brought for the missions. Supplies amounted to $123.36 and 45½ dozen cookies went to four mission homes.

Cockies and coffee were served to the 45 members attending.

New Chemicals Keep Potatoes Sprout-Free

Chemicals that will keep sprouts from developing on stored potatoes help maintain quality of the potatoes.

And this is the way they do that, reports Ben Vance, Iowa State College extension horticulturist: If you keep potatoes at temperaures under 38 degrees to keep them from developing sprouts, you get a change in flavor of tubers. Between 40 and 45 degrees, the flavor holds true but sprouts develop. The chemical inhibitor, however, can be used to block the disadvantage of storage at the higher temperature for best quality and flavor.

The chemical that Vance recommends for inhibiting sprouts is the methyl ester of alpha-naphthalen-eacetic acid. Some of the trade names under which this material is sold include Barsprout, Dow Sprout Inhibitor, Potato Fix, Spud-Keep and Stop Sprout.

The inhibitors are available as dusts, sprays or shredded paper that has been impregnated with the chemical. Vance thinks the latter is about the handiest to use for most home storage. Just distribute it through the product at the time it is stored.

Vance adds one reminder—this chemical should not be used on potatoes that will be used for seed.

Iowa's Big Locks

Did you ever go through those amazing Mississippi locks at Davenport?

They're actually as big as those in the Panama Canal! And it takes 27 such locks to get a barge from St. Louis to St. Paul. With any one lock out, however, all river traffic would stop.

Really, our American way of life is a lot like that chain of locks. Let folks take away one of our American rights and eventually they may block the whole channel of our freedom and democracy. Because intolerant people who like to tinker with the rights of others never seem to be satisfied. Give 'em an inch and they take a mile.

Let's be sure we let no one break the perpetual chain of freedom . . . in our community or our nation. Each person has a right to his own way of life, to choose for himself, think for himself . . and a duty to be tolerant of those same rights in others.

Yes, let's keep that current of democracy strong and free.

THE KLEMME TIMES

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, OCTOBER 28, 1953 | VOLUME 58 NUMBER 45

Results Gratifying

What amounts to one of the finest endorsements the town of Klemme ever had, took place on Tuesday. That was the day that volunteer workers circulated petitions in the town proper and/ in the surrounding rural areas, to see how many of the voters in a proposed new Klemme school district would indicate a willingness to be a part of said district.

It was, to some degree, a back-to-the-wall effort on the part of the people of Klemme. An effort to keep their high school, which was on the verge of being pushed into oblivion. As the workers started out on their rounds, there was considerable conjecture as to just how the proposal would be received, but the final results of their day's work showed that there need not have been any doubt. One-third of the qualified voters, living in a proposed area, petitioning for the formation of the district, would have been enough to bring about a hearing on the proposal, but considerably more than the one-third required, signed in favor. In fact, they showed that they favored the Klemme school almost 100%.

Actual percentage figures show that 94% of the voters living in the proposed new school district, favor the formation of the district.

This vote of confidence in the Klemme school and in the town of Klemme is very gratifying to the volunteer workers who circulated the petitions, and to the men who set up the plan. It should make every resident of Klemme a little more proud of his town. Many towns the size of Klemme are going to lose their high schools in the shuffle which goes with reorganization, but it looks now as though we have enough friends in the rural areas, who think of Klemme as "Their Town", to enable us to keep our school.

Their is work to be done yet before the proposed new district can actually come into being, but with the people feeling as they do, we feel quite sure that the work will be done.

School District Reorganization Gets Big Boost

'53 Corn Loan Rote To Be $1.52 to $1.60

Two important announcementts regarding corn have been made in the past few days, according to A. E. Rasmussen, chairmen of the Hancock County PMA committee.

One announcement was that the price support loan rate in 1953 corn will be the same as for the 1952 crop. The other was that storage payments will be made to farmers who redeem resealed 1952 crop corn, oats and wheat before the expiration of the reseal period.

For the state as a whole, the 1953 corn loan rate will range fom $1.52 to $1.60 per bushel. The loan rate for Hancock county will be $1.54. Loans and purchase agreements on the new crop will be available from the time of harvest through May 31, 1954. All loans will mature next July 31. To be eligible for price support protection, new corn must grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only.

Discussing the new offer on storage fee payment, Chairman Rasmussen pointed out that the reseal programs announced last spring on corn, oats and wheat provided the making of such payments only on grain held for to the government.
the full reseal period and then delivered to the government in satisfaction of loans.

The program has now been broadened ti include storage payments to farmers who pay off their loans as well as those who deliver it. The storage payments on the redeemed grain will be prorated for the length of extended or reseal time the grain is under loan. The storage rates for the full reseal periods are as follows: Corn, 13 cents per bushel for a full reseal period ending next July 31; oats, 10 cents per bushel for the full reseal period ending April 30, and wheat 14 or 15 cents per bushel, depending on the state, for the full reseal period ending April 30.

The new plan on storage payments is intended to encourage farmers to repay price support loans instead of delivering grain

High School To Open Basketball Season On Local Floor Wednesday

Next Wednesday evening will see the opening of the 1953-'54 basketball season for both the boys and girls teams of the Klemme High School when they meet Hayfield on the local floor.

The teams have heavy schedules for this year, with the boys taking part in 21 games other than tournaments, and the girls in 19 other than tournaments.

There are 23 boys out for basketball in KHS this year and 15 girls. Among the candidates for the boys there are seven lettermen, and among the girls there are four former letter winners.

Interest in basketball should run higher this year than it has for the past few years as the local school is member of a newly formed conference which includes Franklin Consolidated, Fertile, Ventura, Dows, Sheffield, and Klemme. First conference game for the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes will be at Fertile on the night of November 13.

The conference is expected to be tough, but fans should see plenty of good basketball if they attend the games this year.

Klemme Lions Club To Sponsor Ground Observer Post Here

The Klemme Lions Club enjoyed another dinner meeting that was held in the grade school cafeteria last Wednesday evening. Seventeen members and one guest were served a delicious meal by the Legion Auxiliary. Hallowe'en decorations were added to brighten up the surroundings.

Entertainment was provided by Tech. Sgt. Roland of the Des Moines Air Craft Filter Center. He showed a movie based on how to organize a Ground Observer Post in a community. After the film, he urged the Lions to sponsor a post in Klemme. He stressed the fact that Klemme and Iowa are in a direct line with three Russian bases located in the Arctic region. The Russians would use these bases in case of war as bases from which their planes could reach and bomb, midwestern industrial targets. The fact was cited that this county is without an observation post so it was moved and seconded that our club sponsor such a post. William Fuss was appointed chairman of the project. He stated that he would appoint five more members to form a nucleus to man the post which will be at the fire station. After the post gets into operation. Lion Fuss plans to call for volunteers from the Klemme community. Plane spotting exercises will be held once a month. The Lions Club feels that this project is one that should be actively supported by everyone in the community.

Voters In Territory Petition Almost 100% For Klemme Proposal

Recent activity in some school districts has forced the people of Klemme into a spot where is was either get something done or stand a good chance of losing their high school. Consequently, they went to work.

Feeling that the people in the close-in territory and those who were already sending children to the Klemme school would want to see a high school maintained in our town, the school board set up a proposed district which includes just about the territory now served by the Klemme Independent School District. This proposed district would include some 74 section of land, approximately 385 students, and would carry the name, "Klemme Community School". The Klemme Independent School District and parts of the school district of Avery, Ell, Liberty and Twin Lake Townships are included in the proposal. A map showing the boundaries of the proposed area can be found on page 5 of this issue of The Times.

Monday evening, nearly 100 people from both the town and rural areas attended a meeting at the high school gymnasium in Klemme, and plans were made for circulating petitions throughout the proposed area. Teams were set up and on Tuesday, the volunteer workers covered the entire territory. Early reports from these workers indicated that the proposal was going over by a landslide, and final figures show the following percentages of voters in the various affected districts signing in favor of the proposed districts:

Liberty Township, 97 percent; Twin Lake Township, 87 percent; Avery Township, 94 percent; Ell Township, 93 percent; Klemme Independent District, 96 percent.

Next step toward effecting the district to be known as the "Klemme Community School", will be a hearing which will be held in the near future at the court house in Garner. If the hearing proves in favor of the formation of the district, then the issue will be put to a vote. If the vote shows a 75% majority in each affected district in the proposed area, then the proposal will have been accepted and the new district will have been formed.

1,000 Attend Special Service At Garner

A crowd estimated at 1,000 was on hand at the Garner Meorial Building last Sunday evening to attend the County-wide Reformation Day service sponsored by the Hancock County Ministerial Association. Dr. Youngdahl, who was guest speaker for occasion, gave a very interesting address, and the county-wide youth chorus, 80 strong, sang two selections which were well received by those in attendance.

ACCIDENT

Six year old Edward Kregness of Denison, received a concussion in an unusual "football accident" last week. He kicked the ball to the top of the garage roof, where it lodged, and in trying to recover it, he fell 12 feet to the concrete driveway.

Three Children Baptized

Three children received Christian Baptism at the morning Worship Service last Sunday in the Klemme Methodist Church: Marilyn Emma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Neuberger; Wayne Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Bruggeman; and Myrna Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Groesbeck. The pastor of the Church, Rev. E. Morris Egeland, administered the Sacrament.

Wedding Took Place Sunday In Klemme

In a ceremony at the Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon, Miss Shirley Bisom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bisom, became the bride of Robert Stith. Rev. E. Morris Egeland performed the marriage ceremony.

We don't have particulars on the wedding for this issue of The Times, but when the couple return from their wedding trip, inmation will no doubt be available.

Dairy Farmers To Promote Products

The dairy farmers of Iowa are about to launch their new promotion program for dairy foods. Starting January 1, 1954, they voluntarily will be setting aside one-half cent per pound of butterfat or two cents per hundredweight of milk for this new program to sell more dairy foods.

Iowa dairymen in this new program are joining dairy farmers across the country in building a promotion campaign for dairy foods that has never been known before. Their aim is to sell all dairy foods to the consumer—not the government.

As believers in the American way of doing as much for yourself as you can, we heartily approve of the action program of Iowa's dairymen and wish them the best in their betterment program.

Had Lived In Hancock County Since Childhood

Last rites for Mrs. Julius Priebe, 78, were held from the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon, Oct. 26, with Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg in charge.

Mrs. Priebe had lived in the Klemme area since she was four years old, and had been a faithful member of the church. Her health failed some four years ago, and she passed away Friday, October 23.

Casket bearers for Mrs. Priebe were Ben Mullen, Albert Etchry Buseman and Henry Thieen, Carl Wille, Fred Klinge, Henmann. Interment was on the family lot in the Ell Township Cemetery at Klemme.

Wellemeyer Funeral Service was in charge of the arrangements for the funeral service.

An obituary of Mrs. Priebe appears on page four of this issue.

Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle met on October 22, in the church parlors with Mrs. Vivian Mace and Mrs. Harry Gibbs as hostesses.

The meeting was opened with the song, "The Christian Life". Mrs. Ralph Elder had charge of devotions. Mrs. Henry Busse gave a talk on "The Life of Noak".

Twelve members were present. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

We had a look the other day at how one automobile insurance company rates drivers as risks according to their occupations. The ratings ran from 1, best risk, to 64, worst risk.

At the top of the list were proprietors and managers of wholesale establishments; next came county agents and extension workers, then retired persons and, fourth place, farmers.

People in these occupations, according to the loss experience of the company, are the four best risks. From this point on down, there were some surprises.

Law enforcement officers, for example, rated fourteenth place in the risk category. Undertakers, who get closer to the awful results of accidents than anyone but doctors, were down in eighteenth place.

Doctors, by the way, were far down the list—thirty-ninth place

Editors and reporters held twenty-sixth place, just above housewives and automobile salesmen. Surprisingly, truck drivers, generally considered professional drivers, were in forty-third place as risks, just ahead of rural mail carriers and lawyers.

Insurance agents themselves rated about as poorly as anyone-fifty-third place. But at that they were ahead of churchmen and traveling salesmen who ranked fifty-fifth and sixty-first repectively. Last place on the list went to the military.

Of course, these rating are based in considerable part on the number of times a man must expose himself to traffic in order to make his living. It's a sobering thought that, these days, the way we drive can make any occupation hazardous.

(winner of the 1951 Iowa ACS bronze medal for his outstanding contributions to cancer control.)

Can one guard against cancer?

It is generally believed that chronic irritation of one form or another is at least partially responsible for the development of certain types of cancer, and that eliminating such irritations reduces the likelihood that the individual will have cancer of the particular organ or tissue that is being irritated. For example, protection from over-exposure to sun and wind, and to oil and gasoline, would seem to reduce the incidence of skin cancer, since this condition is more common in those whose activities entail contact with the elements. In the same fashion, those who smoke pipes are more likely to have cancer of the lip, those with badly fitting dentures or jagged teeth have more cancer of the mouth and miners who inhale certain types of dust more commonly develop lung cancer.

Women who have borne children are more suscepible to cancer of the mouth of the womb (uterine cervix), while cancer of the breast is more common in those who have not suckled children. In the first instance, the irritation is presumably connected with the minor injuries the cervix usually receives during delivery, while in the latter it is argued that the hormonal effects of recurrent menstrual cycles on the mamary gland are more harmful than lactation, which by providing full physiologic activity for the gland appears to protect it from the development of cancer.

The evidence for these relationships is solely statistical: no one knows exactly why the various forms of irritation promote uncontrolled growth of cells in some instances and not in others.

Can children get cancer?

Unfortunately, yes. Eighteen per cent of all children's deaths are caused by it. Half of these are due to leukemia, the condition where the white cells of the blood act in uncontrolled growth.

Avery Sunbeams Met

The meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of Joyce Nordman, on Saturday, October 17. Seven regular members answered roll call with table decorations for the coming holidays. Also present were Elsie Mae Van Wert, County Home Demonstrtation Agent and her assistant, two new members, Kathleen James and Dorothy Ostendorf and three other visitors.

Our new record books and sewing books were distributed. Secret pals were drawn for the new year. Each club member is asked to list the clothing they now have in their record book, and bring to the next meeting at Jo Ann Helps on Saturday, November 21.

Lunch was served by Darlene Ostendorf, Elizabeth Lemke and Joyce Nordman.

STILL the SAME

When the Marsh brothers returned to their old home at Decorah recently, residents observed that these identical twins are still identical. Eugene and Francis Marsh, now of McMinnville, Oregon are now 53 years of age and still look much alike as they did in their boyhood days at Decorah.

Editorial

Hurrah! The time for tricks or treats, black cats, and jack-o-lanterns is back again. But also at this time, we appeal to all you kids to please respect the property and rights of others. Just because it is Hallowe'en, it gives no more reason to do damage than at any other time. I don't mean that you shouldn't get out and have one big time—that's what Hallowe'en is for. Have all the fun you can, scare as many people as you want, but DON'T do it with an automobile or by some equally ruthless means.

A Hallowe'en party will be given October 30 for all the high school. I don't know exactly what plans have been made for it, (they wouldn't tell me, it's a secret) but it's guaranteed to provide fun, food thrills, and scares aplenty. Sounds like a lot of fun, doesn't it. You kids really could have fun, too; and you won't get into trouble. Come and take part in it. A party, like anything else, is no better than you make it. Regardless of what you do, though, be considerate of other people and their property. How would like it if someone destroyed something that belonged to you in their vain attempt to be funny?

Music News

Included in the band's schedule this year will be a number of exchange concerts with other schools. The first concert will be held on October 29 in Klemme. Fertile will put on the concert at 10:00 in the gym. We in turn will go to Fertile some time in November and give a concert there. We also plan to go to Rockwell this year. These exchange concerts should prove to be a lot of fun.

On rushing to band late on Wednesday morning, Jerry Music Mouse almost ran into Gracka as she came hobbling out to band. Why, Gracka, the last I saw you were speeding to school in a Merc. . . . Was he detaining you or something? Jerry heard she was trying on her band suit, but he's a little leary on that matter.

Jerry thought we were playing a Spike Jones version of Dragnet the other morning—but he says he's sorry for judging us so harshly that first time.

Teacher Interview

Ervin Merle Beenken, who at the present time is our 8th grade teacher, was born at Titonka, Iowa, on December 13, 1928. Mr. Beenken has blue eyes and brown hair.

Mr. Beenken graduated from Waldorf College at Forest City, Iowa. He taught at Klemme in 1950 and 1951, but then was called into the Army in January, 1951. After serving 23 months in the Army, 18 of which he served in Germany, he attended Luther College at Decorah, Iowa, and then resumed teaching at Klemme this year. Mr. Beenken believes that he would enjoy teaching at the Jr. High level of school anywhere, and he hopes to continue college next summer at Luther College and work for a principalship on the Jr. High level.

Ray Milland and Susan Hayward are his favorite actor and actress. "You, You, You," is Mr. Beenken's favorite song. His favorite movie is "Ivanhoe". He is also very fond of trapping, shooting, and enjoys catching fish of all sizes.

Senior News

The first glimpse of what is coming this week came when we had a nine weeks test in sociology.

In literature we are hustling to finish our written report and attempt to verbalize a book report. Besides this we still have to read and interpret poems.

The best time of history is when we break the routine and read the jokes from "Our Times" or when a Current Event's movie comes.

Making formulas from written problems and solving them, quite a trick, is our present work in algebra II.

Some more figuring comes in bookkeeping, but there is only one formula: Assets equals Liabilities plus Proprietorship. Any way that's what the teacher says, even with accounts receviable and accounts payable!

Home Economics: We are still keeping the sewing machines and knitting needles busy. For our first project we had to make something out of a material with nap. Three of the girls have already finished this project. Next we will be working with plaids.

? ? of the Week

What do you think about the senior class of each year going to places of interest like Chicago and how should they make money if they plan to go?

Bob Larson: I think the seniors should go to Chicago if they want to, and raise the money the best way possible.

June Mayland: I think they should take a trip to Chicago by having a bake sale or washing cars on a Saturday.

Dennis Ridder: They should go where they want. They should have a carnival or some other small type of raffle or sale.

Daisy Schaefer: I think they should go some place like Chicago. This can be both interesting and educational. I think raising your own money would be best.

Junior News

This is the High School. My name's Koerner. I work out of the Junior Class. We got a tip that there is a teacher operating in the vicinity. My job—find him.

9:00 - I contacted headquartens. They promised me a crew to check drivers training, sociology, and home economics. I had the rest to myself.

10:00 - I made my first call. Economics. There was a current event movie. I had a hunch and played it. Tris wasn't the guy we were after.

10:20 - Tried English class. This one was occupied with literature and short themes. No dice.

11:30 - Compiled reports on drivers training, home economics and sociology.

Sociology - Marriage, Delinquency — Negative.

Drivers training - Driving. This sounded suspicious, but further investigation revealed it was legal.

Home Economics - Sewing. Nothing wrong here.

12:40 - Advanced algebra This one was talking about formulas. I couldn't understand him. This aroused my suspicions and, I decided to take him in on a 410. Just then work came. We had the culprit cornered in the supply room. He had been posing as a janitor. I made the arrest at 2:40 p. m.

"Pretty smart, huh?" he said.

You figure it out. mister." I replied, "Your going to get twenty years cleaning erasers. Yeah. you were real smart, all right."

Sophomore News

Biology: We are now dissecting worms and learning their parts.

Algebra: We are finishing the chapter of equations, and are getting ready for a test.

History: We are beginning a new chapter in history, and we have just been assigned quite a lot of home work including the drawing of maps, writing a report etc.

English: We are really quite busy in English (especially with book reports).

TOO MUCH WORK! ! !

Boys' Sports

Thursday, October 29, we are going to Floyd for a scrimmage game. We continued to practice for the last two weeks and a half. There is still a fight for the five starting positions and probably until game time Wednesday night.

Girls' Sports

We are practicing and trying to improve ourselves. It seems that we have gotten down to having only eleven girls out for basketball. If more girls don't participate in this sport, and try to make it a success for the others, we may have to discontinue it in the near future—maybe next year. So why don't more of you girls come to the shower room the next practice and go to the floor with the rest of us. You may get stiff the first few times, but that doesn't last forever. It can be a lot of fun for you and the other girls, both now and in the coming years, if only a few more would participate. You know that you can't learn to play basketball any younger, so we hope to see a few more girls out. At least 3 or 6. It won't hurt you.

Fifth Grade News

We have our room decorated with Hallowe'en pictures. On our windows we have painted witches, cats, and owls.

In reading we are giving radio programs. Our class has been divided into two groups. Each group will read a story over our make-believe microphone. We hope our audience enjoys our programs.

We are learning to give oral reports in front of our classmates Our practice is from social studies and our Weekly Readers.

Our arithmetic is making us think much harder than in the beginning of the year. We are multiplying with a three place multiplier.

Senior Interview

Eighth Grade News

Last week the girls won the arithmetic contest.

Tuesday we had a unit test in language and another one on Friday.

Last Friday the class went on a field trip. Everyone enjoyed this hike. When we returned we made a list of all the living things we saw on the trip.

In P. T. period we have played a few scrimmages in basketball. Very soon we shall give a complete schedue of our Junior High boys' and girls' games.

Sixth Grade News

Hallowe'en decorations make our room pleasant nowadays. We are looking forward to a Hallowe'en party, and are preparing our room little by little.

The study of fractions has given our arithmetic classes new interest. The work with fractions seems easy after long division.

We have started a new unit in science. We are learning about electricity and electromagnets. Some of the boys think it would be nice to extend science period over most of the day.

Freshman News

In English we have been studying adjectives, adverbs and their uses.

We are finding the areas of triangles and trapezoids in math.

We are still studying water and its uses in science.

The girls in home economics have been cooking. We have been making cocoa and egg nog.

We have had a lot of tests, but they were easy.

Obituary of Mrs. Julius Priebe

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mrs. Julius Priebe, nee Bertha Caroline Augusta Stromer, whose departure from this life is regretted and sorrowfully mourned by her loved ones and friends, was born on January 26, 1875 at Chicago, Illinois. She was the daughter of Karl and Anna nee Schlichting Stromer. As an infant she was received into the Christian Faith by the sacrament of Holy Baptism administered by Pastor H. Engelsbrechs of the Evangelical Lutheran Church on February 11, 1875.

As a child of four years she accompanied her parents to Hancock County in Iowa where they established their new residence. As a youth Mrs. Priebe attended the public schools in Liberty Township. After having been instructed in the doctrines of God's Word she was received into the fellowship of the church through the rite of Christian Confirmation by Rev. Treick at Peace Reformed Church (Elltown). Mrs. Priebe was confirmed on Easter Sunday, April 21, 1889 and her confirmation blessing was taken from Luke 10:42 "But one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her."

On June 8, 1897, Miss Bertha Stromer was united in Holy Marriage with Mr. Julius Priebe by the Rev. John Gaterman in the parental home of the bride. God in his providence blessed this union with four children, Esther, Erwin, Erma and Edna.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Priebe established their farm home on a farm three miles south and one mile west of Klemme in 1897 where they lived and worked together for thirty-three years until 1930 at which time they retired from active farming and made their residence in Klemme. In 1947 they observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Mrs. Priebe and her husband were charter members of Immanuel Reformed Church of Klemme. At one time she was a teacher in the Sunday School and was a charter member of the Frauenverein. Prior to failure of her health Mrs. Priebe attended regularly the worship services and partook of the sacrament of Holy Communion. During the last four years the church brought its ministry to her in her home.

Throughout most of her life Mrs. Priebe enjoyed good health, but during the last four years her health failed and she was confined to her home. During this period she was not known to give way to complaint or murmuring, but indicated a Christian faith in the wisdom and providential care of God. Her hopeful and trusting attitude was inspiring to all who visited her.

Mrs. Julius Priebe was called to her eternal home on Friday, October 23 having attained the age of 78 years, 8 months and 27 days.

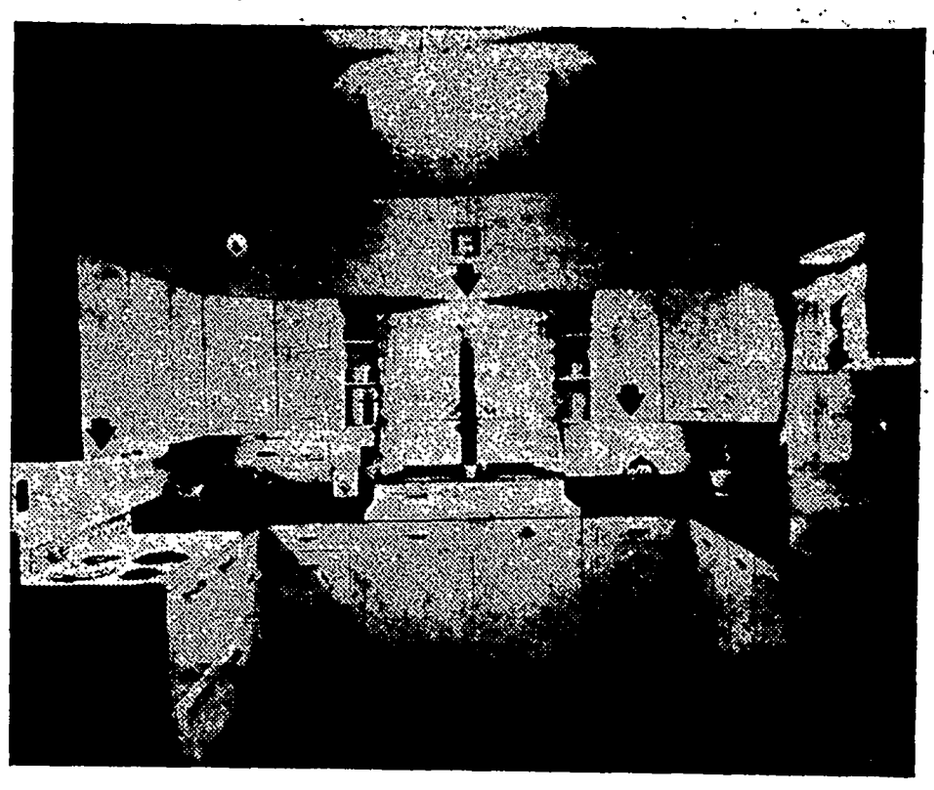
Those who survive are her husband, Mr. Julius Priebe, her children, Esther (Mrs. Fred Schmidt) Erwin, Priebe, Erma (Mrs. Paul Goll) and Edna (Mrs. Herman Schmidt). She is also survived by six grandchildren: Mrs. Dean Rasmus, Mrs. Mervin Barkema, Marvin Schmidt, Eleanor Priebe, Mrs. Leland Hummel, and Luverne Schmidt. Also surviving are three great grandchildren. Mrs. Priebe was preceeded in death by her parents, by a brother Henry Stromer and by one grandson, Merle Goll, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goll.

"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." Psalm 116:15.

"I wonder if there will still be plenty of electricity when I grow up?"
THAT'S a good question, sonny, and well you might wonder with all of the additional power that's going to be needed to run Iowa's future farms, industries, and homes. Yes, there will be plenty of power when you grow up. Here's why!
LET'S START WITH THE IOWA GRID
Take a look at the Iowa grid or the system of electric lines on the map. Those lines represent high-voltage transmission power lines. Some of them are already in use and others will be built. This is a long term project for all of Iowa's major utility companies. It means that huge quantities of electric power can be moved between companies so that no area in Iowa will have to get along on less power than it needs.
When and if, hydro-electric power from the Missouri dams become available, the high-voltage lines we're talking about can bring this power to Iowa users.
Iowa's electric companies like to think of these lines as "super expressways of power." They represent a $38,000,000 project. Large power generating stations will have to be built, too. All of the necessary money will come from private investors. No government funds will be necessary.
That's why we can answer 'Yes' to your question. The electric companies of Iowa believe they can speed Iowa's progress by being ready with electric power before it is needed.
This device, known as a Network Calculator, is used by power company engineers to plan the size and location of future generating and transmission facilities.
IOWA ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER

It Does Make a Difference—

Good Lighting in Your Kitchen



Lighting in your kitchen should be glare-free and include a good ceiling fixture and adequate light, for your mixing, range and clean-up centers, indicated by arrows.

* * *

Good lighting in your kitchen is just as important as adequate light for your sewing and reading—in fact, probably more so, since you may well be spending more of your waking hours in your kitchen than any place else in the house.

Here are lighting tips from Iowa State College Extension Home Management Specialist Naomi Shank to help chase away needless eyestrain and fatigue, as well as increase your efficiency and enjoyment of food preparation and clean-up work.

Freedom from Glare

You should get rid of any extreme contrasts of light and dark so you won't either have light glaring in your eyes or be working in shadows.

Eliminate the glare by first removing any chance of looking directly into a bare bulb or tube. Simplest way is to put a globe enclosure designed for kitchens around the source of light so as to diffuse the light effectively throughout the room. Or you could use glass or plastic clip-on shields over tubes, or a silver-tipped bulb in an open dome-like fixture with a porcelain socket.

Kitchen Colors

If your'e remodeling or redecorating, use dull finishes on cabinets, woodwork and walls so as to eliminate glaring spots of reflected light. Keep the ceiling white or off-white for best reflection of light downward into the room from your ceiling fixtures. White will reflect about 87 percent of the light.

When you choose your other kitchen colors, try to stick to the ones with high reflective value, especially in the areas where you do most of your work. Best reflectors are lemon-like yellows and light-hued natural wood finishes.

Since large areas of extreme contrasts of light and dark are hard on your eyes as you work, it's best to select light or medum hues for walls, woodwork, floor coverings and counter tops.

Areas to Light

Every kitchen should have a good ceiling fixtures located over the central traffic areas. To give good light and prevent deep shadows in the average kitchen, use not less than a 150-watt and preferably a 200-watt bulb. Or if fluorescent, use four 20-watt tubes.

If your full-time eating center is in the kitchen, this is another place where you need a ceiling fixture, centered over the table. If it doubles as a study center, add a portable lamp, too.

Count on a 100- to 150-watt incandescent fixture above the sink, or two 20- to 25-watt fluorescent tubes. A 100- to 150-watt silver-tipped bulb in a porcelain socket could be used. A valance board in front of this fixture will direct reflected light downward into the clean-up center. If you're considering a recessed type fixture, a rectangular one will spread the light farthest out beyond either side of the sink.

A 100-watt pin-to-the-wall lamp or a 25- to 40-watt fluorescent tube mounted about 58 inches from the floor should do the trick over the range. Choose a 3- or 4-foot tube and shield it so as to keep glare from your eyes and turn light downward.

Your Mixing Center.

Be sure the work areas you use most, like your mixing center, are well lighted. Use a 20-watt fluorescent tube for each 25 or 30 inches of work counter length. The light should be shielded if put on a wall without a cabinet above or if the light would be in the eyes of anyone seated at the sit-down work area or kitchen eating table. Mount the undercabinet fixture as close to the wall cabinet as possible and about 20 inches from the front of the counter.

1954 Township Directors Elected

All townships in Hancock County have elected their Farm Bureau Directors for the 1954 year. These elected directors meeing to be held this week will be approved at the annual Wednesday. These direcotrs will take office on January 1st. Six of the elected directors are new this year with ten holding over. This is a healthy turn over, and gives an opportunity for these new men to serve asa leader in Farm Buerau. Hancock County Farm Bureau members can be proud of the men that their townships have elected to represent them on the board of directors: A list of the elected directors in this vicinity areas follows: Avery, Roy E. Arnold; Ell, Mervin Groesbeck; Liberty, John Lorenz; andTwin Lake, Harlan Nuehring.

A Waverly business man paid $18 for 18 washers and 50c in change Tuesday. It was all in fun. Sheriff Harley Ehlert was demonstrating how some shoplifters who came to Waverly were equipped with paper "coin tubes", in which they would put two genuine quarters, on each end, and 18 washers. The coin tubes, printed to indicate it contained $10 in quarters.

Liberty Busy Bees

Weeds! Weeds! Weeds! Who ever thought that roadside weeds could be beautiful,?

On October 19, at the home of June Mayland each girl of the Liberty Busy Bees 4-H Club found out that weeds could be made into interesting arrangements for winter bouquets. Each girl also painted a design on two handkerchiefs.

We held election of officers. The following officers were chosen: President, Patty Legge; Vice president, Marion Stromer, Secretary - Treasurer, Barbara Hughes; Historian, Winola Zwald and Reporter, Carolyn Jass; Music Committee, Nancy Farquhar and June Mayland, card committee, Darlene Hrubes; Picture Committee, Winola Zwald and Barbara Hughes.

The club decided to sell Christmas cards. Patty Legge gave her historian's report. Carolyn Jass gave a demonstration on "How to Make a Head Scarf".

Elaine Eenhuis, Marlys Psotka, Bonnie Prohaska, JaNell Johnson, Virginia Hughes and Nancy Farquhar were our new members. We hope they will all enjoy our club.

The next meeting will be November 21st at the home of Patty Legge. Be sure to have your head scarf ready for textile painting. We also will install our new officers.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Carolyn Jass, reporter.

Corn Picking Going Into Danger Period

Hancock County farmers are heading now into the period of greatest danger of corn picking accidents. That is shown in accident facts reportetd to Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director by Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College.

In the last 6 years, for which the extension service has gathered facts, the period of greatest hazard has been the last part of the season. Thus Henderson urges Hancock County farmers to work with even greater care during the wind-up of harvest.

The first important step in safety, says Wardle, is understanding that the corn picker is potentially dangerous but that it can be operated safely. A picker that would be totally safe, he thinks, probably wouldn't pick corn.

The accident records show where the accidents occur most frequently. The biggest toll of pain, fingers and hands is taken at the stalk ejecting mechanism. Next, in order, ran the husking rolls, the snapper rolls and the chain and elevator. When a picker is operating each of these parts can mingle and maim a limb in a split second, but offers no hazard when the machine is still.

The man who gambles his safety against a few minutes of time is risking a lot. Last year, Wardle reports, the medical cost and value of time lost per harvesting accident averaged $450 ech. That places no value on lost hand, fingers and mangled limbs. And last year two persons died in harvesting accidents.

The accident records outline the preventative steps. Accidents cluster at mid-morning and mid-afternoon. Take a break for a snack or something that will break fatigue and monotony.

More than half of the persons injured durning the last 6 years say the cause of their accidents was using an unsafe method. One-third of the victims reported that hurrying was the cause of their accidents. Know safe methods and think before you take a chance.

From the study of farm accidents over recent years, farm safety specialists have developed these rules for safe corn harvesting.

1. Always stop all rolls to clean them out or to brush fodder off of them.
during mid-morning and mid-
2. Be particularly cautious afternoon.
3. Wear close-fitting clothing.
4. Always keep the power take-off shield in place.
5. Train new operators in the proper operation of corn pickers, tractors and elevators.
6. Never adjust the picker, elevator or tractor while it is in motion.
7. Never use a stick or cornstalk to push clogs through the rolls while in motion.
8. Never take a chance, particulary when working late at noon or at night.

Iowa ranked second in the nation in farm product sales for 1952. California was first, Texas third and Illinois fourth.

this week
treat your family to butter

Maybe they don't complain much about that butter imitation. But why not give them a real treat this week . . . . and every week. Let 'em spread their bread with delicious creamery butter. And serve their food with big tempting chunks of golden Butter melting on top. You wouldn't do it with that butter imitation. You couldn't—it doesn't have the flavor. But we'll make a wager with you. Serve your family Butter this week and see if you don't hear real compliments about it. Butter just makes other foods taste better naturally.

Don't be stingy with your family. Butter tastes so much better, costs so little more.

Soil Testing Lab Gives Fast Service

Hancock County farmers who want soil tests made ahead of fall purchase of fertilizers for next year can get the job done in short order by sending samples now to the Iowa State College Soil Testing Laboratory.

Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, says John Hanway, who is in charge of the laboratory, has told him that tests can be returned more rapidly now than at any time over the next few months. Samples that are sent in soon, Hanway told him, will get in ahead of the busy season. That means results will get back sooner—within 6 weeks or less of the time the samples are received at Ames.

A soil test will be valuable now, Henderson believes, because it will let a Hancock County farmer order the fertiliers he needs for next year, placing the order in time to take advantage of more abundant fall supplies.

Fall tests, Henderson adds, will also allow farmers to be set to go with some of the earliest spring field jobs, such as fertilizing the oats and legume seeding and pasture improvement seedings.

Follow Up Meeting

The first follow up meeting for the ladies of Klemme and District Number 9 will be on October 30th, at 1:30 at the home of Mrs. Everett Guth.

Anyone interested is welcome to come. The lesson is on "New Fabrics". Anyone having any of the new fabrics, please bring them along, also a few cookies.

CANDIDATE

At Algona, a woman has entered the lists as a candidate for mayor, and says she's "out to win." She is Mrs. Linda Clapsaddle, mother of 19-year old twins.

Certified Seed Directory Availoble

The 1954 Certified Seed Directory, published by the Iowa Crop Improvement Association is now available, according to Paul Henderson, county extension director.

Listed in the book are 1953 growers of certified varities of corn, oats, soybeans, wheat, flax, red clover, birdsfoot trefoil, lespedza bromegrass, canarygrass, and potatoes. Also included is a description of the varieties listing their maturity, growth characteristics and disease recations.

The directory may be obtained at Henderson's office in Garner or from the Iowa Crop Improve- Association, Ames.

What does it mean to you when a Rock Island train goes by?

A train goes by—a Rock Island ROCKET FREIGHT. Did it ever occur to you that many people, including you, may have a very special interest in this train?

To a manufacturer it brings raw materials to be made into finished products. To retailers it brings foods, merchandise and wares of every description. To you as an individual it brings better living and the satisfaction of knowing that because of it things that are half a world away may be yours. To your community it means a progressive, tax-paying, self-supporting industry, all your own!

But if it's a passenger train, then what?

Then may we remind you that Rock Island service is, in a very real sense, universal. For not only does this railroad directly serve 14 mid-continent states, but with its connections makes all the world accessible.

This is the thought we wish to leave with you: Whether your community is hamlet in size or metropolitan in scope, Rock Island's foremost desire is to provide a transportation service that satisfies

Deer License Deadline Near

Iowa hunters are reminded by the State Conservation Commission that the deadline for deer license applications is November 15.

Applications for deer licenses may be obtained from state conservation officers, and must be sent to the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines, with cash, check or money order, for $15. If applications exceed 20,000 the Commission plans a drawing, and applicants not receiving deer permits will have their license fees refunded.

The 1953 Iowa deer season is set for December 10-14 inclusive, and deer permits are required of all hunters with the exception of owners or tenants of land and their children living on that land.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Betty Radics is enjoying a week's vacation from her work in Des Moines and is spending it at the parental John Etchen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Roths left Monday morning for their home in San Benito Texas, after spending about two months visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Saturday evening Mrs. John Etchen entertained in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Betty Radics' birthday. Those present were Mrs. Hilma Johnson and Bertha, Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Back and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bridges and Mary and Albert Swanson.

Miss Gertrude Grosshuesch of Fayetteville, Arkansas came this afternoon (Wednesday) for a few days visit at the Graydon Bock home and with other Klemme friends. She had spent several days prior to coming to Klemme visiting with her mother at Marshalltown.

The American Legion Auxiliary held a county meeting at Goodell on Monday. Those who attended from here were: Mrs. Ben Coobs, Mrs. Verner Lewis, Mrs. Jake Hess, Mrs. David Schwictenberg, Mrs. John Chambers, Mrs. Albert Etchen, Mrs. Herman Back, Mrs. Roy Schaefer, Mrs. Elmer Arnold, Mrs. Art Polsdofer, and Arlys Arnold.

Christmas Seal Sales Help In X-ray Program

Over a quarter of a million free chest X-rays were taken last year in an effort to detect unknown tuberculosis, according to the annual report of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association (ITHA).

The X-rays were taken in four state-wide projects jointly sponsored by the ITHA, the state department of health, and the various county tuberculosis assocoations: The County-wide X-ray Surveys, the Contact Program, the State University of Iowa Hospital Admission X-ray Program, and a series of 'special' X-ray programs.

The actual numbers of X-rays in the four programs was 252,506. The cost of taking the films, development and interpretation was borne by Christmas Seals funds.

There were nearly 1,000 tuberculosis findings resulting from the survey. Many of the findings were of known cases of tuberculosis or of arrested infection. However, 689 new cases of tuberthe tuberculosis associations in 1952.

The annual report of the state tuberculosis association, under the title "This Man Needs Help." pointed out that the county tuberculosis association is "ready to help this man and his family". The programs and activities of the tuberculosis ssociations in Iowa are coordinated and guided by the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

In prefacing the annual report Dr. Ralph E. Smiley, Mason City, president, noted as evidence of progress during the past year "the formation of committees to aid the board in new program policies, the successful efforts to obtain adequate funds for the operation of the state department of health and the State Tuberculosis Hospital and the introduction of statistical standardization in the reporting of the county-wide X-ray surveys.

Also cited in the reports was a program of patients in four of the six TB hospital in Iowa and the development of active health education committees in county associations.

WRECK

Traffic at St. Ansgar was halted last week, due to a railroad collision within the town. A diesel engine of the M. & St. L. collided with two Illinois Central maintenance cars. Traffic was tied up for four hours.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 4, 1953 | VOLUME 58 | NUMBER 46

Hearing On Belmond School Proposal Will Be At Clarion Monday

Hearing date on a revised proposal for the "Belmond Community School District" is to be next Monday, November 9th.

The hearing will be held at the Wright County court house at Clarion at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, and both the Wright and Hancock County Boards of Education will be on hand to hear objections.

This Belmond proposal and the Klemme proposal overlap in both Twin Lake and Avery Townships and we are advised that anyone wishing to file an objection to the Belmond plan, should have it in the office of the Wright County Superintendent of Schools by noon of the ninth. Objections must be in the form of notarized affidavits and objectors should be at the meeting if it is possible.

Trapping Season Opens

The State Conservation Commission reminded trappers today that the season for raccoon, skunk, spotted skunk, badger, opossum, muskrat, mink and beave will open at noon, November 10th.

The season for raccoon, skunk, badger and opossum will extend to midnight January 10, 1954. Muskrat, mink and beaver season is open until midnight, December 9. There is a special 30-day season on muskrat and mink opening at noon, November 10, and closing at midnight, December 19 on the Mississippi River north of the north Muscatine City limits to the Minnesota line, east of the Milwaukee railroad tracks.

There is a continuous open season on weasel, red fox, gray fox, ground hog, and coyotes, and a continuous closed season on otter.

FIRE

Near Jefferson, fire destroyed 100 acres of corn in a recent fire.

More Trapping Tags for County; Recorder Issues Over 1,000 In October

Hancock County Recorder Edith Sonquist has had a brisk pre-season run on trapping tags and had issued over 1000 by the end of October. Mrs. Sonquist has placed an order with the State Conservation Commission for additional tags to have plenty available when the trapping season opens. In recent previous years, trappers waited until the season opened and then were unable to secure tags because of a shortage of tags on hand and Mrs. Sonquist appreciates trappers purchasing tags early so her office will not have to disappoint them later by not having sufficient tags on hand.

Six Billion Spent On Hunting and Fishing

Hunting and fishing is a bigger business than ever. According to recent report issued by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, it is a 6 million dollar business, 50%, greater than the annual sales of all drugstores and 136% greater than the sales of household appliances, radios and TV sets combined.

Sportsmen's expenditures for last year were as great as the total retail sales of all United States gasoline and service stations. The report revealed that last year nearly 19 million fishing licenses and 12½ million hunting licenses were issued. The average fisherman spent $310 and the average hunter, $306.

Figures released by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service show that at these prices trout cost $4 a pound, rabbits cost $1.35, and a moose cost the average hunter more than $300.

These, however, are only the cash values of game and fish, and do not include the priceless intangibles that drew 33 million Americans outdoor last year.

Bert Kluver, of George, lost a finger recently when he came in contact with a high-line, near Larchwood. His index finger was so badly burned that amputation was necessary.

Stores To Close

Next Wednesday, November 11, is Armistice Day, and as such, is a legal holiday.

As has been the practice in the past, Klemme stores will be closed for the day.

Broken Foot

Virgil Pringnitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pringnitz, who is in the army stationed in Korea, recently suffered a broken foot. He and some other men were repairing a tank, when the radiator, which they were replacing, fell and landed on his foot.

His injury is not too serious, and he is getting around, although the injured member has been placed in a cast.

Cub Leaders Pow Wow

Cub Scout Leaders from all nine counties of the Winnebago Council of the Boy Scouts of America will participate in a Pow Wow at the High School in Clear Lake on Sunday afternoon, November 8.

The Pow Wow is part of the regular training program of the Boy Scouts of America and is expected to be held annually. Those invited to attend include all Cub Scout Leaders and parents who are interested in learning how to use more effectively the Cub program with their own son.

The Pow Wow will begin at 1:30 P. M. with the midway open. All kinds of games suitable for Den and Pack Meetings will be set up in the form of a Country Fair Midway. Following a General Assembly the group will divide into four Sections: Games, Handicraft, Administration, and Ceremonies.

Pack 103 of Clear Lake will stage a "Blue and Gold Banquet" at 5:30 with John W. Jensen, the Cubmaster, being Master of Ceremonies. Those attending the Pow Wow will join in a "pot-luck" supper during the demonstration.

1952 Farm Figures For County Released

Corn yields in Hancock county in 1952 averaged 66.1 bushels per acre according to a report released recently by the Iowa Livestock and Crop reporting service. The total yield was 8,557,502 bushels as compared with 5,196,359 bushels in 1951, or an increase of 3,361,502. Farmers planted a total of 135,570 acres in 1952.

Corn production for the past four years by years was 1949, 5,684,121 bushels, an average of 42.5 bushels per acre; 1950, 5,281,439 bushels or 47.5 bushels per acre; 1951, 5,196,359, bushels or an average of 43.2 bushels and 1952, 8,557,861, or an average of 66:1.

The oat yield in 1952 was also higher as were soy beans than the previous year with 3,266798 bushels of oats reported in 1952 as compared with 2,607,330 bushels in 1951. The soybean yield in 1952 was 700,499 as compared with 583,051 in 1951.

Dairycows were reduced from 9385 in 1951 to 9065 in 1952 while beef cows increased from 5155 in 1951 to 6166 in 1952. Grain fed cattle marketed in 1952 gained sharply over the previous year with 13,756 reported in 1952 as compared with 11,484 in 1951.

The 1952 census report also discloses that sows kept for farrowing were reduced sharply in 1952 with a total of 20,023 kept in 1952 as compared with 23,289 in 1951. Fall sows also were reduced over the previous year with 4614 reported as against 5213 in 1951.

The number of calves raised in 1952 was slightly higher than for the previcus year with 13,327 reported in 1952 as against 12,855 in 1951. Lambs also increased from 3252 in 1951 to 3838 in 1952.

Firemen to Meet At Garner November 13

An important meeting of firemen will be held in Garner, at the City Hall, November 13, 1953, at 7:30 p. m.

This meeting is co-sponsored by Chief Ed Ziesmer and the Garner Fire Department and the Engineering Extension Service, Iowa State College.

Important problems of mutual aid and the emergency operation of the fire service will be discussed.

It is urged that representatives of fire departments from Hancock County attend this meeting.

Follow Up Meeting

The Follow Up Meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. V. A. Cook, Friday, November 13, at 1:30. The lesson is on interior decorating. Please bring samples of wallpaper, draperies and rugs. Also a few cookies. Anyone interested is welcome to come.

Grandmothers' Club

The Klemme Grandmother's Club met at the home of Mrs. Louisa Waddingham on Monday afternoon, November 2. There were nineteen members present, and Mrs. Rose Larsen, Mrs. Mary Schoenwetter, and Mrs. Esther Barz were co-hostesses.

Edwin Josten Missed Being Councilman By Narrow 2-vote Margin

What started out with all the appearances of a dull municipal election, Tuesday, turned out to be rather a hot contest as voters wrote in the name of Edwin Josten for councilman.

The election was billed as rather a dull affair, with only one ticket on the ballot, but somehow word got around that there was to be a big write-in for Josten. The final count showed that those who instigated the "vote for Josten" movement were disappointed. He lacked just three votes of being the winner. He had 38 votes, while Frank Schulz, who was on the ticket, had 40 votes. Had all who wished to vote the write-in marked their ballots properly, it would have been a different story, as many who wrote in Josten's name failed to X the ballot square. Hence, the vote did not count.

The election brought out about half of the voters in Klemme. One hundred and one ballots were cast, and of this total, two were spoiled.

Several candidates were written in during the day's voting, but only Josten showed any strength in this department. Final tabulation shows that V. A. Cook will again be mayor, Martin Barz, treasurer, and Roy Schaefer, Frank Schulz, Henry Buesman, Wallace Pavey, and Byrnes Lemke will be councilmen.

Following is a listing of how the voting went:

For Mayor

V. A. Cook	87
W. C. Keraus (write-in)	1
Carl Wille (write-in)	1

For Councilman

Roy Schaefer	83
Frank Schulz	40
Henry Buseman	88
Wallace Pavey	91
Byrnes Lemke	95
Elwin Josten (write-in)	38
John Etchen (write-in)	5
Harvey Barz (write-in)	2
Henry Wessels (write-in)	1
Lloyd Lau (write-in)	1
A. R. Arnold (write-in)	1
Don Bacon (write-in)	1

For Treasurer

Martin Barz	90

Hearing Date Set For Klemme School Proposal

Pheasant Season to Open Armistice Day

Iowa's favorite game bird will receive a 250,000 gun salute at noon, November 11, the opening time for the 1953 pheasant season.

The season will extend this year through December 5 in the long zone counties, which includes Hancock and neighboring counties. Daily shooting hours are from 12 o'clock noon until 4:30 p. m. and daily bag limit will be three cock birds. Possession limit is also three cock birds.

We hear many conflicting reports on pheasant population in this section, but the general concensus of opinion seems to indicate a good opening day, at least.

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koerner are holding open house at the Methodist Church dining room, Sunday afternoon, November 8th from 2 to 4 o'clock. The open house is in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary, and everyone is invited.

Silver Anniversary For Paul Kramers

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kramer of Klemme held open house in observance of their parents silver wedding anniversary, Sunday November 1, 1953.

Miss Edith Land and Mr. Paul Kramer were married November 3, 1928 at Sullivan, Missouri. They have lived southeast of Klemme seventeen years.

Guests attended from Sulli van, Missouri, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Eldora, Fort Dodge, Albion, Clarion, Belmond, Garner, Goodell and Klemme.

The honorees received many nice gifts.

Bake Sale

The senior class of Klemme High School is sponsoring a bake sale Saturday, starting at 2:00 p. m. at the Wellemeyer Store.

Bread and rolls will be the specials for the day, and an Angel Food Cake will be given away. The seniors plan on making deliveries for those who wish to order by phone.

Petition Was Filed With County Supt. On October 30th

The petition for a proposed new school district, to be known as the "Klemme Community School District", was filed last Friday afternoon with County Superintendent of Schools, Charles S. Whitney at Garner.

The petition carried the signatures of 908 of 959 qualified electors residing within the proposed district, which includes all of, or portions of, the following school districts in Hancock County: Klemme Independent School District, Goodell Independent School District, Ell Township School District, Liberty Township School District, Twin Lake Township School District, and Avery Township School District.

As provided by law, a hearing on the proposed district will be held at the court house in Garner on the evening of December 7th at 7:30 o'cock. The Hancock County Board of Education will be in session at this meeting and will hear objections regarding the proposal.

Former Goodell Resident Dies In California

Funeral serives for Mrs. William Harris, 29, of Oxnard, California, will be held in the U. B. Church at Goodell, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Harris was the former Phyllis Christenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Christenson and was born and raised in the Goodell area. Some ten years ago the family moved to Cicero, Illinois. She lived there until three years ago when she went to California for her health, and a year later she was married. She died Thursday, October 29.

Survivors are her husband, her parents, and three sisters, Mrs. Rudy Malek (Marjorie) of Cicero, Illinois, Mrs. Percy Brown (Beverly) of Thompson, and Mrs. William Johnson (Iris) of Oxnard, California. An only brother, Stanley, died in the Phillipines during World War II after having been taken prisoner.

Don't forget to ask permission before you go onto a farmer's land to hunt pheasants. After all, the land is his.

We would venture to say that among those who cast write-in ballots in Tuesday's election, a surprisingly large amount would not be able to remember whether or not they put their X in the proper place after writing in their candidate's name.

Boys will be boys, but they don't have to be so rough about it. Halloween pranks are a time-honored custom, but when they become destructive of other people's property they are no longer pranks, but vandalism. The Klemme youths who got a little over enthusiastic at Goodell Halloween night, are lucky. All they had to do was pay for the damage they did. They could have been prosecuted.

The school reorganizations that are going on in this section at the present are being watched with much interest, by all the neighboring towns. Each one wants to see just what the other is up to. Friendships apparently cease when a movement such as this gets underway. Thank goodness, it's only a temporary cessation.

Little Cattle Feeders

The Grimes Little Cattle Feeders held their annual pot luck supper Thursday at the Meservey School Dining Hall. Larrie Hindman, past president, presided and election of officers was held with the following results: Lee Gruis, president; Robert Hayinga, vice-president; Dallas Pals, secretary-treasurer and Larrie Hindman, reporter. Premium checks were handed out to Fair Exhibitors.

Carroll Morris and Mervin Hindman were chosen unanimously as leader and assistant leader for another year.

The next meeting will be at the home of Dallas Pals.

10 YEARS AGO—

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Smid arrived in Klemme, Saturday from San Francisco, California, where Mr. Smid has been working in a ship yard for several months.

Cpl. Bernard Onerheim arrived in Klemme, Tuesday for a couple of days visit with Klemme friends. Cpl. Onerheim is stationed at Camp Butner, North Carolina, and is a member of the army band. He was an instructor in the Klemme High School before entering the army about a year ago.

Franklin Kluckhohn began work Monday as assistant to Postmaster John Day at the Klemme post office.

The Times received a card last Tuesday from Glenn Bowles. The card gave his APO number. This would indicate that our former high school coach is slated for overseas duty.

20 YEARS AGO—

A large crowd attended the program and basket social given at the Avery Center School Wednesday evening. A fine program was given by the pcpils and the teacher, Miss Edith Halfpop.

Bernard Smid returned Saturday from working all summer with construction crews. The last one he was with was the gang putting in the new road at Rowan.

The following pupils of Liberty No. 8, taught by Miss Marjorie Stewart, were neither absent nor tardy during October: Iva Christie, Donald Schaefer, Raymond Schoenwetter, Elwyn and Ruth Ridder, Lois and Lola Gast and Donald Brown. 90 or above in spelling were Donald Schaefer, Iva Christie, Lillian Knoke, Lois and Lola Gast, Elwyn and Ruth Ridder, Raymond Schoenwetter and Eva Velau.

The first snow of the season fell here Sunday morning. It continued to snow throughout the day, but it melted as fast as it fell.

30 YEARS AGO—

Mr. and Mrs. Benn Coobs returned in their car from a couple of weeks trip spent in visiting relatives at McGregor, Iowa, Ingram, Wisconsin, and other points northeast of here.

Verner Lewis and family of Hayfield, Minnesota spent Sunday and Monday visiting with Klemme relatives and friends.

The corn huskers in this part of the state are being paid from five to nine cents a bushel, with the farmers clamoring for help. The government employment agency has calls for approximately 1,000 men and has been able to send out but a few each day.

So well pleased with the graveling of the road south of Klemme was Lippo Blank that he presented the Town of Klemme with a crisy $5.00 bill. We need more men like that in the world, who are boosters and appreciate good improvements.

MOUSE

$97 were lost in a robbery at the Ray Haartman filling station in Lowell recently, but the money was not taken out of the building. Investigation showed that a mouse had built his nest from currency.

MOWER

A lawn mower got in its last licks on Solomon Schafer, Graettinger resident, a few days ago. He was cleaning the mower, ready to put it away for the winter, when his hand was caught in the blade and the middle finger was amputated.

Diseases Take Toll of Iowa Oat Yield

Oat diseases turned early season prospects for 50-bushel oats into a crop that average 26 bushels per acre.

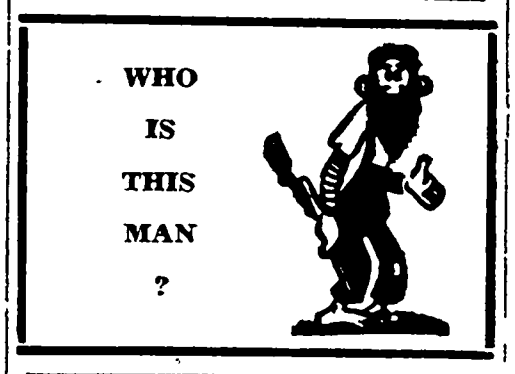
For the state as a whole, the combined loss of yield due to effects of oat diseases hit 52 percent. That was reported this week to Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director by Arden Sherf, extension plant pathologist at Iowa State College.

That 52 percent, according to Sherf's report, represents the best judgment of the oat breeders and plant disease specialist at Iowa State College. And it is based on the potential yield of this year's crop before diseases took their toll.

Twelve diseases were found in Iowa oats this year, Henderson says. Crown rust was the leading spoiler, cutting yields by about 30 percent, with stem rust reductions totaling 10 percent. Root rots accounted for an 8 percent loss and Septoria black stem —last year's worst disease—reduced the yield about 2 percent.

Other diseases which caused less than 1 percent reduction each included covered and loose smut, blotch Victoria blight, halo blight, red leaf and scab.

Crown rust ranks still as our worst enemy of oats, Henderson points out. Race 45 was the most prevalent this year. Races 7 and 8 were the most prevalent stem rust races present, with race 7 the most prevalent.



Telephones In Use On 90% of Iowa Farms

Although the old traditional custom of neighborly eavesdropping on the country party line is probably on the decline, the Iowa Development Commission reports that over 90%, of Iowa's farms have telephones, a top-ranking record among states, in this communicative service.

During 1952, Iowa telephone development, including independent and connecting services, brought to Iowa rural areas an estimated total of 207,905 telephones, an increase of 2,878 over 1951 figure, according to a Northwestern Bell Telephone Company release.

About 42.5%, of the farms in the United States had telephones on July 1, 1953, according to preliminary returns from an annual survey made by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, as compared to Iowa's 90% or more. This is an increase of 2.2% over a year earlier and 4.3% above the 1950 census figure.

The 2.2%, increase was the largest for any one year since the close of World War II.

Farm Wives Wanted

Edna thinks she's quite a match-maker.

So I had a bit of fun when I read her this headline last night:

"50,000 midwest farm men need wives."

"Too many farm girls going to town to get jobs," I told Edna.

"Not at all," says Edna. "Lots of folks get fed up with the city, too, and move out to the farm. It works both ways."

Well, I had to admit she was right on that. Some tire of city life and move to the country . . . some tire of the country and move to town. Each to his own way; that's as it should be.

In fact, that's the essence of our American freedom of choice. It applies to choosing where we live . . . or liking coffee, tea, or a temperate glass of beer with our dinner . . . or such a thing as riding a bicycle instead of driving a car.

Each to his own taste . . . and, Edna says that applies to choosing a bride or a husband, too.

Editorial

Now that the basketball season has begun, the plea for good sportsmanship at the games has come up again. In the last couple of years, we have done pretty well, I would say, but there is still some room for improvement. Most important, let's not have any booing. To boo is about the best way to show how poor a sport you are. Don't tell the referee how to call the game. He obviously knows more about the game than most of us, and then, he's only human. Another way to not have good sportsmanship is to cheer when a member of the other team fouls. Save the cheers for the boy who is shootong the free throw. Let's give our school a good name. Keep your grines under your hat, it won't kill you.

What's wrong with Klemme,s school spirit? Everyone is always complaining that there aren't enough school parties, but when we do have a party no one attends it. If more students would come and participate, everyone would have more fun. When we have a dance, you are suppose to get out and dance, not watch. If your excuse is that you don't know how to dance, you couldn't find a better place to learn. So if everyone would participate, we would have more school parties. A good way to show your school spirit is to join the newly formed Pep Club. If everyone would cheer for them, maybe the basketball teams would do better. So let's have more school spirit.

? ? of the Week

Would you have thought it a good idea if the kids would have had to be in at 11:00 on Halloween night? Why?

Beverly Christiance: No, because it's too early to be in on Halloween night

LaVohn Josten: No, because it only comes once a year, so on that night you should have fun.

Lois Jacobs: No, because if you go to a midnight show or something, they probably won't let you back into town until 4:00 a.m. ! ! !

Lee Gruis: No, I think they should just let us go and then there wouldn't be near so much heck raised as if we had had to go home by 11:00.

Blanche Shoop: I don't think there should be a special time to get in, for most of the things that you want to do don't happen until late.

Bob Larson: No, because we should have a lot of fun on Halloween because it only comes once a year.

Fonda: No, I don't. We will probably cause more trouble in the early hours anyway cause we'll be in a dreamy mood by 11:00.

Dennis R.: No, becauses it was never like that a few years ago, and the boys did more then than is done now. The people think they are being protected, but what they pay in taxes to pay for the cops that are out is more than any damage would be.

Fourth Grade

On October 30 we had a Halloween party. We played games and had a treat. Some of us wore costumes.

The Navaho Reading Group began their new reading books this week.

Karl Nannenga treated us with popcorn balls for his birthday last Monday.

The Master's Hand

'Twas battered, scarred, and the auctioneer
Thought it scarcely worth his while,
To waste his time on the old violin,
But held it up with a smile.
"What am I bidden, good people," he said,
"Who'll start the bidding for me?
A dollar, a dollar, now two, only two?
Two dollars, and who'll make it three once, three dollars twice;
Going for three?" But no!
From the room far back, a gray-haired man
Came forward and picked up the bow,
Then wiping the dust from the old violin
And tightened the strings,
He played a melody pure and sweet,
As sweet as an angel sings.
The music ceased and the auctioneer
With a voice that was quiet and a low
Said, "What am I bid for the old violin?"
And he held it up with a bow.
"A thousand, and who'll make it two,
Two thousand, and who'll make it three?
Three thousand once, three thousand twice;
And going and gone," said he.
And the people cheered, but some of them cried,
"We don't quite understand,
What changed its worth?" Swift came the reply
"The touch of the master's hand.
And many a man with a life out of tune
And battered and torn with sin
Is auctioned cheap to a thoughtless crowd,
Much like the old violin.
A mess of pottage, a glass of wine,
A game, and he travels on. ----
He is going once, and going twice;
He's going and almost gone.
But the Master comes and the foolish crowd
Never can quite understand.
The worth of a soul, and the change that's wrought,
By the touch of the Master's hand.

Music News

On Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, the Fertile Band was here for an exchange concert. Featured in their concert was Donald Roberts, a blind boy, who had a very remarkable talent for playing the piano and singing. He sang and played several numbers, such as "No Other Love", and "Tenderly". A girls' trio composed of some outstanding singers were featured in "With A Song In My Heart", and Harvest Moon." Don Roberts sang "Laura" accompanied by the girls' trio.

The band, directed by Steve Rich, played a variety of classical and semi-classical numbers. I think the concert was well enjoyed by everyone. We'd like to say "Hats Off" to the Fertile band and Don Roberts for their remarkable job.

Senior Interview

Lois Jacobs was born October 1, 1936, at Klemme and has lived here all her life. Her height is five feet, seven inches and weight "too much". Lois has gray-blue eyes and blonde hair.

Lois has as her favorite pastime, knitting, skating, and going to the movies. Ray Anthony is one of her favorite orchestras. Her favorite singer is Julius La Rosa and her favorite song is "Tenderly". Lois' favorite actor is Tony Curtis and her favorite actress is Janet Leigh. As far as her favorite movie goes, hers was "Roman Holiday". Swiss steak and accessories are Lois' favorite foods.

Some of the activities Lois has been in during her high school years are: Student Council, freshman year; Mixed Chorus when they had it. Glee Club, Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior years; Junior Class Play; and Band, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior years.

Her most embarrassing moment, Lois said that she would never tell anyone. She wants to go to college and study diatetics.

Eighth Grade News

We have finished our nine weeks tests and are happy.

We have planned a skating party on Friday, October 30.

We received our pictures on Tuesday and never knew the camera could be so brave.

Our first Junior High ballgame is on November 23. Thornton will be here.

We have changed our class schedule for the coming 9 weeks.

Third Grade

The Redbird reading class illustrated a story last week. Linda Jernegan was narrator. They visited the other rooms and gave the story.

Natalie Thompson left our class to be with her parents in California. We are sorry to have her leave.

We baked bread in social studies to complete the study of wheat. The rolls were good, but we decided it took a long time to make them and wait for them to be ready to eat.

Second Grade

Deanna Barkema, Karen Nuehring, and Merrie June Reinhart have earned an "A" in spelling every week for the entire nine weeks period.

Celeste Schaefer returned her dental card on Monday.

In reading the Elves Group began the unit on "New Storybook Friends".

Thursday we had our Halloween Party.

First Grade

In reading the Cardinals have finished reading "We Work and Play" and are reading their third primer "We Come and Go".

Melford Velau and Kenneth Jernegan have returned their dental cards. Thirteen of us have returned our dental cards now.

Lyle Waddingham celebrated his sixth birthday by inviting the first graders to his birthday party Thursday, October 29.

We had our Halloween party in school on October 29. Many of us dressed in costumes and wore masks. We had fun.

Girls' Sports

We are glad to see that our coaxing of girls' basketball helped a little. Norma Draves and Sharlene Swanson have come out, but we still need more. Come on girls, be sports for us this year, and you'll have fun doing it.

Tuesday night, October 27th, we played the Manly girls in a scrimmage game here. If there was anything that the coaches thought we did wrong or we could improve, they stopped us and showed us the right way. All in all, I think we had fun doing it and got some practice besides.

Don't forget our first game is Wednesday, November 4, with Hayfield in the Klemme Gym. Let's see everyone to support the team.

Senior News

With the ninth week of school drawing to a close, the tests were really piled on.

To start off we had a bookkeeping test which covered two days. The one on Thursday over written questions almost finished us off. The one on Friday over bookkeeping exercises proved to be the punch.

But we had a breather in literature when the test was moved to Monday in order to get the remaining oral book reports finished.

Though we had had the same relief on Wednesday in history when the test was postponed until Friday, there was no relief in the test.

In algebra we had a change to figures, but it wasn't enough of a change.

Meanwhile ,the boys not in this class were "heartbroken" because there was the absence of a test in shop.

The girls in home economics weren't so lucky.

To finish the day off, we set back and took it easy in sociology because only the memories of the test lingered on.

Junior News

Sociology: We are studying the chapter of "Safeguarding Public Opinion". At the suggestion of a name the class was to give their opinion of what the person did, what he looked like and so forth. It was very interesting to find what other opinions are.

Economics: After surviving the 9 weeks test we are learning why we pay the price we do for the goods we need.

Typing: For the first time for most of us, we are learning to type pictures. Abe Lincoln was our first masterpiece.

Literature: "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner", a poem by Sam Coleridge, is the assignment.

Drivers Training: Everybody's driving.

Algebra: Nine weeks test here, too.

This and That Around K. H. S. - -

The night of the hayride, P. S. (the day the seniors had their pictures taken), Jerry Music Mouse was strolling on the road, when what should appear, but a brown blouse. No sooner had he stopped when a gray ford came blouse. It seems Lois J. had the zooming up, stopped and got the doors and windows open, and the blouse flew out, hanger and all. Jerry just wanted to share his secret with you.

Graydon and Carol had a spat. Poor Ding, just couldn't find his place in the music for thinking of Carol. Tut, Tut, what a shame. Please don't take it out on the band!

I hear June Mayland has taken over Jo Ellen Clabaugh's old old flame. Too bad, Jo. By the way if you don't know who this is, it's none other than Denny H.

Juda Stahl and Bob Larson were sitting real close Friday night so I hear. What happened to your girl at Garner, Bob?

Berleen Bridges and Marvin Sandry have had their eye on each other for sometime. Well, it finally came out in the open Friday night.

Say, Juda Stahl sure was a popular chick on that hay ride Friday night. Herbert Greimann also sat by her.

From the clinging grapevine; I have heard that Barbara S. had a pretting fine time with Lyle H. Did you and D. M. have a fight, Barbara?

If you're wondering who our ideal couple is this week, I suggest Barbara Avery and Robert C. Yes sir, it's coming along just fine!

What's this we've been hearing about Dennis H. and Ione R.? Wasn't it mighty cold in the back seat of Merlyn's car, Ione? Or did Dennis keep you warm?

What was wrong with our friend Keith Nuehring anyway? Couldn't you find a girl that was satisfactory, Keith?

Who were you cheering for at the football game, Jo Ann Burgess? Clarion or Belmond?

Liberty Township SCHOOL NEWS

Liberty No. 7

We enjoyed giving our program Friday night. There was a crowd, the lunch sale was a success, and our school has a little money to spend. We need things to play with and will probably spend most of it for that.

Daryl Brager has had 100 per cent spelling papers each Friday of the nine weeks. Wednesday was report card day.

Our basement floor has been sealed and finished. Now we will have a clean basement, no coal, no ashes, no dirty basement floor.

Aline Burgess, Tecaher

Liberty No. 4

We had a Halloween Party at school Friday afternoon. Sandra Weaver and David Hrubes were our invited guests.

The following pupils had perfect spelling lessons for the week ending October 31st: Donald Hrubes, Sandra Michelson, Darlene Hrubes, Karen Michelson, Linda Michelsan, Janet Hrubes, Diane Hrubes, and Terry Weaver.

We have some gourds at school. They are the round ones. They are shellaced so they won't shrivel up.

Mrs. Asa Legge, teacher

Liberty No. 6

Pupils receiving 100 per cent in spelling last week were: Linda, Beverly, Audrey, Albert, Joyce, Arthur, Karen, David, Denis and Kenneth.

Arthur Katter, Jr., brought pumpkins for Jack-O-Lanterns Lanterns.

The arithmetic honor roll for last week included, Bernice, Arthur, Kathleen, Albert, Denis, and Audrey.

Kenneth and Denis Kaduce returned their dental cards Friday. Theirs were the first cards to be returned this year.

On Friday afternoon we watched some movies. The one we especially enjoyed was "Pluto Takes a Shower Bath".

Lydia Pearson, Teacher

Liberty No. 8

We had a full house at our Halloween program Friday night.

In the drawings, Mrs. Hammond Ruter won the big duck, Mrs. Dwight Hummel the rooster, Richard Zwald the smaller duck, and Leonard Buckley the pair of bantams. We wish to thank everyone who helped make it a success.

This is the end of our first nine weeks period. Report cards were given out Monday. Eugene Zwald, Lois Hummel, Kathryn Gast, and Donna Stille had perfect spelling for this period. The 6th grade went to Garner Tuesday afternoon to take part in the hearing and speech tests.

We had our Halloween party a little late, but we decided that it was better late than never.

Liberty No. 9

Our school was invited to the Halloween program given by Liberty No. 8. Many of us attended and enjoyed the program.

Last Friday we had a treasure hunt. The treasure was two sacks of candy, one for each side. Then we played games until school was out.

This last week we waded through our nine weeks tests. Whoo! Glad they are over.

Today, Monday, Jean Meyer celebrated her birthday by treating us all.

Those who received A's in spelling last Friday are: Kathryn Olthoff, Elaine Eenhuis, and Margaret Pringnitz.

The late summer and early fall months produced the usual number of unusual accidents around the state. Here are a few of them:

In western Iowa, a driver lost control of his car and rolled with it some 235 feet off the highway During one of the rolls, he was thrown against the crushed top of the car, and a piece of metal sliced off his nose.

The nose was found in the back seat of the car.

Another driver careened off a highway, rode his car in a jump over a fence and knocked down a "Drive Safely" sign in a field.

Still another Iowan who wears two artificial legs was involved in an accident in a neighboring state. He suffered fractures in both of his remaining upper legs.

At that he might have been luckier than the 17-year old who had his feet sticking out of the window of a car when a truck sideswiped it. At the last available report, there was fear the youth would lose his right leg.

The newspaper reporting this story commented in the headline: "Some people think 18 old enough to vote."

Perhaps the biggest suprise in recent months came to a trucker crossing Iowa. Driving under a viaduct one night, his lap suddenly filled up with broken glass as a pair of legs and feet came crashing through the windshield.

He got the truck stopped and ran back to what looked like a corpse lying in the road. It was a fully dressed dummy someone had suspended from the viaduct.

But let's end on a brighter note of citizen responsibility. A Charles City man, J. R Wright, early this September drove 146 miles to appear in court against a driver he had observed in a traffic law violation.

Twin Lake Go Getters

The Twin Lake Go Getters 4-H club held a meeting at the home of Betty Lauden on October 17. The meeting was called to order by our president, Marcella Nuehring. Roll call was answered by giving some signs of Fall. Eleven girls, one leader and one visitor were present. The treasurers report was given and we have $14.02.

We plan to have a mother's tea on November 14. The committees for this are as follows: Invitations, Betty Lauden and Carol Kurtz; Waiters, Dorothy Roul and Luane Waage; Beverage server, Faye Janssen. Three talks will be given.

Faye Janssen, Marcella Nuehring, and Marsha Watne are to meet at Mrs. Nuehring's on November 28 to work on the yearly program.

Dorothy Roul, treasurer, is sending for a U. S. flag and a 4-H flag which we will use at our meetings. They will cost $4.00.

The business meeting was adjourned and Mrs. Nuehring continued. We made gifts for our mothers. Lunch was served by the hostess.

We motored to the home of Mrs. Winnie Smith. She showed and explained to us her many oil paintings. She also painted the beginning of a picture. We presented her with a gift for her courtesy.

Our next meeting is set for November 14 at the home of Mrs. Erwin Nuehring at 1:30 p. m.

Reporter, Faye Janssen

Cub Scouts Met

The Cub Scout Pack meeting was held in the Grade School basement the evening of October 28. There were 55 members and visitors present.

The theme for this month was "Indian Summer". The meeting opened with the entire group giving the Flag Pledge and the Cub Scout Pledge. This was followed by the grand entrance and dance of the Indians, who were in full costume. Each boy was asked to explain what he had made for his costume.

Mr. Arthur Wellemeyer gave an interesting talk on the Indians who at one time lived in this community.

Group singing was followed by the presentation of the awards. Daryl Schlei and Daryl Kothenbeutel were each given the Lion badge and Daryl Schlei was awarded a gold and one silver arrow point.

The Promise was given by the Cub Scouts and the visiting Boy Scouts in the form of the Living Circle. The meeting was closed with the Cub Scout benediction.

Lunch consisted of popcorn balls and Kool-aid.

The Pow Wow at Clear Lake was discussed. The November Pack meeting was also discussed. This meeting will be a "Get Acquainted with Cub Scouting" and all boys, and their parents are invited to attend. The boys who will soon be 8 years old and those who are 8, 9, and 10 years of age are urged to attend this meeting which will be held in the grade school basement, Friday November 27, at 8 p. m.

Farmers Increase Use of Commercial Fertilizers

Iowa farmers have provided a steady increasing market for commercial fertilizer in their soil management programs, according to figures made available through the Iowa Development Commission.

In figures released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, it is evident that a strong trend of increase in the use of commercial fertilizer is occuring throughout the state, with a total of 386,050 tons consumed in 1950, compared to only 9,039 tons during the 1935-1939 period.

The 1952 report on tonnage sold in Iowa, as compiled by the Iowa Department of Agriculture, indicates a total consumption of 408,980.23 tons for last year.

During the first half of 1953, alone, a total of 435,623.8 tons of mixed fertilizer and fertilizer material were consumed in the state, the state agricultural department announced.

At Wilton Junction, one of Iowa's oldest residents, Henry Wildasin, observed his 98th birthday recently.

ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS
Q. My birds are stuffed up with a cold. What shall I do?
A. They need Dr. Salsbury's Can-Pho-Sal. It loosens up clogged mucus in nose and throat. Makes it easier for birds to breathe, reduces effects of colds. Use Can-Pho-Sal -- spray or vaporize -- several times a day. In severe cases, use it as a nasal wash. Try Dr. Salsbury's Ar-Sulfa, too, for infectious coryza. HOGS:

Hog prices have turned down again seasonally, and have reached a level comparable with that of last March. The lower prices have been attributed mainly to the weight of numbers and a sluggish wholesale pork market. However, receipts are still lagging 20 percent behind receipts at this time last fall.

Several weeks of heavy shipments appear to have pretty well soaked up the demand for pork. However, there won't be much pork in total, coming to market this fall and winter as last. Ten percent fewer pigs were farrowed this past spring than the year before. Also, since this year's spring crop started coming to market early, a bigger share of the crop has already been marketed than last year at this time. This may mean that we are approaching the peak of the season's marketings now.

Lightweight butchers are less plentiful and most shipments now fall in the 200 to 240 pound bracket. On the other hand weights over 250 pounds are now accounting for only 5 percent of shipments at some interior points.

CATTLE:

The recent record slaughter numbers and unseasonally hot weather in the eastern parts of the U. S. contributed to the down-swing in slaughter cattle prices the third week of October.

Slaughter numbers in 1953 have been well above 1952 levels all through the year. The peak reached for the week of October 17, of 352 thousand for the major marketing areas was a record high for any week since the present record system began in 1940.

In spite of the losses on slaughter cattle, feeder cattle showed general gains in price. Widespread rainfall, the good-sized corn crop of which pickers have left much on the ground, and prospects for good price margins stimulated trading activity. At Omaha 55 percent of cattle receipts were classed as stockers and feeders in the week ending October 24.

Denver market reports tell of rainfall up to 3 inches in parts of the Texas Panhandle and lesser quantities over much of the range area. There are some indications that unless feeder prices climb considerably above present levels, growers may winter many of the animals on their own ranches.

Is cancer a single disease?

No The general term "cancer" includes all malignant growth, which, as a group, show uncontrolled growth, a tendency to spread beyond their original sites, and cause death unless treated early and adequately. For example, cancer of the skin does not remotely resemble cancer of the stomach, and neither of these is at all like leukemia, cancer of the blood, and yet all three are malignant and, therefore, "cancer" The physician and pathologists are familiar with the various forms and are always on the look-out for signs and symptoms suggesting them, while the layman is warned of the most common malignancies by the widely publicized "Danger Signals".

The medical profession also uses the term "cancer" in a more restricted sense as referring to malignant growths arising from epithelial tissue. Epithelium covers the body (the skin) and lines the passages which communicate with the outside such as the gastro-intestinial tract, the uterus, the prostate gland, breasts, et cetra.

On the other hand, malignancies arising from the body's supporting structures, bones, muscles and connective tissues, are "sarcomas." Aside from the difference in point of origin, the two types of cancer differ in microscopic appearance so that the pathologist can usually differentiate them quite easily. A third type of "cancer" is that which originates in the blood-forming organs, the so-called "blood cancers"; of which leukemia is by far the most common.

Is there any way that doctors can cure leukemia?

Leukemia cures have been reported in adults, but in children, so far, the disease is always fatal. Cortisone and a group of chemicals called the antifolic acids have in many children, caused rapid disappearance of the symptoms. So far this has only been an illusion, although it may last as long as fifteen months. Sooner or later in children, leukemia will always reappear.

For answers to cancer questions, write American Cancer Society, Mason City.

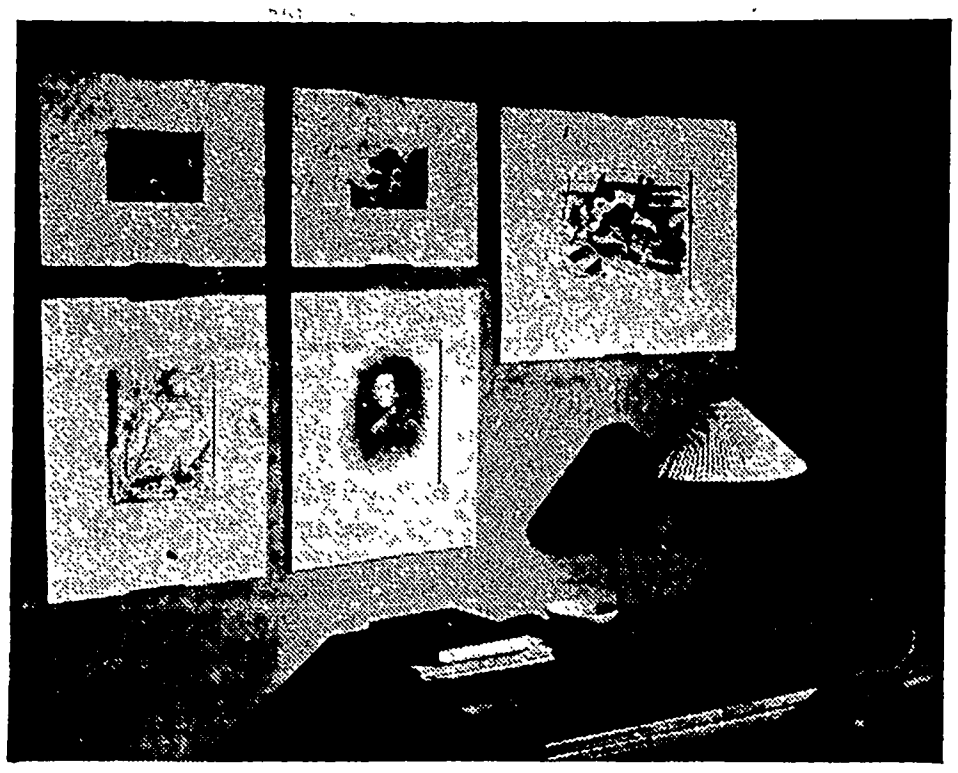
BELL'S PRODUCE

They Reflect Your Taste, Interests—

Pictures in Your Home



The pictures you select for your home should reflect the artistic tastes and interests of you and your family, arouse interest and comment. Often a grouping of several pictures done in a similar medium or mood is effective. The matting and/or framing should set off the picture and help tie it in with the room. Keep both simple enough so that they don't draw attention away from the picture itself.

The open piano, the bowl of nuts with nutcracker, the dish of apples, the record player with its easily accessible records, the new book, the intriguing pictures on your walls—the are the essential extras which speak a warm invitation to conversation and activity and enjoyment to everyone who crosses your threshold.

Analyze Your Pictures

Let's analyze one of these very important extras —the pictures on your wall. Do they do what they should for your room, your family and your friends? If they do, you ought to be able to answer yes to the next few State College Home Furnishings Specialist Emelda Kunau.

Do they reflect the artistic tastes and interests of at least one member of your family

Do they seem to "belong" in the room in which they are placed.?

They should pick up some of the colors you've used in your decorating scheme, for instance be in proportion to the furniture over which they are hung, and fit in the whole mood of the room.

A Grandma Moses scene (or some other folk art, sometimes referred to as "American primitives") would fit in charminly with an informal Early American decorating scheme. But it would look out of place in the strictly modern room with expensive carpeting, blond furniture and bold decorating scheme. A light, airy water color would be fitting in a room with same light, informal touch—while a formal room with traditional 18th century furniture would call for something more sophisticated, such as an oil painting with rich, deep colors.

Do they arouse interest and comment? — Do folks seem to enjoy looking at them, tell you how the picture strikes them or perhaps ask you something about the artist or the subject matter?

Do they wear well? — Do you continue to find pleasure in them day after day, month after month?

Selection Tips

If you've had to answer no to some or even all of these questions, these selection tips from Miss Kunau may help make you more alert to the pictures you'll enjoy most.

Your first picture choices may have been those with a realistic, almost photographic quality. But folks usually tire quickly of this type of picture. A good artist seldom tries to copy nature, but instead gives his own impressions and feelings of the scene he sees. That's what makes a picture intriguing and enjoyable over a long period of time.

If you or your family have an abiding interest in other lands and other people, the sensitive painting, water color, etching or drawing of a Paris street scene, a Danish wedding feast, a farmyard in Holland will reflect this interest immediately to your friends and bring you lasting enjoyment.

Sometimes a picture is chosen purely for a color accent. Do you know someone who has a Picasso painting? The picture itself may not make a particle of sense to you, but look around. Does it perhaps pick up in a delightful way the colors and the mood of the whole room? Then there's an excellent reason right there for its being hung.

You can even build a whole color scheme around a favorite picture. For the best effect, use colors in the same proportion that the artist did.

Store Meat Correctly For Best Quality

You may be in the habit of popping meat into your refrigerator wrapped just as it comes from the store. This isn't a good practice, according to Iowa State College Nutritionist Leslie Smith who goes on to tell just how different meats should be wrapped and stored, and why.

Store fresh meat either uncovered or just loosely covered in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Here's what happens if you store it in its tight wrapping. The meat has warmed up in its trip from the market to your house and the paper will serve as insulation and slow up its cooling again. This gives bacteria a chance to thrive. Some bacteria also grow more readily in a closed area and meat is a good medium for such growth. You don't need to worry about the meat drying out, for raw meat still has lots of moisture in it. Once it's cooked, store it covered in the coldest part of your refrigerator—cooking has destroyed many bacteria and at this point you want to prevent drying.

Wrap bacon loosely. If you wrap it tightly there's danger of mold developing; if you store it unwrapped, he fat may become rancid. Cover the cut end of a ham with waxed paper or regular wrapping paper. Many canned hams are only partially cooked and should be kept under refrigeration. Storage directions are given on the can.

Frozen meat should, ideally, be stored at a temperature of zero degrees F. But if you can keep meat solidly frozen in the small freezer unit of your one-temperature refrigeraor, it should be safe and hold its quality for short-time storage of a week or two. Good wrappings or containers are a screw top glass jar, plastic bags and aluminum foil.

Apply Nitrogen After Soil Is Below 57° F.

The temperature of the soil has a major ifluence on whether there is leachinng loss of nutrients from nitrogen fertilizers applied in the fall.

Iowa State College soil scientists are advising—based on the best present evidence—that Iowa farmers hold off fall application of nitrogen fertilizers until the soil temperature is below 57 degrees. However, there is not enough soil temperature data to allow the soils men and climatologists to predict when the soil temperatures in various parts of the state will be within the safe range.

A widespread program is starting now in which soil temperature data will be gathered. At 25 locations in scattered points in Iowa, county extension directors, Extension Service area agronomists and farm management supervisors are starting daily soil temperature readings.

R. H. Shaw, extension climatologist at the college, who set up this program, says the locations have been selected to give a fairly representative picture of the state. Each recorder will pick an area of ground that in 20 feet square or more without vegetation and which is not shaded for at least a period of 6 hours around midday. Two thermometers will be placed in each area, with readings taken each day at about 12 noon.

The readings will be made through the month of October and into November. If the program planned works out satisfactorily, reports will be issued regularly in which Shaw will release the soil temperature data that can be used by farmers in timing their fall applications of nitrogen fertilizers.

One year's records, Shaw points out, will not answer all the questions that need answering, but they will give valuable information needed right now.

Jolly Workers Club

The Jolly Workers Club held their October meeting at the home of Mae Blumer. Thirteen members were present and three visitors enjoyed the club meeting.

We received the Christmas cards which we had ordered.

A card was signed and sent to Ruth Bachman who was ill.

Each member is asked to bring one dozen cookies to the November meeting so they may be sent to Woodward Hospital for Thanksgiving. Please put them in a plastic bag.

Mrs. Freda Lass had quiz games for entertainment.

The next meeting will be at the home of Alvina Helps with Irene Waddingham as co-hostess.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and Verbel Gilpin.

CAUGHT

Wes Clipperton of Churdan was caught in a corn-picker recently but was more embarassed than hurt. Nearly all of his clothes were torn off when they becme caught in the machine.

TURKEY BUZZARD

John Mathews of near Thornton shot a young turkey buzzard near his home recently, and captured it alive. It had a wing spread of five feet seven inches. The turkey buzzard is rarely found in Iowa.

Canadian Thistle Worst Primary Weed in County

Cockle Burrs and Wild Mustard are the most common secondary weeds on Hancock county farms according to the annual report of Hancock County Weed Commissioner J. C. Helm which was approved by Hancock County Supervisors at a regular meeting held Monday. Commissioner Helm estimates that 6500 acres are infested with both cockle burrs and mustard. Sour dock ranks third with 530 acres infested.

In the Primary weed class, the Canadian thistle is the worst pest with approximately 1450 acres infested in some 11,600 patches in the county. The bull thistle ranked second with 175 acres and perennial sow thistle third with 120 acres. Quack Grass is a noxious weed most commonly controlled by thorough cultivation while most of the other weeds are controlled by spraying. 2-4D is the chemical most commonly used according to the Commissioner's report.

Nitrogen Boosts Yields In Dry Year

Some folks believe that nitrogen fertilizers will not pay on corn in a dry year. But experiments conducted in southern Iowa show an altogether different picture.

Ray Nicholson, who is a research agronomist at Iowa State College, reports that it was mighty dry this year at the Southern Iowa Experimental Farm near Bloomfield. Yet nitrogen fertilizers accounted for increases in corn yields this year of from 16 to 49 bushels per acre. And plots which received 120 pounds of actual nitrogen gave a net return of nearly $50 per acre over the cost of fertilizer.

Half Normal Rainfall

Rainfall at the farm this year between April and September was only half the amount tthat is considered normal for that area. Only 2.4 inches of rain fell from July 1 up to the time the corn was mature.

Corn which received nitrogen fertilizer applications, Nicholson says, was able to get more moisture from the soil. In early September Nicholson checked the moisture content of soil at different depths. Where corn received no nitrogen fertilizer, the roots penetrated to 2½ to 3 feet. At five foot depths, under the clay pan that is characteristic of the Edina soils of that area, Nicholson found soil wet enough to make mud balls. Corn which received high rates of nitrogen fertilizer sent its roots to a depth of 4 feet and more, and at depths of 5 feet under this corn, Nicholson says, the subsoil was dry.

75 Percent Silked

Corn that received nitrogen fertilizer was 75 percent silked by the first of August, while the check plots did not reach that stage until mid-August. The last half of August was both very hot and very dry. Nicholson thinks the earlier silking dates of nitrogen-fed corn may have helped it reach higher yields.

These are the yields that Nicholson reports from cornn this year:

Wher no nitrogen fertilizer was applied, the corn yielded 19 bushels per acre. The yield on plots which received 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre was 35 bushels; 60 pounds nitrogen, 53 bushels; 120 pounds nitrogen, 64 bushels; 240 pounds nitrogen, 68 bushels. All plots received the same phosphate and potash treatments.

This same experiment was conducted last year, and the responses then—in a year of at least average moisture conditions were as follows: no nitrogen 45 bushels; 30 pounds nitrogen, 65 bushels; 60 pounds nitrogen, 72 bushels; 120 pounds nitrogen, 103 bushels; and 240 pounds nitrogen, 118 bushels.

Stranger In Town

This is Zeke McCoy, folks, a former home town boy who went to the Ozarks about 8 years ago to raise a family. Well sir, he's back home again with his 8 kids and is going to work for Allen Barz and help him in his insurance business. There'll be one of the McCoys each week in this same spot showing some dad rotted predicament they got into. The whole family is good looking, (like Zeke) and "Al" hopes they'll sorta remind you folks of him! (Al did say they were shirt tail relation).

Seriously though, since so very few people read and understand insurance policies, the agent MUST have a thorough knowledge of insurance. Allen feels that, though insurance is getting more complicated every day, working full time in this profession keeps him up to date on the many changes. Thus he can confidently recommend the best type of policy for the LEAST POSSIBLE COST.

Watch for the McCoys next week, folks! Adv.

Second Hearing On Belmond Plan Brings Out More Objections

Monday evening at the Wright County court house in Clarion, a hearing was held on the proposed "Belmond Community School District". This was the second hearing to be held on the plan and it brought forth some new objections from fringe area land owners and tenants.

Due to objections filed at the time of the first hearing on October 19, the county boards of education of both Wright and Hancock Counties, in a joint meeting, set portions of the northern boundary of the proposed district, farther south than the original propsal called for. The meeting Monday night brought forth objections which in all probability will bring about further southward revision of this northern boundary.

After Monday night's hearing was over with, the two county boards again met in joint session to consider the objections and make changes, if necessary, in the boundaries of the Belmond proposed district. Nothing was settled during this session, so the meeting was adjourned until this Thursday night.

Pick Up Corn

Last Saturday the Klemme Boy Scouts picked up corn at the Barz Bros. farm northeast of Klemme. The original deal called for the scouts to get half of the income from the corn pirked up, but since they only managed to get some over seventeen bushels, the Barz brothers decided to let them have the proceeds from the entire amount.

Golden Wedding Celebrated At Church Sunday

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koerner. Picture was taken fifty years ago on the day they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Koerner Honored at Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Koerner celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary by holding open house in the Methodist Church parlors, Sunday November 8th. About 125 relatives and friends came to extend their best wishes.

On November 4th, 1903 in the home of the bride's parents, Albert Koerner and Lillie Lau were married. The Rev. Wm. Koerner, father of the groom officiated at the ceremony. A big wedding dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lau to the invited guests A reception was held in the evening at the home for the young folks, and a charivari crowd was also treated to cake and cigars.

Mr. and Mrs. Koerner commenced housekeeping in the rooms above the old State Savings Bank and started the Koerner Telephone Company with less than a dozen subscribers. Two years later, they moved into their present home and continued in the telephone business. After twenty-four years, they sold their business which had grown to serve 380 families.

In 1926, they went into the dairy business and delivered milk from house to house for twenty-one years. They are still selling milk and cream but do so in bulk to the Klemme Creamery.

At the reception Sunday, an enjoyable program was opened by the singing of several songs led by Rev. Egeland. Miss Leona Lau read a passage of scripture.

Mrs. Gerald Koerner, Mrs. Roy Arnold, Mrs. George Schoenwetter and Mrs. C. A. Arnold sang "Because". Jerry Stokesbary recited a poem "When Grandfather was a Boy". Kathleen Koerner played a piano solo.

Mrs. E. J. Arnold read a sketch of the events of the weding which took place fifty years ago and something of the life of the Koerners since and before, their marriage.

Five grandchildren, Julie and Jerry Stokesbary, Collyn and Vicki Bridges, and Kathleen Koerner sang "Friends" and "For God So Loved the World".

A sextette composed of the four ladies before mentioned and Mrs. Otto Lemke and Mrs. Mary Jane Jorgenson, sang two selections. "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Whispering Hope".

Two poems were read by Mrs. Roy Arnold, both ee ntitled "Golden Wedding". Mrs. Roger Ridder, Otto Meier, both of Mason City and Julius Meier of Rockford sang a song in the German language. The program was closed with a talk and prayer by Rev. Egeland.

At the serving table were the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Koerner. Mrs Lee Ridder and Mrs Glen Bridges poured, and Mrs. Nova Stokebary served the wedding cake. Two granddaughters, Mrs. Dick Gardner and Mrs. Roger Ridder served the other cakes and ice Cream.

Mrs. Gerald Koerner, a daughter-in-law and two granddaughters, Janice Stokesbary and Berleen Bridges had charge of the gifts. Evelyn Arnold, a niece had charge of the guests book.

The Koerners are the parents of five children, Mrs. Lee Rid-

Former Klemme Mon Hurt In Accident

John Trampel, who formerly farmed near Klemme, and now lives near Burchinal, received a dislocated right shoulder and a fractured right leg in a corn sheller accident in his farm yard near Burchinal Saturday.

When his trouser leg became caught in the power take-off he was thrown to the ground, rolled over several times, and all of his clothing, including his shoes and socks, was torn off.

Unable to walk, he squirmed and crawled on his back more than 100 yards to the house in sub-freezing weather. His son, Ronald, summoned an ambulance and he was taken to a Mason City hospital, where his condition is reported as good.

Local Grocers Have 45 Years of Dealing With Packing Company

Frank, Fred and Clarence Kluckhohn of Klemme, Iowa, were three of the dealers in the Sioux City trade area with more than 45 years of business, who participated in the John E. Glen 45th Anniversary Celebration with Swift and Company.

Mr. Glen, manager of Sioux City Swift and Company plant, completed 45 years of service with Swift and Company this year, and was honored last month, when he was presented with a Swift service pin with nine stars, one for each five years of service.

The Kluckhohn's, who have been in the retail meat business for 45 years, were presented with a sterling silver tie clasp and a plaque showing the names and photographs of all dealers in the Sioux City territory who have been active in the trade for 45 years or more.

Shamrocks Break Even; Shamrockettes Lose 2

Shamrocks Lose To Hayfield, Beat Woden; Girls Lose 2 In Row

In their season opener, the Klemme Shamrocks dropped a close 45 to 43 decision to the Hayfield team and a lad by the name of Tschirki.

Playing before a large crowd of enthusiastic basketball fans, the Shamrocks displayed a fine brand of basketball throughout the first half, and at the end of that period were out in front by a score of 23 to 12. Half-time talk among the fans was extremely optimistic, but Hayfield's Tschirki soon changed the complexion of the game when the third period got underway.

Having been bottled up pretty thoroughly during the first half by the Shamrock's tight zone defense, the Raiders apparently had orders to start shooting over it. This Tschirki did, and with deadly accuracy. He couldn't miss, and scored 12 points, all from far out, to help pull his team mates into a 32 to 32 tie by the end of the quarter.

The final period was a hard-fought affair with Hayfield having the edge most of the way and the final gun found them out in front by their two-point victory margin.

Tschirki was the scoring leader for the game with 25 points. Barz and Ridder each counted 12 for the Shamrocks, while Thiemann got eight.

Take Woden

In a game that was fairly close all the way, the Shamrocks managed to stay ahead here Tuesnight and finished the game with a 62 to 56 win over Woden. They led 16 to 13 at the end of the first period and 44 to 41 at the end of the third period.

At times the locals played really good basketball, and at times they showed lapses that threatened to get them in trouble. Coach Bill Westberg felt better after this game than be did after the opener with Hayfield, but said he was still not entirely satisfied with the play of the Shamrocks. He wants to iron out the rough spots that were threatening to get his team in trouble.

Tegtmeyer of Woden led the scoring for the game with 19 points, but Klemme scoring was well divided among the starting five Shamrocks. Terhufen had 14 points, Thiemann 13, Barz 12, Karsjens 11, and Ridder 9. Haefner, who saw considerable action in the game, also contributed 3 points.

Girls Lose Two

In their season opener with the Hayfield girls last Wednesday night the Shamrockettes ran into more than they bargained for and came out on the short end of a 55 to 42 score. Trailing by a score of 25 to 11 at the half the local girls were beginning to pull up on the visitors when Daisy Schaefer, hard-working guard was injured and had to be taken to the Belmonl Hospital for x-rays and examination. Her being injured rather took the wind out of the sails for the local girls, and their attack bogged down.

Hauge for Hayfield was high scorer for the contest with 26 points, while Carol Bridges of Klemme, had 24.

Still playing without the services of Daisy Schaefer, who was back in school but not up to playing, the Shamrockettes dropped a 50 to 43 decision to Woden on the local court Tuesday evening.

The game was close throughout with the score standing at 20 to 19 in favor of Woden at the half. The local girls were not able to keep up the pace set by Woden, though and wound up trailing by seven points.

Hillenga of Woden led the scoring for the game by netting 25 points, while Carol Bridges again led the Klemme attack with 22 points.

Start Conference Play

Friday evening the local cagers go to Fertile for their first game away from home. This will also be the first action for the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes in the newly organized North Star Conference.

The Fertile boys, who were at the state tournament last year, are reported to be strong again this year and already have one conference win to their credit, having won over Rockwell. This will be a good chance for local fans to see how strong the Shamrocks are going to be this year.

Fertile girls were not too classy last year but if we remember right they had a young team and should be improved this year.

In any event there will be plenty of action at Fertile, Friday night, and we would suggest that the local cagers would be helped out in their initial conference appearance if they had a good following at the game.

Livestock Producers Use Emergency Loans

More than $11,689,000 in special livestock loans have been loaned to approximately 1,190 farmers and ranchers throughout the United States and nearly 600 other applications are being considered, Irwin C. Christiansen, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor for Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago, and Worth Counties, reported this week.

The special livestock loan program authorized last July, helps established producers of cattle, sheep and goats to maintain their herds Christainsen said. The producers who can borrow are those with good past records of livestock production but who are temporarily unable to get adequate credit from commercial banks, cooperative lending agencies, or other responsible sources to enable them to go ahead with normal livestock operations. They must have reasonable prospects of success with the help of a loan. Commercial feed lot operators are not included.

Applications can be made at the county Farmers Home Administration office at 219 Federal Building, Mason City, Iowa. Committees authorized by Secretary of Agriculture in Washington.

A borrower may use his loan funds for usual expenses of carrying on a livestock operation, including restocking his herd up to the number he held before he had to reduce his herd.

The 5 percent loans may be amortized over a 3-year period and secured by the best lien possible on the borrower's property and his personal obligation to repay the borrowed money. Other creditors, although not asked to subordinate their claims, are expected to agree to stand by so the farmer can have a fair chance to work out of his difficulties. Agreements are made to let the farmer apply a reasonable part of his livestock income to repaying the special livestock loan.

Sample Soils Before Ground Freezes

Hancock County farmers who take a little time ahead of the winter freeze to collect samples for soil tests will get good returns for their time.

Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, says soil tests can pave the way for more efficient use of fertilizers. And he advises selecting samples right away. Samples taken ahead of freezing weather can be sent to the Iowa State College Soil Testing Laboratory in time for the farmers to have the results back when he wants to order or buy fertilizers for next year.

Fertilizers that pay best, Henderson says, are those that fit the needs of the crop and the soil. If you put on more of a nutrient than is needed, your immediate returns will not be as great as if the fertilizer fit just right. Crops require a balance of nutrients for the best yields. You will not get full benefit of one or two nutrients you may add if other nutrients are short.

You just can't guess about soils and fertilizers and hope to come near the success you can have by having soils tested and following the fertilizer recommendations. The soil testing specialist at the college continually check their methods and run field experiments to see that recommendations based on the soil tests are doing the job in the field.

Henderson adds that he can furnish materials and instructions that Hancock County farmers will need to take samples and send them in for test.

The Hancock PMA is planning to continue their soil sampling program. They urge farmers to get samples taken at once to insure returns early enough to use for 1954 application. Remember too that the 1954 ACP program requires soil tests in most cases where a farmer is asking for Federal Cost Sharing.

Iowa Weather Changes Make Better Economy

Whether or not you actually do anything about the weather, as Mark Twain once complained, at least Iowans can brag about it, says the Iowa Development Commission.

Iowa's ideal climate is one of its greatest assets and makes the state a good place for "doing," agriculturally, industrially, and recreationally.

Adequate and well-distributed rainfall and a long growing season with long warm sunny days combine with excellent soils to make Iowa the world's greatest food producing area. The great natural stability of the climate makes the risk in farming among the lowest.

Only once in ten years do weather conditions cause widespread and appreciable reduction in yields. Once in twenty-five years are weather conditions so poor as to cause extensive crop failure.

Iowa weather also attracts industrial sites because the state allows less production or operating time lost, due to adverse weather, than in the hotter, dry states to the south or in the colder, damp states to the north.

Finally, Iowa weather changes are stimulating to mind and and body, whereas monotony in climate is enervating. Regions which have relatively uniform weather generally have less vigorous and alert people. Variability in climate is distinctly advantageous, in that it promotes achievement and dynamic progress.

Covering an average period of 53 years, Iowa has 166 days of sunshine annually, with 100 days partly cloudy. Average annual precipitation is 31.8 inches and annual snowfall 29.9 inches, based on a 20-year average from 1924 to 1943. Average seasonal temperatures are 22.6 degrees in winter, 48.6 degrees in spring, 72.6 degrees in summer, and 51.6 degrees in fall, with an annual average temperature of 49.2 degrees.

A boarder in a rooming house was seated at the dining room table for his supper. He took a slice of bread, and tried to spread it, but it was to thin and broke all apart. "Did you cut this bread asked the roomer to his landlady?"

"Yes," said the landlady, "what about it?"

"Nothing," said the roomer, "I'll deal."

About 95 percent of all eggs produced are grade A in the nest, estimates W. R. Whitfield, Iowa State College extension poultryman. But it takes proper care all the way from the nest to the consumer to maintain that quality.

MAULED

The frantic barking of Jimmy Bohlen's dog may have saved the three year old youngster's life, near Waverly, recently. An infuriated cow attacked the youngster, fracturing his skull. The dogs barking attracted the attention of the parents.

ESCAPED

Lowell Paustian of Gladbrook had a narrow escape recently, when the tractor he was riding was struck by lightning. The electrical wiring was burned. Mr. Pautian was stunned but otherwise unharmed.

BATH

Teenagers got an unexpected bath in the Storm Lake recently. The pickup truck in which they were riding got out of control, ran into a tree and then rolled into the lake.

ANTENNAE

At about the same time a dozen Guttenburg youngsters showed up with auto antennae on their bicycles, a dozen automobile owners reported that their antennaes had been broken off and stolen. The youngsters are now explaining where theirs came from.

DIES

As he drove to Nebraska, to spend the winter, Ray Archer of Villisca died of a heart attack in his automobile. His wife was uninjured when the car ran off the highway.

Editorial

Although our "Skip Day" is still quite aways off, we seniors have been busy making tentative plans for it. We all decided on a trip to Chicago that would include tour of the main places of interest and reservations at one of Chicago's best hotels. We plan to leave on a Thursday evening and return home on Sunday. Two teachers and their wives will be our chaperons.

Many of the seniors have never been to Chicago, so it is our opinion that this would be an excellent opportunity for them and would prove exceedingly educational and enjoyable for the class as a whole. Letters have been sent to all senior parents informing them aobut the trip and asking their approval. Most of the letters have already been returned—all of these giving their permission.

To help finance the trip, a bake sale was held Saturday, October 7, at Wellemeyer's. Tickets will be sold for a pancake supper to be held November 23. (Exact time and place will be given later.) They are 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children under 10 years of age. Afterwards another series of bake sales will be held, and we also hope to find some other ways of raising mony, too—the proceeds to go mostly for chartering a bus, which would leave at our convenience.

Now, remember our pancake supper; you are all cordially invited to come and eat as much as you want.

Eighth Grade News

We have received our reading books that we have ordered from our Tab Club.

Barbara Avery missed school today. We hope she will be with us soon.

We enjoyed the basketball game last Wednesday night. Our first Junior High game here is with Thornton, November 23.

All agree that our skating party was a big success. We enjoyed it very much and hope to have another next spring.

We have been writing themes in English, We find our spelling and punctuation is quite poor. Also in English, we are giving oral book reports.

In arithmetic we are making deposit slips and writing checks.

Fifth Grade News

Last Friday we had a Halloween party. Most of the boys and girls wore costumes. Gary Kubly, Daryl Kothenbcutal, and Jerry Stokesbary won prizes for the best costumes. Marcelle Bachman won a prize for pinning the tail on the cat.

Our first nine weeks period is over. These boys and girls were neither absent or tardy during this period: Sharon Bachman, Melva Johnson, Duane Kramer, Darryl Nuehring, and Eldon Nuehring.

Eldon Nuehring had a birthday last week. He treated his classmates to candy bars.

Feature Article

While trying to think what to write for a feature article, we decided to begin a series on the different hobbies of the students of Klemme High.

Our first article will be about Jo Ann Burgess' hobby of developing pictures. Jo first began developing pictures about two years ago in her grandfather's basement. Some of the necessary equipment to develop pictures are printing paper, trays, developing solution, and a hypo, a solution that stops the developing. The process for printing a picture is as follows: First put the negative and printing paper into an enlarger and expose it for a few seconds depending on the density of the negative. Then put it into the developer. Next put it into the hypo and then wash it.

If anyone would like more information concerning the developing of a picture, just ask Jo Ann.

Seventh Grade News

Report cards were distributed Thursday, November 10. Some of the grade were gratifying and some could stand improvement. The moral of the story seems to be earlier to bed, earlier to rise, and a little more work.

For Halloween we had a weiner roast in the park. Mrs. Barz, Mrs. Larson, Mrs. Priebe and Miss Smith drove. We all had an excellent time and appreciate our mothers' driving and their company. In addition to our picnic, the eighth grade were kind enough to invite us to their skating party.

We are having a series of four tests over some commonly used per cents and their equivalent fractions. The four grades will then be averaged to count as one test grade.

We received several new books this week tiat appear to be interesting. We are looking forward to our free reading period on Friday to try them.

Junior News

Lost: 26 Juniors - Found in:
Algebra class: making graphs.
Shop: Still working on their various projects.
Drivers Training: In the cemetery; practicing backing. Fooled you for a minute, didn't I?
Economics class: Dicussing something that is pretty scarce to most of us—money.
Literature class: Reciting the "Rime of the Ancient Mariner".
Typing class: Doing what they are always doing, typing.

Year Books

There are still some year books that were ordered last year that have not as yet been picked up.

The western cowboy asked the city dude, just after the dude bought a saddle, if he got a saddle horn with it.

"Nope," said the dude, "I don't plan on riding in any traffic."

Music News

The Music Mothers met last week, and the issue was brought up about improving the appearance of the band. They decided we would look much neater if we all wore white shoes. They hope each student will have his or her white shoes by the Spring concert.

Having the same color shoes is a very important asset to a smart looking band. One of the first things that catch your eye when seated in the audience, are the shoes and stockings. Different colored shoes and stockings distract from the harmony created by the brightly colored uniforms.

So let's all try to have those white shoes for the Spring Concert, shall we?

Winola comes to Glee Club nowadays with stars in her eyes. Jerry Music Mouse thinks Merlin can account for that.

Jerry held his ears quite a number of times at Pep Band practice the other day. He thinks a Pep Band needs a few more practices for that extra pep—nevertheless they did a swell job at the game on Wednesday night.

Jerry's had some more requests for that "Bleacher Boogie" so let's have it more often.

Sophomore News

There went the first nine weeks of hard work and here comes another.

Biology: Inscets and their relatives has been our study.

Alegbra: Not too hard. Easy polynomials.

History: We have started our tedious duties on the chapter of "The Beginnings of Modern Nations."

Literature: Many hard unpronounceable words.

The Highway Story

From the hospital bed, his view of the world was a square of sky beyond the window. When he first regained consciousness, the window had been open wide to the summer heat. Now it was closed against the chill of the Fall. He did not really comprehend the change.

Sometimes the young man fell into a coma and, when he awoke, would not realize that days had past. Always is seemed to him that the accident had happened only the night before. Always he waited expectantly through the day for "those darn fools to show up."

"The darn fools" were the two girls and the boys who had been riding with him "last night." They were all friends, all young, all beyond the reach of personal disaster.

Yes, there had been an accident. He could remember only the beginning. It was in the darkness of early morning. They hadn't met a car for miles. Someone, Jane? had said, "The road's all ours."

And he could see the beginning of it in his mind. The highway suddenly twisted in front of him like a terrible, practical joke. His skin still prickled when he remembered the feeling of going too fast, too fast.

Then everything faded away on a high long note that must have been one of the girls screaming. Yes, an accident, but it couldn't have been serious. He had been in the hospital only "overnight." The doctors told him the others were not even in the hospital.

So why didn't those "darn fools" come to visit him? Every day he was conscious he waited and, everyday, his doctor decided he was not yet strong enough to know that the other three were dead.

? ? of the Week

What did you do Halloween night?

Keith N. I sat around and soaped a few windows.

Arthur C. I refuse to answer that question on the grounds that my answer might tend to incriminate me.

Dick B.: Went to a midnight show at Clear Lake.

Darlene R.: I worked at the store until 10 o'clock. Then, we went to a midnight show at the Drive-In.

Janice S.: We went to the Surf with two other couples and then we went to a midnight show at Mason City.

Lois Ann J.: We drove around for awhile and then went to the Surf with two other couples.

Sixth Grade News

We had a Halloween party last Friday afternoon. We bobbed for apples and played games. Roger Sobek's team won the most games and received a prize. At the close of our party we had cookies and ice cream.

The first nine weeks period is over, and Barbara Clayton, Buddy Evans, Miriam Hartbeck, Jo Anne Jacobs, Maurine Josnson, and Randall Langlitz have a perfect attendance record for this period.

Donald Anderson, Jo Anne Jacobs, Ronald Kubly, and Randall Langlitz have earned "A" in spelling for the nine weeks period.

On an imaginary trip through the Holy Lands we have found much to interest us. We have found much to interest us. We have learned that the people there live very much as they did during Bible times, and that only recently have modern methods and machinery been introduced.

Students At K H S Form "Pep" Club

Monday, a meeting was held for all the studnets who wished to form a "Pep Club".

Officers were elected and, they are as follows: President, Lois Ann Jacobs; Vice President, Warren Terhufen; Secretary and Treasurer, Merlyn Olson.

Votes were cast for which type of "beanies" to be worn.

A motion was made that a constitution should be drawn up. Club members were chosen to draw up a constitution by which members must abide.

Wednesday night "shakers" were sold to help finance the club.

The club has proved a success thus far. New members are always welcome to join.

Girls' Sports

By the time this is published, we will have played our first two basketball games. Practice was getting pretty dull and slow, but now since our games have started it will really pick up. We are hoping for a good season by winning lots of our games. We hope all of you have come to our first games and will continue to come. The report of our first two games will be published next week.

Boys' Sports

This week we are beginning to write a series of articles about the teams that make up our new conference.

We wish to inform the people of this community about the sister schools which along with Klemme make up the newly formed North Star Conference.

A few facts concerning our first conference opponent reveals that Fertile should be strong. Four members have returned from last years team which reached the state finals in Iowa City. With a one-sided victory over Hanlontown. Fertile entertains the Shamrocks this Friday, November 13.

October Was Busy Month for County Nurse

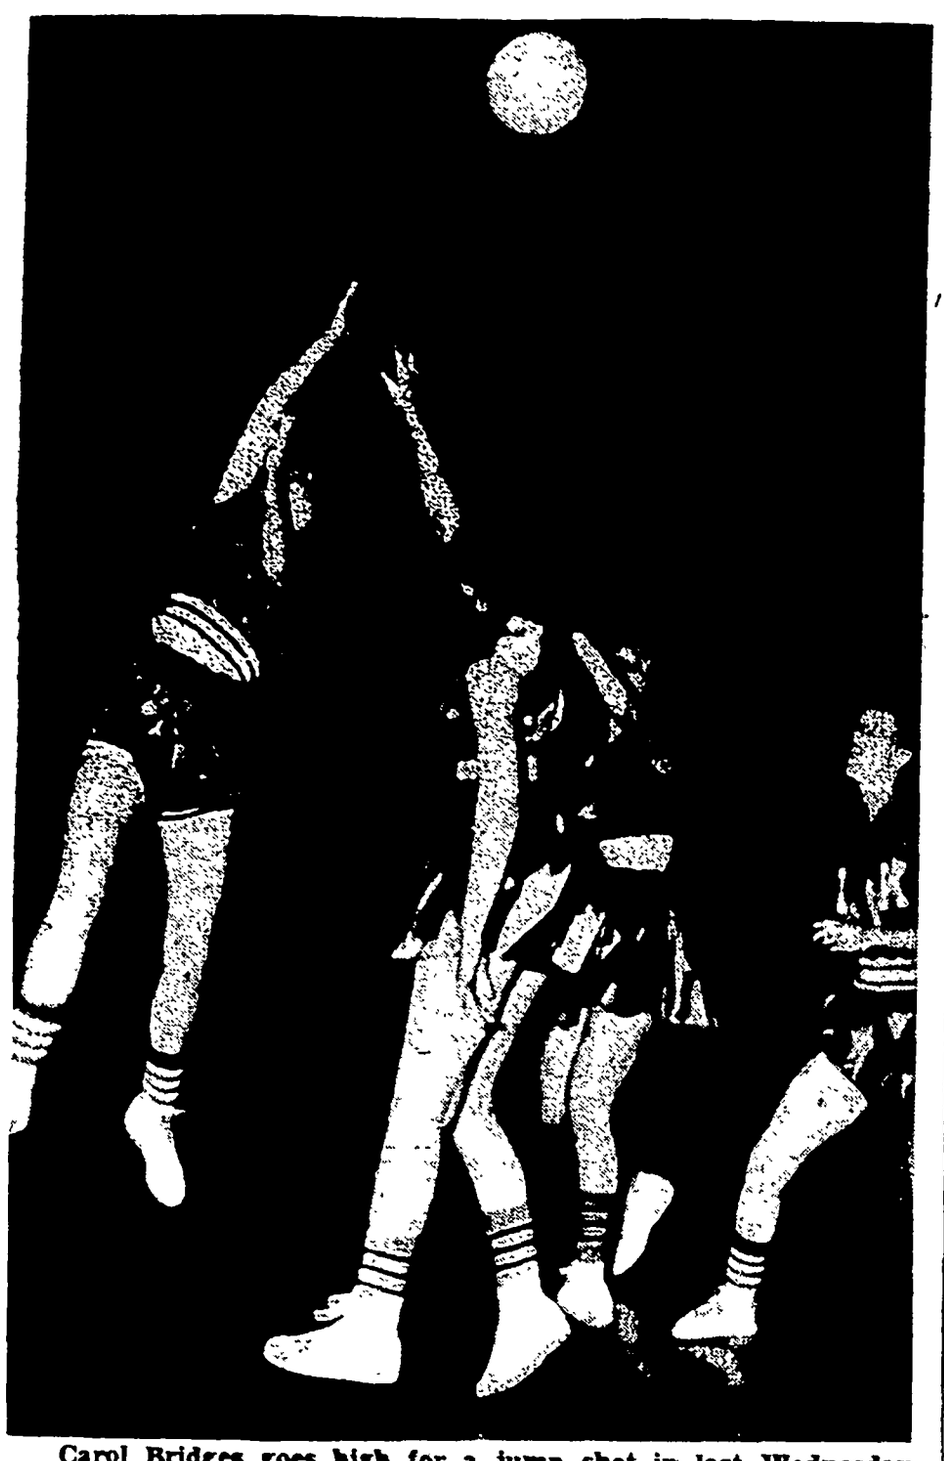
The month of October was a busy month for Public Health Nurse Helen Lemke according to her report to the Iowa State Department of health. During the month Miss Lemke had 24 admissions to service, called at 35 homes and made 35 field visits, in addition to 10 office visits.

She participated in the Crippled Children's clinic at Forest City in which 40 Hancock county children were enrolled, attended the meeting of the Iowa Cancer Society and the State Health Nurse conference; retarded children's meeting at Garner, puretone testing at Britt with 83 present, and at Garner with 53 present.

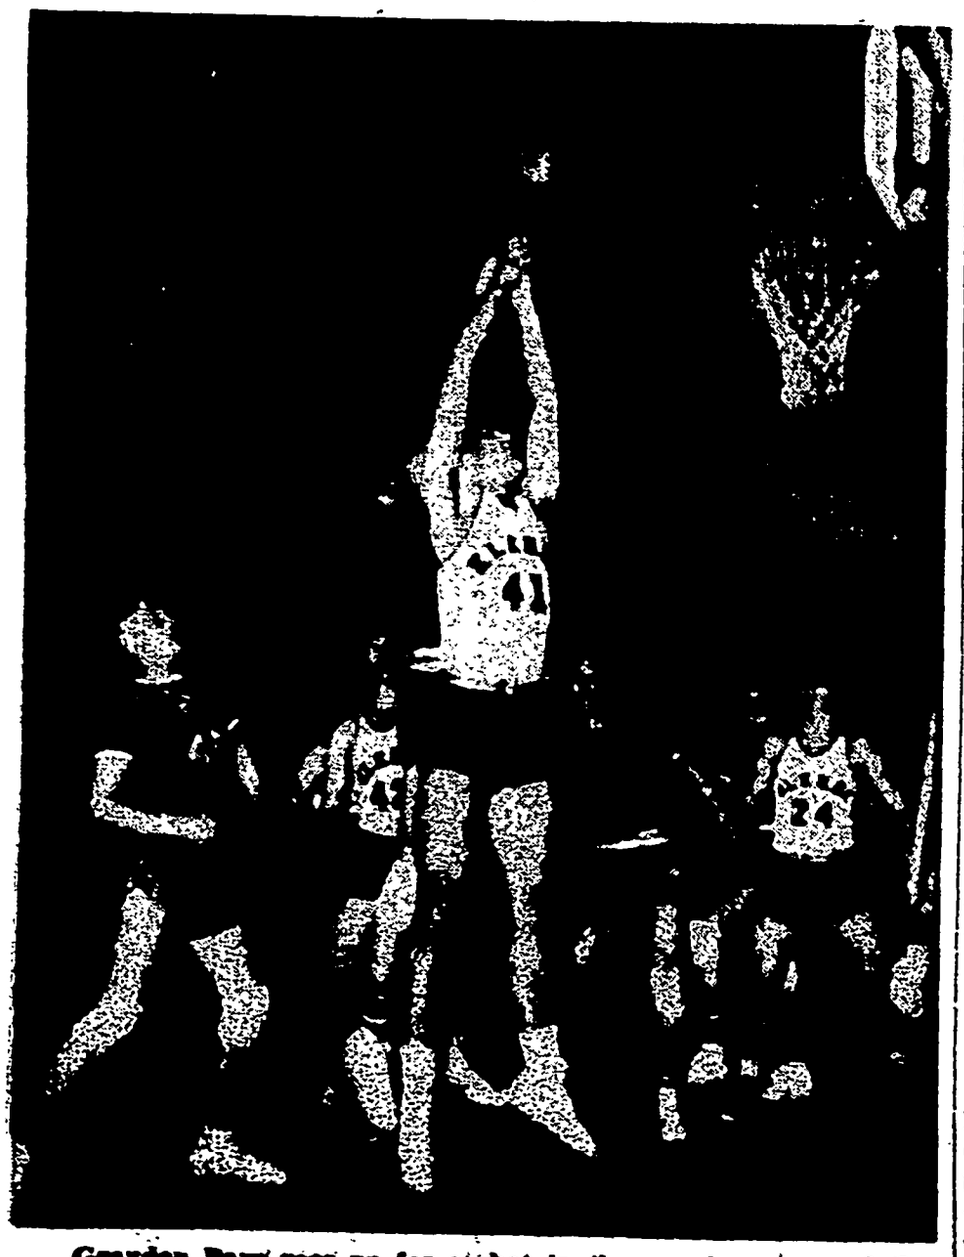
In addition to the various conferences and meetings attended, Miss Lemke, an experienced public speaker, addressed various clubs and PTA groups in the county, and presented a number of films.

Miss Lemke spoke at the Hancock County Memorial Hospital on Tuesday afternoon at 11:15 when she addressed the hospital directors and directors of nursing from the North Central Iowa area, on Public Health. On Tuesday evening she talked to the North Garner Community club at the C. D. of A. Hall in Garner.

Basketball Action Begins



Carol Bridges goes high for a jump shot in last Wednesday night's season opener with Hayfield. We don't know who the two Hayfield guards are, but Jo Ellen Clabaugh is watching the play from the right.



Grayden Barr goes up for a shot in the opening game of the season against Hayfield. Other Klemme players pictured are "Ronnie" Kuntjens (42), Roger Terhufen (24). Hayfield players are Tschirki (21), Kester (45), R. Christensen (25). Man guarding Barr is unidentified.

Servicemen's Xmas Boxes To Be Packed

Mrs. Nellie Arnold entertained the American Legion Auriliary in her home, Tuesday, November 3.

There was a discussion of the project of blood typing everyone in the county. Mrs. Paul Grange has given some new books to the library. Flora Back and Margaret Thomas were appointed to check plans for USO drive.

Boxes of home made candy for overseas service men will be packed November 10 at the home of Louise Etchen. Home made candy and cookies are to be brought to the December meeting to pack the remaining boxes for service men of Auxiliary members.

Following the meeting, Lena Lewis and Esther Hess had charge of entertainment.

Lunch was served by the hostess and co-hostess, Thelma Arnold, to the twenty-three members and one visitor present.

Field Representative

Miss Muriel Lehmann, Field Representative for the Crippled Children's Service of Iowa, will be in Hancock county on November 10, 11, and 12, to work with Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Helen Lemke, RN. Follow-up work on the recent crippled Children's clinic at Forest City will be done.

Recorder Report Shows Brisk License Business

Hancock County Recorder Edith Sonquist, Monday released her monthly report to the State Conservation Commission for the month of October, 1953. The report listed total license fees in the sum of $319.00 The following licenses were issued: 155 hunting licenses, $232.50; three fishing licenses, $4.50; three combination licenses, $7.50; two non-resident six-day fishing licenses, $3.00 and 40 trapping licenses totaling, $71.50.

Since the first of November the office has issued a number of hunting and trapping licenses and as of the close of business on Monday evening a total of 2700 trapping tags had been issued. County Recorder Sonquist had to reorder trapping tags from the Conservation Commission as her first allotment was sold prior to the opening day for trapping.

BELL'S PRODUCE

Try It a Different Way This Year—

Your Thanksgiving Turkey

Even a small family can take advantage of the lower price per pound of a big turkey by buying a quarter or half turkey, or buying the whole bird and tucking away in the freezer the quarters or half they don't serve for Thanksgiving. Pictured is a rear quarter, roasted to a crisp golden brown with dressing piled underneath to catch the drippings.

* * *

Not many folks can let Thanksgiving day go by without serving turkey. But the great big gobbler that dominates the dinner table when the relatives gather is much to big for the average-size family or couple or single person to cope with. Instead, the half or quarter turkey, the plump tender little 4-to 10-pound welterweight or even the boiler-fryer can be king for the day in just as grand a fashion.

Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist, suggests these ways you might like to serve turkey at your house this year:

Roast Quarter, Half

Tie tail and leg of half turkey together by stitching cord through skin at end of leg and then through meat of tail. Place bird cut side up and sew loose skin at neck so it forms a pocket. Salt pocket and fill loosely with stuffing. Salt and stuff body cavity. Cover stuffing with heavy wrapping paper or heavy aluminum foil. Lace across the paper catching skin on each side. If you're using aluminum foil, you may not need to lace the bird. Just press foil down over edges of bird about an inch. Place rack on stuffed side of bird and invert in shallow roasting pan. Rub skin with fat. Don't add any water.

Roast turkey 1½ hours in 325-degree F. oven, then baste with drippings and baste every 45 minutes until done. A half turkey 7 to 9 pounds takes from 4½ to 5 hours.

Stuff and roast a front or rear quarter in a similar way.

"Barbecued" Young Turkey

If you'd really like to spring something different on your family this Thanksgiving, cut up a tender young boiler-fryer weighing from 3 to 5 pounds, roll in seasoned flour, brown it in fat in the fry pan and finish it up in the oven basted with 2 cups of spicy barbecue sauce.

Spread the browned turkey pieces one layer deep only in a large shallow pan and pour barbecue sauce sparingly over the top. Cover with a lid or aluminum foil and cook about 45 minutes in a 325-degree preheated oven. Baste the pieces with the sauce several times.

Broiled Turkey

You might like to broil a little 3 to 4 pounder if you've just a small family to feed. Or broil several small birds for a bigger crowd. Have the turkey split in half lengthwise. Break drumstick, hip and wing joints to keep the bird flat during broiling. Skewer the leg to the body. Fold wing tip back under wing. Skewer wing flat against cut edge of backbone. Season each half with about ¼ teaspoon salt and a sprinkling of pepper. Place turkey in broiler pan, brush with melted fat and place skin side down.

Place in broiler 5 to 7 inches under heat source. Regulate heat or pan position so that bird just begins to brown lightly in ten minutes. Cook it slowly. Turn and brush with fat two or three times. Total cooking time for a 2½ pound ready-to-cook turkey will be about an hour.

To broil a larger turkey, cut in pieces as for frying, braise until almost tender and finish under the broiler.

'Coon Hunting is Lawful Until January 10

Iowa 'coon hunters are reminded by the State Conservation Commission that the 1953 raccoon hunting season will extend to midnight, January 10, 1954.

Some confusion has arisen among hunters because of the special raccoon season which began October 10. From that date until November 10, raccoons could be hunted but not trapped.

From November 10 to midnight, January 10, 1954, both hunting and trapping of raccoons is lawful. No raccoon trapping was not allowed during the early hunting season because raccoons are mainly trapped in water areas, where furbearers such as mink and muskrat might be accidently taken in 'coon sets, although the trapping season for mink and muskrat did not open until November 10.

SLEEPS

While a posse hunted, two year old Maxine DeShazo of near Spirit Lake slept comfortably in a corn field. The child had wandered into the field around 11 a. m. She was found in mid-afternoon, sound asleep.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

HOGS

Despite the 10 percent smaller 1953 pig crop, hog slaughter is running very close to that of last year. Farmers have been selling their hogs at a fast clip—with the result that market weights have been lighter than a year ago, reports Francis Kutish, Iowa State College Extension farm economist.

Back in September Kutish pointed out that the smaller pig crop—coupled with consumers spending about the same number of dollars for meat in 1953 as in 1952—meant that hog price drop would be around 30 percent from the summer high. This would mean that hogs would sell for somewhere between $18 and $20 at the terminals at the low spot—and that the bottom likely would come some time in November.

This analysis still seems basically sound, Kutish believes. Total personal income has flattened out the last few months. The hogs are coming to market a little faster than expected. There is some possibility that we could get some bunching of receipts the next six weeks. This temporarily could pull the market lower than our analysis indicated. Nevertheless, there is good reason to believe that the bulk of the fall hog price drop already has taken place.

FEEDER CATTLE

Considerably fewer feeder and stocker cattle have been shipped into the Corn Belt states this fall than last. Numbers shipped into the various states have varied widely compared with a year ago, too. During the July through September period, 17 percent fewer were shipped into nine Corn Belt states than a year earlier. Iowa farmers bought 25 percent fewer from July through September this year than last. September's inshipments of feeders were off even more. The nine state total for September was 33 percent less than a year ago—for Iowa, 27 percent under last year.

However, farmers in the eastern sections of the Corn Belt have showed more interest in feeder this fall than farmers in Iowa. Ohio cattle feeders bought 18 percent more replacement stock during the July-September period. Indiana feeders bought only 5 percent less this year than last.

Corn Belt farmer who have been "looking" for replacement cattle now seem ready to buy. Add to this the recent assurance of winter wheat pastures over wide areas in Texas. In addition-all indications are that some western growers will winter stock themselves. The next result has been a stiffening in feeder cattle prices. The last few days, feeder cattle seemed to show signs of stabilizing at this higher level.

32 YEARS

At Osceola, former sheriff Ed West recalls that it was just 32 years ago that West and two other Clarke county men were wounded, and a fourth killed, by men later identified as escaping bank bandits. All of the Clarke county men involved are now dead, except Mr. West. Two of the bandits, later apprehended, are still in the Iowa penitentiary.

IMPROVING

Edmund Towns, former Hawarden man and now of Sioux Falls, is recovering in the hospital at Hawarden following the crash of his light plane there recently. The plane ran into some telephone wires, apparently as the pilot was attempting an emergency landing.

State's Farm Income Healthier Than Nation's

Iowa City, Iowa—Though the U. S. index of farm prices dropped almost one per cent from mid-August to mid-September, prices received by Iowa farmers went up that much in the period reports "Iowa Trends" of the Iowa Business Digest for November.

The state's September index of farm income was the highest of any 1953 month, yet was still three per cent lower than that of September, 1952, the monthly publication of the State University of Iowa bureau of business and economic research points out.

Higher corn prices was the major factor in the state's August to September advance because the meat-animals index remained the same, Digest Editor Dick Leabo reports.

Non-agricultural employment in the state in August pushed up to a total of 647,750 workers, surpassing by 2,500 the previous peak of December, 1952, the "Trends" continue. Construction industry hiring of 2,650 additional workers between mid-August and a canning employment increase of 2,600 in the period account for the August high, the Digest observes.

Manufacturing employment figures show mixed trends, the Digest notes. Total factory employment was higher in August than July, however, in spite of the sluggish market in farm machinery holding back activity in agricultural equipment and tractor firms.

Soil Test Protects Fertilizer Investment

When the margin between farm prices and farming costs shrinks, the premium is on careful investment.

And that's one resaon that Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, advises farmers in the county to get soil samples taken before freezing so they can get tests made. Soil tests offer the best basis there is, he says, for investing wisely in fertilizers.

Soil tests as conducted in the Iowa State College laboratory give the best estimate of the fertility status of soils. And a tremendous bulk of experimental evidence gathered by Iowa State College soils men stand behind recommendations of fertilizer use he points out.

Different soils vary in their needs for fertilizers. A fertilizer rate that does the job on one farm may not do the same job on another. There are even striking differences from one field to another on the same farm, Henderson says.

Through hundreds of fertilizer experiments conducted on all major soil types in the state, Iowa State College agronomists have determined what yield responses farmers with about any soil will get from fertilizers applied at different rates. In fertilizer experiments, the research men have tested the soils before they applied fertilziers. Then they have been able to relate the yield response from different fertilizers rates on soil with a certain test. And their work on many soils with many different soil tests gives a sound, scientific basis for recommendations on fertilizer use.

Fertilizer use based on soil test will probably be more important in 1954 than at any time in the last decade, Henderson believes. The economists look for some further shrinking in the price-cost margin. And the farmers who come through the year in the best financial shape will be those who use their investments—such as in fertilizer—at the very highest efficiency.

Money spent for nitrogen fertilizer, for instance, won't pay at its best if the soil is short on phosphorus or potash.

There's no point in applying 3 tons of lime if the soil, by test needs, only 1½ tons. The additional lime applied will not help boost the crop, and it won't make the effects of liming last much longer. So it is virtually a waste of half the limestone investment.

Only by having soils tested ahead of the purchase of spring fertilizer supplies can you be sure of making the most careful use of your fertilizer money.

Minnesota, Iowa Sign Fishing Agreement

A recent agreement signed by the Minnesota and Iowa Conservation Commissions has provided for reciprocal fishing privileges on Minnesota-Iowa border lakes.

Iowa lakes included in the agreement are Little Spirit Lake in Dickinson County, Iowa Lake in Osceola County, Iowa Lake in Emmet County, Okamanpedan (Tuttle) in Emmet County and Swag Lake in Kossuth County. Beginning January 1, 1954, Iowa anglers may fish in the Minnesota portions of these lakes without Minnesota fishing licenses, and Minnesota fisherman may do the same in Iowa portions of the lakes. Residents of other states holding non-resident angling licenses issued either by Iowa or Minnesota may fish in any of the waters covered in the agreement whether such waters are in Iowa or Minnesota.

Snapped Back

Reuben Lemke had rather an unusual accident Tuesday afternoon. He was plowing and for some reason had to get off the tractor. He stumbled and fell dislocating his elbow. When he managed to get back on his feet, the dislocated joint snapped back into place. X-rays showed no broken bones, but Reuben has a badly swollen and sore arm.

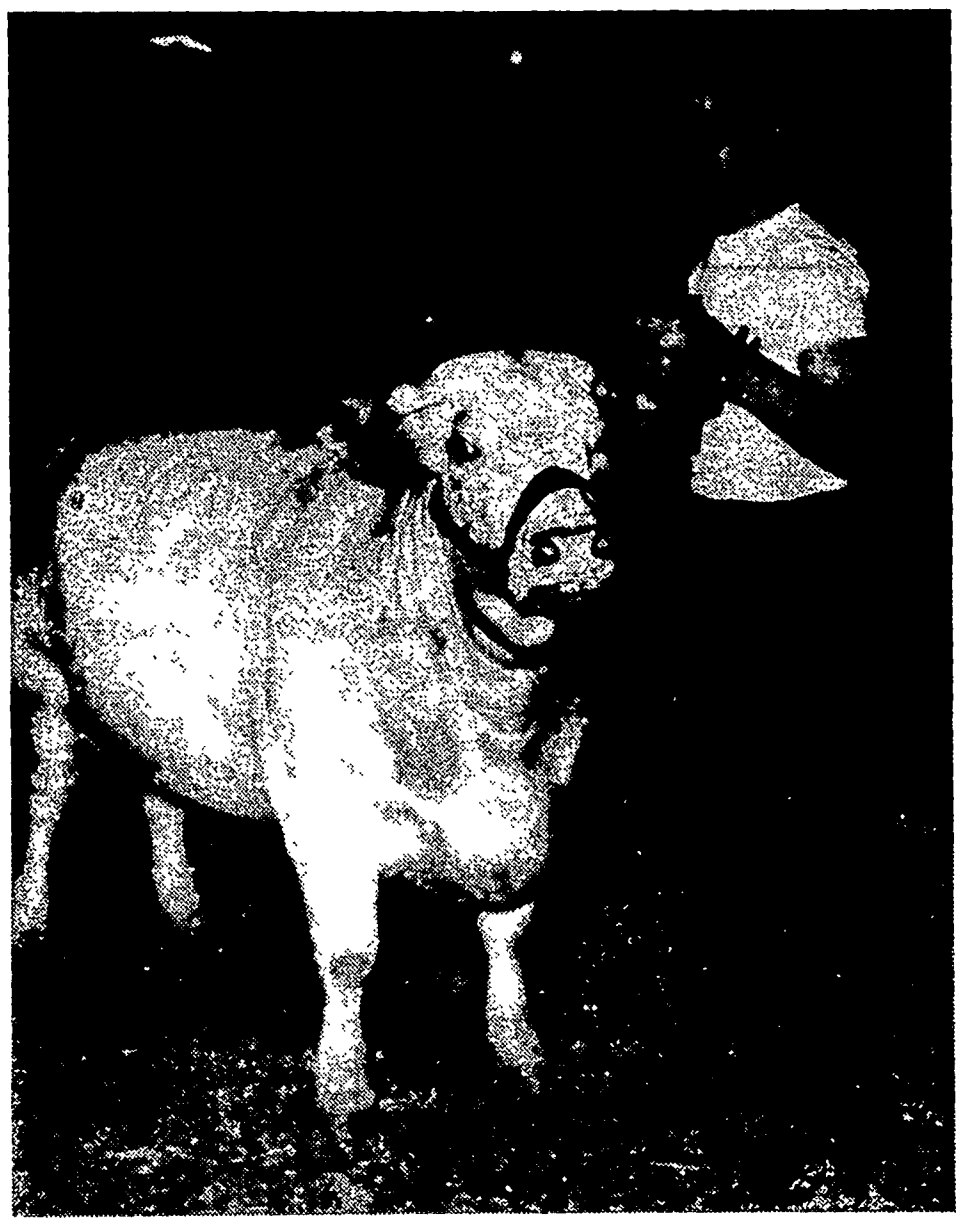
Special Speaker To Be At Group Meeting

Mr. Marlin Roll, Special Education Director of Ft. Dodge will speak at the next meeting of the Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties. This meeting is to be held November 23rd, 8 p. m. at the study hall of the Forest City High School.

Mr. Roll has spent the past two summers at Southbury Training School of Southbury, Connecticut. This is the finest Training School in the nation for retarded children and Mr. Roll will have encouraging information to give. All those who are interested are invited to this meeting.

Recent contributions to the Council for Retarded Children have been received from Ex-Farmer Homemakers group and Chez Nous Club of Garner.

Wins Trip To International



Lee Gruis is pictured here with the heifer on which he won a trip to the International in Chicago, awarded by the Chamber of Commerce. Lee was also awarded an engraved silver tray with creamer and sugar bowl. This last award was given on the same heifer by the Cerro Gordo Shorthorn Breeders Ass'n.

County Boards Deadlocked on School Proposal

Belmond School Plan Now In Hands Of State Department

Events subsequent to the joint session of the Wright County and Hancock County boards of education held last Thursday and Friday at the Wright County courthouse in Clarion have proved that we erred in last week's issue of The Times when we stated that in all probability the northern boundary of Belmond's proposed district would be revised southward.

What actually happened was this. In Thursday's meeting, the boards arrived at no decision, but seemed to be getting somewhat close to agreement. Time ran out on them, though, and the meeting was postponed until Saturday morning. When the meeting was called to order at that time, the Wright County Board had apparently had a change of heart. They wanted to over rule all of the objections that were brought out at he second hearing and fix their boundaries on a line decided on by the two boards after the first hearing in October.

The Hancock County board would not go along with such procedure, and as a result the meeting ended in a deadlock, leaving all the area Belmond asked in Hancock County as a disputed area. Consequently the only thing remaining to do was to place the matter in the hands of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Taking the matter to the State Department makes probable one of two possibilities. Either the proposal will be thrown into court, or will be put back onto the shoulders of the two county boards.

In the meantime, Klemme is free to go ahead as scheduled with the reorganization plan for the Klemme Community School District.

Local Men Escape Serious Injury In 3-Vehicle Smash

Arlin Olsen, local trucker, accompanied by George Schoenwetter for whom he was hauling some cattle, was involved in an accident near Dakota City about 7:30 Tuesday morning.

A Packard, driven by a Clay County man, apparently went out of control on a curve and crashed into Olsen's tractor and trailer semi outfit. Olsen was shaken up considerably, but Schoenwetter was unhurt. The tractor was practically demolished as was the Packard.

The Clay County man was thrown from the car to the pavement, and both he and his wife, who was thrown through the windshield, have been hospitalized.

Another car was involved in the accident when it crashed into the already damaged Packard, but no one was injured as a result of this final collision.

Mr. Olsen is at home, but he has enough sore spots to keep him away from work for a few days.

Reformed Church To Show Religious Film

"The Hidden Heart", a new film produced in Hollywood for the whole family, containing drama, humor and challenge, will be shown at 8 o'clock next Monday evening, November 23, at the Klemme High School gymnasium, under the auspices of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The film is about Stephen Ware, his wife, Ellen and their children, Charlotte and Phil. As the film unfolds, it will show how the Wares have made the mistake of placing too much value on material things instead of on the things that really count. It is a heart-searching, yet heart-warming picture that every member of the family will want to see. It illustrates with convincing insight the truth that where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

Group Gives Book and Subscription to Libraries

One of the purposes of a group which is formed to work for the benefit of retarded children is to build understanding of the problem of mental retardation. In endeavoring to do this the Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties is placing, Thanksgiving Week, in the public libraries of the two counties the book, "Angel Unaware" by Dale Evans Rogers, and a one year subscription to "Children Limited".

"Angel Unaware" was written by Dale Evans Rogers, the wife of the cowboy movie and radio star Roy Rogers. In this little book she tells of their experience of having a retarded child, and what the experience did to the Rogers family. It is a story of faith and courage.

Norman Vincent Peale, who wrote the forward to the book says "The purity, the sweetness, the touching humor, the deep spiritual understanding with which the little girl talks with God in this book will comfort and strengthen all who read it, as it did me when I read the manuscript—through misty eyes."

Dale Evans Rogers took the title of the book from the Scripture passage found in Hebrews 13:2, "Be ye not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."

All royalties from the sale of the book are to go to the National Association for Retarded Children, Inc.

"Children Limited" is the official newspaper of the National Association for Retarded Children, Inc. which is issued quarterly and carries the news of the groups which have been formed throughout the country to work for ahe benefit of these handicapped children, and information which is beneficial to all who are interested.

Skating Rink Being Prepared For Winter

Just west of the Reformed Church, here has been much activity recently as local men have been busy preparing a location for an ice skating rink for the winter.

The site chosen is at the southwest corner of the block in which the church stands and appears to be an ideal spot. A roughly circular area about 90 feet in diameter has been outlined with sandbags to aid in holding the water when the time comes for freezing. The spot has already been given several good soakings by the fire department.

A small building has been moved in to be used as a warming house, and the entire rink will be lighted by a centrally located pole carrying two lights. Plans call for the rink to be under supervision each night that it is open for skating, and it is also thought that music will be available to add to the atmosphere.

Don't Shoot Hens

ANTS! They're the birds that lay the golden eggs, and upon them depends next year's pheasant season.

Take your time, and don't snap shoot birds flying into the sun. One mistaken shot this fall can use up your limit of cock birds for next fall.

Legion Dance

Don't forget the dance at Duncan this Friday night. The Legion boys are looking for a good crowd and a good time for everyone. Music will be by Malek's Accordion Band. If you are going to the basketball game at Garner, don't let that keep you from attending the dance. It's ony a short run from Garner to Duncan, and after the game, activity at the dance will be just getting nicely started.

Grass Fire Sunday

The Klemme Fire Department was called out Sunday afternoon to fight a grass fire along the railroad right of way south of town. The fire, apparently cacsed by a carelessly dropped cigarette, started near the Will Wenz farm and worked north along the right of way for about a half a mile. With the stiff breeze that was blowing Sunday afternoon, the fire could have caused considerable damage. However, it was confined pretty much to the railroad property where it could not do much harm.

Dedication Service

Sunday morning in the Klemme Methodist Church a number of Memorials will be dedicated. Maroon covered choir hymnals, to harmonize with the new robes choir members wear, and pulpit chair cushions will be dedicated in memory of Ray Jorgenson and a number of pew hymnals will be dedicated in memory of Wesley Schuldt.

K H S Cagers Drop Two in Conference Play

Both Boys And Girls Drop Games To Fertile And To Sheffield

Klemme High School boys' and girls' basketball teams got their first taste of play in the newly organized North Star Conference the past week and were both defeated twice.

First defeat came at the hands of the Fertile boys and girls last Friday night. Getting off to a slow start, the Shamrocks allowed the Indians to gain a 10 point margin by the end of the first quarter, but after that they played them on even terms, allowing them to gain only one more point by game's end. Final score was 48 to 37 in favor of the Fertile team.

The Shamrockettes had a more even game as far as the score was concerned. At the end of the first quarter, Klemme led 11 to 10. At the half it was Fertile out in front 23 to 22, and at the end of the third period it was still Fertile by one point 31 to 30. Final score was Fertile 38, Klemme 35.

Jerry Jenkins led the attack for the Fertile boys with 19 points, while Barz and Thiemann each got 10 for Klemme, and Terhufen 8. Klemme lost three men during the course of the game via the foul route and Fertile lost two.

Carol Bridges was high scorer for the girls' game with 22 points for the Shamrockettes. Thompson had 19 for Fertile.

LOSE TO SHEFFIELD

Tuesday night the locals journeyed to Sheffield and got their second defeat in conference play. The girls were simply out-classed all the way, and in a game that was never close, lost by a score of 71 to 46. Schoning led the scoring for the game when she banged 34 points to aid her Sheffield mates, while Carol Bridges got 23 for Klemme. Jo Ellen Clabaugh got 13 points for the Shamrockettes and Eva Thiemann hit the hoop for 10.

The boys' game was a different affair. Klemme jumped into a 20 to 9 first quarter lead only to see Sheffield keep whittling away at it until at the end the score was knotted at 55 all. In the first overtime each team scored two points, so then the game went into a second overtime. It was a sudden death affair with the first team to make two points to be declared the winner.

Peters for Sheffield sank a fielder shortly after the overtime began, to put the game on 59 to 57, and to bring his total for the contest to 34 points.

Ridder scored 21 points for Klemme and Terhufen 19. Both teams lost three men on fouls in what observers described as one of the roughest contests they had seen for a long time.

GARNER NEXT

This Friday night the locals go to Garner. The play at Garner will be for boys only and will see the Shamrocks second team in action for the first time this year.

Next Wednesday night, the Klemme Shamrocks and Shamrockettes will go to Hanlontown to play Coach Bob Juhl's cagers.

Probably one of the most interesting subjects for discussion at the present time among residents of this section of the state is the big school reorganization that is going on all around. Information that is being put out regarding the subject, comes in varying forms. Some of this information, though not based entirely on fact, is harmless. Some of it comes very near hitting the truth, and some of it is down right misleading.

The one thing that we are certain of as reorganization plans move ahead, is that no one can promise anyone anything, and know that the promise will be fulfilled. If new districts are formed, one of the first steps will be to elect a new board of directors. Anything that the new district does then will have to be sanctioned by this board. With this in mind, we say that promises made now will be just so much straw in the wind, when reorganization is completed.

Many possibilities, alternative to this proposal or that proposal, have to be weighed and evaluated ahead of time, but in the final analysis it will be the people of any newly formed district who will have the say so.

According to all advance information that was available from the State Conservation Commission, pheasant numbers were supposed to be up this year. It's possible that they were, but after two half days of almost continuous walking and practically no pheasants, we would be inclined to think that somebody must have counted the same bird more times than one.

This has been a beautiful fall in which to be alive, but we are afraid that if no rain is forthcoming before the winter freeze, there will be much seeding and many garden plants and trees that will be dead next spring.

We don't know what the reason is, but it seems to us that the average motorist is becoming more safety conscious than he was a couple of years ago. For the most part, drivers are a pretty sensible lot. However, there is the occasional reckless one that everyone has to look out for. It wouldn't be so bad if he was the only one to suffer in an accident, but he usually manages to mess things up for someone else as well as for himself.

Dairymen in the Iowa dairy herd improvement associations are changing over to the sale of milk instead of cream.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

He didn't feel well at lunch Monday but forced himself to eat. "All I need is a little food," he said.

By 4 o'clock Monday he was home in bed wishing he hadn't eaten lunch. "There's something going around," he told his wife. "I got a touch of it."

He woke several times during the night. His back and legs ached and he felt weak. He thought about the things he had to get done on Tuesday and decided he would be well by morning.

He didn't feel quite well enough to eat much breakfast Tuesday morning, but he didn't actually feel sick, either. "I'm throwing it off," he told his wife. "I'll get a little work in today but take it easy."

At ten o'clock that morning, he was stopping to make a call when he jammed a tire into the curbing. He blamed the weakness in his shoulders and became irritated because he was driving poorly.

A little after 11, he was driving down a busy street when a wave of sickness passed over him. His lips and hands were dry and his legs heavy. He had to concentrate to control the car.

He had enough. All he wanted now was to get home and get to bed. He started to turn off the street. A car was coming toward him but there was time.

He was turning now, but everything seemed to be moving so slowly. It was taking all his strength. It was taking so long. He heard brakes screaming, and a blackening jolt spun him down into a great, deep unconsciousness.

Trout Streams In NE Iowa Being Shocked

About a dozen northeastern Iowa trout streams are now being censused with electric fish shockers by bioligists and fisheries personnel of the Conservation Commission.

The streams include both good and problem trout waters, which are being shocked at one-fourth mile intervals. As the trout come within the electrical field of the shocker they are drawn to the electric grids as if by magnets. The fish are temporarily paralyzed and are fin-clipped and recorded by biologists.

The stream census will be continued next spring, and the number of marked fish recovered will give an indication of movements and winter carry-over. The areas of greatest fish concentrations as indicated by the shockers will also help in future trout stocking programs.

Such electric shocking and fin-clipping do not harm trout. Electric shockers were used on Iowa trout streams last spring and indicated an excellent carry-over of fish, although that census was only on an experimental basis.

Commission Reports Decline In Violations

During the month of October state conservation officers reported 98 convictions for hunting and fishing law violations, and total fines of $2,855. Of these violations, 20 were for fishing infractions, 68 for hunting, and 4 for other reasons.

These figures show a decline from a year ago, when there were 121 October convictions. In October, 1952, a total of $15,430 in fines was assessed, for 18 fishing, 100 hunting, and 3 trapping violations.

All revenue from fish and game law violations is returned to the county school board of the county in which the violation took place.

Auditor Receives Land Credit Allotment for '53

Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman recently received the allotment of Agricultural Land Credit from the office of the State Comptroller for Hancock County for the tax of 1953 payable in 1954. The total allotment is $62,147.83, or 65.3864-218% of the total claims in the sum of $95,046.99.

Total claims to the office of the Comptroller from the State of Iowa were $7,646,847.56 and the amount provided for agricultural land credit by the Iowa legislature was $5,000,000.00.

The allotment has been credited the County Auditor Schoneman to individual taxpayers and will be deducted from the 1953 taxes payable in 1954. The credit is extended on the general school tax in excess of 15 mills on agricultural land in Iowa and is prorated in the various counties in accordance with the percentage designated by the State Comptroller on the individual claims of taxpayers.

Christmas Party Planned

The regular meeting of the Avery-Twin Lake Hustlers was held November 9 at the home of Marcella and Eldon Nuehring. Roll call was answered by sixteen members and two leaders. We got the programs for the next year and discussed what we should do for our Christmas Party. Bob Wilson was there to help us. The next meeting will be at Daryl Nuehring's

Farewell Party

The Backyard Six held a farewell party for one of their members, Mrs. Malinda Schuldt, who left on Thursday night for sunny California where she will spend the winter with her son, Raymond and wife, Frances. The guests brought cake, jello, and coffee with them to which they all did justice.

Malinda was presented with a head scarf and handkerchief as a going away gift.

Those attending were Naomi Kluckhohn, Ella Ward, Gladys Lewis and Cora Schaefer. Vivian Mace was unable to be there as she was out of town that day.

INJURED

Henry Schmitz had a narrow escape at Waucoma recently, when he bumped his head into a live wire carrying 13,000 volts. Rushed to the hospital, he is expected to recover. He was repairing a telephone line, at a point where the phone wires crossed under a power line.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Is Iowa Changing?

"What's happened to our Iowa autumns?" Edna asked while we were driving last Sunday. "Seems like the trees don't seem to turn as pretty as they used to."

That reminds me of Granpaw Jim. He claims that Iowa blizzards aren't what they used to be.

Well, honestly, I doubt whether our autumns or winters change very much. It's our point of view that changes.

And that's something we all should watch . . . our point of view. Let's not criticise the kids because they like to run and shout. We oldsters enjoyed that too, once. Let's respect the fellow with a broken accent. We'd sound funny to him, too, if we tried to talk HIS native language.

Granpaw Jim likes corn pone; I like white bread. Edna's a great coffee fan; I enjoy a temperate glass of beer. Both points of view are O.K. And as long as we can keep our vision broad enough, and tolerant enough, we'll all stay younger, grow wiser, and be happier.

Editorial

I'd like to congratulate the basketball teams on their good showing against Fertile last Friday. Of course we don't want to be satisfied with a loss even if the teams do play a good game, but I think the teams showed promise of greater things to come. If the errors they made can be ironed out, and they get plenty of support, our teams can probably have a very good season. Let's all come to the games and give them lots of moral support. I think that with a little effort we can make our first year in the new conference a winning one. I don't know what kind of team the other conference members will have, but I am of the opinion that Fertile is probably as good a team as we'll meet all year. I'm hoping that we can "bring home the bacon".

Feature Article

Our second article in our series of different hobbies is about Noel Egeland's stamp collection. Noel has about three thousand stamps, some of which are over a hundred and fifty years old. He has obtained these from different stamp companies, who send out groups of stamps, from which you pick out the ones you want. Noel has many stamps from foreign countries, the prize of his collection being The Monterego Mint Set, which is a series of stamps. One of Noel's more unusually shaped stamps is a triangle stamp from Venezuela. If any one has some unusual stamps or would like to see some, just ask Noel about them.

Freshman News

I am one of the loony freshman of Klemme High School. They told me I had to write the class news, so, what could I do? When a teacher tells you to do something, you do it, or else.

I set to work to find out what we were doing in English. We have been studying verbs, adjectives, spelling of words, etc.

Yesterday I woke up in math class and discovered we were drawing graphs of all makes and descriptions.

Next on my list was science. As I entered the science room, I found it a buzz with chatter about heat, how it is transferred, conduction, connection, radiattion and other scientific talk.

As I walk down the stairs to the Home Ec. room suddenly smelled a terrific smell. Just then I bumped into a freshman girl in the hall. I asked her what the smell was and she told me the girls were making different kinds of toast.

I thanked her, walked down the hall, bumped through the line at the drinking fountain, and arrived at the shop room. As I entered I was greeted by the hammering of hammers, the sawing of saws, the sanding of sanders, and other shop-like noises. Through the confusion I saw four or five boys in line, waiting for the framing square. Most of the boys were busy squaring up their boards, sanding, filing, or trail-assembling their projects.

This being the end of my list, I returned to the quiet (?) study hall.

To You — Mr. Pedestrian

You, who walk on our streets and highways, should be concerned about the ever increasing fatality rate.

About one-third of our accidents in rural areas involve pedestrians. This is both alarming and unexcusable. When you walk, as when you drive, or attempt to do anything, you should have complete control over yourself. Of course, everyone has worries and responsibilities which bother him. But think of your safety when you walk. Your family's future may depend on your ability to be alert at all times; certainly your future does depend on it.

Maybe you can honestly say that you know how to get along in traffic situations, but can your children respond to emergencies? You surely know that a child of four or five does not always watch where he is going. He should be made to understand that he should be careful at all times.

Even on a country road, seemingly miles from nowhere, which has very little traffic, could be where you will make your last mistake. Remember these rules and it might save your life:

(1) Always be sure to walk on the left side of the road. If it happens that cars close to you are going to pass each other, step off the road.

(2) Always be sure to wear or carry something white at night. More traffic accidents happen between 5:00 P. M. and 1:00 A. M., and that includes pedestrian fatalities.

They say life begins at forty, but if you are careless or indifferent on our roads and highways, you may never reach forty.

Being in a hurry, being overoptomistic, and using poor judgement are faults of many pedestrains.

Having custom built, correct habits is just as important to a pedestrian as to a motorist. Use sense when walking. You'll find that it pays.

Marlene Blumer

Pedestrians and Accidents

Pedestrians that walk along rural roads, are placing their lives in great danger. There has been more traffic deaths including pedestrians than accidents where several cars are involved. Pedestrians are the cause of nine out of ten accidents. Mostly it is because the pedestrians do not know the laws of the road, epsecially the people that don't drive themselves. When drivers become pedestrians they, too, become careless and cause accidents. If some of these pedestrians, only a few in fact, would try to abide by the following rules it would help lower the death rate of the pedestrians:

(a) Always walk on the left hand side of the street or road facing on coming cars.

(b) Always try to wear dark clothes in the day time and light clothes at night.

(c) Walk a few feet off of the concrete or as far from the road as you can.

These three rules, if followed, would make the traffic death rate drop lower every day, and maybe disappear almost completely. Let's follow them carefully.

First Grade

The Bluebird reading group has begun their third primer "We Come and Go."

In numbers we are learning to write to 100 now. Most of us can count to 100 or farther and many of us are able towrite to 100 also. We are learning to tell one number from another to 100.

Mrs. Jurgemeyer visited our room Friday afternoon.

Richard Trampel had a birthday party Saturday November 7 to observe his sixth birthday.

Third Grade

Lois Block and Earl Lemke have returned their dental cards We now have 50 per cent returned.

The Bluejays and the Bluebirds have been working on booklets with zoo animals. They have given the booklet the name "What I Saw at the Zoo."

Several members in our class have been absent due to the flu.

The North Side won our report card race. They returned all their cards before the South.

Girls' Sports

We have now played our first three games. The first, November 4, was with Hayfield in which we were defeated 42-55. Hayfield led 11-25 at the half. Carol Bridges came up with 24 points and Jo Ellen Clabaugh followed with 12 points for the Shamrockettes. Susan Hauge of Hayfield led with 26 and Shirley Malek with 17.

Tuesday night, November 10, we were defeated by Woden. The score at the half was 19 - 20 with the final score 43 - 50 in favor of Woden. The scorers for Klemme were Carol Bridges with 22 points and Jo Ellen Clabaugh with 17. Hellenga made 25 and Cink made 20 for Woden.

Our next game was November 13 at Fertile. This was a very close game all the way with the final score being 35 - 38 in favor of Fertile.

Boys' Sports

Wednesday, November 4, the Shamrocks played Hayfield on the home floor and lost by a close score of 45 - 43.

Tuesday, November 10, we played Woden and won by a score of 62 - 56. It was a close game all the way. The biggest lead we had was 11 points.

Friday, November 13, the Shamrocks traveled to Fertile for their first conference game. After a slow first quarter, Klemme finishing the remaining three came to life with both teams quarters on even terms. The final score was 48 - 37 with Fertile on the long end.

? ? of the Week

If Klemme would have football next year, do you think many boys would participate in it?

Bob Ausborn: Yes, because they might want to see what it is like.

Marvin Sandry: No, because their parents will think it is too rough.

Tom Waddingham: Yes, the way it sounds when you talk to some of the underclassmen. the underclassmen.

Ronnie Karsjens: Yes, if they have enough to go out for it.

Daisy Schaefer: Yes, for the first few years it would go over big as it would be something new; but in a few years it would probably slowly dwindle out such as girls' basketball has.

Eighth Grade News

In English we are studying the various kinds of pronouns.

Wednesday we had a spelling contest. Jeannie Barz was our winner.

In health we are studying a very interesting chapter about "Man and His Diseases". Next Thursday will be our unit test.

Monday we had an experiment in science on magnetism. We learned how to make an electromagnet and its relationship to electricity. We hope to have more experiments in science.

What happened between Marcia and Roger L.? I hear that she went with one of the Heginger boys Sunday night. Come on, Marcia, tell us who and all the details.

Say Donut! Did Clarence ever get his shopping done. If he doesn't hurry, it'll soon be too late; but then Christmas is coming!

By the way, band kids, let's have some excitement at band, or Jerry Music Mouse will have to retire.

Merlyn Olson seems to have a g rl in every port, the way it looks. Just every place he goes the girls just seem to swarm. He has so many we just can't keep track.

Dick must really have his eye on Darlene E., because he's even having little chats with her father now. It's getting bad, Dick!

It seems Ronnie was having quite the trouble with his feet on the way home from Fertile. Ask Ding and Carol, or Don and J. Ann, they'll know all about this.

Naomi Circle met at the home of Mrs. Verner Nelson on Thursday afternoon, November 12, with eighteen members and two guests present. Mrs. David Schwichtenberg had charge of the Devotions.

After a short business meeting, the ladiies enjoyed trying to identify pressed leaves that had been gathered locally. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nelson and co-hostess, Mrs. Emil Beier.

Esther Circle Met

The Esther Circle met at the church parlors Tuesday evening November 17, with fourteen members present. Mrs. Robert Johnson had the lesson, "The Sower—The Woman's Society of Christian Service". Mrs. Roy Arnold presented the project of the Treasure Chests as a means of promotong the goal of widening fellowship. Plans for the bazaar were discused.

Following the meeting the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Hartzell and Mrs. Helen Stille served a delicious lunch.

Hosteses at the December meeting will be Mrs. Frank Ward and Mrs. Roy Schaefer, with Mrs. Marvin Lemke, the lesson leader.

FIGHT

Two buck deer got into a fight near Moorhead, recently with fatal results for one. The bigger of the two received a broken neck, and conservation officer Dick Jacobson had to shoot away the horn of the dead animal in order to free the other buck.

TOO CAREFUL

As he approached the railroad tracks in Monticello, Roy Melvin of Wisconsin heard a loud blast from an approaching train, and quickly swung his truck to the left, running into a curb and shearing off the front wheels. Then he learned that the whistle blast was from a slowly-moving engine still some distance away.

We wish to thank everyone for the many lovely cards and gifts that we received on the occasion of our 50th wedding anniversary. We also would like to thank all those who attended the open house at the church and helped to make the event a happy one.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Koerner 1tp

My thanks to everyone for the many kindnesses extended during my recent stay in the hospital and since I have been home. Your cards, gifts and visits were really appreciated.

Verner Priebe 1tc

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all my friends and relatives for the candy, cigarettes and cards, and for helping with the farm work while I was in the hospital following my recent injury.

The strength, vitality and size of pigs at birth are all affected by the feed the sow gets during pregnancy, Iowa State College animal husbandmen say.

There may be a few more cattle in the United States in January 1954 than in 1953, says Iowa State College extension farm economist Sam Thompson.

WARM WATER FOR STOCK MEANS

MORE PROFIT

- It has been proven by long-time experimentation that livestock need plenty of water in order to gain weight at desired rate, or maintain a proper degree of health. Dairy Cows will give more milk, beef cattle will gain better, hens will lay more eggs, and hogs will gain faster . . . if they have plenty of water at the right temperature. All this means more money in the pocket of the livestock farmer. Just cutting holes in the ice to enable stock to drink is not enough. Water must be at a temperature that will make them want to drink. That's why you'll want one of our . . .

TANK HEATERS

- We have bottled gas tank heaters that will really do the job. Not only do we have a model for your large tank, we also have a model to fit your automatic chicken and hog waterers.

International Trip Award Winners Announced

Final plans are being completed for KGLO trip to the International Livestock Exposition November 26 through December 1st. The trip will start from Mason City Thursday evening November 26 at 9:00 P. M. and end back in Mason City Tuesday morning December 1st.

This year's trip will include special tours through the Armour Packing Plant, Union Stock Yards(designed for both boys and girls), Chicago's mighty Board of Trade, the world famous Hall of Science and Industry, Shedd Aquarium, a sight seeing trip through Chicago's Maxwell Street area, North Michigan Avenue, China Town, University of Chicago campus, Hull House, Washington and Jackson Parks, Sunday Services at the Chicago Temple or St. Mary's and of course a visit to the 1953 International Livestock Expedition and Horse Show.

Ample free time has been provided in the schedule for optional trips through the Chicago Tribune, Marshall Field's, Field Museum, Planetarium, Art Gallery, shopping, sleeping, movies, and stage shows.

Mrs. Donald Dean, Boone-Magor Pals and Clarence Chizek, Garfield Sluggers, and Bob Wilson, Hancock County youth assistant are accompanying the group as chaperones.

The girls winners are chosen on long time record books while the boys are chosen on a long time record including record book, 4-H activities and extra activities like judging and demonstrations.

The girls being awarded the trip are Kay Bonstetter, Boone-Magor Pals; Joan Nelson, Orthel Jolly Workers; Dorothy Faust, Erin Eagers; Helen Smith, Orthel Jolly Workers; Georgia Gaskill, Boone-Magor Pals; Doreen Lackore, Ell Tip Toppers; LaVonne Olson, Ellington Experts; Evelen Formanek, Garfied Lively Workers.

The boys winning the award trip are David Tegtmeyer and Larry Fox, Orthel Eagles; Roger Christensen, Ronald Formanek, and Gary Formanek, Garfield Slugger; Richard Eliason, Amsterdam Boosters; Lyle Goll, Ell Midgets; Jim Hayes, Madison Lucky Seven and George Guenther, Erin Enterprisers.

Conservation Man To Ohio Training School

Robert Read, Conservation Aid from Garner, Iowa has attended a three week training course for Soil Conservation Service personnel at the Regional Training Center, at Coshocton, Ohio. The training center is provided to give better service to all Soil Conservation Districts of Region III: It is the policy of the Soil Conservation Service to give this training to all new personnel.

While at the training center Read worked with other conservation personnel from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa. The training program consisted of tours to see the conservation practices in that sector of Ohio, also classes and actual experiences in engineering, soils, land capabilities and the many other services the Soil Conservation Service has to offer.

During his stay at the Regional Training Center, Read was instructed by two former Iowa men who are now in charge of the training program; M. "Doc" Harrison Taylor, formerly of LaPorte City, and George Osterson, formerly of Fort Dodge.

Mr. Read and family now reside at Garner.

Hunters near Mount Ayr should learn that it was "deer", not "steer", on which open season was recently declared. Esse Freed, of the Redding vicinity, lost a 600 pound steer as a result of careless marksmen.

FATAL

Thirty were killed when a truck upset near Osage recently. But the dead were all hogs. The driver of the truck escaped with a bump on his head.

At Mount Vernon, E. R. Ristine recently observed his 100th birthday anniversary. The occasion was observed in the Methodist church there, in which he has been an active worker for 62 years.

Hog production appears to be starting a new expansion, USDA economists say.

OUR TASK

To transform our healthy and active boys and girls into useful men and women is our task which requires the help of every person in this rich farming community.

We all pay taxes to support the schools; still the actual work and worry of training the children falls principally on the following groups of people:

THE MOTHER

She is very much in charge for the first five years of the child's life. During these important years, the child learns to walk and talk, and the child learns that there are definite rules which must be obeyed in the household, such as a regular time for meals, for going to bed, etc., and also rules for cleanliness. The father sets a good example for the children, by obeying all household rules, too.

And, by asking a thousand questions the child learns right from wrong. The little son will want to know if he will grow tall like papa and drive a car or tractor. The little daughter will want to know, if when she is grown, she will be beautiful like mamma and live in a nice new house.

Then comes the day when five year old "Junior" in new jeans, clean face, and combed hair, trudges off to school.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

The beginners class in the Klemme Schools at present numbers thirty. Here Junior must learn the routine of school life, and learn his lessons mostly by playing games. From here on then for twelve years he is a part of the Klemme School system.

Counting state aid and tax money, it will cost this community more than $3000.00 to put him through the twelve grades. Most of the expense for his education will be incurred in the the high school.

We have adequate buildings and equipment appraised at a value of $220,000.00 and a large and experienced staff of teachers.

The School Supt., T. G. Ahrenkeil, and the five school directors, Everett Guth, Margaret Arnold, Don Bacon, Lloyd Sherwood and Milvern Barz, work with the county superintendent, the county school board and the state inspectors for the best interests and welfare of our school system at Klemme.

THE CHURCH

Junior's education would not be complete without the religious instruction offered at each of our churches.

THE FATHER

When Junior gets into high school, he is no longer a child, but a youth. He has grown taller and seems to have unlimited amount of surplus energy.

The wise father will realize that this is the time to teach Junior to work. Not only to work but to enjoy working and to be proud of his accomplishments on the farm.

The father realizes that it is his duty to teach Junior how to make a living, and since father cannot teach him what he doesn't know, he must therefore teach him all there is about the job of farming.

Thus, Junior is with his dad, helping with the many interesting jobs that come up on the farm. Dad will be enthusiastic about the job at hand and will not scold when something is broken or goes wrong, because Junior must learn many things the hard way.

It would be nice for Junior to be taught to keep a "farm log". This is a note book where he can jot down important happenings in detail so that if and when he becomes a farm manager, he will have this data to refer to.

For instance, if Doc Baker comes out on a professional call, let the boys stand around and ask questions. This interview can be recorded in the "farm log". Or if a well is dug, tiling job completed, and all about your experiences with corn borer, fertilizer problems, etc., can all be entered in the "farm log".

Of course the high school student has many activities besides his regular high school classes, such as basketball, band, singing in vocal groups, class plays, banquets, parties, etc. All of these are very important.

But, all grandparents will agree, that the main thing for the "teenager" to learn is how to work and enjoy it, and if necessary skip some of the doings at school and apply yourself at learning dad's job.

Without this farm training your other schooling may be largely wasted. This "teenage" farm training is your most important assignment.

JUVENILE DELINQUENTS

Last Sunday's Register and Tribune had an article on teenage crime in Washington, D. C. This is of course one of our largest cities. I quote:

"A total of 33,000 children under 15 were arrested in 1952 on charges involving serious crime, such as murder, robbery, rape, burglary and auto theft. There were 52 children under 18 arrested on the charge of murder."

More than half of the women working for wages in Washington, D. C. are married women.

When both the father and the mother are at work, who takes care of the children?

If left to themselves, the teenagers get into trouble. As the old saying goes "Satan finds mischief for idle hands and minds to do."

KLEMME SCHOOLS

The new proposed Klemme Community School District will cover an area of about 75 square miles. Most of the 385 children attending here will be rural children.

The rural vote will control the school and the expense of running the school will be just what the voters want to spend. Thus, the taxes will be lower than in most districts.

We will have just the right number of children for each class. 25 to 35 for each teacher.

The Klemme School will be just big enough to give you school, and just small enough to everything you want in a good keep that friendly atmosphere.

Washington D. C. has beautiful school buildings but many of their children grow up delinquent.

Be glad you live in the Klemme Community District. Here is where we do a good job in rearing our children.

(The opinions expressed in the foregoing article are entirely Mr. Wellemeyer's and do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of this paper.)

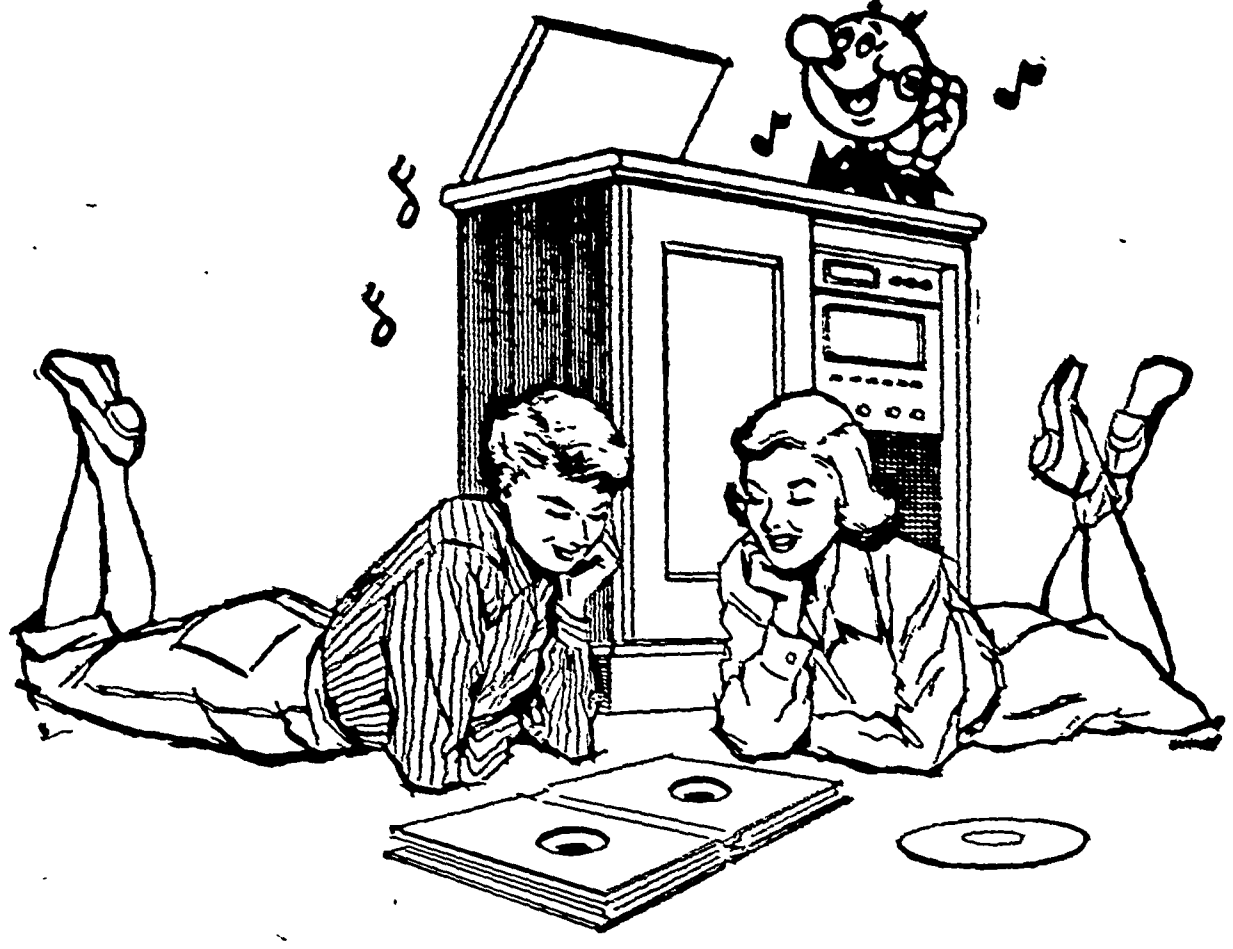
Teen-Agers, TODAY...

Home-Makers, TOMORROW!



In 5 short years, these Teen-Agers will probably be starting homes of their own but the Electric Power they'll use is being built for them TODAY

● Lucky teen-agers — to be growing up in a state where plans have been carefully made so that they'll always have PLENTY OF POWER to use in their future homes!

They're so used to Reddy Kilowatt's help in their lives that they don't realize how much he does! But not too long ago, it was really hard job keeping house. Everything meant hours of hard work.

And then — along came Reddy Kilowatt! First, he lighted homes — no more cleaning lamps. Then, he really got busy! Now, he helps keep the house clean, helps wash, iron, sew, cook. He heats water for all personal and household needs . . . brews coffee, runs the clock, the electric fan . . . provides entertainment with TV and radio. He's brought hours of leisure and enjoyment. What a helper! What a friend! And he works for only pennies a day!

Planning in Advance

Knowing how important Reddy is to Iowa homes, industry and farms, the major utilities of Iowa have perfected plans to meet all electric needs. Power companies are investing millions to keep ahead of demand. Long-range construction programs are underway to assure users of ALL the power they'll need . . . WHEN they need it. A "network" of power lines is under construction to make sure that Iowa citizens will always have Reddy "reddy" to work for them at the flick of a switch!

Working together, power companies, the State College, and Rea co-operatives have DOUBLED the electric help to Iowa's farms in 5 years. Reddy's on the job . . . in the house, workshop, barn and all over the place.

Yes — Iowa children are fortunate! They're enjoying Reddy Kilowatt's service now. And in years to come, they'll find him still their faithful friend and helper . . . always "reddy" to make life more comfortable . . . more enjoyable. We are always planning for PLENTY OF POWER in Iowa.

Commission Removes Deer License Deadline

The State Conservation Commission has announced that the November 15 deadline for deer license applications has been lifted, and such applications may now be made through the deer season.

The deadline was removed because of the lag in license applications, which until November 10 had totalled only 900. All applications from Iowa residents up to 20,000 will be filled.

Applications for deer hunting permits are available from local state conservation officers, some sporting goods stores, and from the State Conservation Commission office in Des Moines. The completed applications are to be sent to the Commission office in Des Moines, accompanied by $15 in cash, check or money order. Deer licenses and marking tags will be mailed to applicants as soon as possible.

The 1953 deer season will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p.m. daily, and will extend from December 10 through December 14

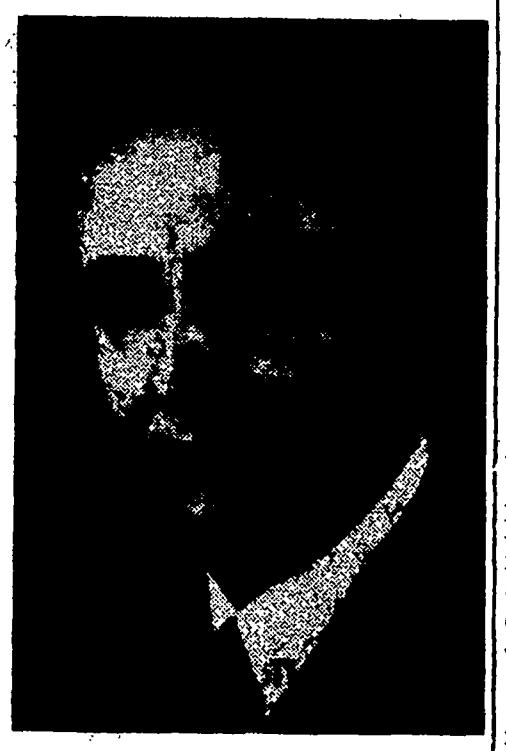
Plans Being Made For "Dr. Missman Day"

Plans are underway to honor Dr. W. F. Missman for his many years of service to the Klemme community. Date set for the affair honoring the Doctor, is the evening of January 11. A banquet will be held at the High School gymnasium and highlights of the Doctor's 44 years of active practice in Klemme will be reviewed.



DR. W. F. MISSMAN

Tickets for the banquet will be sold at a cost sufficient to cover expenses, and a purse will be made up to present to the Doctor. Tickets will sell for 75 cents and anyone wishing to contribute to the purse may do so by mailing their contribution to either Asa Arnold or Martin Barz, or by leaving it with either of these gentlemen at the bank.

More details on the coming "Dr. Missman Day" will be presented in forthcoming issues of The Times.

ONCE MORE

At Ledyard, young Mickey Miller broke his arm in football earlier this season, broke it again last week when his horse threw him against a gate.

Two New Members As Lions Met Wednesday

Twenty-three members and one guest were present at the Lions Club dinner last Wednesday evening. Town new members Art Kudje and Virgil Cook, were initiated into the club by Tailtwister Gerardi. At a previous meetng Roy Jacobs and Wallace Eichorn also became members.

Appetites were whetted by the singng of many songs and the Legion Auxiliary served a very tasty chicken dinner. After the meal, Lion Fuss reported on the locating of a plane spotting unit in Klemme. He stated that we now have a telephone line cleared to the Des Moines filter center so our unit is ready to go into operation when the nxet erercises are held.

Also discussed were plans for the Ladies Night to be held Wedneday evening, December 2. At that time the president of the Band Mothers and Legion Auxiliary will be presented with $100 checks as gifts from the Lions Club for their fine cooperation with us.

To round out our meeting, Ernie Gerardi played several accordion selections and also gave a short history of the accordion as a musical instrument.

Ventura Plan Rejected By County Boards

The Boards of Education from Hancock and CerroGordo Counties in a joint meeting Tuesday refused the Vtntura Consolidated School District permission to circulate petitions for reorganization in certain areas of Hancock County not already served by the Ventura district.

The Ventura board sought to circulate petitions for reorganization in parts of Ellington, Concord and Ell Townships. Involved were six sections now served by Garner and three sections now served by Klemme.

Legal Natice Tells Details Of Klemme School Plan

In this week's issue of The Times appears a legal notice proclaiming the date of the hearing on the proposed "Klemme Community School District", describing the lands involved, and setting forth procedures to be followed by those wishing to object either into or out of the proposed district.

If the hearing proves favorable to the formation of the district, as did the petition which brought about the hearing, then the proposed plan will soon be put to a vote. If the vote proves favorable, then in all probabilty the district will become active as of July 1, 1954.

Klemme Girls Play Hayfield In First Round Of County Tournament

Pairings have been announced for the Hancock County Girls' Basketball tournament, which is to be held at Hayfield on Dec. 10, 11 and 12.

Drawings for the first round bring Klemme and Hayfield together in the lower bracket, and in the same bracket, Woden drew a bye.

In the upper bracket, Crystal Lake and Kanawha meet to open the tournament, with Corwith and Goodell completing the pairings.

Admission to tournament sessions will be 60 cents and 35 cents, except for the final round, which will be 75 cents and 35 cents.

WILL PAY

Following a five-day fire in a big pile of corn cobs at Eagle Grove, the owners of the cob-pile, the Corn-Byproucts company, has advised the city it will pay for all expenses caused by the fire.

Community Chest Being Organized For East 8 Townships of County

That's right—a Community Chest for the eight eastern townships of this county is on the way.

After several preliminary meetings, the directors from the eight townships met Monday night and elected the officers, who will serve until the annual meeting in 1955. The annual meeting will be held on the last Monday in April.

The officers are: the Rev.J. Dallas Gibson, president; John Kester, Hayfield, first vice-president; Don Schaefer, Klemme, second vice-president; Mrs. Anna B. Williams, executive secretary; and treasurer, Ben V. Greimann.

The purpose of the Community Chest movement is not to reduce the amount of money going to the various agencies, but to assist these agencies in receiving their proportionate share at considerable less expense and effort. This will come about-in that the eight or so separate campaign drives will be combined into the one concentrated effort—the Community Chest drive in the fall of 1954. And, what's more, the local contriutobrs will have a much better stewardship of their donations, in that the directors selected from all townships and towns in east Hancock county will know just where the money is going, the purposes for which it is to be used, and the manner in which it is expended.

It is to be remembered that the first Community Chest Drive will not take place until the fall of 1954, and there will be several drives between now and then, which drives will be conducted in the usual manner and should be contributed to as you have in the past.

There will be more information from time to time given on this Community Chest organization; especially following the incorporation, the approval of the constitution and by-laws, and the completion of the various committee appointments.

Elijah To Speak At Joint Service Sunday

The congregations of the Liberty and Klemme Methodist Churches will have a joint service on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in the Klemme Sanctuary with Mr. Earl Elijah of Clarence, Iowa as guest speaker. Mr. Elijah is Lay Leader of the North Iowa Conference and will be speaking in the interest of the Pension Finance Movement now a major concern of all churches in the Conference. A farmer as well as a state senator, Mr. Elijah is a fine speaker and will have a message that will be inspirational as well as informative.

All members and friends of the churches are urged to hear him. He will also speak at Belmond, Garner and Clear Lake later in the day.

The Klemme Sunday School will meet as usual at 11 o'clock and the Liberty Sunday School will meet at 11:15 following the joint service, in the Liberty Church.

Services At Reformed Church This Afternoon

Funeral Services for Mrs. Herman Barz, 68, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon (Wednesday) from the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church with Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg in charge.

Mrs. Barz had lived on a farm northeast of Klemme for the past 47 years, was a member of the Reformed Church, and was always a good and helpful neighbor.

She suffered a stroke on Nov. 19, and died on Monday morning, November 23.

Intermeat was n the Ell Township Cemetery at Klemme and those who carried Mrs. Barz to her final resting place were Ewald Josten, Paul Goll, Owen Nuehring, Lester Neuberger, August Josten, and W. Jennings Anderson.

Wellemeyer Funeral Service of Klemme was in charge of arrangements for the services.

An obituary of Mrs. Barz appears on page 7 of this issue of The Times.

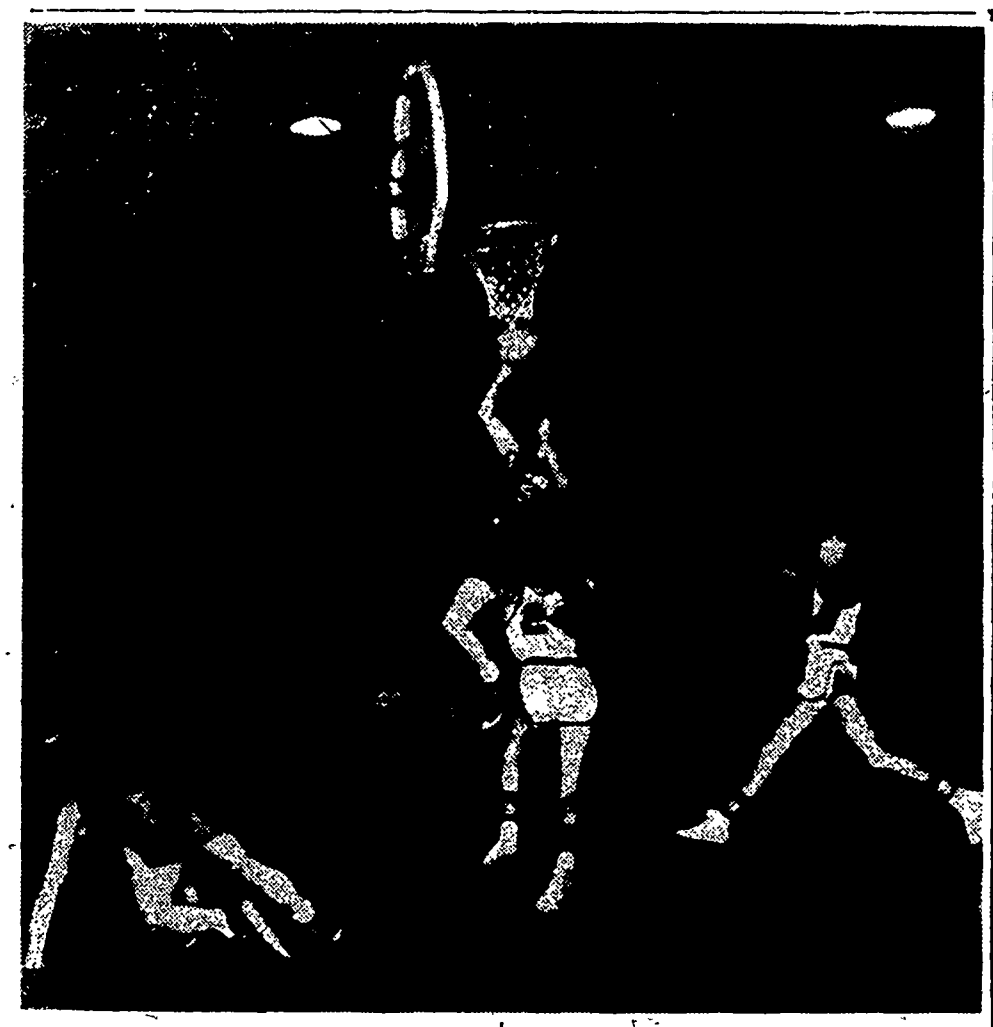
Along with the majority of graduates in his class, he will enter a course for advanced training or will be assigned to one of the major Air Force commands for on-the-job experience with first-line operational aircraft after completion of his schooling here.

Airman Ruter attended Kanawha High School prior to his enlistment in the Air Force on June 1, 1953.

Shamrocks Lose to Garner in 2-point Thriller



High in the air to score is Roger Terhufen of the Shamrocks. Terhufen had just taken a pass from Don Thiemann (on hands and knees) on a fast break which caught the opposition off guard. Action took place at Garner Friday night when the Shamrocks bowed to the Garner Cardinals 40 to 38.

No. 24 is Hans Nielson of Garner and the Garner player coming in with the long stride is Duane Jass.

Lose By Two Points As Little Shamrocks Win

The Klemme Shamrocks tried hard to get back into the win column at Garner last Friday night but missed by two points as they went down before the Cardinals 40 to 38. The game was a hard fought battle with defensive work showing up better for both teams than did their offensive ability.

Klemme held the lead at the end of the half 15 to 12, but by the end of the third quarter, the Cardinals were out in front 32 to 24. The Shamrocks came on strong in the last quarter, but their victory bid was two points short.

Terhufen led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 13 points, while Ridder and Thiemann each had 9. Snater led the Cardinals with 13 points. Nielson had 10, and Daryle Jass 8.

LITTLE SHAMROCKS WIN

In their first action of the season, the Little Shamrocks, after trailing 13 to 8 at the half, came on to win over the Garner seconds by a score of 29 to 23.

Tom Waddingham led the locals with 12 points while Allen Neuberger had 9.

Clerk of Court Reports On Civil Coses Filed

A total of 97 civil Cases were filed in the office of County Clerk of Courts Doris Young in 1951 according to a report to the Department of justice. Of this total 85 were terminated by trial, settlement or dismissal and 43 were pending at the end of the year. A total of 94 probate matters were filed in 1951 with 70 closed during the year and 209 pending at the end of the year. Ten criminal cases were filed during the period and 11 terminated and one juvenile case was handled.

In 1952, 112 civil cases were filed and 102 terminated with 54 pending at the close of 1952. In probate matters 104 filed and 109 were closed during the year with 200 pending at the close of the year. Nineteen criminal cases were filed and nineteen terminated during the year. There were no juvenile cases in 1952.

Marriage Licenses

Hancock County Clerk Doris Young issued marriage licenses the past week to Billy B. Govig, 22, Britt, and Colleen Horstman, 19, Britt; and to James A. Diehl, 18, Britt, and Darlene F. Knudson, 18, Britt.

The stroke of a whale's tail, which can smash even a large boat, is the fiercest blow that can be struck by an animal.

Raise a "Market Type" Hog

A special "First Run" Farm News Picture furnished to The Times by Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

The market barrow (left in picture) is a "farmer's type" pig. His carcass will yield close to 50 per ecnt of his live weight in primal cuts of meat. He weighed about 200 pounds at 5 months of age. He made nearly a pound of gain for every 3 pounds of feed he ate. The boar at right is his brother. The boar brother carries the blood lines that will produce the "farmer's type" barrow. Notice that the "farmer's type" boar is longer and leggier than the barrow. There is a sex difference. The boar does not look like the "farmer's type" market hog.

Iowa State College swine breeders say that to get good boars you will not choose the boar that has the outward appearance of the good market pig.

And, they warn, looks alone won't tell all you need to know about the boar. Investigate his lines of breeding. Every breeder, according to Dr. L. N. Hazel, Iowa State College swine breeding researcher, needs a pair of scales to keep accurate records of the weight of pigs. The records of gain of the pigs show whether the breed line will produce fast-gaining pigs. Every breeder, Hazel adds, should follow some of his hogs through the packing plant and see the carcasses on the rail to see which of his breed lines is producing meaty carcasses.

Fined $300 On OMVI

John Marsten Palmer of Britt was fined $300 dollars and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of Operating a Motor Vehicle on a Public highway while in an intoxicated condition, in the Hancock county district court here Monday afternoon by District Judge Tom Boynton of Forest City. His driver's license was suspended for 60 days. Palmer was arrested on July 4th by a State Highway patrolman and arraigned in the Justice Court of R. J. Fritsch, where he waived to the grand jury. He was indicted on the charge by the grand jury.

Boys' Sports

We have played two conference games so far. November 13 we played Fertile and lost by 11 points. It was a good ball game all the way with about five minutes to go we moved within 5 points of them, but then four players went out on fouls. Then they moved up to an 11 point lead and that is the way the game ended.

Tuesday, November 17, we played Sheffield and lost by 2 points. Klemme started out good and got a 10 point lead, but then Sheffield kept coming up behind us. At the half we were only five points ahead of them. To start the second half, Sheffield got two quick baskets and a free throw which tied the score. The remaining part of the game was close. At the end of 32 minutes the score was tied, so we had to play an overtime which was three minutes. At the end of that three minutes the score was also tied; so we had another overtime. In this overtime period, the team that got the first basket wins the game. Sheffield got it, so naturally they won by 2 points.

Music News

On Wednesday morning about 8:30, students could be seen rushing everywhere. The fumble and jumble of finding the right hat and belt finally came to an end when we boarded the bus for Fertile. Upon reaching Fertile, their band director was there to help us get settled. At approximately 10 o'clock we began our concert. We had the privilege of using two nice kettle drums, which went over big during "Dragnet". Our concert being over at 11 o'clock, we ate dinner in the Fertile High School. I'm sure the meal was enjoyed by all. We then did a little sightseeing. We all discovered they had a river, a nice park, and a cafe. It seems Gracka, Carol, and Jo Ann B. discovered they had snakes too! Just ask Dick B. Except for a few squeaks, and wrong notes, none had much trouble except for LuVern! He just couldn't get on the beat. Oh well, LuVern, you may have been right and we were wrong, you never can tell. Anyway I think we all got a lot out of this exchange concert with Fertile. Let's have some more.

Sixth Grade News

Finding common denominators while adding fractions has been making our arithmetic interesting.

The study of electricity and its many uses has been keeping us very busy in science. Each discussion period brings up new problems to be solved.

Although it seems early we have been thinking about our Christmas program and have begun to work on music which we might use.

Feature Article

This week our continuation on our series of hobbies is about Fred Arnold's hobby of collecting model trains. Bob began this hobby about six years ago with one train and a small track. He now has three electric trains, twelve cars, and about two hundred feet of track. Bob also has stations, block signals, billboards, and scale cars and trucks. The better cars are made of light steel or a heavy plastic while the cheaper ones are made of tin. The rails are usually made of a light steel. The engines and cars have all the working parts of a real train, except that they are run by electricity instead of steam. About fifteen or twenty miles per hour is the top speed; compared to a regular train this would be about two hundred miles per hour.

Do you think Pep Club participation at games away helps the team?

Ione Rosendahl: I thinks so, because more go to the games away and make more noise. When they are rooting for them they are more active.

Warren Terhufen: Yes, because more kids go to the games and cheer for the team.

Shirley Barz: Yes, there is usually a larger group of kids at the games to cheer which I think helps the team very much.

David Waddingham: Yes, because there are more people at the games and the cheering is part of the team.

Carole Montgomery: Yes, because there are more kids going and so there is more cheering.

Gordon Beier: Yes, because there are more going and cheering for the team.

Eleanor Priebe: Yes, there are more kids attending the games and making more noise cheering, which gives the team a lot more support and makes them really feel like getting in there and winning.

Lyle Pannhoff: Definitely it helps, because it makes the team feel more like playing a better game.

Daisy Schaefer: Yes, I do. It makes the team really want to get out and work to win and it gives the cheerleaders more enthusiasm to go out and cheer.

Suggestion Box

No doubt most of us have something that we want the school to know about, but we are just a little bashful about making our ideas known. That is why the suggestion box has been placed in the study hall, to deceive all of your suggestions. No one needs to know who placed them there.

So far it has contained very little, except for one week there has been little if anything of value in it. That week the sophomores submitted four requests for more movies in their classes. One of these was a petition signed by 22 class members. If they have not received an answer from their teachers, I would suggest that they take the matter up with the teacher in whose class they wish to view the movies.

Won't the rest of you follow the sophomores lead and fill up the suggestion box. What is the latest gossip? Do you have any ideas for the juke box. What ideas have you to make the paper more interesting, Just fill that suggestion box so we will know what the rest of your opinions are.

Editorial

As most of the students of K. H. S. already know, there is a new ruling that all students must be in their rooms and seats after 8:30 A. M.

The reason is that several unforunate incidents have happened around school in th past few weeks. One incident that I will refer to in particular was the broken window in the library. It was broken between 8:30 and 9:00 A. M. by some person who, so far, has not had the courage or honesty to admit it.

It is really bad and disgraceful when any person sinks so low that he can not own up to mistakes he has made or damage he has done to property that belongs to someone else! Wouldn't it be much better to have the courage to admit your wrong right away, to take the blame you deserve, rather than throw suspicion and blame in other innocent people. If and when you are found out you will be regarded as dishonest and will never be trusted.

Although you are still young and free of responsibilities, many of the habits you form now will follow you all your life. Maybe you think it's smart to "get away with things", but believe me, the only things you will get if you keep it up is a ruined reputation, guilty conscience, loss of real friends and a living fear of being found out.

Girls' Sports

We began to show progress when we were defeated by Fertile, Friday the 13th, by only three points. Then Tuesday the 17th, we were again in the defeat bracket, being defeated by Sheffield with a score of 71 - 46.

For the Fertile game Carol Bridges was high scorer with 22 ponts of the 40 Klemme made. The score stood at 40 - 43 in favor of Fertile.

Out of the 46 points made against Sheffield, Carol Bridges was again high scorer with 23 points.

We are hoping for our first win Wednesday the 25th when we play Hanlontown, there. We hope to see a lot of you out for the game and we'll try our best to win.

Freshman News

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Hickamadoodle decided to let their little son Algernon visit school with his big sister,, Arimathea, who was already in the first grade.

On the bus, Algernon got disconnected from his sister and got off at the wrong school. During the course of the day he was hustled into all freshman classes.

When he finally arrived at home that night, his parents naturally wanted to know what he had learned at school. Little Algernon reported the following:

Genral Math: "I know the formulas for finding areas of cylnders, cones, pyramds and oodles of other things."

Home Ec: "I know how to make the best muffins you ever tasted."

Shop: "I can make you a hall tree, a magazine rack, or anything else your heart desires."

Mr. and Mrs. Hickamadoodle just can't get over what a good first grade teacher they have at Klemme.

Graydon and Carol are at it again. Can't you two ever get your problems solved?

Lois H. and Francis went shopping Friday after school. We all thought she would come to school with a diamond Monday, but she fooled us. Well, Christmas is coming.

And now some news about Harriet and Jerry. This is really getting to be a serious case. He keeps her out so late every night that we can't blame her when she sleeps through Lit. class.

It seems Jo Ann Burgess had quite the time coming home from Sheffield the other night. Didn't you have your shoes tied enough or what was the trouble? ? ? ? Was someone picking on you? ?

Oh, say, Lois J., they provide seats on the bus! ! ! They are put there for the purpose of sitting on them, what were you doing sitting on the floor?

Why didn't Carol and Graydon sit together on the way home from Sheffield?

Gary L. had quite the time coming home from Sheffield. Ginger, Jeanie, and Darlene E. kept him occupied most the time.

Keith always says he's going to sit with his girl on the bus, but he never seems to have any special one, or should I say one that lasts all the way home!

Two new steadies, June Mayland and Benny Harms; Marcia Watney and La Vern Heginger. Ain't love grand kids?

Poor Shirley and Noel got separated Tuesday night. She came home on the Pep Club bus and he came home on the players bus.

Merlyn and Winola seem to have been on the outs but it looks as though their back together again.

What is this fascination Gordon L. has for Britt? I hear he kind of likes a certain little blonde up there. Is this true, Gordon?

My goodness! How Bueford did look when he came to school Tuesday. It about shocked the Junior class to death. You must have really got in a fight with your girl. Next time be a little more careful.

Fifth Grade News

Last week was our twelfth week of school. In spelling we had a review of the past five week's words. Joanne Trampel and Ellen Waddingham wrote all their words corectly. These people also received A on their spelling papers: Marcele Bachman, Sharon Bachman, Melva Johnson, Daryl Kothenbeutal, Gary Kubly, Claudia Neuberger, and Daryl Schlei.

We received our new social studies books. The name is "Exploring the New World". We are very happy they arrived as we had just finished the booklet on the first section of our work.

Claudia Neuberger had a birthday last week and treated us to candy bars.

Seventh Grade News

We have some free hand water colors that we think are quite good. They were painted by Carroll Priebe, Virginia Kudje, Myrna Barz and Mardell Stadlander. Cozette Lau has made an attractive mountain scene with colored chalk.

Carroll Priebe, Cozette Lau, and Virginia Kudje enjoyed the trip to Fertile with the band last Wednesday.

Seventh graders are losing tonsils this year. Gary Kothenbeutal has just returned to classes after having his removed, and Dorothy Roul is still out recuperating from the removal of hers. We hear the doctors with the sharp knives are looking for more willing victims.

In language we have been learning how to form the various tenses of verbs. It isn't nearly as hard now as it looked at first.

4TH ADJOURNED SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
October 26, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the quarterly reports of W. F. Pavey, Ell Twp. J. P. and of Daniel E. Williams, Britt Twp. J. P. are hereby approved.

On motion and second the construction engineer's bond of Wm. Henschen on D. D. No. 8 West Main and L. No. 5 and the contractor's bond of Ardell M. Smith on D. D. No. 151, Main and Lat. No. 1 are hereby approved.

Supervisor Bird is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made on D. D. No. 1 and 2 East Main and Jt. D. D. No. 31-36, Main; Supervisor Daniels on D. D. No. 82.

On motion and second the waiver of hearing and claims for damages on the proposed sub-district of D. D. No. 13 petitioned for by Nordahl Anderson, et al is hereby approved in accordance with Sec. 455.20, Code of Iowa 1950.

WHEREAS, C. F. Merten was appointed Preliminary Engineer as commended in Chap. 455, Code of Iowa 1950, on June 3, 1953 to make a survey, investigation, and report on the necessity and feasibility of the construction of a subdrainage district of D. D. No. 1 & 2, petitioned for by Carl Swanson, et al, and said Engineer did file his report on October 26, 1953, which report states that he has investigated and surveyed the lands in the proposed sub-district and finds the present system of drainage inadequate and recommends that said sub-district be constructed as prayed in the prayer of the petitioners and that such improvement will be conducive to public health, welfare, convenience and utility and that the benefits to be derived will be greater than the cost thereof.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of said proposed sub-district of D. D. No. 1 & 2, that the report of the Engineer be and the same is hereby approved as a tentative plan and may be amended before final action thereon and said report shall come on for further hearing at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa at 1:30 P.M. on the 21st day of December, 1953.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of hearing on the report of the Engineer and plan of said improvement to be published in The Britt News-Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation published in Britt, Iowa, advising all owners, occupants, lienholders and encumbrances of record in the proposed district of the petition on file for proposed construction the favorable report of the Engineer thereon, the approval of the Board of Supervisors of the report of the Engineer as a tentative plan, and that same may be amended before final action thereon and that all claims for damages and objections to such construction shall be in writing and must be filed with the County Auditor at or before the time set for hearing thereon.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Barber whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to November 2, 1953 at 9 o'clock A.M.

Chairman

5TH ADJOURNED SEPTEMBER MEETING

Garner, Iowa
November 2, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clarence Bird, Clint Daniels and S. A. Barber present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the quarterly report of R J. Fritsch, Concord Twp. J. P., and the 1953 Weed Commissioner's Report are hereby approved.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made on D. D. No 26, L. No. 12 and D. D. No. 1 & 2, S. Main; Supervisor Daniels on D. D. No. 142, Main; and Supervisor Bird on D. D. No. 8, L. No. 2.

This being the 2nd day of November, 1953, a date heretofore fixed for a hearing on the establishment of Sub-District No. 1 of D. D. No. 155, petitioned for by E. F. Bock, et al, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the report of the Engineer, the proof of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised said hearing was held as scheduled. The petition and report of the Engineer were read by the County Auditor and objectors and proponents were given the opportunity to discuss the necessity and feasibility of the establishment of said sub-district, as petitioned for and as recommended by the Engineer. There were no written objections on file and one objector was present at the hearing, said objector being John Liska who objected to location of the tile line. After thorough discussion it was deemed advisable to establish said sub-district No. I of D. D. No. 155 as petitioned for and as recommended in the report of the Engineer.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors that said establishment of Sub-District No. 1 of D. D. No. 155 as petitioned for by E. F. Bock, et al and as recommended by the Engineer, Wm. Henschen, is hereby approved. In accordance with Sec. 455.135 Code of Iowa 1950, no letting is required but bids had been asked for and were on file. The Chairman of the Board proceeded to open bids on file and the bid of E. G. Greiman of Garner, Iowa was the lowest and best bid on file and a contract is hereby awarded to E. G. Greiman and Clint Daniels, chairman of the board is hereby authorized to execute said contract in behalf of Hancock County, Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the contract and bond of E. G. Greiman of Garner, on Sub-dist. No. 1 of D. D. No. 155 are hereby approved.

On motion and second Wm. Henschen is hereby appointed construction engineer on Sub-dist. No. 1 of D. D. No. 155.

On motion and second Wm. Henschen, Engineer, Walter Kahl and Ray Baker are hereby appointed a commission to classify lands and assess benefits in D. D. No. 155, Sub-dist. No. 1, as commanded in Section 455.45, Code of Iowa 1950. Said commission to file its report on or before December 31st, 1953.

BE IT RESOLVED that there is hereby levied on all taxable property in Hancock County, Iowa, the following tax levies fixed by budget hearing on the 20th day of July, 1953 for the year 1954 for the various funds, viz:

Funds	Mills

New Enlistment Policy Affects Personnel With Prior Service

The U. S. Army and U.S . Air Force Recruiting Station at Mason City, has announced that those who have had prior service in any of the Armed Forces may now enlist in the Army with a grade commensurate with the grade held prior to discharge. Those reelisting within 90 days may still enlist in grade. Persons who have been out of the service for 91 days to 12 months may re-enlist one grade lower than the grade held at time of discharge. Those who have been separated for more than 12 months, but less than 24 months may enlist two grades lower than the grade held at time of separation.

Santa Claus Plays Safe

Santa Claus wants to make sure he's healthy before he starts the strenuous holiday season. He's going to have a chest X-ray to be sure he doesn't have TB. Tuberculosis associations, whose work is supported by the sale of Christmas Seals, say every grownup, even Santa, should have a chest X-ray at least once a year.

SAVED

The buoyant lning of a parka jacket apparently saved the life of Mrs. Walter Johnson, of Sioux City, when the Johnson boat overturned in Okoboji Lake recently. Her husband clung to the overturned boat until help arrived.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The boy is seven years old now, but he has never been to school. The Children in the neighborhood hardly know him. Only one or two of the children can remember that the boy once came out to play with them a long time ago.

Now, they only see the boy when his parents take him away in the car or when his mother brings him out on a fine day and follows him closely as they walk about the deserted part of the neighborhood.

The adults in the neighborhood know the story. For the first four years of his life, the boy was a bright, normal youngster. All that changed forever in a few crashing seconds.

The boy was riding with his father early one Sunday morning in November. The car approached a stop intersection, but it didn't stop. A thin, almost invisible patch of morning frost was on the highway.

The car slid into the intersection into the path of a truck. The boy was thrown from the car in the crash. His brain was so damaged that he became mentally retarded for life.

But that is only half the story. For this boy and many more like him whose brains were damaged at birth, the community provides little. There is no special classroom where he can be taught the thngs he is capable of learning. There is no recreation area where he can play with children like himself.

Worst of all, there is more fear of the boy than understanding among the neighbors. He is a child in the dark, and it is a darkness where his parents, too, must dwell, until our communities turn to help and understand the mentally retarded child.

At Hawarden, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott have recently observed their 60th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Scott is hospitalized, due to a broken hip received in a fall recently.

For firing his shotgun at two 14-year old youngsters, Andy Lamb, 68, was confined to the jail in Belmond over the week-end. The boys claimed they were "just walking along the path" when Mr. Lamb opened fire. Both were hit by pellets.

Obituary of Mrs. Herman Barz

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mrs. Herman Barz nee Olga Marie Karoline Ratzlaff, whose departure from this life is sorrowfully mourned by her family, neighbors and friends was born on March 30, 1885 at Woodbury, Washington County, Minnesota. She was the daughter of Wilhelm Friedrick Ratzlaff and Henrietta A. Moritz Ratzlaff. She was dedicated to the Lord in the Sacrament of Holy Baptism on January 25, 1886 by the Rev. August H. Koerner, pastor of the Woodbury Methodist Church.

In her youth, Mrs. Barz received her elementary schooling in the public schools of Woodbury, Minnesota. After a period of instruction in the Christian Faith, Mrs. Barz was received into the fellowship of the Christian Church through the rite of confirmation on Good Friday, April 8, 1898. The confirming pastor was the Rev. Mr. Hobart, pastor of the Woodbury Methodist Church.

On February 21, 1906 she was united in the bonds of Holy Marriage with Mr. Herman Barz in Woodbury, Washington County in Minnesota. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. F. Steiner. God in His providence blessed this marriage with five children.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barz have made their home two miles north and a half mile east of Klemme. Here they have labored side by side during the course of the past 47 years. They and their children were always willing and able to be helpful to their neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Barz was a member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme, Iowa.

Mrs. Barz has been in failing health for several years having suffered several light strokes. A final stroke occurred on Thursday, November 19 and on Monday morning, November 23 she departed from this earthly "veil of tears" having attained the age of 68 years, 7 months, and 23 days.

Those who survive are sons, Martin, Gerald and Paul and daughters, Stella and Marcedia, all of Klemme. She is also survived by one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Martin Barz and by one granddaughter, Mrs. Franklin Carter of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

She was preceeded in death by her husband, Mr. Herman Barz who died on May 9, 1953 and by her parents, two infant brothers, Paul and Edward, and young sister, Bertha. Also preceeding her in death were sisters, Henrietta, Minna, Mrs. Albert Reichow, and Anna; and by brothers, Henry, Fred and Benjamin.

"Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people." Luke 2:29-30.

Annual Bazaar

The annual Bazaar put on by the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church last Thursday afternoon was well attended and pronounced a success in every way. Lunch was served throughout the afternoon and supper hour, and many people were served. This annual event is one of the highlights of the church's social year.

Attend Purebred Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jurgemeyer attended the annual statewide sale of purebred Brown Swiss Cattle at Boone on Thursday, November 19. The Jurgemeyers had one junior yearling heifer that sold near the top in the well attended sale. It was purchased by Eldred Frick of Hartley.

Highlight of the sole was a banquet wed. evening at the Hotel Holst. Some 70 persons attended this banquet.

In a Buena Vista corn-yield contest, the top yield was 157 bushels an acre produced by Lawrence McKenna on a 17 acre tract. Until this season, the field had always been in pasture.

Two- to Five-Year Old Needs Lots of Exercise—

Make Room for Indoor Play

It takes quite a bit of coordination of mind and body for a little boy or girl to learn how to pump a swing. This youngster is getting her exercise and excitement indoors on a bitter cold day.

* * *

What happens when wet or too-cold weather keeps a child from 2 to 5 years old indoors? If you have a youngster or two in this age range, you know they can wear you ragged—unless you figure out a good way for them to express their high spirits and have room for all the vigorous physical activity their bodies crave.

Take your cue from your child's interests and abilities, says Edith Sunderlin of the Iowa State College child development staff.

HE NEEDS EXERCISE

A child from 2 to 5 has learned or is learning to use his trunk and arm and leg muscles well. He loves to run, jump, crawl, climb, balance himself and cavort to rhythmic music.

Anything you can do to provide him with indoor equipment and space for these activities will help him develop his muscles and learn to use his body well, which is very essenial at this stage of his growth and develepement.

His need for climbing and jumping experiences is what prompts your tot to scale the davenport and plummet down onto the cushions. To save the davenport, you might substitute several sturdy wooden boxes he can stack, climb onto and jump from time and time again. Kitchen stool will serve the purpose, too.

He loves to slide, which is why you're apt to find him bumping down the stairway from step to step on the seat of his britches. If you have no stairway or safe, substantial banister you could supply a smooth plank he can prop on a stair step or up on a box and slide down.

For muscle-building gymnastics, a swing with exchangeable rings and bar could be installed in a seldom-used doorway. And a long hallway free of scatter rugs will make a fine runway for pounding feet (stocking feet, if the noise is too much for you). Or use a good wide pathway from room to room. Clear the way for crawling under tables and furniture, too.

WHAT ABOUT SPACE?

If space is limited, you may need to adapt his room, a section of the living room or kitchen for his activities. Try to arrange his play environment so that you don't have to say "No" often and can cut the possibility of destruction. In his own room keep furniture to a minimum, have handy storage space for his belongings and clear the center of the room for action. He'll need every bit of wide open space you can provide.

The 2-year-old loves to be near his Mom and will like best of all a place to play in or near the kitchen. Wherever he plays should, ideally, be sunny, well-ventilated, warm enough and easy to keep neat and clean.

GROUP PLAY

The 4-year-old is usually ready to start being sociable. He likes and needs a chance to be with other youngsters, and their "socializing" will be full of loud boisterous, strenuous activity. So this is the time to ask one or few hours play-perhaps you can trade days with other mothers. The youngsters will need a bit of supervision as usual. You might help get them started on some simple game, too, but don't expect them to stick to rules. Let them work out their own disputes when possible, too.

Perhaps you have a basement you can outfit for this group play. The niose generated will be somewhat muffled and there'll be ideal space for tricycles, jumpropes, boxes, boards, gymnastic equipment, etc., to come into use.

VARIETY OF PLAY

Play is a small boy or girl's most important activity, explains Miss Sunderlin. Through different kinds of play, he develops his muscles, co-ordination and the ability to think and act quickly, concentrate and wrestle with problems.

Besides active physical play, a youngster needs time for so-called "free play" when he's left partly to his own devices. And he should be given lots of opportunity for quiet play—clay modeling, finger painting, story telling and building things with blocks.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

BEST PROTEIN BUYS

The cost per pound of protein from various sources changes as market relationships vary. With current prices, it appears that, of the common sources, tankage and soybean oil meal are the best buys per pound of protein. Therefore in the range of substitution, these two feeds can be interchanged economically in hog rations, according to Donald J. Hunter, extension farm economist at Iowa State College. For cattle rations, soybean oil meal is the best buy, Hunter says, with cottonseed meal the next best choice when figured on a cost-per-pound-of-protein basis.

Strong demand for hay from the drouth-stricken areas in Missouri and surrounding territory has caused hay prices to be relatively high in Iowa. However, Hunter says, as a source of protein for roughage consuming animals, alfalfa and clover-timothy hay are relatively less favorable pricewise than is usually the case, on the basis of cost per pound of protein.

FEEDS FOR LIVESTOCK

In respect to feeds for livestock-fattening rations, wheat millfeeds such as bran and shorts are considerably less favorable pricewise at the present when compared with corn on the basis of feeding value. With bran's feeding value at 80 per cent that of corn, and corn prices at $1.35 a bushel, bran would have a feeding value of $38.50 a ton. A current quotation for bran is $52. The situation for shorts is similar. From these figures it would follow that corn should be used in as great quantities as possible in livestock-fattening rations now, Hunter points out.

CORN, SOYBEAN PRICES

In the markets, corn advanced 3 or 4 cents the past week. Soybeans were up 12 cents for the week. The corn advances were stimulated by strong demand for the new crop at the terminals. The trade considers its quality to be very good and feels that it will store well. Country movement of corn also slowed down, to give prices an extra boost.

The big jump in soybean prices came as a result of light marketings and further reductions in the crop estimate. An additional strengthening factor in the soybean market was increased interest on the part of export buyers.

Britt's First Community Chest Drive Goes Well

In its first Community Chest campaign Thursday and Friday Britt oversubscribed its $3920 goal by more than 16 per cent.

Concentrating their efforts into a two-day drive the Britt solicitors started with a kickoff breakfast Thursday morning and by 2:30 Friday afternoon the goal had been reached. Checks were still coming in Saturday and Monday and drive Chairman Carl Frick expected well over $4600 by the end of contributions.

Several chest drives in the state have not made their goal this year and others have spent several weeks in reaching the quota. Britt's drive is unique since it was accomplished in two days with everyone concentrating their efforts during that time.

According to the French Academy, the actual number of languages spoken and written in the world is estimated at 2,796.

No Corncobs For Mik Cow

Don't try corncob rations for your dairy cattle if you want to keep them producing milk.

That's the advice of Robert Fincham, extension dairyman at Iowa State College. Some dairymen have inquired about feeding corncobs with supplements to their dairy cattle this year in an effort to stretch short-hay supplies. Animal husbandmen are suggesting such hay-saving rations for beef animals, but not for dairy cows.

Here We Go Again!

- For the past twenty years we have been telling everybody to get their machinery fixed ahead of the rush. A few folks will take the time to make arrangements with their dealer and get the job done in time.
- Why not get your machinery repaired this year before time to go to the field? You can expect a better job when there is time to do it properly.

It's no joke

Being out in the cold is certainly no joke, and having a cold isn't either. But for chickens, which often get coryza ("colds") this time of year, there's an answer. It is Dr. Salsbury's Ar-Sulfa, poultry drinking water medicine. Ar-Sulfa checks infectious coryza effectively!

Rachel Hueneman to Represent Iowa at Talk Meet In Chicago Dec. 14

Rachel Hueneman, second grade teacher in the Klemme School and long-time 4-H and Farm Bureau worker, is to represent Iowa in the national Talk Meet contest in Chicago December 14.

RACHEL HUENEMAN

She earned this honor with a talk on "What are my obligations with regard to voting and elections?" which she presented at the Iowa Farm Bureau convention at Ames today (Wednesday).

The national contest will be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Hearing On Klemme School Plan Monday

Next Monday is the date for the hearing on he proposed "Klemme Community School District", and according to information we have received, it is quite probable that objections to forming of the new district will be few.

If the petition which was cirlated some 30 days ago is indicative of the desires of those residing within the boundaries of the proposed district, there should be no trouble in getting the plan in action.

"Poultry Scramble" In Klemme on Saturdays Until Christmas

Joan Albrecht, Carroll Usher Wed In Church Ceremony at Pomeroy

On Sunday afternoon, November 22, at the Weslyan Methodist Church of Pomeroy, Miss Joan Albrecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Albrecht of Pomeroy, Mr. Carroll Usher of Klemme, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony. Rev. Charles Kimbrell, pastor of the church, opened the service and Rev. Worthie K. Usher, pastor of the Methodist Church of Smithland, brother of the groom, gave the marriage vows.

The church was beautifully decorated with large white chrysanthemums, pom poms, and baby mums. The church was lit delabra. The entire setting was by white candles in white canwhite except for enough floral green to add color. The candle lighters were cousins of the bride, Lynn and Paul Albrecht.

Mrs. E. A. Gerardi, of Klemme, cousin of the groom, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied soloist, Mr. Richard Riggs of Keosaqua who sang, "Because" and "At Dawning" preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

The bride was escorted by her father. She wore a chapel length gown of master satin and imported lace, with a yoke of nylon net enchanced by a wide band of lace edged with permanent nylon net; full length tapered lace sleeves, and lace over satin bodice. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a satin cloche edged with embossed scalloped lace studded with tiny seed pearls. Her necklace of pearls was a gift from the groom. Her shower bouquet was made up of baby mums, pom poms, and chrysanthemums. Into the satin bow was tied a handkerchief which had been made by the groom's grandmother Usher.

The maid of honor, Miss Linda Albrecht, sister of the bride, wore a forest green bolero style floor length gown of double net

Farmers Figuring For '54 Acreage Allotments

Farmers of Hancock County are doing a lot of figuring these days getting ready to report cropping information required in preparation for possible corn acreage allotments in 1954.

Information to be obtained from every farm in the county will cover add cropland for the years of 1951, 1952 and 1953, according to A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the county ASC committee, formerly known as the PMA committee. For 1953, the figures will cover each crop, field by field. Total acreage figures for each crop, instead of breaking them down to individula fields, will be taken for 1951 and 1952.

To save time of community committeemen who will collect the required information, farmers are urged to check their records in advance and have their figures ready. Such cooperation on the part of farmers will be of great assistance, Chairman Rasmussen said, because all of the data must be assembled by December 15.

Little Cattle Feeders

The Little Cattle Feeders 4-H Club held their November meeting at the home of Galen and Lee Gruis. The meeting was called to order by President Lee Gruis. Trips to Chicago were discussed. At the close of the evening lunch was served.

Plans Going Ahead For Dr. Missman's Day, Dec. 11; Tickets Now On Sale

With all organizations in Klemme working on the project, plans for Dr. Missman's Day are going ahead rapidly. Last week The Times erroneously reported the date of the event as January 11. We were wrong by just a month. Date set is actually December 11.

A banquet and program will be held at the high school gymnasium that evening honoring the Doctor for his 44 years of service to the community. Tickets are now on sale in the stores in Klemme and the money realized from their sale at 75 cents each is to go to defray the cost of the banquet.

A purse is going to be made up for the Doctor in appreciation of his years of service, and anyone wishing to contribute may do so by contacting either Martin Barz or Asa Arnold at the bank in Klemme.

Avery Theatre To Show Loretta Young Comedy

Universal - International has scored another triumph in the heartwarming comedy field with the presentation of "It Happens Every Thursday," which opens Wednesday at the Avery Theatre with Loretta Young and John Forsythe in the starring roles.

Adapted for the screen from the best-selling book "It Happens Every Thursday" by Jane McIlvaine, the new film cleverly combines pathos with earthy humor in chronicling the everyday problems of publishing a small weekly newspaper.

Loretta Young plays the movie counterpart of the book's lady author. She scores heavily in comedy and heartwarming scenes as she joins with Forsythe in urmounting the countless problems of making a success out of a heretofore failing weeklynewspaper. The film unfolds against the background of a small community in central California where Miss Young and Forsythe have purchased, sight unseen the town's weekly journal.

The newcomers are not received warmly by the townspeople and they are forced to fight an uphill battle in making their newspaper become a permanent and respected project.

Jolly Workers Club Met

The Jolly Workers Club held their November meeting at the home of Alvina Helps. Seventeen members were present. We had election of officers for the new year. Luella Boelman is our new president; Lois Schlichting, vice president; and Georgiana Bruhl, Secretary and Treasurer. Verbell Gilpin will take care of the cards and flowers this year. A committee was appointed to plan our Christmas dinner. Freida Lass, Georgiana Bruhl, and Louise Pearson are to meet at the home of Marilyn Bachman to plan the meal.

Ruth Trampel is to have the Christmas dinner. Intertainment was furnished by Luella Boelman. Everyone is to bring their Butter Nut Coffee strips to the December meeting.

We sent a big box of cookies to Woodward Hospital for Thanksgiving. A lovely lunch was served by Alvina with Irene Waddingham as co-hostess.

Turkeys, Geese, Ducks, Chickens to be Dropped From Main St. Buildings

To add to the spirit of the Christmas season and at the same time generate a lot of fun for everyone in the community the Klemme Commercial Club is going to sponsor a "Poultry Scramble" on the main street for the next three Saturdays. Turkeys, geese, ducks, and chickens will be dropped from buildings on Main Street. The ensuing scramble to catch and gain possession should make considerable entertainment, not only for those who are watching, but for those who are participating. Other than the fact that there is a chance for some good entertainment, there is also a chance to brighten up that Christmas dinner table with some nice poultry.

Everyone is eligible to participate in this sport . . . and sport it should be. All of the poultry will be dropped live, and no doubt will be in no mood to be captured with any degree of ease. No weapons will be allowed in the chase other than your own two hands and the Commercial Club assumes no responsibility for accidents.

Don't forget, the scramble will be for the next three Saturday afternoons at 3 o'clock. There will be at least three turkeys, three geese, eight ducks, and ten chickens dropped off the buildings each of the three afternoons, and someone is going to be richer by all the poultry they can catch.

In addition to the "Poultry Scramble", the Commercial Club is again sponsoring a big afternoon of entertainment for the kiddies at the school house. This entertainment will be on the afternoon of Saturday, December 19. It will feature the appearance of Santa Claus with treats for the kiddies and a free movie.

Dr. Baker To Resume Practice Next Week

Dr. J. D. Baker, who has been absent from his Veterinary practice since early in September due to the amputation of his left leg, is planning on resuming his practice again next Wednesday.

"Doc" has an artificial limb now and is beginning to get around quite well. He is planning on resuming full practice, but does not plan to do all of the work himself. He has hired Glen "Sam" Terhufen to assist him.

We are certain that everyone welcomes "Doc" back on the job, and we think he is fortunate in his selection of an assistant.

Girls' County Tourney Begins Next Thursday

Next Thursday evening December 10, the Shamrockettes oppose Hayfield in the first round of the Girls' County Basketball Tournament. Game time is at 9 o'clock. Earlier in the evening, Kanawha will play Crystal Lake at 6:30 and Corwith will play Goodell at 7:45.

If the Shamrockettes would get by Hayfield, they would have to play Woden to get into the finals. If they were then to beat Woden they would play for the Championship.

Cagers Divide With Hanlontown; Lose to Fertile

Loss To Fertile Is Third Conference Loss For Boys And Girls

Last Wednesday evening, the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes journeyed to Hanlontown, to take on the charges of Coach Bob Juhl, former Klemme eighth grade teacher and junior high coach.

The Shamrocks were victorious by a score of 54 to 34 in a game that saw Coach Bill Westberg use his reserves through a good portion of the game. The regulars jumped into a big lead early in the game and seeing a good chance to give the reserves some experience, Westberg began inserting them into the line up.

Ridder was high point man for the contest with 14 points, but nearly everyone who played broke into the scoring column. Dick Baack got 11 points and everyone else contributed anywhere from 1 to 7 points.

The Shamrockettes, still trying to break into the win column, lost again, but the margin came night for a non-conference tilt. awha will be here next Tuesday in the first quarter. After that the Klemme girls played their Hanlontown opponents on even terms.

Kassa of Hanlontown was high scorer for the affair with 26 points. Carol Bridges again led the Klemme girls with 23

LOSE TO FERTILE

Tuesday evening, the Fertile boys' and girls' basketball teams came here to play the Shamrocks and the Shamrockettes in North Star Conference competition. The visitors won both games, downing the boys 53 to 44 and the girls 52 to 39. It was the second time this year that the local teams had lost to the Fertile aggregations and the third conference defeats, both teams having been beaten at Sheffield.

The Shamrockettes tried hard but were out gunned by their bigger, faster opponents. Fertile took the lead early and held it all the way. The locals showed a brief spurt in the third quarter, but were unable to keep up the pace as the visitors began to penetrate their defense.

Carol Bridges of Klemme led the scoring for the game with 27 points, while Thompson of Fertile was next with 22.

The Shamrocks and the Indians went at it tooth and toe nail from the opening whistle, and the lead changed hands many times during the course of the game. However, the superior poise of last year's state tournament contenders told in the end, and they went ahead to dump the Shamrocks by nine points, 53 to 44.

Fertile is considered to be the power in Class B basketball in this section of the state, and the Shamrocks fought them on pretty even terms throughout most of the game. It was a good game to watch and well played by both teams.

Jerry Jenkins of Fertile was the leading scorer of the game with 23 points, while his team mate, Peterson, got 15.

Denny Ridder led the attack for the Shamrocks with 15 Thiemann and Terhufen, 8 points, while Barz had 9, and apiece.

NEXT ACTION

Next two games for the local cagers will be on the local floor. Ventura comes here Friday night for conference contests, and Kan-

10 YEARS AGO—

Mr. C. K. Finders of Iowa Falls, who has been employed by the Federal North Iowa Grain Company for the past several years as their traveling manager, is now the new manager of the company's interest in Klemme. Mr. Finders is married and has three sons, all of school age.

Mrs. Elsie Baack began work Monday morning as the clerk at the Klemme Food Market.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lass went to Tuscon, Arizona, in time to spend Thanksgiving with their son, Tech. Sgt. Alvin Lass and wife.

George Thiemann recently purchased the Wayne Pavey house in Klemme and he and Mrs. Thiemann will move to town soon after their public sale which is advertised in this issue of The Times.

20 YEARS AGO—

Monday, Walter Lemke began work for Fred J. Arnold at the Klemme Auto Company garage as bookkeeper. Mr. Lemke is an experienced man and will be a valuable addition to the garage staff Walter, who is a son of R. R. Lemke, needs no introduction to our readers as he was raised in this community. We are glad to welcome him to Klemme.

A large crowd of young people attended a dance at the Fred Kothenbeutel home Friday evening. An orchestra from Duncan furnished the music.

Clair West spent the week end visting in Klemme. He is now stationed at Eldora, where the C. C. C. is building a dam at Pine Lake State Park.

Curtis Waddingham returned to his home Saturday after having assisted his uncle, Emil Blumer, with work for the past three weeks.

30 YEARS AGO—

Aaron Greimann has installed a new gas pump at his garage. It is one of the new-fangled kind that shows the gas in a nice clean jar, and is worked by air pressure.

"Sam" Larsen is singing "Bring Back My Bossy to Me", and when we inquired why all the gloom, he told us that a fine red cow, weight 1200 pounds, had wandered away from his yard without even asking permission. He says if the cow will notify him of her wherabouts he will settle the hotel bill she has run up and bring her home.

Art Schoenwetter will move out to his farm the first of the week. Art has a fine place now: all new buildings and he will be sitting pretty. No fun to live in town when you have a nice farm like that.

Lou Griffen was the victim of a painful and serious accident Friday when he lost one finger and injured two others on his right hand while trying to remove some corn husks and stalks which had clogged the rollers in his corn picker.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

George listened to the late news with its bitter weather forecast, then went about the house turning out lights and trying the doors. He listened a moment to the cold wind heaving against the windows, thought of his neighbors and shook his head.

Really, he thought, it is amazing how haphazardly some people live. Some of the people around the block didn't even have their storm windows up yet. His had been on and tight for a month.

And, he imagined, some of them would be making frantic calls to the coal and oil dealers in the morning, demanding deliveries they should have taken weeks ago. George thought contentedly of his own basement, well stocked with fuel these past many weeks.

Earlier in the evening he had heard a couple of the neighbors drive off hurriedly. He knew they were going off to try the patience of some service man with the last minute addition of anti-freeze.

Really, he thought again, some people are never prepared for the things they know are coming. His sleep was soothed by troubles of his foolish neighbors.

Next morning he walked solidly to his garage, removed the heater that had been warming the oil in his car all night, started the engine on the first try, and drove toward work through the freezing weather.

Along the street he passed a car with a steaming radiator, and he smiled. It was his last full-toothed smile. A moment later his face struck the steering wheel as he futilely hit the brakes and crashed into the car ahead. George had forgotten to change to winter driving habits.

He had been following too closely and there was a patch of ice on the road. His two front teeth were on the floor of the car. Now he has something he wants for Christmas.

BODY

A construction crew, moving dirt near highway 30 at Chelsa, uncovered an old coffin, containing a hip bone. The coffin was rotted to ashes, and the unmarked grave was estimated to be at least 50 years old.

Iowans Strike Back KNOW... the answers to CANCER

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

By E. D. PLASS, M. D.

Both the annual number of cancer deaths and the cancer deaths rate (the number of cancer deaths per 100,000 of population) have rises considerably since the beginning of this century. In 1900, there were 41,000 reported cancer deaths, a rate of 64 per 100,000; in 1951, there were 219,239 cancer deaths and a rate of 142 per 100,000.

Of the several factors contributing to this marked increase, the most significant is the growing number of older people in the population and the fact that the cancer death rate rises very rapidly with age. In 1900 the life expectancy at birth was only 49, whereas in 1949 it was 67½ years. This merely means that the medical control of certain diseases, especially the acute infections, has allowed more people to live middle and old age when cancer is more likely to appear.

Moreover, the intervening years have provided improved diagnosis and better reporting of the actual cause of death.

The gradual rise in the cancer death rate should not arouse pessimism about the eventual considerable control of cancer. In recent years, the cancer death rates for certain age groups of men have risen, while some of the rates for females in specific age groups have fallen significantly. Cancer control organizations have generally concentrated their educational efforts on women, in whom two of the most important cancers (uterus and breast) ordinarily give early evidence of their presence. Early diagnosis, and early, thorough treatment are presently the only effective procedures for controlling cancer.

Can I live a normal life after the removal of a breast or after a hysterectomy?

Certainly. You can still have children after the removal of a breast, and normal sexual relations are still possible after either operation.

For answers to cancer questions write American Cancer Society, Mason City.

Third Grade

Keith Carolus had a birthday last week. He treated us to candy bars.

The third grade received a letter from Natalie Thompson. She goes to school in California. She told us her school day started at 8:15 in the morning and was dismissed at 12:15. In the afternoon another class uses the same room.

We have been learning to spell the days and months in language. Almost everyone can now write them correctly.

First Grade

Larry Kluckhohn had a birthday party after school, November 19, at his house for his classmates.

Kenneth Jernegan and Arland Nuehring have retured their detal cards. Fifteen of us have now returned them.

The cardinals reading group has finished its three primers and has started its new first grade book Fun With Dick and Jane.

Second Grade

Shirley Avery and Robert Ahrenkiel have returned their dental cards. This makes a total of eleven cards returned.

Friday morning Diane's little sister, Mary, visited school.

In lanuage we are learnng to use capital letters to begin sentences.

The Elves reading group began the new unit "Work on Pleasant Street" Wednesday.

Monday we colored pictures of pilgrims.

Sophomore News

Biology: We're studying about conservation and different kinds of erosion.

Algebra: We are starting division of monomials.

History: In history we are still struggling to get it through our heads. We have just started the chapter, "The Awakening of Western Europe".

English: Studying parts of speech.

? ? of the Week

Would you like to have a Christmas Prom, formal or semi formal, and what do you want to eat?

Joan Lemke: I think a Christmas Prom is a good idea. I think that it should be semi formal because so many kids don't have formals. I think we should serve light refreshments such as punch and small sandwiches which can be made earlier.

Lois Boland: I think a semi formal Christmas Prom would be a lot of fun if everyone would co-operate and come. For refreshments we should have something that could be made earlier.

Fonda Bier: I think it should be semi formal. We should have something that can be made in a hurry.

Daisy Schaefer: Yes, I think we should have one. I think it should be semi formal as some of the girls won't have formals until their junior and senior years. We should have punch and sandwiches or something very easy to make and that can be made earlier, so that the student council can relax at this party.

Roger Lyons: I think we should have a semi formal party. I also think that we should all co-operate and come for once.

Feature Article

For a switch from our series of hobbies, we are going to write about our recent Assembly Program. On November 17, George and Lucile Cole, co-producers of the Cole Marionettes, presented the play, "Dick Whittington and His Cat". They have produced and presented more marionette plays than any other professional puppeteers. In the past eighteen years twelve complete plays, five stages, and countless properties have come from their studio and Little Theater. A new set of marionettes is handcarved, painted and costumed for each separate play. Each marionette is one-third the height of a person, but in any auditorium they appeared life sized, an optical illusion due to perfect proportion between marionette and scene. The assembly program was enjoyed by all.

Junior News

Economics: We just finished a hard test over chapters 14-17 and have now started chapter 18, "Buying on Credit".

Literature: We are still reading the story, "Silas Marner", and have started chapter 10. Each day we have a discussion over a given chapter.

Drivers Training: We had to make a complete check-up of the car for an imaginary 300 mile trip. Driving takes us four days of the week; then on Friday we have class.

Typing: We are learning to type several styles of business letters and different forms of punctuation.

Shop: We are working on our various projects and some of us have started new ones.

Girls' Sports

Our last game was with Sheffeild. We were unable to play Garner as they don't have a girl's team. I am unable to tell you much news in sports this week. About the only thing I hope at this time is that we girls, as well as the boys, win the game against Hanlontown. So far we have been having pretty bad luck in winning. We have played 4 games and were defeated in all. Therefore, we hope to go up and really win against Hanlontown.

Senior News

With adjusting entries pounded in, to the satisfaction of the teacher, we passed on to the chapter on "Financial Report" with the hopes of an easy chapter until we opened the work book and found 6 sheets waiting to be filled.

The biggest struggle in history, as in any class, is trying to do something besides history. This week we were fairly successful with a current event movie and a class discussion.

In algebra we have skipped to square roots.

The number and the quality of the people of a nation are being discussed in sociology.

The desfacing of wood in all sort of ways is becoming highly specialized in shop.

The girls in second home eronomics broke the routine and went to the kitchen clinic at Mason City on November 23.

Music News

Thanksgiving being past, I'm sure that everyone has had ample time to rest up from that big turkey dinner and the like.

The band concert a week ago last Tuesday night, went over quite well, in spite of all the trouble we had getting tuned up.

On Wednesday morning at band, we had a general clean up. We passed in our old music and received some new. I'm sure it will seem good to play something different for a change. Many new faces greeted the Senior Band members, for many of the Junior Band members gratuated into the Senior Band after the concert. Some of the new faces were: Sharon Blau in he drum section, Melva Johnson in the flute section, Ginger Kudje with a bass clarinet, Craig Larson in the cornet section. In the clarinet section Jane Renner and Marcele Bachman. We now have two basses, as Douglas Roul came to help us out.

We also threw away some of the older folders. Cecil sure liked his old one; he found it quite hard to part with. Carol B. did not want to trade folders either; it seemed she was quite fond of a name on hers. It's a good thing Lee showed up when he did at the band concert, because Gracka could hardly play or sing.

I'm sure everyone enjoyed the nice lunch the Band Mothers served after the concert, especially the performers who got lunch free. We hope they made a lot of money.

Everybody, I'm sure noticed Lois J. and Don, Jo Ann and Ike, Harriett and Jerry, at the game the other night at Garner. Weren't those sweaters keen! ! ! I think you're the envy of all the girls there, Harriett.

On Monday night it seems the girls went on a rampage. Carol B., JoAnn B., Joan L., and Carole M. all went to the show, but afterwards they had a party at Joan Lemke's. It's a good thing only girls were there. Joan L., sporting that new diamond, can't afford to take chances now.

Did you see what Lois H. got from Francis for her birthday? ? Just ask her some time. It's really swell.

Guess what! ! ! ! Terry and Marlene were seen together at the show in Belmond last Sunday night. Could this be a new romance? ? ? ? How about it, kids? ? ? ? ?

Joan Lemke sure looked happy Monday morning when she came to school. It seems she has acquired a new ring for the third finger of her left hand. Sure is pretty, Jo.

What seemed to be the trouble between JoAnn and Donnie the night of the Garner game? Jo Ann was sitting with Martin Brinkman. Were you mad at Donnie or did you just mistake "Mart" for Donnie? ? ? ? ?

over taffeta with side peplums of satin and net ruffles. She carried a bouquet of golden and bronze pom, poms and baby mums. She also wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bride. Her small head piece was fashioned of matching satin and net.

The flower girl, Miss Anita Gerardi of Klemme, wore a full length white taffeta gown with net over skirt. The hem line was caught up with tiny bouquets of flowers. She carried a white basket tied with white satin ribbon and filled with white pom poms and baby mums. She too wore a strand of pearls and white taffeta and net head piece, matching the maid of honor's.

The matching wedding rings were carried on a white satin and lace pillow by Master Robert Ahrenkiel, of Klemme, cousin of the groom. He wore a tailored navy blue dress suit and bow tie.

Mr. Don Shoemaker of Sioux City, was best man, and he and the groom wore navy blue suits. The ushers were Mr. Roy Wells, cousin of the bride, of Pomeroy, and Mr. Milton Medden, friend of the groom, of Sioux City. All the men wore maroon ties, gifts from the groom.

The bride's mother wore an ice blue dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a steel blue dress with pink accessories. They both wore corsages of white carnations and red roses. The bride's grandmother wore a rose dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the church basement. The dining room was decorated in yellow, green and white. The table center piece was a four-tiered white cake, topped with a white bell with orange blossoms. A large wedding bell was hung directly above the center of the table. Table prayer was given by Rev. Fred Pruel.

Those helping with the reception were Mrs. Emma Wells, of Pomeroy, aunt of the bride, dining room hostess; Mrs. Wendell Stewart, cousin of the bride and Mrs. W. K. Usher, sister-in-law of the groom, coffee pourers; Miss Gracka Gerardi, cousin of the groom, guest book; and Miss Marie Blank, aunt of the groom, cake server.

The reception program was given by the following people: Pianist, Miss Artho Jo Peterson accompanied Miss Helen Nolan of Rolfe who sang "Oh Promise Me", "Through the Years", "I Love You Truly", and "Always". All of the waitresses were Morningside student friends of the bride and groom. All of those who helped with the reception and the program wore corsages of either yellow or white mums.

The bride is a graduate of Pomeroy High School and a senior in Morningside College at Sioux City. She will graduate this mid-term and has been chosen by the faculty and a committee of students to be in 1954 "Who's Who", college and university national publication. She is an honor student majoring in English and minoring in music.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Usher of Klemme, and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Taalkeus Blank, is a graduate of Rowan High School and Morningside College. He is now entered in Garrett College, the Methodist Seminary, at Evanston, Illinois, where he is taking up the last three years of study necessary to be coming ordained as a Methodist minister.

Geography is very interesting since we are studying about the Navajo Indians. We made a table display of an Indian village.

Jimmy Bock helped us make Pilgrims out of pipe cleaners and we are going to take them home to decorate our Thanksgiving tables.

Franklin Neuberger had a birthday and treated us to candy bars.

In language we are beginning to write stories and friendly letters.

Boys' Sports

Friday, November 20, we went to Garner. The boys played both games. The second team won by a score of 29-23. In the other game we lost by 2 points. It was a close game all the way. We were 3 points ahead at the half. Late in the third quarter they were 11 points ahead. It stood that way at the end of the quarter. Instead of having their usual slump Klemme went right to work and started narrowing down the margin. We gained a little all through the quarter but we could not quite get the job done.

Eighth Grade News

November 23 we played a basketball game with Thornton. The Klemme girls won by a score of 38-19 and the boys won 22 - 19.

We are making booklets of famous men in history. Each of us made a report on some great person. This was very interesting work.

Last Friday, we had a sectional review test in spelling. Jeanne Barz and Karen Clabaugh were the only ones to have perfect papers.

We have new reading books of adventures. We enjoy reading books and giving oral reports.

Accepts Position

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schoenwetter and daughters Barbara and Carol of Champaign, Illinois, spent the past week visit- at the George and Homer Schoenwetter home and Ray Richards home at Alexander. Howard has recently accepted an engineering position with Teltronics Laboratories, Long Island, New York. For the past four years he has been on the physics department staff of the University of Illinois. Howard recevied a master's degree in physics from Georgia Tech and a master's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Illinois.

Supervisors To Consider Drainage District Levies

Hancock County supervisors will meet Thursday for the regular claims session of the board and in addition will consider the matter of ordering drainage levies on approximately twenty Hancock County drainage districts to reimburse districts for outstanding warrants for minor repairs and to provide funds for minor repairs.

Levies will total approximately $30,000. with the largest sum going to Hancock county drainage district No. 3 and 4 and several laterals thereof. A total of $9,700 will be spread against the lands of this district and on laterals 4, 5, 8, and 43.

Levies on reclassified lands are made in a flat sum and spread in accordance with percentages set up by the reclassification commission while levies on other districts are made on a percentage basis on the original classification of the district at the time same was established.

All levies will be spread by County Auditor Schoneman and certified to the county treasurer who will be authorized and ordered to collect them with the regular taxes of 1953 payable in 1954.

Drainage districts are audited periodically and districts where funds are overdrawn or where funds are exhausted to the point the normal minor repairs cannot be made to keep the district functioning in a normal manner, levies are made to provide the necessary funds.

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the petition of the above named Plaintiff in the above entitled cause of action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, claiming that the Plaintiff is the absolute and unqualified owner in fee simple of the following described real property situated in Hancock County, Iowa, to-wit:

Lots One (1) and Two (2) Block Ten (10), in the Original Town of Klemme, Iowa,

and that the Plaintiff is credibly informed and believes that the Defendants make some claim adverse to the title of the Plaintiff in said property, and that said unknown claimants and all persons unknown claim some interest in or to said real property as the Plaintiff is informed and believes, but that the Plaintiff has no knowledge or information and does not know how said interest as claimed by said unknown claimants and all persons unknown was derived or claimed to have been derived, or the method of obtaining the same; that the Plaintiff alleges that the names and residences of the unknown claimants and all persons unknown are unknown to the Plaintiff, and that the Plaintiff has diligently sought to learn the same; that the Plaintiff sets out in his petition certain instruments of record which cloud the title of the Plaintiff in said real property, and sets forth pretended claims which have arisen with reference to said title. The Plaintiff further prays that a decree be entered by the Court establishing the title in said property in his name, against the adverse claims of each and all of the Defendants and all unknown claimants and all persons unknown, having or claiming any right, title, interest, claim or demand in or to his said property, as hereinbefore described, and that all persons claiming by, through, or under them be forever barred and estopped from ever having, asserting, or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said premises, and that the title to the Plaintiff in his property, as above described, be quieted, estopped, and confirmed. The Plaintiff in his petition further prays for such other and further equitable relief as to the Court may seem just and proper.

For further particulars see the petition now on file as aforesaid.

You are further notified that unless you appear before said Court in the Court House in Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, before the 30th day of January, 1954, your default will be entered and judgement and decree will be entered against you for the relief demanded in the petition, and the title to the real property above described belonging to the Plaintiff will be quieted in the Plaintiff, and you will be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title, or interest therein, adverse to that of the Plaintiff.

Take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

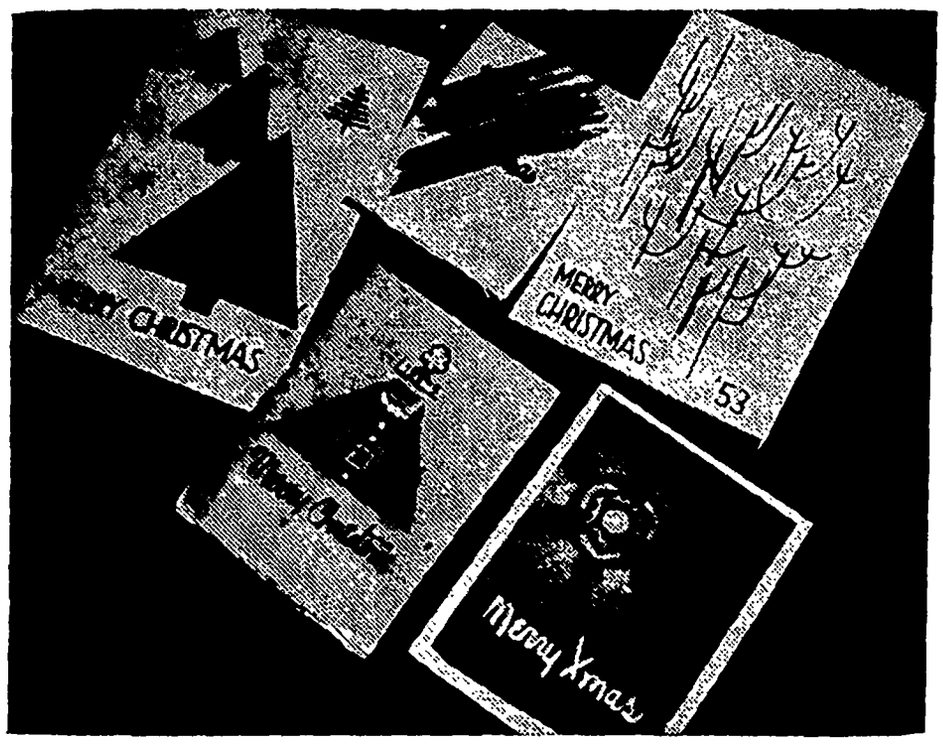
For the Warmest of Greetings—

Make Your Own Christmas Cards



These five colorful homemade Christmas cards are good examples of the types of cards the whole family might have fun dreaming up. Done with cut-outs, tempera paint, India ink and lettering pen, rubbed chalk or spatter-painting, not one calls for mastering a difficult technique.

Among the colorful chorus of Christmas cards that find their way to your house each holiday season are some with a particularly warm, friendly touch. These are the cards you'll save because they remind you personally of the sender. What usually makes them so special is the fact that they're homemade or contain a photo or family message.

And that's your cue on how to make your own cards warm and personal this year, says Betty Monroe of the Iowa State College applied art staff. Your children will have a wonderful time helping you out or concocting cards to send to their chums, so why not make it a family project?

MASS PRODUCTION

If you like to mass produce your cards, and still give them that personal touch, you might send block printed or photo cards or a special Christmas letter bringing folks up to date on your family.

You can buy a set of linoleum block printing tools and a block at an art or stationery store. With them will come directions on how to cut and transfer your design. Remember, the block will print in reverse, so cut any lettering in backwards.

Commercially printed photo cards are nice, but there are also photo cards you can make yourself. Just order as many prints as you'll need of the family or new baby picture you've chosen, and incorporate each in a card of bright colored construction paper. Use white ink to pen greetings and a Christmas symbol.

Your Christmas letter could be done up like a little newspaper and printed commercially or it could be a much simpler undertaking. Give it the holiday touch with colored paper or ink, Christmas seals or symbols.

INDIVIDUAL CARDS

Your youngsters will have fun making a simple but effective card from colorful construction paper cut-outs pasted in white folded paper. They can write in the message and add other lines or designs in India ink with a lettering pen. Christmas trees, snowflakes and stars make good cut-outs.

A "monoprint" card (shown at top center in picture) is made by painting swatches of ready-mixed tempera paint on a piece of glass with a big brush. Then press the front of the card down on the glass to transfer the design. This method gives a textured effect to paint. Only one transfer can be made from the glass. When the paint is dry, write in a message plus some snowflakes, stars or trees.

For another card, pen in your design and greeting with India ink, then use chalk to rub hazy background color with your fingers. Spray with plastic spray to keep the colors from smearing. Or you could use a combination of rubbed chalk and India ink to make a colorful Santa Claus, Christmas tree or other more realistic design. The Santa Claus card pictured was made this way.

Use an old toothbrush, piece of screen, tempera paint and construction paper to make a out for your stencil and pin it spatter-paint card. Use a cut- firmly to the construction paper. (See black and white snowflake card pictured.) Dip toothbrush in tempera and whisk it quickly back and forth over the screen above the card or just flick the brush with your thumb to spatter the paint. Concentrate the spattering around the edges of your stencil, For the most effective card, use lots of contrast in the color of paint and paper.

80 Attend November Cub Pack Meeting

The November Pack Meeting of the Cub Scouts was held Friday, the 27th in the grade school basement with about 80 persons present. The Boy Scouts and prospective Cub Scouts were invited to meet with us.

The following program was given:

Opening by the Boy Scouts - The Flag Pledge.

Talk on Scouting and presentation of Scout Committee - Scoutmaster Jones.

Talks on the two phases of Cub Scouting - Den Meetings - Betty Kothenbeutal; Home Projects - Nova Stokesbary.

Explanation of projects on exhibit - Each Cub Scout.

Talks by Cub Committee - Allen Barz, Dr. Dulmes and Mitchell Bock.

The following awards were presented: Lion Badge - Jerry Stokesbary, Daryl Schlei, and Daryl Kothenbeutal.

Bear Badge - Jimmy Clements.

Bobcat - Jerry Evans and Bruce Waddingham.

Arrow points - 1 gold and 2 silver - Jerry Stoeksbary; 2 silver - Collyn Bridges; 1 silver - Jimmy Bock.

The meeting was closed with the Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts forming the Living Circle and repeating the Cub Scout Benediction.

As a special feature, the record "What is a Boy?" was played as colored lights were flashed on the life-sized pictures of a Cub Scout, a Boy Scout, and an Explorer.

Lunch of pie, coffee and chocolate milk was served.

Officers Installed By Liberty Busy Bees

The Liberty Busy Bees held their regular meeting at the home of Patty Legge on Saturday November 21. Eighteen members and one guest were present. Bette Ann Arnold and Patty Greimann joined our club.

Susan Haberkamp installed the following girls into their respective offices: Patty Legge, President; Marion Stromer as Vice-President; Barbara Hughes, Secretary and Treasurer; and Winola Zwald, historian. Each girl was presented a corsage made from a tape measure and an emery bag.

Mrs. Leo Jass gave a report on our Christmas card sales. We sold 210 boxes. Marlys Psotka, Nancy Farguhar, Patty Legge, and Carolyn Jass were each presented a free box of Christmas cards as they were our top salesmen.

We made plans for our Christmas Party. Entertainment committee is: Bette Ann Arnold, Marion Stromer and Patty Griemann. The food and arrangement committee are Susan Haberkamp, Rose Mary Josten and Virginia Baggs. The club members drew names.

We received a check for our premiums at the Achievement Show. We decided to give the entire amount back to the Building Fund.

Virginia Hughes gave a demonstration on "Learning to Follow a Line When Stitching". Gail Knutson gave a talk, "Things to Look for When Buying Cotton Material." Carolyn Jass gave an illustrated talk, "Proper Sewing Equipment."

Each girl brought the scarf that they had made at home and put a textile painting design in the corner. After a very busy afternoon our hostess served a delicious lunch.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Proposed Belmond Community School District, in the Counties of Wright and Hancock, State of Iowa.

TO ALL QUALIFIED VOTERS residing upon the lands and within the limits of the boundaries hereinafter set out, in the Counties of Wright and Hancock, State of Iowa:

You are hereby notified that on October 3, 1953, a petition was filed with the undersigned County Superintendent, asking the establishment of a re-organized school district, to be known as the Belmond Community School District, as provided by law, to include territory hereinafter described. That final date for filing objections was fixed and notice was published, as provided by law. That the time for filing objections has expired. That, at a joint meeting of the county boards of education of Wright County, Iowa, and Hancock County, Iowa, acting as a single board, all objections were heard, the matter was reviewed on it's merits, and on November 14th, 1953, the members of said county boards of education, acting as a single board, entered a final order ruling upon objections and fixing boundaries for the proposed school corporation, which was duly published, as required by law, in the Belmond Independent and the Garner Leader and Signal, in the issue of November 19, 1953, of each of said newspapers, and that said final order fixed the boundaries of the Belmond Community School District, in Wright County, Iowa, and Hancock County, Iowa, to be the perimeter of all of the contiguous real property described by governmental subdivisions, as follows:

Henderson Cites Values Of Farm Windbreak

We're in the season now when Hancock County farmers can count on every-day reminders of how comfortable and valuable a well grown windbreak can be, Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director says.

About the only disadvantage you can think of about a windbreak is that it takes time to establish it, he believes. Yet, the advantages make a long list.

For one thing, Henderson points out, a good windbreak can actually cut fuel bills for heating the home by as much as 30 percent. stock make equal gains on less Studies have shown that livestock make equal gains on less feed when they are protected behind a windbreak.

Those are dollars and cents values. Windbreaks offer convenience, too, by preventing drifting snow about the farm buildings, and they cut the sharpness of winter winds, making working conditions more comfortable.

And you can add the values of provding wildlife cover and protection and the intrinsic value of beautifying the farmstead to the list.

The 1954 Agriculture Conservation Program offers federal assistance in some phases of tree planting for windbreaks, shelter belts and woodlands for erosion control, watershed protection or forestry purposes.

The Shamrockettes did not fare so well as the boys and they dropped their game to the Ventura girls by a score of 47 to 37. Carol Bridges led the scoring for the game with 28 points while Munson of Ventura had 22.

DOWN KANAWHA

Tuesday evening, the locals met the Kanawha cagers on the Klemme floor and both the girls and the boys emerged victorious, the boys winning by a score of 49 to 25 and the girls coming out on the long end of 42 to 38 score.

The boys game saw the reserves of both teams in action throughout most of the last half. The Klemme regulars piled up a big lead to start with, so both coaches decided to give their younger boys some experience.

Karsjens and Terhufen led the scoring in the game with 11 points apiece.

The win for the Shamrockettes was their first of the season, and kept intact a record which they have maintained since the school started girls' basketball. They have never been beaten by the Kanawha girls, but it seems that it is always a close game.

Carol Bridges led the scoring for the game with 24 points, while Emmons and Mews led the scoring for Kanawha with 17 and 15 respectively.

NEXT GAMES

Thursday night will see the Shamrockettes in action against Hayfield in the county tournament at Hayfield, and next Tuesday night Franklin Consolidated will be here for both boys' and girls' games. This will be conference competition.

Few Objectors At Hearing Monday Night; Some Boundary Changes

There were but very few objectors on hand at the hearing on the proposed "Klemme Community School" held at the courthouse in Garner Monday night. What objections there were appeared to be evenly divided between those objecting out of the proposed district and those wanting to object in.

As a result of the meeting some tentative changes in the boundaries were made, as the county board tried as nearly as possible to respect the wishes of everyone concerned.

Since no definite boundary lines were agreed upon at Monday night's hearing, the hearing was adjourned until Monday night, January 4th. Before that time a notice will be run stating the time and place of the hearing and giving a description of the lands included in the proposal.

No doubt this hearing will be the last one before the proposal is put to a vote. If this proves to be the case, voting will have to be done before February 4th.

Garner Soldier Honored

Mrs. Frank D. Rayhon, formerly Iris Schaefer, received a letter recently from her husband Pvt. Frank D. Rayhon, who is stationed with a unit in Korea, in which he relates that he has been chosen as an outstanding soldier to represent the 73rd Engineer Combat Battalion at the dedication of a new chapel there.

The chapel has been named "Chapel of the Valley." Pvt. Rayhons performs the duties of a clerk typist, taking care of the officer's records of this battalion.

Banquet Honoring Dr. Missman Will Be Friday

Event In Honor Of 44 Years Of Service To Klemme Community

This Friday evening is the time set for honoring Dr. Missman, who has served the Klemme community since his graduation from medical school, 44 years ago. The Doctor can look back over these 44 years and well be proud. His service goes back to the horse and buggy days, and during the time he has practiced, here he has fought many an epidemic and delivered in the neighborhood of 3,000 babies. Such a busy career took him out at all hours and in all kinds of weather. The gruelling schedule that he was sometimes forced to keep was no doubt kept at some expense to his own health, so it seems that this community should be only too happy to honor the Doctor in some manner.

Consequently, all organizations in Klemme have gotten together and have planned a banquet and program to be held at the high school gymnasium on Friday night, December 11. Tickets for the event are on sale in Klemme stores at the nominal price of .75 cents, and those who are unable to get their tickets in advance, may buy them at the door.

Contributions are also being taken toward making up a purse for the Doctor, and those who wish to contribute may do so either at the First National Bank or at the door the night of the banquet.

It is hoped that as many of the Doctor's 3,000 babies as possible will be on hand to be recognized at the event.

Time for the banquet is 6:30 p. m. and the menu will include baked ham, escalloped potatoes, green peas, cranberry salad, rolls, ice cream and coffee. A full entertainment, musical and otherwise, has been planned for the occasion.

Performs Ceremony

Ronald Earl Staley, Jr. of Mason City, and Dixie Lee Staley of Mason City, were united in marriage on November 25 in Garner with Justice of the Peace R. J. Fritsch reading the nuptial vows. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs Ted Carstens of Mason City.

Woman's Club Presents Gifts for County Nurse To Distribute

Christmas will be happier for some deserving Hancock County children because of the thoughtfulness and kindness of the Kanawha Woman's Club, who brought a number of gifts to their December meeting and wrapped and noted the contents of the package on the outside of the package. The gifts were then brought to the office of Hancock County Public Health Nurse Helen Lemke to be distributed to deserving youngsters. In the task of selecting such persons Miss Lemke will be assisted by County Welfare Director Edith Elling. The County Welfare and Nursing service appreciate this generous gesture on the part of the members of the Kanawha Woman's club and express a deep debt of gratitude. Officers of the Kanawha club making this generous donation are: Mrs. A. Mulholland, President; Mrs. R. T. Howard as Vice-president; Mrs. Fred Hale, secretary; and Mrs. Ralph Muhn, treasurer.

Lions Hold Ladies Night; Present Checks

By Lion Scribe Rob't Andreae

The Lions treated their ladies to a delicions turkey dinner Wednesday evening December 1. The Band Mothers served the meal on tables attractively decorated using the Christmas theme. Before and during the meal, Christmas Carols were sung and Tail-twister Gerardi was busy fining anyone that didn't sing to the best of his ability. Lion Bacon was so carried away by it all that he personally led one of the sings with his rich baritone voice.

After the last piece of pumpkin pie had been eaten, Lion Bacon called roll. A perfect attendance was reported and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schaefer were present. Lion Bacon then presented $100 checks to Mrs. Roy Schaefer, president of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Don Bacon, president of the

Shamrocks Win Two; Girls Get First Win

Last Friday night saw the Ventura cagers here in North Star Conference competition with the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes.. The Shamrocks, led by Ridder and Barz managed to out-last the Vikings to win 59 to 49 after having led 35 to 20 at the half. Ridder had 20 points in this fracas and Barz had 13. Anderson led the scoring for Ventura with 17 points.

It was the first conference win for the Shamrocks as they had previously dropped two games to Fertile and one to Sheffield.

Bond Approved

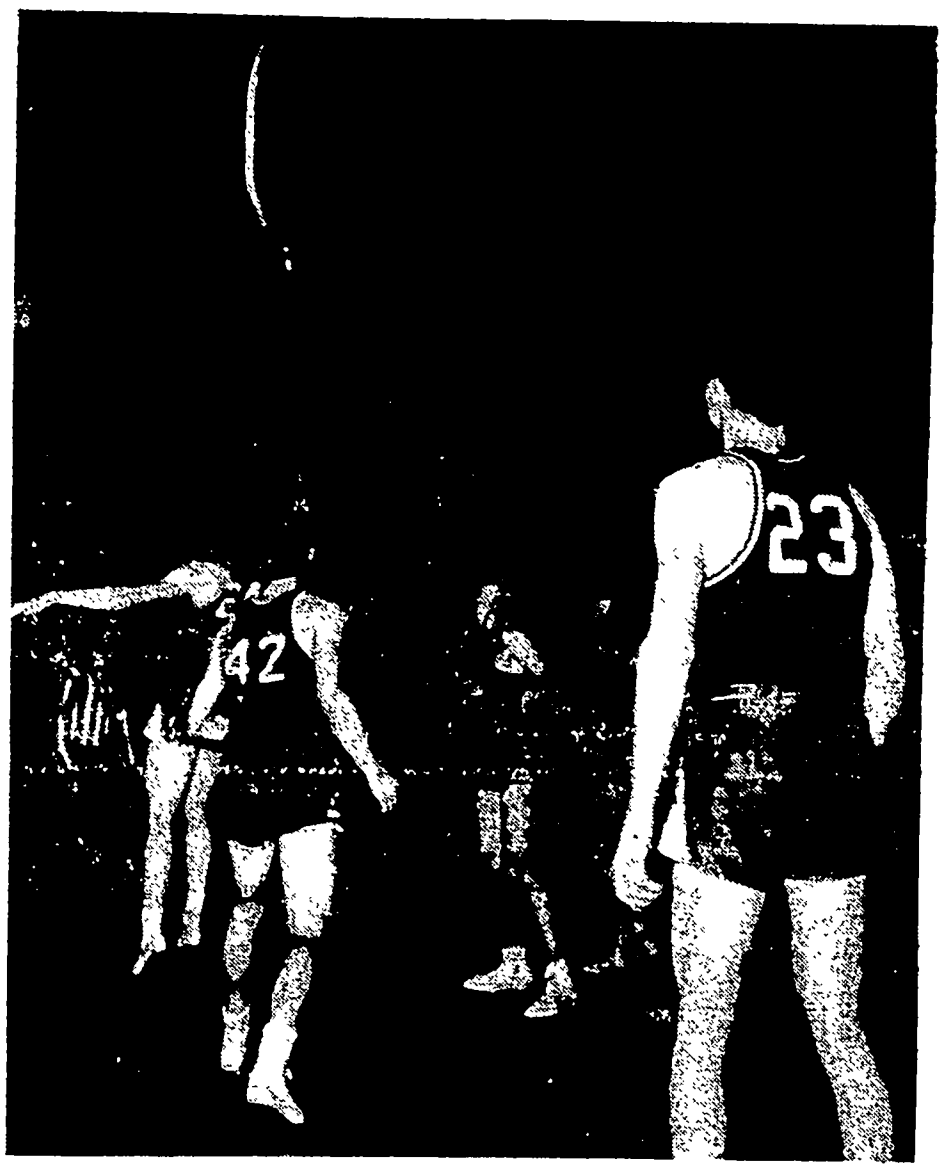
Hancock County Supervisors Thursday approved the official bond of Herman Paul, steward at the Hancock County home.

"Poultry Scramble" Proves to be Fun

Last Saturday afternoon the Klemme Commercial Club put on the first of three "Poultry Scrambles" that they are sponsoring on Saturdays until Christmas. The picture above shows some of the action that took place last Saturday, and if you look close, you can see either a duck or a rooster just between Gerardi's and Mrs. Pavey's popcorn stand.

There will be another "scramble" this coming Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and again three turkeys, three geese, eight ducks and ten chickens will be released from the roofs of some of the main street buildings. Plan to attend. You might catch yourself a free dinner for Christmas day.

Basketball Action In Ventura Game



This action took place early in the first half of the game with Ventura last Friday night. Ronnie Karsjens of Klemme is off the floor making a back-handed shot for the Shamrocks, while Denny Ridder (23) and three unidentified Ventura players look on. The Shamrocks out-lasted the Vikings to gain an 11-point, 59 to 49 victory for their first win in the North Star Conference.

UNLOADED

A game of cops and robbers at Algona ended up with a seven year old boy in the hospital, with a .22 calibre bullet in his arm. While playing with a youthful neighbor, the boys had gotten hold of an "unloaded" gun.

By E. D. PLASS, M. D.

(winner of the 1951 Iowa ACS bronze medal for his outstanding contributions to cancer control.)

Does cancer occur more frequently among married or unmarried women?

Except for cancer of the sex organs, the marital status of a woman does not significantly alter her chance of developing a malignancy. Breast cancer is more common in unmarried women and in those who are married but have never been pregnant. It seems almost as if the profound physiologic changes which occur in the mammary glands during pregnancy and lactation make the glands more resistant to uncontrolled growth of the glandular epithelium. The alernate hypothesis advanced by those who believe that chronic irritation usually proceeds the appearance of a malignant tumor, that uninterrupted premenstrual physiologic stimulation of the glands is more irritating than the activity incident to lactation, seem hardly tenable. Certainly the physical insults and the hormonal stimulation of even a single lactation are incident to menstruation. It may be that the mammary gland which has never lactated or even prepared for lactation does not become fully mature and retaining some of its immature characteristics, is more susceptible to those ill-defined metabolic influences which supposedly initiate cancer. Whatever the final explanation may be, the fact remains that single and childless women have more breast cancer.

On the other hand, cancer of the uaerine cervix is more common in women who have borne children. During labor the cervix is always invariably subject to some laceration, and such tears provide a point for bacteria which frequently produce chronic cervicitis. It is then argued that this localized infection produces conditions favoring the later uncontrolled growth of the epithelial cells, cervical cancer. The fact that the torn cervix is more likely to develop cancer has excellent statistical support. Women who have these minor lesions corrected by small surgical procedures at the conclusion of their child-bearing appear to be considerably protected.

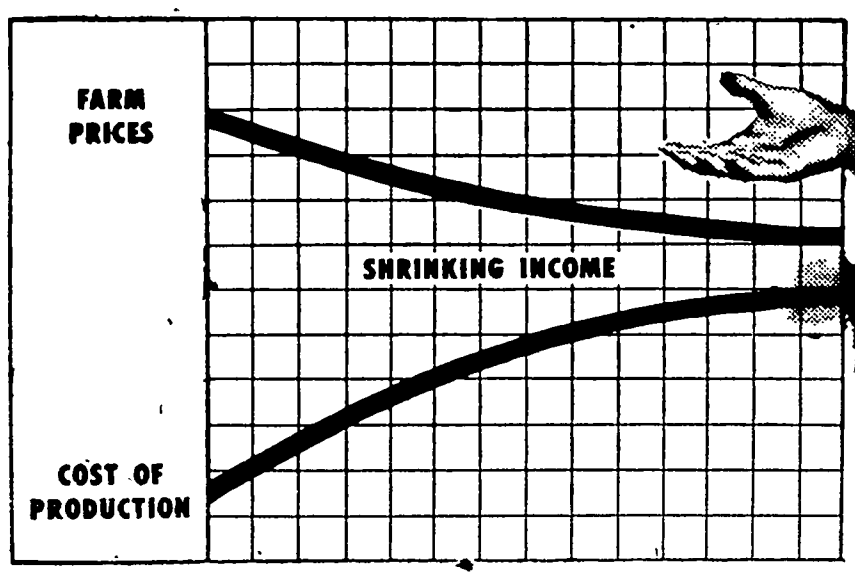
Here's how co-ops help you fight this squeeze two ways!



Cooperatives are the balance wheel that strengthens our free economy

FIRST, through your marketing co-ops you sell your crops at the best possible price, with selling costs held to a minimum. In addition to getting better prices, dairy, grain, livestock and other co-ops have improved quality and expanded the markets for farm products.

SECOND, through your supply co-ops, you keep down production expenses.

The squeeze between falling prices and rising costs is a serious problem. But during the squeeze, as in good times, strong co-ops can make a big difference in your income.

Senior Interview

Daisy Schaefer, who is nicknamed "Daz", was born on September 24, 1936, on a farm near Klemme, and has gone to school here all her life. She has brown eyes and black hair. She is five feet five inches tall and weight??

"Daz" has been collecting pennies for sometime. Some of her favorite pastimes are dancing, going to movies, and driving around at night.

Her favorite band is Guy Lombardo, and her favorite singers are Doris Day and June Valli. When asked what some of her favorite movie stars are, she replied, "Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, and Cornel Wilde." "Tenth Avenue Angel" and "Stalag 17" are her favorite movies. Daisy's favorite songs are "I Double Dare You" and "Crying In the Chapel". French fries and cokes are among her favorite foods and drinks. Holly Jonathon is her favorite saying. As far as pet peeves go, it's bookkeeping for her.

One of her most embarassing moments was when someone asked "Daz" to go with him that particular night. He told her that he would pick her up around 7:30, but instead he came at 6:45 and found her still in blue jeans and sweat shirt.

Among the activities Daisy has been in are: twirling, 1st year; majorette in band, 2nd and 3rd years; Jr. class play, cheerleader 3rd year and basketball all four years.

Daisy plans on becoming an elementary teacher or going into nurses training.

Editorial

On November 24 the band held its fall concert. It was a fine concert, but the attendance was very disappointing. There should have been many more people there. It's very disappointing for the band to have such poor attendance at the concert after all the hard work and practice that they went into it. Not only band concerts, but all school activities should be well attended. Next time everybody come and show their appreciation and interest in the band or whatever other school activity it may be.

Senior News

Being unable to think of anything to write about closing entries, I'll skip bookkeeping news.

The news Mr. Hiller was sick was received with the usual enthusiasm present when any teacher is unable to come to school for a day or two.

History class isn't very long; anyway that must be the teacher's opinion, because he extended it to after school hours one day last week.

The hardest thing to figure out in algebra is why the problems are called quadratic surds.

The dreaded news of typing a theme about three pages long on typing paper concerns our future plans for a vocation.

Eighth Grade News

In arithmetic we are drawing triangles and learning the areas of squares, rectangles, and other geometrical figures.

Friday we are giving oral reports in reading.

In history we are studying about the influx of immigration to America and the influence it had upon early pioneers.

Tuesday we wrote some poems and read them to the class. The class chose Roger Olson's poem the most original. Some of us have decided to become professional poets.

Two travelers in Ireland, returning home late one night, lost their way. Said one, "We must be in a cemetery. Here's a gravestone."

"Whose is it?" asked the other.

The first man, having struck a match, said, "I don't know, but he seems to have lived to a ripe old age—175."

"Can't you read the name?" insisted his companion.

After lighting another match he repled, "I don't know him or never heard of him. Some fellow called 'Miles, from Dublin'."

When the train stopped at the little southern station the tourist from the North sauntered out and gazed curiously at a lean scraggy animal which was rubbing itself against a scrub oak tree. "What do you call that?"

"Razor-back hog."

"What's he doing rubbing himself against that tree?" he asked of a native.

"He's stropping himself, Yankee. Then he's going to mow the lawn."

Feature Article

This week we are going to write about Darlene Roul's hobby of collecting salt and pepper shakers. "Dar" began this hobby about five years ago and has collected ninety- one pairs, some of which are fifty years old. She has salt and pepper shakers from fourteen different states. On pair is from Habuch, Arizona and was made by the Jemez Indians. Darlene also has a pair that once belonged to President Cleveland. The set was given to her by a friend whose grandfather had received them from the president. She has many different pairs shaped like animals and is shaped like a small clothes friut. One of her novelty pairs clothes basket with a sheet on top.

An angry little man bounced into the postmaster's office. "For some time now," he shouted, "I've been pestered with threatening letters, and I want something done abont it."

"I'm sure we can help," soothed the postmaster. "That's a federal offense. Have you any idea who is sending you these letters?"

"Indeed I have," snapped the little man. "It's those pesky income tax people."

A party guest remarked to a nearby person, "Terribly dull party, sn't it."

"Yes," replied the bystander.

The first suggested, "Let's leave."

"Can't," replied the bystander, "I'm the hostess."

The prairie tourist was much impressed by New England scenery, so he asked the Maine farmer where all the rocks came from.

The farmer drawled, "The great glacier brought them here".

"Hummph!" re urned the tourist, "Where's the glacier now?"

Said the farmer, "Went back for more rocks."

A farmer was trying hard to fill out the railroad claim sheet for a cow that had been killed by a train. He managed to answer all the questions until he came to the last item. "Disposition of carcasss."

After puzzling over the question for some time, he wrote, "Kind and gentle."

Music News

This week the majority of the band members are getting a rest, as they are remodeling the band coop. I don't know what they are doing, but I'm sure it's for the good.

I think the Pep band deserves 15 rahs for their performance at the Fertile game. They had lots of pep and really sounded good. It seems they had a lot more volume too.

The Quintet which is composed of Oboe, Jo Ann B.; Flute, Gracka G; Bass Clarinet, Lois C.; Clarinet, Carol B.; and French Horn, Margaret H. has been working on a number which they hope to play for Dr. Missman's Day to be held December 11.

The Girls' Sextette is working on some Christmas numbers which are to be sung at a meeting of the Women's Guild of the Reformed Church.

On Monday morning band practice there were quite a number of odd squeaks and squaks. It happened the band has quite a number of new pieces, which it can't play very well yet. It's sure a good thing they started remodeling, because Mr. Whitford and everyone else might have gone crazy after a few days of that. We hope to improve though before we have to play before anyone again.

Gracka has that good twinkle back in her eye now in the mornings . . . Lee is back from the "Windy City"". It seemed in study hall the other day, Gracka, was quite worried about a certain pencil. Could it be Lee gave it to her? She no longer has to walk to band on these cold days.

Jr. High Boys and Girls Win First Two Games

Monday afternoon the Jr. High played a basketball game at Thornton. The girls won 18 - 14. Dorothy Kroehnke made 16 points and Joyce Lassahn 2.

The boys won 39 - 14. Chuck Bacon made 16 points, Roger Olson 12 points, Gordon Johnson 5 points, and Larry and Raymond Helps 3 points each.

Monday night, December 14 at 7:00 p. m. the Junior High will play Kanawha here. Parents and visitors are welcome to come. The admission will be ten cents per person. We would like to see as many as possible attending this game. Let's support the Jr. High Rockets by attending the game.

At present, the boys and girls each have two victories and no losses.

GRANDSONS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Krecklow of Glenwood became grandparents, three times over, in a single day, November 16. A son Brul, became the father of twins, and another son, Ralph, the father of a son, all on the same day.

A salesman, while trying to sell a house in a smoggy area, told the prospective buyers, "On a clear day, you can see the sun."

Boys' Sports

Fertile, one of the top "B" teams in Iowa, beat the Shamrocks by a close score of 53 - 44. This was the second conference game the Shamrocks played with Fertile. With the sharp shooting of Jenkins and Ridder the score at the half was in favor of Fertile by four points. Starting the second half the Shamrocks were still fighting for the ball. The score was evenly divided up in the third quarter. The fourth quarter started out with the Fertile team getting two baskets. The last few minutes, Fertile went into a stall. So the game ended with a 9 point difference.

Girls' Sports

There's been no change in the weather. There is still snow on the ground and nip in the air. It runs on about the same line as our girls' basketball. Wednesday, November 25, we played Hanlontown there and lost with a score or 47 - 42. Carol Bridges was top scorer with 26 points. On Tuesday, December 1, was our sixth defeat in which we were defeated 39 - 52 by Fertile. Again Carol was high scorer with 27 points and Lois Christians followed with 12 points.

Helpful Suggestions

It was suggested by the Postmaster that all mail matter should be addressed plainly and articles should be packed carefully in strong durable containers and wrapped securely. Patrons having a number of greeting cards to deposit are urged to separate and tie Klemme mail from out of town mail to facilitate their handling for dispatch.

Special Services

For those mailers who may wish to expidite handling and delivery of cards and gifts, there are the air mail, special delivery and special handling services. Upon payment of the proper special delivery fee, matter of any class is entitled to the most expeditious handling and transportation practicable, as well as prompt delivery by a special messenger at the office of address. Special handling service provided for parcel post provides the most expeditious handling and transportation but does not include special delivery by messenger.

Perishable Matter

Perisable articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation should not be mailed.

Twin Lake Go-Getters Hove Teo for Mothers

The Twin Lake Go Getters 4-H club held a meeting at the home of Marcella Nuehring on November 14, 1953. This was also a tea for our mothers. The meeting was called to order by president Marcella Nuehring. We pledged "Allegiance to the Flag". Roll call was answered by thirteen girls who stood up with their mothers.

The girls are supposed to wear old clothes or an apron at the next meeting which will be held at the home of Marsha and Susan Watne on December 12 at 1:30 P. M. At this meeting we will have a workshop for the purpose of making Christmas gifts.

Our leaders passed out the enrollment cards for the new members in the club. We gave the 4-H pledge. Marsha Watne gave the Country Girl's Creed. The meeting was adjourned.

There were thirty-one in attendance. The mothers and visitors were presented with tree ornaments which the girls had made.

Faye Janssen, Janet Lange, and Susan Watne demonstrated how to make the fish and bird ornament. The program then followed with poems and readings.

Betty Louden read a poem on "Teamwork"; Marcella, "Good Grooming"; Maxine Robbins, "Who is my Neighbor"; Luane Waage, "Always Late"; Carol Kurtz and Marilyn Pals read "Just 90 Days 'Til Christmas"; and Theresa Lowenberg, "Father We Thank You".

Elsie Mae Van Wert then explained to us our record and expense account books. She also gave us a few tips on what 4-H is and what our responsibilities are.

Names were drawn by the members for Christmas gifts. The price was set at 75 cents

The leaders, Mrs. Erwin Nuehring and Mrs. Irving Haupt presented the four girls which were in the club last year with a gift for the good work and cooperation.

A lunch was served by the hostess assisted by the girls.

Band Mothers. These checks are their respective organization's share of the proceeds from the Lions Variety show which was given last September 30. This money will be used by these organizations for the purpose of community betterment. Both women gave short talks of thankfulness for the checks.

The program for the evening was the coronation of our king, (President Don Schaefer). King Don was brought to his throne in the royal cariage. (A wheelbarrow pushed by errant Knight Gerardi). The assembed guests guests sang an anthem which sounded like Yankee Doodle but which had words all its own:

Good King Donald came to club,
Riding a wheelbarrow.
A horse is what we should have had,
But we couldn't afford a mare - - ooooo.
Good King Donald we love you,
To us you are just dandy.
Never let us get you down,
And keep that big smile handy.

A twenty-one gun salute (water pistols at 2 paces) was fired at King Don, after which his face was wiped off and his coat replaced with a royal cape (band cape). Sire Dorance Knight (Day that is) annointed the King's head with oil (oil can filled with upper cylinder lubrication). Sir Dorance then questioned King Don on his qualifications for office (what is your name, address, are you honest and trustworthy? Have you told a lie?) Sir Ernie Gerardi then took over the questioning (Do you solemnly swear to uphold the honor and dignity of this high office? Do you promise to be present and on time to all meetings?) Upon answering these and many other questions, Sir Ernie repesented the King with the royal orb (Christmas tree ornament) symbolizing the weight carried by the Lions Club in the community. Also presented to the King was the roya sceptor (a gaily decorated, long handled object with a rubber bulb on the end) which symbolized the King's firmness of purpose. The crown (a brightly decorated piece of pottery with a handle on one side) was then placed on the new King's head. The privy council (board of directors) rose anl gave the following pledge:

"We pledge allegiance to good King Don,
Our hearts to him belong,
He is our king and ruler."

The entire assemblage then rose and facing the king shouted: VIVA KING DON.

The coronation and meeting then came to a close with singing of "God Bless America".

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the petition of the above named Plaintiff in the above entitled cause of action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, claiming that the Plaintiff is the absolute and unqualified owner in fee simple of the following described real property situated in Hancock County, Iowa, to-wit:

Lots One (1) and Two (2) Block Ten (10), in the Original Town of Klemme, Iowa,

and that the Plaintiff is credibly informed and believes that the Defendants make some claim adverse to the title of the Plaintiff in said property, and that said unknown claimants and all persons unknown claim some interest in or to said real property as the Plaintiff is informed and believes, but that the Plaintiff has no knowledge or information and does not know how said interest as claimed by said unknown claimants and all persons unknown was derived or claimed to have been derived, or the method of obtaining the same; that the Plaintiff alleges that the names and residences of the unknown claimants and all persons unknown are unknown to the Plaintiff, and that the Plaintiff has diligently sought to learn the same; that the Plaintiff sets out in his petition certain instruments of record which cloud the title of the Plaintiff in said real property, and sets forth pretended claims which have arisen with reference to said title. The Plaintiff further prays that a decree be entered by the Court establishing the title in said property in his name, against the adverse claims of each and all of the Defendants and all unknown claimants and all persons unknown, having or claiming any right, title, interest, claim or demand in or to his said property, as hereinbefore described, and that all persons claiming by, through, or under them be forever barred and estopped from ever having, asserting, or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said premises, and that the title to the Plaintiff in his property, as above described, be quieted, estopped, and confirmed. The Plaintiff in his petition further prays for such other and further equitable relief as to the Court may seem just and proper

For further particulars see the petition now on file as aforesaid

You are further notified that unless you appear before said Court in the Court House in Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, before the 30th day of January, 1954, your default will be entered and judgement and decree will be entered against you for the relief demanded in the petition, and the title to the real property above described belonging to the Plaintiff will be quieted in the Plaintiff, and you will be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title, or interest therein, adverse to that of the Plaintiff.

Take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

Shamrocks Win Over Franklin Consolidated; Girls Lose By 63 to 29

Tuesday evening, the Franklin Consolidated cagers were on the Klemme floor for both boys' an girls' games in North Star Conference competition with the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes.

In the opener, the power of the Franklin girls, who were state tournament contenders last year, was too much for the Shamrockettes, and the locals suffered a 63 to 29 defeat.

Carol Bridges again led the scoring for the locals as she rang up 21 points. Christensen and Waskow had 20 and 21, respectively, for Franklin.

The Shamrocks had a tough time of it and after trailing at one time in the second quarter by 11 points, came on to win a score of 67 to 52.

The Muhlenbruck brothers, were the big guns for Franklin, and between them they took care of 33 of their teams 52 point total. Scoring for the Shamrocks was very evenly divided as Barz and Ridder each got 14, Thiemann and Terhufen got 13, and Karsjens got 12, to account for all the scoring except one point which came on a free throw by Jacobs.

This game marked the first time for some time that a Klemme team has totaled more than 60 points in a contest.

NEXT GAMES

Next action for the locals will come Friday night when Sheffield boys and girls are here for more conference action. The Shamrocks will be doing their best to get even for the two point defeat suffered at the hands of the Clay Diggers earlier in the the season.

Next Monday, December 21, the local teams will travel to Rockwell for their first encounter with that scholl's teams. This will also be conference action. This game was originally scheduled for the 22nd, but was set ahead a day on account of Christmas activities in the two schools.

March of Dimes Polio Drive Will Begin Jan. 2

The annual March of Dimes drive for polio funds in Hancock county will begin on Jan. 2 and continue through the month, county chairman Joe Osman of Britt announced this week.

With a $10,000 quota set for the county, the March of Dimes workers will be putting forth more effort to encourage substantial donations.

The $10,000 quota is the highest ever set for the county, but it comes because of the added strain on polio funds during the last year, Osman pointed out. In 1952, there were 14 cases in the county and the treasury was depleted. Five cases are now being checked. Osman pointed out and one case alone has taken $5,800 in funds.

"That's more than the county's share of last year's quota and we have had to borrow from the national foundation," he said. "The county chapter is now about $5,000 in debt to the national group."

The quota for Hancock County has been steadily increasing but it has not been met. Following are the amounts that have the March of Dimes: 1950—$4,653; 1951—$7,276; 1952—$5,845; 1953—$6,247.

Osman was organizing workers in each township this week and named several of them for the big job that starts Jan. 2. Six township chairmen were named Monday. They are Mrs. Ed Malek, Garfield; Mrs. Clarence Horstman, Erin; Mrs. Kenneth Schultz, Liberty; Mrs. Wendell Johnson, Amsterdam; Mrs. W. G. Hauge, Twin Lakes; Mrs. Amos Hanson, Avery.

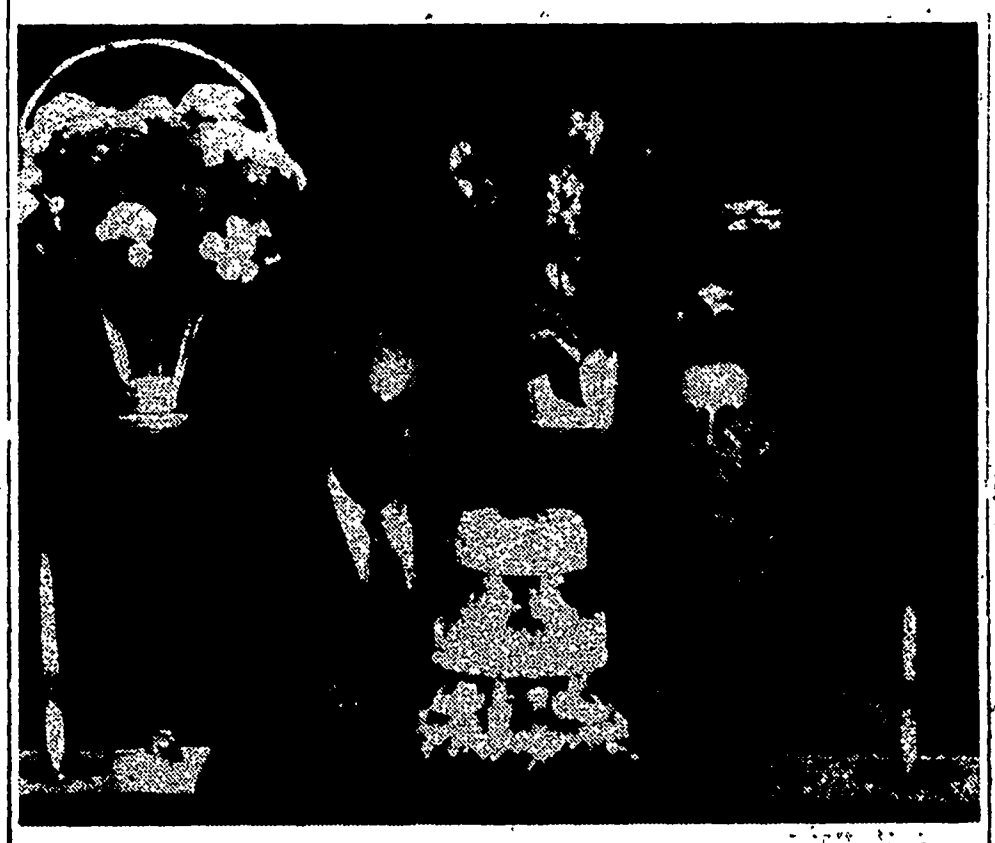
Corwith Wins Girls' Basketball Tournament

The Corwith girls are again winners of the Hancock County Girls' Basketball Tournament. In winning their championship, the Corwith girls edged out Goodell, 45 to 42, beat Kanawha, 47 to 30, and then in the finals, downed Hayfield, 44 to 38. Superior height and ample reserves made the difference for the champions.

KLEMME-HAYFIELD

In the opening round of the tournament, Klemme lost to Hayfield by a score of 42 to 37. The Shamrockettes trailed by one at the half way mark, but at the end of the third period were out in front 30 to 25. With three minutes left to play, the Klemme girls enjoyed a 6 point lead. However, they lost that as the Hayfield girls put on a closing drive that netted them 11 points and carried them to their 42 to 38 win.

Large Crowd Honors Dr. Missman at Banquet



Dr. and Mrs. Missman sat at the place of honor last Friday night as many old friends gathered at the high school gymnasium to honor the Doctor for his 44 years of service to the Klemme community. Some over 300 people were on hand to enjoy the banquet and program and help make the occasion a memorable one for the Doctor and his wife. More pictures taken at this event can be found on page 3.

44 Years Of Service Recognized As Doctor Leaves Main Street

It was all for Dr. Missman and his wife, and for the Doctor's 44 years of service to the Klemme community, that some over 300 people gathered at the high school gymnasium Friday night.

It was some time ago that Mrs. D. P. Anderson conceived the idea of honoring the Doctor for his service to the community—service that dates back to the days of the horse and buggy and to the time when the Doctor graduated from medical school. This was the first and only practice for Dr. Missman, and for 44 years, from 1909 until just recently, he served the people of this community. Mrs. Anderson thought that such long and devoted service deserved some notice, so she enlisted the aid of others in the community and plans were laid for the banquet and program in his honor.

Both churches, the Lions Club and the Commercial Club, as well as many interested persons, took part in planning and carrying out the affair. Mrs. Harvey Barz and Mrs. A. J. Kudje were in charge of the serving, Allen Barz acted as master of ceremonies, and Dorance Day was general chairman.

The program included short talks by Rev. Egeland and Rev. Jaberg, in which they paid tribute to the Doctor as a physician and friend of his patients, and made comparison between his chosen profession and that part of the life of Christ wherein he acted as a healer. Also included in the program was a history of the Doctor's life, written and read by Arthur Wellemeyer, pioneer Klemme business man and long-time friend of the Doctor; musical selections by a high school brass sextet and a woodwind quintet; a skit by Allen Barz and Franklin Kluckhohn, portraying one of the fathers and the Doctor at one of the nearly 3,000 baby deliveries career; and a highlight for the in which he took part during his Doctor, no doubt, the reading by Dorance Day of a telegram from Commander Byrnes Missman, in which he stated that he wished it were possible for him to be present, but since he couldn't he sent his congratulations and stated that he was very proud of his Dad.

Many out of town people were present at the banquet and notable among these were Dr. Missman's brother, Norman Missman and his son and wife, Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Chet Missman, all of Woden.

It was a memorable evening for both Dr. and Mrs. Missman and the purse which was made up from voluntary contributions showed the high esteem in which the Doctor is held by the people in the Klemme community. Both Dr. and Mrs. Missman gave short talks thanking the people assembled for their tribute.

Soon after the holidays, the Missman's will leave for Jacksonville, Florida, where they will spend an extended vacation as guests of Commander Byrnes Missman and his wife.

Coach "Bill" Westberg's Father Dies At Boone

G. E. Westberg, 84, chief clerk to the division superintendent of the Chicago Northwestern railroad in Boone, died at midnight Thursday, December 10, following a brief illness. He was taken to the Boone county hospital at noon last Wednesday after being taken ill at his home.

Born in Boone on September 5, 1889, Mr. Westberg started his 48-year career on the Chicago Northwestern railroad in that city on September 1, 1905 as a messenger and clerk. On May 15, 1916, Mr. Westberg was promoted to chief clerk at Belle Plaine. On May 8, 1921, he returned to Boone as chief clerk to the superintendent and had remained in that capacity until his death.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Frank S. O'Connor of Iowa City, and a son, William, of Klemme, Iowa; three sisters, one brother and one grandaughter.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Augustana Lutheran Church in Boone and burial was in Linwood Park cemetery there.

DROWNS

Eight year old Carley Anderson, of near Lake Mills, was drowned recently when she fell into a gravel pit.

Local Church Program Receives Recognition

In the December 13th issue of "Youth", a bi-weekly newspaper for Christian Youth, appeared the following story:

"A radio station with two announcers introduces a most unusual Christmas play, entitled "A December Day in Jerusalem," and performed here by young people of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church Klemme, Iowa. Taken from the Youth Fellowship Kit the play does not take us to the manger in Bethlehem. But "on-the-spot" reporters interview fishermen, and we of the "radio audience" begin to see the reactions of THE event as reflected in the life of Jerusalem and its people. On the street the interviewers meet a high-ranking physician and a fussbudget astrologer and others. But despite the birth of Jesus, the life of the city for the most part goes about its business—as we do—as if nothing had happened.

This program was patterned after the television program, "You Were There" and pictures of some of the participants were featured with the story. Those whose pictures appeared were: Lois Christians, Lois Ann Jacobs Graydon Barz, Lyle Goll, Roger Terhufen, Luverne Schmidt and LuVerne Josten.

This group will present "The Faithful Pioneer" at the high New Year's Eve.

Kids' Christmas Party At School Gym Saturday

Santa Claus Will Be On Hand With Treats And A Free Movie

This coming Saturday afternoon. December 19th, is the annual Kid's Christmas Party at the Klemme High School gymnasium. This event, sponsored by the Klemme Commercial Club, has been a very popular one with children in this community for the past several years and again this year will be one that parents won't want their children to miss out on.

The party will begin at 1:30 o'clock and will feature a free movie and the appearance of Santa Claus with treats for all the kids. No doubt, Santa will keep an ear open to listen to requests from the children, so bring them to the party. While they are wrapped up in the movie and the visit from Santa Claus you can enjoy shopping in Klemme.

"POULTRY SCRAMBLE"

As soon as the Kid's Christmas Party is over at the school, the "poultry scramble" will take place on the main street. Two of these scrambles have already been put on, and many people have managed to catch themselves some nice poultry for their Christmas dinner table.

This "poultry scramble" should provide a little more excitement than have the past two. As usual there will be ten roosters released, but instead of releasing the ducks and geese and turkeys, Bantams will be released. Each Bantam will be good for either a duck, goose or turkey. With Bantams being as agile as they are the ensuing scramble should be something to see.

The Kids' Christmas Party and the "Poultry Scramble" will be the last Commercial Club sponsored events of the year, and members of the club hope that eveyone will avail themselves of the opportunity for some fun. These final two events are put on as a way of thanking you for your patronage and wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Voters Approve "Belmond Community School"

On Monday, December 14th, voters living within the boundaries of the proposed "Belmond Community School District" went to the polls and by a large margin approved the proposal. The actual vote included some 66 per cent of the voters in the area, and was for the proposal 1,076 to 172.

A flood of literature, both pro and con, had been made available before the election to voters living in the district, and it was hoped by many small schools who were losing territory if the proposal passed, that it would be defeated. However, results show that a large majority of the people interested were highly in favor of the plan.

John Bachman saw two wolves ing. The wolves were near a hay at his farm early Monday mornstack.

Herman Miller and Lloyd Lau went to Chicago Saturday night to spend a few days sight-seeing and gazing at the high biuldings.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF ADJOURNED HEARING AND OF LIMITING OF TIME TO FILE OBJECTIONS TO THE FORMATION OF THE REORGANIZED SCHOOL DISTRICT TO BE NAMED "KLEMME COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT" INCLUDING LANDS IN HANCOCK COUNTY, IOWA.

To all persons residing upon or owning lands within or interested in the formation of a reorganized school district to be named Klemme Community School District including lands in Hancock County, Iowa, hereinafter described:

You, and each of you are hereby notified that on the 30th day of October, 1953, a petition was filed in the office of the County Superintendent of Schools of Hancock County, Iowa, signed by 908 qualified voters residing within the proposed boundaries therein described, such number being more than one-third of the total number qualified voters residing within said district, as evidenced by the affidavit of Ernest A. Gerardi, a qualified voter residing within said territory, which affidavit is and was attached to said petition, and which petition asks that a reorganized school district to be named "KLEMME COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT" in Hancock County, State of Iowa, be established within the contiguous territory containing not less than sixteen (16) sections of land described in said petition.

You, and each of you, are further notified that the County Board of Education of Hancock County, Iowa, acting as a board for the purpose of hearing objections to the formation of such school district and to determine and fix the boundaries for said proposed school corporation did on the 7th day of December, 1953, rule upon objections and enter an order fixing the boundaries of the Klemme Community School District including contiguous lands bounded by a continuous perimeter line, enclosing lands described by governmental subdivisions as follows:

Lands in Hancock County, Iowa

In Ell Township (Township 95 North, Range 23 West) Hancock County, Iowa:
- The South Half (S½) of the South Half (S½) of Section 10;
- All of Sections 14 and 15;
- The South Half (S½) and the South Half (S½) of the North Half (N½) of Sections 16, 17 and 18; and
- All of Sections 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 36.

In Liberty Township (Township 95 North, Range 24 West) Hancock County, Iowa:
- The South Half (S½) of Section 13;
- The South Half (S½) of Section 14;
- The Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section 19;
- The South Half (S½) of Section 20;
- The South Half (S½) of Section 21;
- The South Half (S½) and the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Section 22;
- All of Sections 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29;
- The East Half (E½) of Section 30; and
- All of Sections 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 36.

In Avery Township (Township 94 North, Range 23 West) Hancock County, Iowa:
- All of Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11;
- The North Half (N½) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) and the North Half (N½) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section 12;
- The Northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section 13;
- The North Half (N½) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) of Section 14;
- All of Sections 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21;
- The North Half (N½) and the Southwest Quarter (SW¼) of Section 22;
- The Northwest Quarter (NW¼) Section 23; and
- The North Half (N½) of Section 29.

In Twin Lake Township (Township 94 North, Range 24 West) Hancock County, Iowa:
- All of Sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5;
- The North Half (N½) of Section 8;

- The East Half (E½) of Section 16;
- The Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of Section 21;
- The North Half (N½) of Section 22;
- The North Half (N½) of Section 23; and
- The North Half (N½) of Section 24.

You, and each of you, are further notified that the boundaries of said school district, so fixed, are neither those petitioned for, nor those fixed by the county plan if Hancock County, Iowa, as originally established and that the said county board of education has adjourned the hearing above mentioned to the 4th day of January, 1954, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock in the evening of said day, to be held at the Courtroom in the Courthouse at Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, and had directed the County Superintendent of Schools of Hancock County, Iowa, to give notice of said adjourned hearing as by law provided.

You, and each of you, are further notified that objections to the establishment of the proposed reorganized school district must be made in writing in the form of an affidavit and be filed with the County Superintendent of Schools of Hancock County, Iowa, in his office in the Courthouse at Garner, Iowa, not later than 12:00 o'clock NOON of the 4th day of January, 1954, which said day has been fixed as the date of hearing upon said objections.

You, and each of you, are further notified that an adjourned meeting of the County Board of Education of Hancock County, Iowa, will be held in the Court, room at the Courthouse at Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, on the 4th day of January A. D., 1954, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening of said day, to act as a board for hearing said objections at which meeting interested parties may present evidence and argument and said Board will review the matter on its merits, rule upon objections, and fix boundaries for the proposed school corporation, or dismiss the petition.

WITNESS my hand at Garner, Iowa, this 10th day of December, 1953.

CHAS. S. WHITNEY
County Superintendent of Schools in and for Hancock County, Iowa.

Joint 4-H Meeting

The Liberty Busy Bees and the Liberty Go-Getters met at the home of Alan and Carolyn Jass, Monday night, November 30. Twenty two members and their leaders were present.

They planned a musical skit for Award Night. They also completed plans for their Christmas Party and program, which will be held December 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Liberty No. 3 school. All 4-H members and their families are invited. There will be a grab bag for the boys 4-H members, and an exchange of gifts among the 4-H girls. There also will be a 25 cent grab bag for all children who are not in 4-H. We hope to see all our 4-H families on December 14.

Reorganization Keeps County Board Busy

The Hancock County Board of Education has attended and been a part of fifteen (15) meetings on school district reorganization since October 19, 1953. All but two of the meetings were evening meetings with eight of the total number held in Garner, all have been joint meetings with at least one other county board of education. In only one case have all members of the Hancock County Board of Education been qualified to speak. There are, at present, five school districts either in the process of reorganization or making plans which will lead to the process of reorganization which affect areas in Hancock County.

The first hearing on the proposed Belmond Community School District was held on October 19. The final ruling on objections and order fixing boundaries for the proposed Belmond Community School District was held on November 14, 1953. The official notice of the election on the proposition stated an election was held on December 14. (The law requires that the election be held within 30 days after the final ruling on objections and order fixing boundaries by the county board of education or joint boards, as the case may be.) The election carried.

The first hearing on the proposed Kanawha Community School District was held at Garner on October 26. The final ruling on objections and order fixing boundaries was held on December 3. The Kanawha proposed community school district was considered by four eligible members from the Wright County Board of Education and three from the Hancock County Board of Education. The date for the election on the proposed Kanawha Community School District has not yet been set but must be before 30 days after December 3, 1953.

The Klemme Community School District filed a petition on October 30, 1953. The first hearing was held on December 7, in the Courthouse at Garner. This is the first proposed school district to be considered by the Hancock County Board of Education where only the Hancock County Board of Education would rule on objections and fix boundaries.

On November 24th the Hancock County Board met in an afternoon session with the Cerro Gordo County Board of Education in the Courtroom at Mason City to dicsuss some preliminary planning relative to changing boundaries by the Ventura Consolidated School at Ventura, which proposed district includes area in Hancock County.

Prior to any hearings held by the Hancock County Board of Education, either as a single or as a joint board, the Board held five (5) hearings before establishing the lines on the Hancock County tentative plan of school district reorganization which was filed with the Department of Public Instruction on September 5, 1953. The board spent several days planning in preparing the forty-two (42) page booklet which was distributed in connection with the hearings on establishing the tentative county plans in addition to the time spent at the five hearings. It is estimated approximately 1000 persons attended the preliminary hearings before the tentative county plan was filed.

Additional information will be submitted as plans develop and other items of interest come to this office.

Meat on the Table

Iowa's first open season on deer in 75 years has brought forth a variety of comment, both pro and con, on the merits of having an open season in this state. Regardless of the seemingly high feeling in the matter, some local hunters are going to have venison this winter. Pictured above are Quentin Stille and his son, Harley. They killed this doe near Pilot Knob on the opening day last Thursday.

Two other local hunters who did alright in the way of getting meat for the table are Wavel Schaefer, left, and Gene Albers. The men bagged these two near Pilot Knob on the second day of the season. They felt pretty lucky. They had killed one and were cleaning it, when the other came into view. Got them both in about twenty minutes.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

This is addressed to the 17 Iowans who are going to miss Christmas because they will die between now and the holiday in traffic accidents.

Some will die like the young man whose love of speed wasn't dimmed at all by a snow-packed road. He died of a fractured skull while the Christmas lights were going on in the town.

A few will die innocently like the ederly man crossing a street to attend a pre-Christmas service in a church. In the middle of the street he met a young couple in a car "more interested in each other than in anything else."

A few may die in an almost unexplainable manner like the middle-aged couple who didn't stop though the train whistle was blowing and the signal lights were flashing.

Some will die almost as though by their own hands like the business man who was in a frantic hurry to participate in the Christmas rush.

He kept urging his driver to "go faster" even though it was raining. The car finally hit wet mud at the crest of a hill and spun out of control. The business man was hurled 25 feet to his death.

And a few will die like the couple who pulled into a farm one December night and drank until the farmer came down to investigate. They sped away, found the speed exhilarating and kept it up until they lost control and hit a bridge. They died in the half-frozen muck of a creek.

These incidents relate how a few Iowans died one Christmas season. They are intended as lessons for the 17 now alive who will miss this Christmas unless they heed the dangers of the season. Who are the 17?

OIL

After three or four years of study and preparation, plans are completed to drill for oil in an area adjacent to Palmer, Iowa. Leasing of land in the territory has been completed.

EXPLOSION

Fred Pierce, of Union, was killed when an 500 gallon pressure tank exploded. He had been putting in a new pipe in the tank located in the basement of a home there, when the explosion occured. Two assistants were slightly injured.

It Was a Large Evening

Girls' Sports

The Klemme girls have come up with a record of six games lost an one win. We won over Kanawha Tuesday night with a score of 38 - 42. Carol Bridges was high scorer for Klemme with 24 points and 12 points were made by Lois Christians.

Our Friday night game with Ventura was lost by a score of 37 - 47. Carol Bridges was again high scorer for Klemme with 28 points.

Thusrday night was our first game in the county tournament against Hayfield in their gym. As it happened it turned out to be our last for we lost 37 - 42.

Senior Interview

Lois Christians, who is nicknamed "Louie", has borwn hair and blue eyes and her height is five feet seven inches.

Before entering the Klemme Public School in her fourth year of school she went to the Ell township school which was east of Klemme.

Among the things "Louie" likes to do during her spare time are: reading, skating and dancing. She has been in numerous activities which are band, 7 years; basketball, 4 years; Pep Club, president 1 year; Junior Class Play; and President of the Junior Class.

"Louie's" favorite band is Guy Lombardo. Her favorite song is "You, You, You" and her favorite singer is Eddie Fisher. Janet Leigh and Randolph Scott. are two of her favorite movie stars and her favorite movie is "From Here To Eternity". "Louie's" favorite foods are French fries and hamburgers. She's often being heard saying "Cryin' out loud".

When she gets out of high school Lois plans on attending a college and becoming an elimentary teacher.

Sixth Grade News

At last we've done it! Last week our class had an "A" average in spelling.

Candy canes, angels, Christmas bells and candles make our room gay for the Christmas season.

Some new books have arrived for our library. We haven't had time to sample them, but the titles sound very interesting.

We are looking forward to the Christmas party planned by our room club.

Editorial

I have probably written enough in my editorials about good sportsmanship at the games, but I am going to write about it once more. When we played Kanawha Tuesday, December 8, I noticed, and I'm sure that almost everybody else noticed how some of the Kanawha fans acted. Don't you think that all their yelling at the referees was uncalled for? I think that it is a good example of how you can give your school a bad name. So far this year I think our fans have been very good about sportsmanship. Keep it up and don't make fools of yourselves. Let's show our good manners at the games instead of our bad ones like Kanawha did.

Music News

The band coop is now finished. There is now plenty of room for everyone. They took out the walls at the front of the coop and made it one big room. They also fixed some very worn spots in the floor. On one side of the coop they have installed some much needed shelves and cupboards for horn and paraphernalia.

The Girls' Sexette sang on Wednesday afternoon for the Women's Guild of the Reformed Church. They sang a group of Christmas Carols consisting of "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "Joy to the World".

A girls' trio composed of Jo Ann Bacon, Ione Rosendahl, and Margaret Haefner are working on several Christmas numbers, also.

Every morning the grade students can be heard practicing for their annual Christmas program to be given on December 22. From what we hear it should be good.

The Pep Band is doing such a swell job, I really think more people should clap after their numbers. After all they aren't there just to make extra noise. They are for the purpose of entertainment. I'm sure we all don't really mean to forget them, but let's show our apprecation at the next game, huh !!!

The improvement in the band coop so surprised Roger T. last Monday, that he almost fell flat. Watch it, Rog.

Seventh Grade News

If anyone were to step into the seventh grade room, he would prcbably conclude Christmas was near. We have finished cur decorations and think they are quite attractive.

That troublesome little thing a per cent less than one, has been bothering us in arithmetic. We are now ready to learn how to find what per cent one number is of another.

In lanuage we have been studying the different kinds of pronouns and their uses in sentences. If it sounds like owl in our room, it's just that we are trying to decide whether "who" or "whom" belongs in the sentence.

All of the girls have learned to knit. They are busy practicing before school and during the noon hour.

We enjcyed a movie on how the Dutch reclaimed the land once under the sea and made productive farms out of it.

Waiter: "Your order, Miss?"

Girl: "I'd like a big sirloin steak."

Waiter: "And what do you wish, Sir?"

Boy: "I wish I hadn't come."

Boys' Sports

The Klemme boys got their first conference victory Friday December 4, by defeating Ventura. At the end of the first quarter, the score showed Klemme out in front by 12 points. During the second quarter Ventura narrowed down the margin. The third quarter showed the regular lapse that the boys usually seem to have. The margin in the fourth quarter started about the same, with Klemme gaining some toward the end of the game. The game ended with a score of 47 - 57 with Klemme boys getting their first conference win in 4 starts.

The Klemme boys won from Kanawha Tuesday, December 8, by a score of 25 - 49. The boys started out strong against the Bulldogs to jump to a lead of 12 to 2 at the end of the first quarter. The lead continued to climb the rest of the half. The second team got into the game about the middle of the game about and finished the game. This made two victories in a row for the boys. In the next game we will try for another conference win against Franklin Cons. December 15, here.

Freshman News

The following is a conversation between two Marthians.

"Well, Bcdbhhj, how did you make out on your scouting mission to Earth?"

" Oh, just terrible, King Klmnpgr. I'm afraid Earthlings are too utterly stupid to conquer. Or maybe they are to utterly smart, I don't know. We landed our flying sucer X-162249130 on top of a building which Earthlings call a high school. I peeked in the window of a room called a study hall and there was a freshman (whatever that is) writing something called freshman news. Here is what he was writing:

English: Spelling different words.

General Math: Solving equations.

General Science: Studying the camera, lenses, the eye, etc.

Home Ec: Table etiquette.

Manual Training: Mr. Westberg was absent most of the week, so we didn't have much shop.

"Have you ever heard such giberrish in all your life?"

"I guess you're right Bcdbghj. Earthlings are either too smart or too stupid too conquqer."

* *

It's a long, cold walk from the cafe to the bowling alley in Clarion. It's a good thing Lois J. and Don came along to give the girls a ride or they would have frozen.

It seems Alan N. is roving those eyes around again. Beware girls. It seems Carole M. is the object of his looks at the present.

Winola just couldn't make it to MYF on Sunday night. It was told that she had company. Could that company have been Merlin O.?

Lyle P. also has the roving eye for Britt this time. It seems Connie G. is his attraction. Is this true boys?? Gordon has one over there too, but we were unable to get her name.

While the rest of the boys seem to be going to Britt, Harry A. is going to Kanawha I hear. Is this right Harry? Why don't you tell us her name?

Why is it that Roger T. almost fell over his feet getting to the front row the other night at the ball game? It seems Faye J. was there. Now we know that couldn't have had anything to do with it . . . could it, Rog?

A new kind of romance is in Klemme, a threesome, Leila and JoEllen are chasing a senior boy. Wonder who it is? Could it be Tom?

It seems Dennis H. has been seeing quite a lot of Britt lately. Shirley T. of Britt seems to be the attracton.

It seems Lois and JoAnn went to dinner at Don's and Donnie's house Sunday. Were they good kids?

What was Francis mad about Tuesday, Lois H.? Did you do anything to make him mad? Don't try to blame it on those two boys in the kitchen.

Two more steady couples in our school got mad at each other Tuesday night. What's wrong "Pete" and Lee? Are Beverly and Gracka mad at you or are you mad at them? The saying goes "True Love Never Runs Smooth".

Doug Jones was back in Klemme Friday. He couldn't have his eye on Jo Ellen, could he? What about it "Jo"?

Ronnie that's a mean trick you pull on those poor girls. What's the idea anyway? How are they to know what they are going to get for Christmas?

If you kids want more gossip use the Suggestion Box.

The Seniors are really having quite a time deciding where and how we should go skip day. It looks as though Chicago is out and Minneapolis is it now. Next week it probably will be some other town.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION OF HANCOCK COUNTY, IOWA.
By /s/ E. J. Andregg
Chairman of the Board
By /s/ Chas. S. Whitney
Secretary of the Board

New Name for PMA

Owners and operators of Hancock county farms will be interested in the new names and titles assigned to the local Production and Marketing Administration office and cofmitteemen.

Effective immediately, the county PMA office will be known officially as the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, or County ASC office. The county PMA committee has been re-named the County Agricultural Stablization and Conservation committee, or county ASC committee. County and community committeemen will be referred to as county and community ASC committeemen instead of PMA committeemen.

The state office and state committee designations have been changed to State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. All will be a part of the Commodity Stabilization Service, the agency which has been assigned the functions of Production and Marketing Administration in the recent reorganization of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Kenneth Connole of Delmar was hospitalized recently when a stove exploded, as he was pouring diesel oil into it. The blast completely destroyed the shed, and Connole suffered bad burns and multiple punctures.

Naomi Circle Met

The Naomi Circle met at the home of Mrs. C. C. Kilgore Thursday afternoon, December 10. Seventeen members and two guests were present. Mrs. Jennings Anderson gave the devotions, and a very interesting lesson about world wide missionary work. After a social hour, refreshments were served by the hostess and the co-hostess, Mrs. Kate Sandrey.

TRIPLE

Two hunters have brought suit in Kossuth county againt Andrew Murra, claiming $2250 damages for the death of four hunting dogs, alleged shot by Murra. The heavy damages for the dog, valued at $750, is under an Iowa law which provides triple damages if injury is done maliciously.

Social Security Laws Change January 1st

The social security tax rate for persons whose work counts toward old-age and survivors insurance is scheduled to increase on the first of January, 1954, John R. Goldman, manager of the Mason City social ecurity office, reminded employers, employees, and self-employed people today.

This scheduled increase in tax contribution is in accordance with the 1950 amendments to the social security law, and was enacted by Congress in anticipation of future obligations of the program.

Employees in jobs covered by the law will have 2 percent instead of the present 1½ percent deducted from their pay beginning with the first of January up to earnings of $3600 a year; their employers will contribute an equal amount.

The new rates will apply to all taxable wages paid after December 31, 1953, regardless of when earned.

The social security tax for the self-employed is scheduled to increase from the present 2¼ percent to 3 percent, for the period commencng January 1, 1954. Since the self-employed whose work is covered by the law pay their tax just once yearly at the time of filing their Federal income tax return, they will pay the present 2¼ percent social security tax on their 1953 income that counts toward social security. This will be due not later than March 15, 1954. Their first payments at the increased rate of 3 percent will be due March 15, 1955, for the calender year 1954.

Holiday Season Calls For Extra Caution On Part of Motorists

The average good driver, filled with the best intentions in the world, can become a Christmas Killer, the state public safety department warned Thursday.

"Swept up in all the happy distractions of this holiday season, even good drivers may for get the common safety rules that must apply every day," Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurry said.

He warned that such apparently small things as a dirty windshield cutting visibility, or five miles an hour too much speed on a slippery street "can turn a family looking forward to Christmas into a group of survivors looking forward to nothing."

"The added hazards of the winter and holiday season can turn otherwise small driving mistakes into big tragedies," McMurry said.

He asked all drivers to exercise "absolute caution and control" during the Christmas and New Year's holidays. The warning was extended to pedestrian who are in greater danger during this season than at any time of the year, McMurray said.

The department previously has warned that reductions in speed and extra alertness to combat reduced visibility are the basic this season.

precaution to be taken during

"We want to emphasize that these warnings are intended for every man and woman who drives," McMurry said. "In a moment of forgetfulness, even the best driver can become a Christmas Killer."

Dog License Fees

Dog license fees for 1954 will be $1.50 for each male and $4.00 for each female dog in townships and towns where no city license is required, according to County Auditor Maynard Schoneman, who announces that the Hancock County board of supervisors adopted the schedule at a meeting on Thursday.

Liberty Boys Meet

The regular meeting of the Liberty Go Getters was called to order at 8:30 at Lloyd Prohaska's Monday night, December 7. We discussed having a Chili supper for our dads at the next meeting. This supper is to be prepared and served by the boys. Donald Kopacek, Jerry Zrostlik and Verne Prohaska are on the cooking committee.

Tht date set for weighing our calves is Monday, December 28 at 10:00 in the morning.

We completed plans for our Christmas Party to be held at Liberty No. 3 Monday December 14. The meeting was adjourned.

The boasting man was telling how he ran things around his house. "Yes sir," he said, "I run the vacuum cleaner, washing machine, I wash the dishes, scrub the floors, and run the errands."

Eastern Star Elects

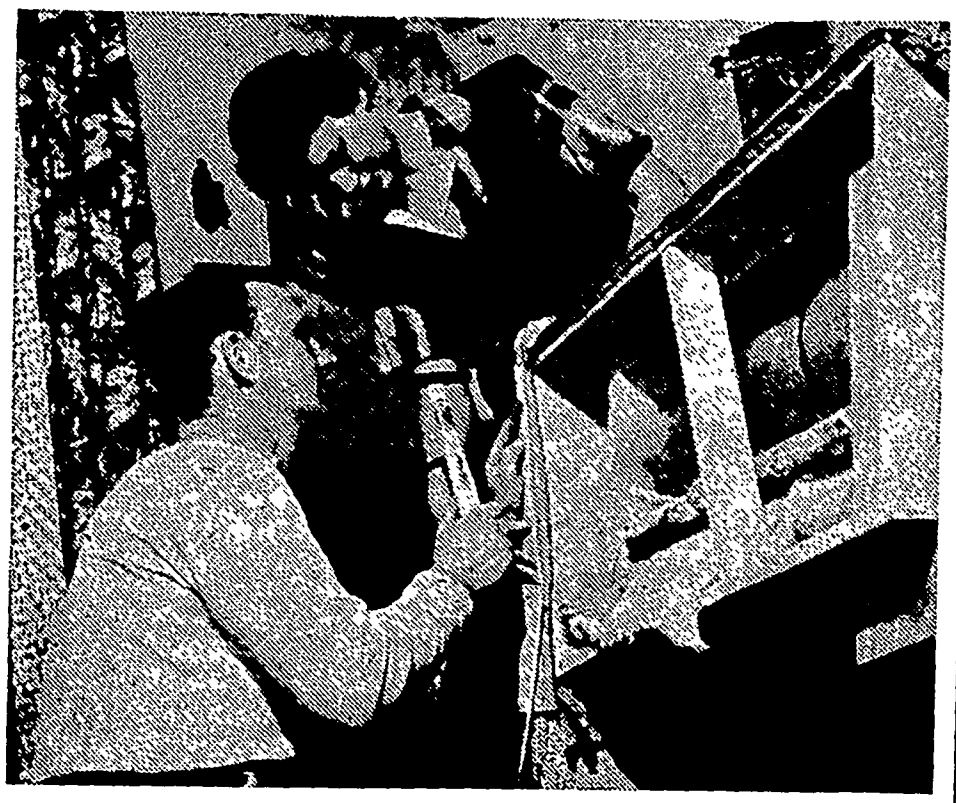
The Eastern Star held their election of officers at Garner, on Tuesday evening. Those elected were Vera Grau, Worthy Matron; Vern Grau, Worthy Patron; Pearl Gerber, Associate Matron; Ernest Gerber, Associate Patron; Marie Blank, Conductress; Bertha Brown, Secretary; and Mildred Edelon, Treasurer.

HAYRAKE

Two year old Donnie Namanny of near Mapleton, was injured recently when he was run over by a loaded hay-rake. His father was unaware of the accident until he looked back and saw his son lying on the ground. No bones were broken, but internal injuries were suffered when the heavy wheel passed over his stomach.

Here's What to Consider—

When You Reupholster at Home



Doing your own reupholstering is a difficult, painstaking job. But you'll find it a project that saves you money and rewards you with a good looking piece of furniture ready for many more years of hardwear. This young farm couple stripped down their davenport and rebuilt arms and back along more modern lines before reupholstering it.

* * *

If reupholstering a piece of furniture is on your redecorating agenda this winter, be sure you know how much hard work is involved before you tackle the project. That's the advice of Iowa State College Extension Home Furnishings Specialist June Brown, who also cautions homemakers to make a careful appraisal of chair or davenport to see if it's really well made and worth reupholstering.

YOUR FURNITURE

Study your piece of furniture. Its style and proportion should fit in well with your room and the other furnishings. It should also have a good hard wood frame that will hold webbing and springs securely.

It may be that you can do a bite of remodeling and restyling to make a davenport or chair go well with other furnishings. You could convert a three-cushion model into one with two cushions, for instance, using the old springs. Or you might remodel the back and arms. Make sure in this remodeling, that the arms and back still give strong support. Talk the menfolk in the family into helping you with the heavy work.

If this is your first reupholstering attempt, start on a dining or occasional chair with very simple lines. That way you'll run into fewer problems and will gain experience to help you out in tackling a more complicated piece.

In general, here are the steps involved in a thorough, worthwhile reupholstering job. Remove all old fabric, padding, springs and webbing. Keep track of what goes where and in what order. Repair frame or remodel if needed. Put on new webbing retie springs in body of chair, and pad. Remake spring cushions. Cover cushions and rest of piece with muslin, then new upholstery.

YOUR FABRIC

Choice of fabric is extremely important, for this is the face your furniture presents to the world. It should be firm and closely woven so that it will tailor well. It should be colorfast and guaranteed cleanable either by home shampooing or commercial drycleaning. Color and texture or design should go well with the fabrics and color scheme of your room. If you should decide on a fabric containing one of the new fiber content information handy for reference when it comes time to shampoo it or have it cleaned. Some upholstery farbics have a rubberized backing which helps to keep moisture from penetrating through to padding when fabric is cleaned.

TV LESSONS

You can get some expert help with your reupholstering project from how-to-do-it articles in women's magazines or from your county extension home economist. If you're in the WOI-TV viewing area, tune in "Your Home Hour" at 3 p. m. each Tuesday in January for four 30-minute reupholstering lessons. Mrs. Brown, setting up shop in the TV studio on the Iowa State College campus in Ames will show you how to upholster a living-room chair from start to finish.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED FOR DUAL CAMPAIGN

A volunteer counts money dropped in the heart-shaped collection boxes distributed recently by Christmas Seal workers of the local tuberculosis association. The coin containers serve to remind that the tuberculosis Christmas Seals also fight heart disease. More money is needed to carry on programs to combat and control BOTH heart disease and TB. The plastic collection devices will receive extra gifts to fight heart disease—or to jog your memory to mail the contribution for the TB Christmas Seals received in the mail.

600 Attend 4-H Awards Night At Britt Auditorium

4-H members and their parents filled the Britt Auditorium Saturday December 5, for the annual 4-H awards night. 4-H members, leaders, and committee members were given awards for their outstanding work in or with 4-H.

The awards were handed out in between musical skits given by 14 of the girls and boys combined.

Doreen Lackore and Frank Brcka, girls and boys county presidents acted as master ceremonies and also handed out the leaders awards. Other awards were handed out by Extension Director Paul Henderson, Home Economist Elsie Mae Van Wert, and assistant Connie Lindgren, Youth Assistant Bob Wilson and Farm Bureau President Gilbert Guenther.

Some of the most significant awards were individual girl's award, girls club awards, boys judging, boys producer awards, showmanship plaques, 4-H boys and girls certificates and seals, and boys and girls leader awards.

Liberty Busy Bees Meet

Christmas carols filled the air as the Liberty Busy Bees opened their regular December meeting at the home of Marion Stromer on Monday evening, December 7. Seventeen members answered roll call, "What I Want For Christmas". We were very happy to have four mothers as visitors and hope others will visit us during the year.

Winola Zwald, June Mayland and JoNell Johnson bought a Christmas gift for Mrs. Ronald Gibbs, who was our leader last year. Several bills were allowed. Our leaders expained the program and workshop for our January meeting which will be held at Susan Haberkamp's January 16 at 1:30 p: m.

After the adjournment of the business meeting, the remainder of the evening was spent practicing for our Christmas program which was December 14 at the Liberty No. 3 schoolhouse.

Defendants.

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You and each of you are heroby notified that the petition of the above named Plaintiff in the above entitled cause of action is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, claiming that the Plaintiff is the absolute and unqualified owner in fee simple of the following described real property situated in Hancock County, Iowa, to-wit:

Lots One (1) and Two (2) Block Ten (10), in the Original Town of Klemme, Iowa,

and that the Plaintiff is credibly informed and believes that the Defendants make some claim adverse to the title of the Plaintiff in said property, and that said unknown claimants and all persons unknown claim some interest in or to said real property as the Plaintiff is informed and believes, but that the Plaintiff has no knowledge or information and does not know how said interest as claimed by said unknown claimants and all persons unknown was derived or claimed to have been derived, or the method of obtaining the same; that the Plaintiff alleges that the names and residences of the unknown claimants and all persons unknown are unknown to the Plaintiff, and that the Plaintiff has diligently sought to learn the same; that the Plaintiff sets out in his petition certain instruments of record which cloud the title of the Plaintiff in said real property, and sets forth pretended claims which have arisen with reference to said title. The Plaintiff further prays that a decree be entered by the Court establishing the title in said property in his name, against the adverse claims of each and all of the Defendants and all unknown claimants and all persons unknown, having or claiming any right, title, interest, claim or demand in or to his said property, as hereinbefore described, and that all persons claiming by, through, or under them be forever barred and estopped from ever having, asserting, or claiming any right, title, or interest in or to said premises, and that the title to the Plaintiff in his property, as above described, be quieted, estopped, and confirmed. The Plaintiff in his petition further prays for such other and further equitable relief as to the Court may seem just and proper.

For further particulars see the petition now on file as aforesaid.

You are further notified that unless you appear before said Court in the Court House in Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, before the 30th day of January, 1954, your default will be entered and judgement and decree will be entered against you for the relief demanded in the petition, and the title to the real property above described belonging to the Plaintiff will be quieted in the Plaintiff, and you will be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title, or interest therein, adverse to that of the Plaintiff.

Take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

Iowa farmers are showing more interest in dairying this fall than for several years. Times are uncertain. And dairying is famous for its stabilty of income.

The price support operations of the USDA have been the dominant force in the dairy situation for nearly a year, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports. The USDA has bought more butter, cheese and dried skim milk in the past 12 months than in any other peacetime year.

About 30 out of every 100 pounds of butter produced between January 1 and October 1 were bought by the USDA for price support. About 34 out of every 100 pounds of cheddar cheese and 53 out of every 100 pounds of dried milk also wound up as USDA price support purchases.

Milk production shot up sharply last winter. For several years it has hovered in the region of 115 billion pounds per year. But last winter it hit 123 billion pounds for several months. The result: Milk production for 1953 as a whole will be in the neighborhood of 118 or 119 billion pounds, Kutish points out.

This boost resulted from both more output per cow and more cows milked. With beef cattle down in price, dairymen are less inclined to cull as lossely.

The outlook for 1954 is for about the same level of milk output for the year as a whole Kutish says, or about 118 or 119 billion pounds. Meanwhile, we have had changes on the demand side of the picture, too.

The shrinking demand for butter has been a major cause in holding the dairy industry down since the war. Partly offsetting this, there have been increases in the use of whole milk and cheese. There have been boosts in the use of fluid and dried skim milk, sherberts and ice milks. But the gains on the nonfat solids side have not offset the income losses on the fat side, Kutish stresses. Over the longer pull, improve marketings lower production costs on the dairy farm, a rapidly growing population and possible changes in artificial restrictions (such as unduly strict health ordinances) offer hope for improvement in the dairy outlook, Kutish believes.

But these will take time. Meanwhile, he sees the 1954 dairy outlook for Iowa farmers hinging mainly on what level Secretary Benson extends the dairy supports, which expire on March 31, 1954.

BROKE RECORDS

A new record for cattle shipment from the Schleswig community was set recently, when 103 carloads were sent to Chicago. Sending cattle to Chicago to be on the market at International show time is a tradition at Schleswig. The first such shipment, in 1922, was 22 cars.

Hancock County Hospital Auxiliary Met Friday

The December meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held at Hancock County Memorial Hospital on Friday, Dec, 19. The feature of the afternoon was Christmas Parcel Post Office. The post office was set up by the Corwith Branch, with Mrs. Ethel Beers in charge. Mrs. Earl McVey, Mrs. Glen Clark and Mrs. Gilmore Johnson, all of Britt, acted as Postmistresses and stamped and marked the parcel post packages. The "postage" netted from the packages will apply on the mobile cart which will soon be in use in the Hospital. Each lady that mailed a package also received one in turn as a Christmas gift.

During the past month, memorials have been given for Mr. Wm. J. Rasmuson and Mr. G. H. Horstman, and it had been requested that these memorials be used for pictures for the hospital. Six beautiful pictures had been purchased and were presented to the Hospital as Christmas gifts, by Mrs. Ed. Wallace in memory of her father, G. H. Horstman, and by Mrs. Wm. J. Rasmuson, in memory of her husband. The American Legion Auxiliary of Crystal Lake gave a Christmas gift to the hospital of two pictures to be used in the children's room. These were very colorful and attractive. Mrs. Ed. Cottington made the presentation in behalf of the American Legion Auxiliary. Mr. N. E. Brear of Garner, member of the Board of Trusteees of the Hospital, accepted the gifts on behalf of the Hospital.

Mr. Gordon Soncrant, Administrator, gave a most informative and interesting discussion on costs and charges. He illustrated his talk with Beulah Green, Nurses Aide, showing the members the packs necessary for surgery and explained some of the "hidden" expenditures that bring about hospital charges.

The Christmas Tea was served by the Crystal Lake Branch in the dining room at the Hospital.

Hugh Hummels Observe Silver Anniversary

Saturday, December 19 was the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hummel. On Sunday, December 20 in honor of the occasion, relatives and friends gatherd at their home to help them celebrate.

The table was beautifully decorated with silver candelabra and a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and decorated in pink, white and silver.

Guests were present from Mason City, Burt, Kanawha, Garner and Klemme.

Three Auto Wrecks In County Over Week End

Fog and icy highways are blamed for three automobile accidents over the week end reported to the office of Sheriff L. M. Brower.

At 4 P. M. on Sunday afternoon the 1950 Plymouth driven by Gerald Devine crashed into the rear of the car driven by Edward Brady on a highway west of Crystal Lake resulting in considerable damage to the Devine car. No one was injured.

On Saturday night a car driven by Gordon Clark ran into a flock of sheep belonging to Geo. Dallman near Crystal Lake, killing several sheep and injuring a number of others.

On Monday afternoon a 1939 Oldsmobile driven by W. H. Arnold of Mason City skidded on icy pavement one mile north of Goodell and crashed into a car driven by Martin Ames of Clyde, North Dakota. Riding with Arnold was his wife. None of the occupants or drivers in the cars involved were seriously injured.

Office to Close

The Selective Service office will close at noon on Thursday, December 24th and will be closed until 8:00 A. M. on Monday December 28th.

The following week the office will close at noon on Thursday, December 31st and will be closed until 8:00 A. M. on Monday, January 4th.

Iowa farm land now averages $21 per acre higher than in 1949. This is in spite of value declines for two straight years, Iowa State College economists say.

Boys And Girls Lose Two Games In North Star Conference Play

The Shamrocks and Shamrockettes each met two North Star Conference foes during the past week and both came out losers.

Last Friday night Sheffield took the measure of the local boys by a score of 55 to 52, and then Monday night Rockwell downed them 46 to 43. In Friday night's action, the Shamrockettes lost to Sheffield, 50 to 19, scoring only four points in the last half, and Monday night they lost at Rockwell, 55 to 42.

Carol Bridges continues to lead the scoring for the Klemme girls, while for the Shamrocks, the scoring seems to stay pretty evenly divided.

There will be no more action for the local teams until after the holidays when they entertain Dows here on January 5th.

Cub Scouts Hold Annual Christmas Party Thurs.

The annual Cub Scout Christmas party was held Thursday December 17, after school in the recreation room in the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Dulmes. The boys played games after which they opened the presents they found under the tree that the Dulmes' had decorated for them.

The lunch consisted of barbecued hamburgers and choclate milk. The Cub Scout committee again furnished homemade candy for the boys and Dr. Dulmes gave them each big, red apples.

All twelve of the Cub Scouts and both Den Mothers were present.

Entertains Family

Mrs. Marie Wille entertained her eight children and their family, inclunding sixteen grandchildren to a pre-Christmas dinner at her home Saturday evening. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Vernard Rockow. Jerry and Gloria. of Almena, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Blanchet and family, Forest City, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Bailey and Craig, Britt; Mr and Mrs. Raymond Wille, Margo and Marion, Meservey; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rockow and family, Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Wille and Loretta, Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wille and Debra, Garner and Darwin Wille of Klemme.

Archers Eat Turkey

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greimann and Herbert, Jr., entertained the Klemme Achery Club to a turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, Friday evening at their home. There were sixteen members present.

After the dinner "500" was played at several tables.

Herb is the president of the local club.

Christmas Eve Programs

The Sunday Schools of both the Methodist and Reformed Churches will present Christmas programs on Christmas Eve.

Programs at both churches start at 7:30 o'clock, and will include Christmas music, playlets, and recitations by the members of the various Sunday School classes.

Rath Packing Company Buys Livestock Exchange

About a year ago, Arnold Doden purchased the Schmidt Stock Yards from Luther Schmidt. Since then the business has been operated under the name of the Klemme Livestock Exchange. Last week a deal was completed whereby The Rath Packing Company of Waterloo became owners of the business. They will operate under their own name.

Manager of the busness will be Mr. Al Denny, who has been with the company at Spencer for the past seven years. His assistant will be Gerald Van Buskirk, who for the past several months has been in charge for Mr. Doden.

To Vote On Corwith School January 11th

The Hancock, Kossuth, and Wright County Boards of Education by joint action ruled on objections and fixed boundaries for the proposed Corwith Community School District on Monday, December 14, at its adjourned meeting held at Garner in the Courthouse.

The joint board in its adjourned meeting first heard and read objections to the proposed district, then ruled on objections and fixed boundaries.

The proposed district has area in Prairie and Luverne Townships, Kossuth County; Magor and Boone Townships, Hancock County; and Boone Townships, Wright County. There are approximately 75 5/8 sections of land in the district to be voted.

The election will be held at one central place, the Town Hall, at Corwith on Monday, January 11, 1954.

This will be the first election of this type for school located in Hancock County in over thirty years.

Stationed In Pusan

We are in receipt of a Christmas card from Pvt. Calvin Josten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Josten. Calvin is stationed in Pusan, Korea and is serving with the Korean base section. This section controls most of the rear area units which provide supplies, services, communications, and transportation for other UN forces.

He wrote a short note with the card, thanking us for The Times, and telling a little about the country where he is stationed. He says he has a good job, and is feeling fine. Calvin has been in the service since April of this year.

Schools In County Have Plastic Life-size Torso

A life-size plastic torso is being used by the nine independent and consolidated schools in Hancock County on schelule during the 1953-54 school year. The torso is scheduled one month per secondary school in the county on an annual rotating schedule so each school will get it a month later the following year. This valuable piece of apparatus can be classified as a visual aid having six hundred and four (604) named and numbered parts.

This torso was paid for by equal contributors from the nine independent and consolidated schools mantaining high school and the County Board of Education and a large share by the Hancock County Schoolmasters' Club. It is now being used in the Garner Schools.

It is the property of all schools and is stored in the offices of the County Board of Education during school vacation.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Who better deserves the best wishes of this season than the men and women who have voluntarily and often without untarily and often without thanks taken on some of the responsibility for traffic safety. Merry Christmas to them! Merry Christmas to:

The newspaper, radio and television people who, week after week, give valuable space and time to traffic safety with no other purpose than to save lives.

To the men and women in civic and social organizations who have stood up to say, "Let's do something about traffic safety," and to the members of those groups who have responded.

To the private citizens - the unsung people - who day after day drive with the care and respect human life demands. Merry Christmas. You have helped save lives.

To people who have stopped at the scenes of accidents and often given hours of their time to protect traffic and help the injured.

To the four teen-agers from Boone who stopped one of their own generation on the highway to tell him he was driving poorly and giving them all a bad name. (Does anyone know who these boys are?)

To the men and women who have the courage to talk about safety as a personal conviction and resist the easy ways of apathy and indifference to the problem.

And to the highway patrol and county and local enforcement officers. True, they are paid for what they do, but most of them perform for us well beyond the call of duty. Especially we wish Merry Christmas to the highway patrolmen who will be on duty all night Christmas Eve.

To all drivers of good will Merry Christmas.

Twin Lake Go-Getters

A meeting and Christmas party was held at the home of Marsha and Susan Watne on December 12. We gave the Flag Salute. Roll Call was answered by fifteen girls and two leaders to "What I Want For Christmas".

Money from the cards that were sold by the club was turned in and the balance in the treasury was $161.75. We voted to send $25 to the builiding fund and $3 to I. Y. E. The 4-H pledge was given.

The Avery-Twin 4-H boys invited us to a skating party at Forest City on December 28.

The meeting was adjourned. Faye Jasssen gave a talk on "Citizenship". Betty Lauden gave a talk on "How To Be a Good Hostess". A poem of "Christmas" was read by Mrs. Nuehring.

Our workshop was next and we made glow candles for our mothers. The Christmas gifts were then distributed and lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Carol Kurtz on January 9.

In case you wondered what all the niose was coming from the Home Ec. room, two units were being installed. There are forty-seven feet of cupboard and work table space. The cupboards made of non-warping birch wood have had two coats of shellac and two coats of dull varnish. They are equipped with two-foot cutting blocks in each unit, two sinks, raising shelves for electric mixers, and two lazy daisy whirlers. Each unit has a kitchen table and six chairs. The school has also purchased a new electric stove.

Girls' Sports

Our first and last game of the county tournament was played at Hayfield, Thursday, December 11, with Hayfield. We were defeated by a 5 point lead with the score standing at 42 - 37 at the end. At halftime, Hayfield led by one point with a score of 17-16. With only four minutes left to the ball game, Klemme led by six points and with two minutes left we were tied, but at the end Hayfield led by 5 points. Carol Bridges led with 24 points and Jo Ellen Clabaugh followed with 11 points.

Tuesday, December 15, we ran up against Franklin Consolidated at Klemme with a defeat of 63 - 29. Carol Bridges again led Klemme by scoring with 21 points.

Freshman News

Last week Santa Claus was pretty busy at his workshop at the North Pole, so he hadn't yet spied on the teachers of Klemme High School, He decided to send Rudolph out on the job. Rudolph wrapped his nose up in a wool stocking and set out.

He discovered by looking at his list that Mr. Ahrenkiel, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Whitford had already been checked on. The only ones left were Mr. Hiller, Mr. Andreae, Mr. Smith, Mrs. Andreae, and Mr. Westberg.

He started with Mr. Hiller. He was busy trying to pound some spelling words into the heads of those stupid freshman.

Mr. Andreae was patiently explaining for about the twelfth time, the solving of equations.

Mr. Smith was starting another chapter on the horror and mystery of Magnetism and Electricity.

Mrs. Andreae was attempting to explain the making of candy to the freshman girls.

Mr. Westburg was, as usual, very graciously helping the boys with their projects.

Conclusion: They are all doing their best to teach those freshman something they don't want to learn.

Boys' Sports

Tuesday, December 15, the Klemme Shamrocks were hosts to the Franklin Cardinals, a conference foe. To summarize the game a little, Klemme controlled the opening tip, but failed to score on a fast break. The score was all tied up at the first quarter, but in the middle of the second quarter Franklin moved ahead by 11 points. Instead of Klemme letting down when behind, they moved to within 2 points at the half. Is the second half, the Shamrocks got hot and went on to win by 14 points.

Fourth Grade

Dennis Fuller moved to Clea Lake. Now our enrollment is twenty-one.

We received a letter from Karen White last week. We were glad to hear from her.

We've finished our mother's Christmas gifts and plan to take them home this week.

We are learning to divide by five's and find it is very easy.

Last Friday we had a spell down. Keith Christians and Jimmy Clements tied for the best speller to the contest.

Second Grade

The Elves are now reading the last unit of stories in their "New Friends and Neighbors" reading book.

In language we are learning to tell things in the right order.

We are busy practicing for the Christmas program and making gifts for our mothers.

Third Grade

Graydon Lau and Deanne Kubly have returned their Dental card. We now have fifteen cards returned.

We have been spending some of our time practicing our parts for the Klemme Grade School Christmas Program.

It is beginning to look like Christmas in our room. We have our tree decorated and there are a few gifts under it.

First Grade

Vicki Bridges had her classmates over to her house for a birthday party on her seventh birthday.

Many of us have been absent from school due to bad coughs and colds. We hope that after Christmas vacation we will all be able to come back to school.

We had a nice time making our Mother's gifts. We hope they liked them.

We had our Christmas party in school and were glad to find out who had drawn our names for our Christmas presents. Many of us were surprised, but some of us had found out before hand who had our names.

State Safety Officials Ask Extra Driving Care

State safety officials Thursday made a Christmas Eve appeal for traffic safety, asking Iowans to give driving their "most serious and sober attention."

Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurry reminded that "Christmas, to many families, is merely the anniversary of the needless death of a loved one in a traffic accident."

He asked drivers to reduce speeds and to increase their alertness "so that no lives will be taken during this season of giving." Three were killed on the day before Christmas and one on Christmas day in Iowa last year.

David Herrick, highway patrol chief warned drivers against taking "the few holiday drinks that can have so many terrible consequences in traffic."

"The drinking driver invariably loses some of his ability and perception yet gains a false confidence that can turn him into a killer the moment a dangerous traffic situation develops," Herrick said.

He warned especially against "office and house parties where people take what they consider a safe number of drinks, then drive home. There is no safe number of drinks for the man who is driving.

Herrick said the Iowa highway patrol will be on 24 hour duty throughout the holiday season and will make a concentrated effort to apprehend all drinking or drunken drivers.

He invited private citizens to report to their nearest police officer or state police radio station the license number and direction of travel of any vehicle being driven erratically.

Corn Allotments On New Farms Explained

A producer who intends to plant corn in 1954 on a farm on which no corn was planted in any of the years 1951, 1952 and 1953, should if he desires price support on the corn to be produced in 1954, apply in writing for a 1954 corn acreage allotment by January 15th, 1954.

Blank applications and Acreage Report forms are available at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (formerly PMA' offices for filing requests for allotments.

Iowa experiments show that automatic water heaters that keep water ice-free for livestock pay for themselves in efficient gains and production.

FATAL

A routine chore, greasing the hydraulic lift mechanism of a truck, proved fatal to Rasmie Hansen, 57, in Algona recently. In some manner the box was released and slammed down on the truck, fracturing Mr. Hansen's skull.

In the last 20 years the number of workers on farms in the United States has decreased by 10 to 15 percent. In the same period the number of workers employed to transport and market farm products has increased by one-third.

It will pay to order fertilizers early in order to get the grades and amounts you need, says W. H. Pierre. Iowa State College agronomist.

Thursday, December 31: The Young People's Bible Class will present the play "A Faithful Pioneer" in the school auditorium at 8:00 p. m. The entire community is cordially invited to attend this annual event.

Avery Sunbeams

The meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at Patty Burk's on December 19. It was brought to order by Elizabeth Lemke, our president.

After the business meeting, we had our gift exchange.

Our new leaders are Mrs. Dwight Helps and Mrs. Paul Kramer.

The January meeting will be held at Dorothy Ostendorf's.

KLUCKHOHNS

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

For most Hancock County people, 1954 promises to be a sort of in-between year on the income side—a year of neither feast nor famine, Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist predicts. It will be good compared with the late '30's; not so good in relation to the late '40's.

Nationally, the trend since mid-year has been mildly downward, Kutish points out. The pace of building new factories, houses and stores is easing off a bit. So is defense spending. Consumer buying has quit climbing. New orders are off.

But expansion in road building, new schoolhouses and the like will absorb some of the slack. No immediate sharp business break seems likely.

The trend during the latter part of 1954 will depend upon how these adjustments take place. In themselves they are not enough to cause any serious downturn, Kutish believes. But if they accumulate as time goes on and tend to speed the downward adjustment, then a business drop of noticeable proportions could develop in late 1954.

Good planning, therefore, suggest that this is not a time for most farmers and business men to low down. Rather, Kutish thinks it's a time to keep a sharp eye ahead and choose commitments, where possible, on a short-run basis.

Cost for Hancock County farmers are likely to go down a bit in the new year. List prices probably won't drop much, but better buys will be offered. Taxes probably will climb further, as costs of enlarged school enrollment grow.

Family living costs probably will average a little lower for farm families, too, in 1954, says Kutish. Rural people will fare better than town and city folks in this respect. For rents, services and other costs which make up more of the city family's cost of living may even rise further.

On the other hand, food should cost no more than in 1953—clothing, furniture and household equipment will cost the same to less.

One of the best ways to stretch the family dollar in 1954 will be to shop at sales. We should see some unusually good sales in the new year, Kutish predicts, as the trade offers special inducements to get people to buy.

Fear not...
And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.
For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.
And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.
And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,
Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Can Make Problem Acres Productive

There are some farms in Hancock County which have problem acres that are not adding much to the farm business, reports Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director.

In many cases these are open areas which are eroded, are poorly drained or present special problems because of stones or soil reaction, he says.

Lots of these acres can—with special pains—be converted to profitable legume grass pastures that will provide livestock gains and will protect the soil where erosion is a hazard.

Folks who want to do something about these acres that are little better than wasteland now will probably need help on overcoming the problems. Henderson thinks the problems can be solved in about all cases either with the help of Agriculture Extension Service specialists and technicians of the Soil Conservation Service Work Unit. And he urges farmers to contact those agencies for assistance.

And this coming year, Hancock County farmers can get cost-share assistance on accomplishing this kind of work through the 1954 Agricultural Conservation Program.

3RD ADJOURNED NOVEMBER MEETING

Garner Iowa
December 3, 1953

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clint Daniels, S. A. Barber and Clarence Bird present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second the bond of Herman Paul, County Home Steward, is hereby approved.

Supervisor Barber is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 8, East Main.

WHEREAS Wm. Henschen, Engineer, Walter Kahl and Ray S. Baker were heretofore appointed commissioners to view and classify lands and assess benefits in Drainage District No 155, Sub No. 1 and Wm Henschen, Engineer, Chas. J. Goll and E. J. Steil were appointed commissioners to view and classify lands and assess benefits in Drainage District No. 159, and to designate separately the tax per cent each tract shall pay on the main ditch or drain for future repairs, all in accordance with Sections 455.45 to 455.66, Code of Iowa, 1950, and

WHEREAS said commissioners did qualify as by law directed and did view said lands and assess benefits as by law directed and did file their reports on November 30, 1953 on D. D. No 155, Sub-Dist. No. 1 and on December 2, 1953 on D. D. No. 159, which reports set out in detail the classification against each tract and parcel of land, highway and railway in the district as provided by law.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 155, Sub-Dist, No. 1 and D D. No. 159, that the reports of the commissioners heretofore appointed to view and classify lands in the watershed of D. D. No. 155, Sub-Dist No. 1 and D. D. No. 159 respectively are hereby tentatively approved and further hearing thereon will be held at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa on the 18th day of January, 1954, at the hour of 1:00 P M. on D. D. No. 155, Sub-Dist No 1 and at 2:00 P. M. on D D No. 159, at which time taxpayers in said districts will appear and show cause why said classifications and assessments designated shall not be accepted and assessment taxed against the lands in said watersheds.

All objections to such assessment of benefits shall be filed in writing in the office of the County Auditor in Garner, Iowa, at or before the hour set for hearing thereon. The County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of such hearing to be published as follows: D D No. 155, Sub-Dist. No. 1 in The Garner Leader and Signal published at Garner, Iowa and D. D. No 159 in The Kanawha Reporter, published at Kanawha, Iowa, both newspapers being papers of general circulation, said notices setting out the description of the real estate and the designated assessment each tract, parcel, highway and railroad in the district is charged with.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird, and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

WHEREAS there are deficits and outstanding warrants on the following named drainage districts, expended for minor repairs, and

WHEREAS it is deemed to the best interests of the taxpayers in said districts that a levy be made to reimburse said districts for deficits and outstanding warrants.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of the following named reclassified drainage districts and laterals thereof, that there be and is hereby levied the sums set opposite each named reclassified district and lateral as follows

PMA Soybean Loan Payment Steps Explained

With the present market price of 1953—crop soybeans well above the price support rate, inquiries on procedure to liquidate government loans on the commodity are being received by state and county ASC offices, formerly known as PMA offices.

At harvest time, the soybean support rate was considerably higher than the market price and there was a flood of loan applications, it was reported this week (December 2) by Dwight W. Meyer, chairman of the state ASC committee. By mid-October, a total of 5,227 loans had been completed in Iowa on more than 2½ million bushels of new soybeans as compared to only two loans on 612 bushels at the corresponding time in 1952.

A total of 275 loans on 121,417 bushels on 1953 soybeans had been made to Hancock County farmers by October 15, according to A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the county ASC committee.

With the price situation reversed as at the present time, many producers who obtained loans on new soybeans are now considering paying off their notes. Most bowrowers can complete settlement of price support loans at their banks without even visiting their county ASC office.

For producers who wish to estimate their own individual settlement requirements, however the state ASC office has outlined an easy method, which follows: the amount of the note was computed in this manner if the loan was obtained between September 24 and October 23; From the county support rate, 10 cents was subtracted from the deductible storage charge, and the number of bushels was multiplied by the reduced rate. For instance if a producer had a loan on 500 bushels stored in a warehouse and his county rate was $2.56—the minimum if the Iowa spread of $2.56 to $2.59—the computation was made by multiplying 500 by $2.46. This mode the note for $1230. The sealing fee of one-half cent per bushel, or 500 by $2.46. This made the note ducted from the $1230 and the producer actually received $1227.50.

To realize a profit, the producer would have to sell at a price greater than his $2.56 support rate, because the deduction for storage must stand; plus interest at 4 percent for the exact number of days the note runs, plus the deducted sealing fee of $2.50.

The 1953 price support rate on soybeans in Hancock county is $2.57 plus premiums up to 6 cents per bushel on low moisture beans.

The deductible storage charge to be used in computing warehouse loans vaires by periods, as follows: Loans made between August 25 and September 24 and October 23, 10 cents, between October 24 and November 22, nine cents, and between November 23 and December 22, eight cents.

In computing a loan on farm-stored soybeans, there would be no deduction for a warehouse storage payment. However, there would be interest and the sealing fee to be taken into account.

About Cemeteries

In the summer of 1952, two nicely dressed men, in a new automobile, canvassed the Klemme area, trying to sell lots in a large cemetery located about 30 miles from here. A very few lots were sold.

Now your funeral director at Klemme is anxious to serve his people, and often conducts services in out-of-town areas. wherever the family desires.

But, when the "hi-pressure boys" step in, it's time someone appeared to set forth a few arguments in favor of the home-town cemetery.

So, I wrote the following "story ad" which was published in the Klemme Times on December 17, 1952:

CEMETERY TALK

After a person has lived his alloted time and is placed in his grave;
It is most appropriate to have that grave in his home-town cemetery.
For a person is not really dead until he is forgotten.
In the home-town cemetery his friends will see his grave and remember.
And, thus, he will not be forgotten until his last friend and acquaintance has passed on.

WELLEMEYER FUNERAL SERVICE

This ad was given space in a Minneapolis Trade Journal which reached all funeral directors in the middle third of the United States. It was copied widely.

I was pleased to see that my little "story ad" had reached Garner, and appeared last week, December 16, 1953, in the editorial column of the Garner Leader, marked (Author Unknown). While the "Leader" did not know the author, still they liked the sentiment expressed in our ad entitled "Cemetery Talk". Thanks.

Arthur Wellemeyer

The winner will compete with victors of eight other districts for state honors at the 50th annual convention of the Farmers Grain Dealers Association of Iowa in Des Moines January 25, 26 and 27.

Subject of this year's speeches in the annual competition is "Fifty Years of Cooperative Progress in Iowa."

Entrants in the West Bend contest include: John Helleseth and Gerald K. Fehr of West Bend ; Everett Thorson of Armstrong; Walter H. Smith of Wesley; Paul Pederson of Ringstead; Dean Oleson of Estherville and Delwyn Brede of Klemme.

R. W. Jurgens, manager of the West Bend Elevator Company, is in charge of arrangements.

Probate Cause Settled After 31 Years

When District Judge Tom Boynton of Forest City signed a final order in the Hancock County District Court here on December 18, 1953, in Probate Cause No. 1054, it closed proceedings in a cause which was filed in March 13, 1922, in the estate of Henry Jurgens at the time when B. E. Erwin was clerk of the district court in Hancock county. Fred Jurgens was executor and Wichman and Hastings of Garner, attorneys in the case.

Ordinarily a probate cause is settled within the year and under present probate law may be closed after six months but in this cause because of a trust established in the original will to the widow and other ramifications which followed her death, final adjustment and settlement was not reached until recently. The cause was open during the terms of the following Clerks of Court holding office in Hancock county: B. E. Erwin, Chris J. Johansen, Elmer Raw, Ruth Katter and the present incumbent, Doris Young. Five of the direct heirs in the cause pending died as did six attorneys who had been on the case at some time or other.

On December 16, 1949, G. W. Templeton, Garner attorney, was appointed Administrator De Bonis Non with Will Annexed by the Hancock County District Court to complete settlement of the estate and under his direction and that of his attorney, B. C. Berge of Garner, final adjustment and settlement was made. Attorney Berge made a trip to North Dakota recently to discuss settlement with the attorneys for some of the heirs involved in the state. The cause involved some litigation in Iowa which went to the Supreme court and considerable litigation in the state of North Dakota.

The Will which was admitted to probate on March 13, 1922, was signed by Henry Jurgens on October 8, 1915, and bore the signatures of former Governor of Iowa John Hammill and Fred N. Knudson of Kanawha as witnesses.

Dispute Appealed

A dispute over boundaries of the proposed Kanawha Community school district has been appealed to the State Department of Public Instruction at Des Moines when the boards of education in Hancock and Wright Counties failed to agree on boundaries.

Dorothy Baack Rae Bride of James A. Howie

Married In Church At Mason City

Dorothy Baack Rea of Mason City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baack of Klemme, and James A. Howie, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Howie of Monticello, were married in the First Congregational Church Saturday evening, the Rev. Peter Jansen officiated. Tapers, greens and baskets of chrysanthemums formed a setting for the ceremony. Traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Earl Ehlers, organist, and Maxine Steward sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompained by Mrs. Ehlers.

Mrs. Charles Murr was matron of honor and bestman was Dean Hale. Robert and Richard Baack were ushers. Ricky Bergreen acted as ringbearer and Barbara Rea, flowergirl.

The bride wore an afternoon frock of toast colored chantilly lace in waltz length with a matching hat and brown accessories and her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. Murr's gown was of nile green taffeta and her flowers were poinsettias. The flowergirl had a pink taffeta frock. The mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore black with matching accessories.

After a reception in the church parlors, the couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans and will be at home at 203 N. Crescent Drive in Mason City.

The bride is a graduate of the Klemme High School and Mason City Junior College and teaches fourth grade at Clear Lake. The bridegroom is a graduate of Monticello High School and is in the implement business at Garner.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Anna Waddingham, aunt of the bride, who poured and Mrs. Mrs. Caris Kropp and Mrs. O. Howie Jr., who cut the cake. Miss Carita Kropp took care of the guest book. Mrs. George Senn acted as hostess.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Priebe announce the engagement of their daughter, Miriam Marie, to Eugene C. Jaberg, son of Mrs. E. C. Jaberg of Sheboygan, Wis. The bride-elect is a graduate of Klemme High School and is a student at Mission House College, Plymouth, Wis. Mr. Jaberg studied at Princton, N. J. and in Cambridge, England, and will complete his theological work at Mission House Seminary in the spring. He is an announcer on the staff of WHBL in Sheboygan. The wedding has been tentatively set for June.

C. G. Riehm to Run for State Representative

Served As Hancock County Attorney from 1947 Through 1950

Curtis G. Riehm, of Garner, has taken out nomination papers for State Representative for Hancock County. Penn Eckles, the present State Representative, has indicated he will not run for reelection.

Born at Britt, Iowa, December 23, 1914, Curtis was one of six children. His mother and a brother, Paul, live at Britt. Another brother, Fred, is on a farm near Duncan. His sister Bernice (Mrs. Willard Eisenman) lives on a farm near Duncan, and brothers, Harold and Jimmie are working with a construction company building roads.

Mr. Riehm is a married man, having been married since February, 1943. He and his wife, Florence, have two children, age six and four, and they have lived in Garner since Mr. Riehm's return from army service in 1946.

Mr. Riehm is a graduate of the Britt High School, and attended the University of Iowa for six years, receiving a B. A. degree in Economics and Juris Dr. degree in Law. He farmed for his mother for two years (his father died in 1922), and worked on paving and road construction work, in restaurants and at many other jobs to finance his six years of college education.

Since return from the army in 1946 he has practiced law in Garner and was Hancock County Attorney for four years. The past two years he has been Town Clerk for the town of Garner.

He entered the army in May of 1942 as enlisted man and was commissioned as an officer in 1943. He served with the Engineers in Africa and in the Pacific. He remained in the active reserve for seven years, until 1953, as a Battery Commander in the 103rd Infantry Reserve Division.

Mr. Riehm was Hancock County Chairman of the Committee for Eisenhower in 1952, and has taken active part in County, District and State Republican Conventions.

He is a member of the Methodist Church, Rotary Club, American Legion, V.F.W., and the Masonic Lodge. He has worked with Boy Scouts since 1946, both in the county and on the Winnebago Council. He is a member of the Hancock County Bar Association and the Iowa Bar Association.

Your Farm Problem

By Ezra Taft Benson
Secretary of Agriculture

(First of a Two Part Series)

This nation has a serious farm problem.

It does not affect agriculture alone. It is everybody's problem.

Today your government has approximatly $5 billions of your money invested in farm commodiites.

You own outright more than $2.5 billions worth of wheat, corn, cotton and other surplus farm products. You have outstanding loans on agricultural commodities totaling about the same amount. This figure is growing daily.

You are paying more than $14 millions each month just to store these surpluses. This bill is growing, too, as additional inventories are accumulated by your government.

The losses which your government sustained in disposing of just a small portion of your holdings during the first three months of this fiscal year amounted of $47 millions.

But, you ask, don't we have a farm program designed to insure agricultural prosperity and prevent the very situation we find ourselves in today?

The answer is that we are operating under the same farm program we had last year and for several previous years. Actually we have strengthened it in several important respects to permit farmers to take broader advantage of its provisions. Existing legislation binds us to a continuation of price supports at 90 per cent of parity on basic commodities through the 1954 crop year.

Nevertheless, farm prices have declined steadily from the record peaks established under the impetus of the Korean war in February, 1951. During the 18 months immediately before I became Secretary of Agriculture, the farm price parity slid from 113 to 95 percent. Since February of this year, prices have been more stable than in 1952, averaging about 93 percent of parity.

This story of declining farm income and mounting agricultural surpluses is the best evidence that our present program is not functioning effectively.

For more than decade, our farmers have beer producing under pressure. To meet the war-time needs of ourselves and our allies, they turned out record amounts of food and fiber between 1941 and 1946. With the end of the second World War, they were asked to provide the commodities required in the rehabilitation of Europe and other sections of the earth. Then came the Korean War, with new and heavy demands for farm goods of all kinds.

Suddenly this situation was radically altered. World food production had been climbing since 1946. By 1952 this was exerting strong pressure in the market places. Our wheat exports dropped by one-third in a single year, cotton even more. Not only had importing nations increased their own production, but they found that they could supply their reduced needs at lower prices from exporting countries which had no farm price support programs.

Just as many American consumers have turned from butter to less expensive spreads, so have other nations sought cheaper wheat, cotton and other products.

We have learned through sometimes bitter experience that when the farmer is in trouble, there is likely to be trouble ahead for everybody. This year, net farm income is expected to be nearly $1 billion less than it was in 1952. And in 1952 it was more than $1 billion below the preceding year. While farm income has been dropping, our total national income has actually increased.

This disparity cannot continue in an economy such as ours. When the farmer can't buy the products of industry, there are certain to be serious dislocations.

How we got into this situaion is not important, at the moment, as what we propose to do about it. I have outlined here some of the major problems facing agriculture. In a subsequent article I should like to discuss some of the possible solutions.

Brucellosis Control To Be Necessary For Sale of Milk in 1955

Hancock County dairymen who plan to sell milk for human consumption after January 1, 1955 will need to establish their brucellosis-control program during 1954 according to Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

The state law provides three plans for the control of brucellosis in cattle as far as the sale of Grade A milk is concerned. One of these must be adopted in herds that produce milk for Grade A pasterurization unless the ordiance in the community has a stricter requirement. All milk sold for human consumption in Iowa after January 1, 1955, must meet these Grade A requirements. The three brucellosis control plans are:

Plan A. Test annually all cattle more than 8 months of age except steers and offical vaccinates until 36 months following date of vaccination. All reactors are to be identified and quarantined on the farm provided that the owner may retain such cattle for breeding purposes in accordance with the regulations of the state Department of Agriculture. Milk for these cattle cannot be sold for Grade A purposes. If a calfhood official vaccinate reacts it may be quarantined on the farm and retested within 60 days at the owners expense. Official vaccination of all female calves between the ages of 4 and 8 months is required under this plan.

Plan C. Official vaccination of all female calves between the ages of 4 and 8 months. The herd must be composed entirely of official calfhood vaccinations.

Official calfhood vaccination means the vaccination of any calf between the ages of 4 and 8 months with brucella abortus vaccine strain No. 19 by a licensed, accredited veterinarian according to the rules established by the state secretary of agriculture. The officially vaccinated calves are identified by a tatoo mark which must be described in the certificate furnished by the attending veterinarian.

A ring test can be conducted in an area without charge by the state-federal mobile laboratory to locate infected herds, if dairymen in the area ask for it and agree to follow up with blood tests to find the infected animals and to establish control programs in herds through the test area.

Ring testing is being discussed in Hancock County at the present time. Ring tests cost the producer nothing. He receives the information and council of the county extension personnel and veterinarians in the county on the recommended program he should follow in his own herd after the ring test is made .The owner of a milk producing herd has nothing to lose and everything to gain pushing for a ring test on his herd.

New Law Affects House Trailer Owners

Trailer owners are advised that the new "Mobile Home and Park" law Chapter 138, Acts of the 55th General Assembly, will become effective on January 1, 1954.

Under the new law licensed or unlicensed trailers that are occupied will have to report to the County Assessor and the County Treasurer on or before the 10th of each month and pay a monthly fee to the County Treasurer in lieu of property taxes. The fee that must be paid is $2.00 a month for trailers up to 30 feet; $2:50 on trailers up to 35 feet and $3:00 per month for lengths over 35 feet.

Unlicensed trailers that are unoccupied will be assessed as personal property.

Owner of sites, lots, fields or tract of land upon which two trailers or more are permitted to park will be obliged to obtain a license to operate a Mobile Home Park, and must collect the monthly fee on trailers parked on their premises and pay them to the County Treasurer monthly.

Owners of single, occupied, trailers will not be required to secure a "Mobile Home Park" license but must make the monthly report and payment direct to the County Treasurer.

The new law provides that a violation of the Act shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1000 or be imprisoned in the County jail for not more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment.

As all new laws are usually somewhat confusing, trailer or trailer park owners will no doubt have numerous questions relative to the operation of this law and the County Treasurer or Assessor will gladly assist with individual problems.

FALL

Little Kirk Mathews, of near Thornton, got the holiday season off to a grim start. The three year old youngster climbed a ladder, fell and landed in a manger on his stomach, a few days before Christmas day. He was hospitalized.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Hope is a tough thing in the human heart. It grows stubbornly under many varieties of blight and usually manages at least one blossom when the New Year begins.

Wonderingly if the hope is justified that drivers will ever turn over a new leaf, we checked back through ten years and looked at the record for New Year's day. Not once in those ten years has Iowa escaped without at least one traffic death on the first day of the year.

In 1944, for example, the year was 4 hours and 50 minutes old when a late-walking pedestrian was hit and fatally injured in Polk County for the first death of that year.

The year 1952 got its black mark even earlier. Just 40 minutes after the whistles and bells announced the New Year, wailing police sirens announced the first traffic death. It happened in a two-car collison in Dubuque County.

Last year got off to a fairly good start and was deathless until 12:25 p.m. Then a three-year-old girl was killed in Plymouth County.

Four of the New Year's day deaths in the past ten years were caused when cars ran off the roads, three occurred in two-car collisions, two in car-train crashes, and one was a pedestrian death.

Counties where the year's first traffic death has been recorded in the past ten years have been Polk, Winneshiek, Calhoun, Guthrie, Crawford, Cedar, Clayton, Scott, Dubuque and Plymouth.

From the record, it looks as though hope for a deathless New Year's day, 1954, will be a very brief blossom. Probably it will be a matter of hours or, perhaps, only minutes, before we get to the business of taking another 600 lives on the highways.

Any ideas for a good New Year's resolution?

1797 Dog Licenses

Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman issued a total of 1797 dog licenses in 1953 for which applicants paid a total of $2831.75. The 1953 total was slightly under the 1952 figure when the auditor's office issued a total of 1849 licenses during the year. Licenses go on sale on January 1st for 1954. Fees are $1.50 for male dogs and $4.00 for each female in towns and cense.

Keep Water Ice-free For Faster Hog Gains

Keeping water for hogs ice-free pays in faster gains, but there's no advantage to heating the water higher than needed to do that.

That's the recommendation of Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

Research work at Iowa State College, Henderson reports, shows that having water available for fattening pigs at all times makes a big difference in the way they gain. But this work also shows that warmer water does not speed gains.

Last year, in fact, pigs that gained 12 pounds more in 10 got water at about 44 degrees weeks than did pigs that water heated to 60 degrees. This difference, according to the college research men, showed up only in speed of gains. On the whole, it took the same amounts of feed to get a pound of gain on pigs in both lots.

According to the energy consumption records in these studies, the thermostatically controlled electric heaters required twice as much energy to keep the water at 60 degrees as just to maintain it ice-free. Agricultural engineers, who studied this problem from the equipmnet standpoint reported that a 44-degree setting on the thermostat was as low as they could go. There was some freezing when the thermostat was set at 40 degrees.

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Zanten of Shelby, Michigan spent a few days the past week visiting at the home of Mrs. Helen Stille. Mrs. VanZanten and Mrs. Stille are sisters.

Mary Egeland of Evanston Illinois, came to Klemme last Wednesday to spend the holidays with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. Morris Egeland. Mary is employed at Northwestern University there.

M/Sgt. and Mrs. M. B. Smith of Edenton, North Carolina, came Sunday evening for a visit at the parental C. C. Kilgore home. The Smiths are here due to the illness of their son, Gregory, who has been having a rather lengthy bout with a virus infection. He is much improved, and should be up and around again soon.

Miss Evelyn Arnold and Mrs. Roy Arnold entertained the following guests at the E. J. Arnold home on Christmas Day: George, Erwin, and Leona Lau, Martha and Novella Bredbenner, Wilbur and Bruce Arnold, and the Roy Arnold family. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold were unable to participate in the day's festivities with the group, for they were in Rochester, Minnesota, where Elmer recently underwent an operation.

Hancock County Clerk Doris Young issued marriage licenses the past week to Wiliam Fredrick Coulson of Kanawha, and Lorraine Rachel De Wall of Mason City; Ronald Snater, 17, Garner, and Mary Lou Rios, 16, Garner; and to George Beek, Goodell, and Mrs. Iva Sweeny. Goodell.

Pink and Blue Shower

Saturday evening, December 19th, Mrs. Don Bacon and Mrs. Francis Johnson entertained at a pink and blue shower at the Bacon home honoring Mrs. Glen Osman and baby Tod Christopher Osman.

The evening was spent playing games and Mrs. Osman and son received many lovely gifts.

A delicious lunch was served. Out of town guests were Mrs. Bert Jones of Tama and Mrs. Connie Olson of Chicago.

Christmas Gathering

All the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. George Albers spent Christmas night visiting with them at their home. Only one of the family missing was Carolynn, who is in the army in Japan.

Close Out School Fund

The Permanent school fund of Hancock County which at one time had loans totaling some $50,000.00, has been closed out and all funds transferred to the Permanent School Fund of Iowa, according to a report from the office of County Auditor Maynard Schoneman. The last two loans from the fund were retired during the year 1953.

The fund was administered by the county auditor during the time of its active status and was loaned on real estate until recent years when a change in law permitted investment in Government Bonds.

Family Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gast entertained all of their children, grandchildren, and Mrs. Gast's sister and husband, Mr. and Mr. Albert Borchers to a turkey dinner on Christmas Day.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gast, Roger, and Judy; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zwald, Winola and Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. Loren Gast, Kathryn, Doran and Eldon; Mrs. and Mrs. Ronald Gibbs, Ronna and Lora; Mr. and Mrs. James Fredin, Carolyn, Janet and Gerald of Des Moines and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Borchers of near Garner.

Ell Tip Toppers Met

The regular meeting of the Ell Tip Toppers was held at the R. E. A. building, Wednesday, December 16. Gracka Gerardi called the meeting to order with nineteen members answering roll call by telling how old they are. Rosalee Rosendahl and Eva Thiemann were in charge of the games we played. We learned to square dance to two square dance records. Paul Henderson was in charge and called the squares. The Ell Tip Topper girls invited the Ell Midgets to their Christmas party. Those in charge of lunch committee were as follows: Elaine Jurgemeyer, Betty Clayton, Barbara Clayton, Miriam Hartbeck, Luraine Weilland, and Lois Weiland. There was a grab bag after lunch.

The next meeting will be held at Luraine and Lois Wieland's on Saturday, January 16 at 1:30.

The annual round of business forecasts for the new year is making its appearance. They range from a dip of 10 percent to 5 percent rise, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, reports.

Present trends are mixed. The optimists can find ground for their contention that business is being well maintained. The pessimists can point significant sign of a downturn.

Available data indicate that the trend of industrial activity is softly downward, Kutish says. Practically all of the significant indicators are receding from their summer peaks. Over-all volume, is true, still is very large. But a number of the more sensitive indicators have begun to trend moderately lower on an adjusted basis.

One of the most popular ways of appraising the outlook is to take the "Gross National Product" approach, says Kutish. You appraise the outlook for spending by consumer, investment activities and government.

Prospects for the new year dont' look half bad—taking this approach. But, Kutish adds, this kind of analysis may under estimate the importance of developments in sensitive areas—automobiles, inventors and farm income, for example.

After feasting on a record automobile output for much of 1954, the huge automobile industry is showing signs of a case of indigestion. Layoffs in recent weeks have been widespread.

Another uncertain spot is inventories. Businessmen have been producing more goods than they sold all through 1953. The excess has gone into inventories. When the expansion of inventories stops, the expansion of demand also stops to that extent. In an effort to start moving excessive inventories, substantial price concessions already have been made in some line, Kutish points out.

Cash income has been below last year's mark for every month but three this year. November's parity ratio stood at 90—lowest since 1940! This drop represents a shrink in buying power of a sizeable portion of the nation's working force.

The key question for 1954, in Kutish's opinion, is: Will these adjustments that now are taking place run their course soon? Or, will they trend to snowball and speed up the rate of adjustment, like the runner in a woman's stocking, once it starts?

Highway Patrol To Crack Down On Drunk Driving New Year's

Highway Patrol Chief David Herrick Thursday asked private citizens to help enforcement officers sweep drunken drivers off the state's highway during the New Year's holiday.

"Some people invariably find in this holiday an excuse to drive after drinking. There is never an excuse for such a performance and officers throughout the state are ready to arrest any driver who thinks there is," Herrick said.

He said patrolmen, county and local police will need help from private citizens in rounding up all the drinking drivers.

"Anyone who sees a vehicle being operating in an erratic manner should report the model, license number and direction of travel of the vehicle to his nearest patrolman, police officer or state police radio station," Herrick said.

He reminded drivers that the penalty for the first conviction of drunken driving is a fine not less than $300 up to $1,000 or imprisonment in a county jail not to exceed one year or both. License revocation for 60 days up to one year may follow conviction.

The penalties for second and third conviction of drunken driving become progressively tougher, Herrick warned.

He reminded drivers that the highway patrol is now on active round-the-clock duty throughthe state, and that all officers have been especially instructed to seek out drunken drivers during the holiday weekend.

15 railroad cars were derailed at Calmar recently, on the Milwaukee road. A broken rail is believed to have caused the accident.

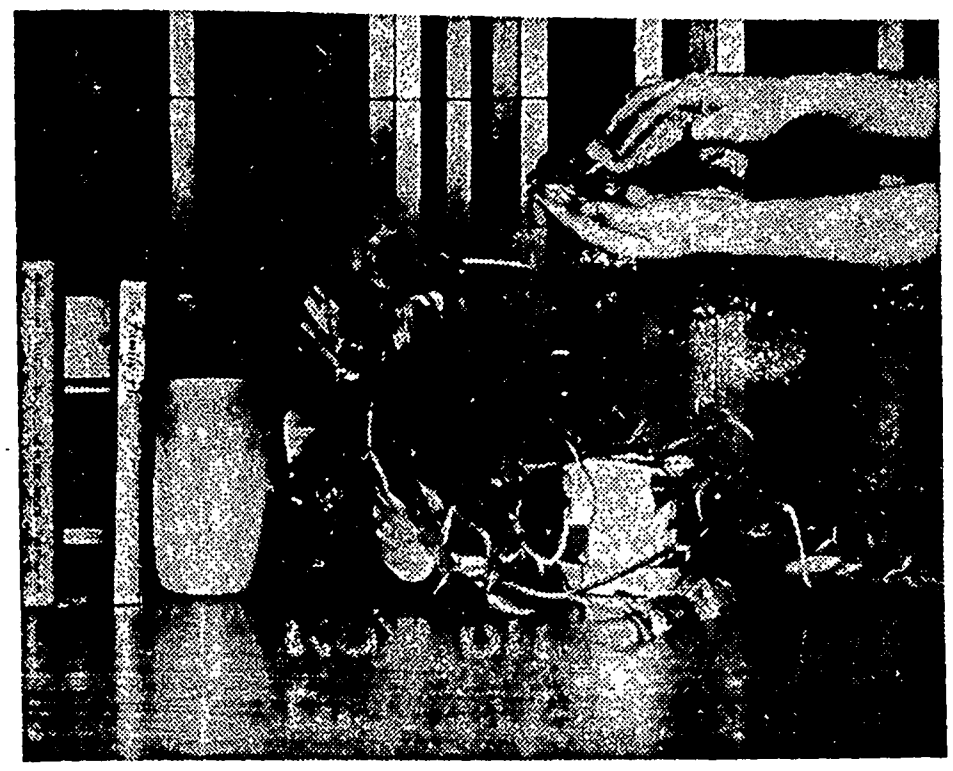
Head Off the Wintertime "Blues"—

Tips For Healthy Houseplants



The dust that settles on your furniture plagues your houseplants, too. It can clog up the pores of the leaves and prevent normal functions vital to the plant's health. Wipe the leaves off gently with a damp sponge or cloth about once a week.

If your houseplants have the wintertime blues, there's lots you can do to help them snap out of it. The danger signs are easy to see, according to Iowa State College Extension Horticulturist Ben Vance—leave droop, turn yellow or even drop off; new growth is at a virtual standstill; buds drop and the plant in general just doesn't look vigorous.

It's best to head off trouble by proper care from the start. But if your plants are sickly, it's probably not to late to do something about it. A plant's good health depends on correct temperature, humidity, watering, drainage, light, soil and protection from insect pests.

TEMPERATURE, HUMIDITY

Both high and low temperatures can cause trouble. Try to keep the temperature between 65 and 75 degrees where plants are located. Don't let it drop way down to the 40's at night or when you're away from home, because most plants can't take such fluctuations without complaint.

Many homes are too dry during the winter months for the best health of both plants and people. Boost the humidity by setting pans of water in areas where the plants are growing, and by syringing or spraying the plants with water every few days if you have a mist sprayer.

LIGHT, WATERING

Give flowering plants such as geraniums, begonias, etc., all the light possible during these winter months. When you set them in a window, make sure the leaves don't touch the cold glass. Many foliage plants can get along nicely with a minimum of light, but let them get some sunlight now and then.

Beware of either over-or under-watering. Neither let the soil dry out completely nor keep it saturated. Strive to keep it slightly moist all the time. Use water a bit warmer than room temperature.

DRAINAGE, SOIL

Good drainage is vital too keep roots from getting too much water and to allow them to "breathe". They need oxygen just as much as water. Best container is a clay flower pot or its modern counterpart of plastic metal or pottery with a drainage outlet. Put some gravel in the bottom to prevent hole from clogging.

It takes lots of skill to grow plants successfully in planters with no drainage outlet. If you have sickly plants in this type of container, repot them. Transfer them to pots with a drainage outlet and set them back in the planter this way. Or arrange for some drainage in the original planter by layering the bottom with pebbles or gravel—but keep an eye on the plants and be ready to transfer them again if they stop thriving.

Plants left to long in small pots will fill up the soil with roots and stop growing. So watch them carefully and repot when necessary. If you don't prepare your own soil mixture, you can buy good prepared potting soil. Plant food is helpful, but use it only once or twice a month in good weather and less often in cloudy, dull weather.

FOUR FUMIGANTS

For this spot fumigation, Gunderson recommends applying any one of four fumigants at a rate of 1 gallon per 100 bushels of grain. For the fumigant, you can use carbon tetrachloride a mixture of carbon tetra-chloride and carbon disulfide, a mixture of carbon tetrachloride and ethylene dichloride or a mixture of carbon tetrachloride, ethylene dichloride and ethylene dibromide.

Insects May Spoil Shelled Corn Now

Check Bins for Spots Showing Damage; Treat

Shelled corn and small grain stored on Iowa farms will stand some checking now.

Iowa State College extension entomclogist Harold Gunderson reports finding considerable insect activity in shelled corn. And these insects can do a lot of damage by causing spoilage and market dock.

EASY TO SPOT

It's not difficult to spot insect activity during cold weather, Gunderson points out. You'll see moisture collecting on the surface of the grain, causing crusting and some germination of kernels; the grain a foot or more below the surface may feel warm to your touch, and if you look carefully you can spot insects in a sample of the grain.

STIR, FUMIGATE

Gunderson advises prompt steps to reduce further damage. First, he says, take off the spoiled corn and stir the grain if it is crusting. In places where there is enough insect activity to bring the temperature in the grain to 65 degrees or above, you can fumigate in even the coldest weather.

Tory Nordland Is New Farm Bureau President

Tory Nordland succeed Gilbert Guenther as president of Hancock County Farm Bureau. Mr. Guenther served as president four years. He has given a great deal of his time to the Farm Bureau and helped to better it in many ways. We feel that Mr. Nordland will do the same. Tory was born in Goodhue County, Minnesota and when four years old moved to Eagle Grove, Iowa. He atended grade school at Eagle Grove and was active in athletics and Vocational Agriculture and has had two years at Iowa State at Ames. He also serves on the Board of Trustees for the Lutheran Church at Kanawha. He i Superintendent of the Sunday School. We wish Tory the best of luck as president and feel he will serve to the best of his ability.
